

'International' Pair Jacksonville Visitors

INTERNATIONAL WEDDING—Two former international students at Jacksonville State College, Rosalio Wences of Mexico and Marie-Paul Simon of Belgium, center, were married recently in Belgium after a romance that began two years ago at International House. Other former international students present at the wedding were, from left, Jean-Bernard Genicot, Belgium; Geoffrey Smyth, England; Tomiko Sato, Japan; Uta Fritzsche, Germany; Mrs. Albert Mottet (Francine Cuitte); Mrs. Jose Humblet (Lily Cuitte), Brigitte Maes, all of Belgium; and Paul Frys, France.

JACKSONVILLE — Friendship ties formed at the International House at Jacksonville State College are permanent and seemingly know no barriers, if recent events are any criteria.

A few weeks ago Rosalio Wences, an international student from Mexico, went to Belgium after his graduation here to marry Marie-Paul Simon, another student who was here two years ago. During the two years she had been gone they wrote each other every day and planned for their marriage after Rosalio received his degree.

The wedding took place in Belgium as planned and was attended by other former international students from England, Japan, Germany, France and Belgium.

After the wedding the couple came back to the U. S. by boat and subsequently to Jacksonville where they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones, directors of International House. They arrived in time to greet the incoming international group which includes 16 students from 14 countries.

In Mexico both Rosalio and Marie-Paul will teach and he plans to be a Presbyterian minister. He went to school at a Presbyterian mission before coming to Jacksonville, and he came here under the auspices of Presbyterian missionaries.

A reception was held for the couple during their visit with Mrs. Liston Crow, Mrs. Alfred Roebuck and Mrs. John B. Nisbet, Jr., as hostesses. They are members of the local Presbyterian Church in which Rosalio was active.

International House Group Has Large Representation

The International House at Jacksonville State College has the largest and most widely-represented group in its history of 13 years, according to information released by Dr. J. H. Jones, director of the International House Program. There are 16 international students from 14 different countries.

The new students are as follows: Jean-Paul Dailly, 17, Suzanne A. Hanson, 18, Brussels, Belgium; Esperanza Vidal, 23, LaPaz, Bolivia; Patricia Koh Ong, 23, Singapore, Malaya; Stif-Erik Byorkqvist, 19, Abo, Finland; Marvette Faid, 19, Cairo, Egypt.

Yukiko Ana, 21, Toyko, Japan; Marilyn Anne Rymble, 21, Australia; Italo Morales, 21, Guatemala; Myrian Gateno, 18, Colombia; Carlos Zeller, 20, Mexico; Ferman Jaime Peralta, 18, Costa Rica.

Returning students are: Marie-Claire Charton, Marseille, France; Denise Auroousseau, Paris, France; Carmen Rubio, Matanzas, Cuba; and Hoosidar Badipour, Teheran, Iran.

American students taking part in the program include: Rebecca Owens, Erskine Lane, Eunice Stephens, Sandra Plummer, Diane Rampey, Alice Warren, Gadsden; Carol McKown, Fort Payne; Linda Sparks, Juanita Sharp, Jacksonville; Sue Gilliland, Gallant; Martha Pledger, Anniston; Doris Baker, Malissa Morgan, Piedmont; Barbara Brown, Pell City; Mary Gibbs, Arab; William Vaughn, Homer, Ga.; Nancy Ringer, Rome, Ga.

Jean-Paul Dailly is the son of the director of a music magazine in Belgium and his mother is a music critic and radio producer. Suzanne Hanon, also of Belgium, is the daughter of a merchant. He wants to be an engineer, she a teacher in languages.

Esperanza Vidal is the daughter of a Bolivian merchant. She wants to be an English teacher and wants to stay in this country. She and her family escaped from China when the Communists took over.

Stig-Eyrik Bjorkqvist of Finland is the son of an economics teacher. His specialties are psychology, philosophy and history. Marvette Farid of Egypt is the daughter of a retired colonel of the Egyptian Air Force, presently director of public relations for the Nile Hilton Hotel. She is interested in home economics education.

Yukiko Ana of Japan is the granddaughter of Admiral Sakano, a former naval attache in Washington, D. C. Her interests are horticulture and education. Marilyn Anne Rumble of Australia is on a scholarship offered by Rotary International, District 686. Her father is in the taxi business, and she is interested in language and the training of young children.

Italo Morales Guatemala has been a student in Texas for the past two years. His interests are music, art and psychology.

Myrian Gateno, daughter of a Colombian merchant, hopes to become a teacher. She speaks four languages. Carlos Zeller is the son of a railroad man in Mexico. He attended the Presbyterian school at Kingsville, Texas, for four years and is interested in the sciences.

Ferman Jaime Peralta is the son of a Costa Rican engineer and plans to study engineering.

All of the students speak from two to four languages.

WEDDING IN BELGIUM ATTRACTS OLD SCHOOLMATES
... All former students at Jacksonville State College

Belgian wedding draws old friends

It must have been an exciting day in Belgium for Rosalio Wences of Mexico and Marie-Paul Simon, former students at JACKSONVILLE State College International House, as friend after friend, formerly from the International House, came to celebrate their wedding.

Rosalio and Marie-Paul met at JACKSONVILLE State College several years ago. After two years, Marie-Paul went home, and for two years they wrote to each other every day, planning their marriage for this Summer, when Rosalio would have his degree.

After the wedding in Belgium, the couple came back to the United States by boat, and to JACKSONVILLE, where they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones, directors of International House. They arrived in time to greet the incoming international group, which included 16 students from 14 countries.

The couple is on the way to Mexico where Rosalio and Marie-Paul will teach. He plans to be a Presbyterian minister. Before coming to JACKSONVILLE, Rosalio went to a Presbyterian mission school, and came here under the auspices of Presbyterian missionaries.

Mrs. Waite to talk in Sulligent

Mrs. Dan Waite Jr., president of the Formers and Merchants Bank of CENTRE, will speak on "Federation Activities" before a meeting of the CHEROKEE COUNTY Federated Clubs, to be held Monday night in SULLIGENT.

Mrs. Waite, district director of the group, will be introduced by Mrs. Foster Sizemore, county chairman.

One of Cherokee County's most popular young matrons, Mrs. Waite is also a director of the Alabama 4-H Foundation, working with A. L. Johnson, DECATUR, chairman; Eiland Anthony, ANDALUSIA, vice chairman, and Judge C. J. Coley, ALEXANDER CITY, secretary-treasurer. Leading the group are Dr. E. T. York Jr. and the Extension workers at AUBURN UNIVERSITY.

Mrs. Waite, who this Summer graduated from the School of Banking at New Orleans, La., is also president of the CENTRE-PRATT Business and Professional Women's Club, and teaches "commercial law" to the employes of her bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Waite have two teen-age daughters.

TUESDAY, 20TH, SEPTEMBER.

My dear brothers & sisters, how are you all? Fine and in the best of colours I hope. Thank you so much for that sweet letter you sent me - I enjoyed it very much - (not that I understood the Spanish.)

The dear old nurse is making out that I still have a fever - oof!!!
In any case if Bill or Carol can fetch me tomorrow, I'll see <sup>you</sup> all for the picture.
But in any case fever or no fever I intend to attend my classes on Thursday, so there.

By the way, how are "Mama" & "Poppa" Jones? I hope that Mama is taking care of herself, ~~its~~ it seems that her legs hurt her - I hope that she is taking care of herself.

When Marilyn brought my lunch this afternoon, I gave her a paper that I had received from the post office to say that they are holding a letter of mine which I have to give 4 cents to get - so if one

If you is going to town maybe you can take the paper from Marilyn and fetch it for, I already have to wait such a long time until I can get anything!

I can hardly give you much news while I am sitting in my faithful old bed - but maybe you can.

Oh! yes, tonight I'll be watching the girls being auctioned off tonight, from my room, Thank goodness I'm sick, whew!!!

You should see the "picture of energy" in my room, my roommate is lying on the bed; another friend of ours is sitting with one leg on the arm of the chair and the other on the table - and talking, talking. it's like a broken gramophone.

Well I shan't bore you any more, so write to me soon, because it's getting pretty monotonous up here.

Lots of love and kisses to all of you from,

Cleo, Zeinab, Mercedes, etc.

Welcome, Students and Faculty

Enrollment Soars As 78th Session Begins

Today, Sept. 5, marks the beginning of the 88th regular session of Jacksonville State College. This will be a busy week, beginning with placement tests, orientation and registration of freshmen, followed by registration for upper classmen and graduate students. Classes will not get under way until Monday, Sept. 12.

There will be 16 new faces on the faculty for returning students with changes or additions in the English, history, art, music, business mathematics, psychology and geography departments.

In the music departments will be Harold A. Thompson, piano; Malcolm Griffin, voice; and Gail E. Menk, brasses. Dr. Menk will be filling the place of John Finley, who will be at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., working on his doctorate. Mr. Thompson will succeed Albert Singerman, and Mr. Griffin, Dr. Lehman's place.

Mr. Thompson was formerly head of the music department of South Georgia College. A graduate of the University of Georgia, he has a Master of Arts Degree from the Universi-

ROTC Staff Adds Five New Members

ROTC cadets will be meeting an almost completely new staff as they report for military training. Old members of the staff remaining are Lt.-Col. D. J. Coleman, commanding officer; Major W. N. Brown, Capt. Louis Holder and Capt. Robert Maxham.

The new members will include Capt. James Mozley, who began his duties in June. A native of Andalusia, Capt. Mozley served with the 31st Division in the Philippines during World War II; he has had a three-year assignment in Germany and a one-year tour of duty in Korea since World War II. He has also been stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C., and Fort Benning, Ga., where he was an instructor in the tactical and ranger departments. He graduated from Troy State College and did graduate work at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.

Contract Let For New Dining Hall, Conference Center

Bids were opened for the new dining hall, chapel and conference center building at Jacksonville State College Thursday afternoon. Shenesey & Kay, contractors of Anniston, submitted the lowest bid, $753,977.

Other bidders for the job were as follows:

Dethlefs & Hannon, Anniston, $820,516; Algernon Blair Construction Co., Montgomery, $808,483; F. R. Hoar & Son, Inc., Birmingham, $806,175; G. W. The building, designed by Paul W. Hofferbert and Hugh W. Ellis of Gadsden, will be the first to be erected in a building program in excess of $2 million. It will be located on the lower part of the campus between Daugeette and Pannell Hall dormitories.

Other buildings to be included in the over-all expansion are two dormitories, extensions to the library and science building, and a fine arts building.

France; Denise Aourousseau, Paris, France; Carmen Rubio, Mantanzas, Cuba; Hoosidar Badipour, Teheran, Iran.

American members of the International House Program will be: Rebecca Owens, Erskine Lane, Carol McKown, Linda Sparks, Sue Gilliland, Martha Pledger, Eunice Stephens, Doris Baker, Malissa Morgan, Diane Rampeuy, Juanita Sharp, Sandra Plummer, Alice Warren, Barbara Brown, Mary Gibbs, William Vaughn and Nancy Ringer.

Information About New Students

Some of the facts about the new students will be interesting to the faculty and student body who follow the activities of the International House.

Jean-Paul Dailly is the son of the director of a music magazine in Belgium and his mother is a musical critic and radio producer. He speaks Flemish, English and a little German, and wants to be an engineer.

Esperanza Vidal plays the piano and sings and wants to be an English teacher. She is much impressed with everything concerning the U. S. and hopes to be a good English teacher when she returns to her country.

Patricia Ong wants to specialize in audio-visual aids and would like to stay in this country until she receives her degree.

Stig-Erik Bjorkqvist is the son of an economics teacher in Finland. He speaks Finnish, German, French and English.

Mervette Farid is the daughter of a retired colonel of the Egyptian Air Force, who is presently director of public relations advertising and publicity for the Nile Hilton Hotel in Cairo. She speaks English, French and Italian and her special interest is home economics education.

Suzanne Hanon speaks English, Dutch and German. She plans to specialize in modern languages because she likes languages—a means to understand the way of living of people of other countries.

Yukiko Ana is the granddaughter of Admiral Sakano of Japan, a former naval attache in Washington, D. C., who instilled in her an interest in the United States. Her special interests are horticulture and education. She plans to major in elementary education.

Marilyn Anne Rumble comes from Australia on a scholarship offered by Rotary International, District 686. She is a graduate of a teachers college in Sydney and is interested in English, French and Social Studies, and especially in the training of young children.

Italo Morales has been a student in Texas for the past two years, so he will not be a stranger to the U. S. His special interests are music, art and psychology.

Fernan Jaime Peralta, the son of a Costa Rican engineer and plans to study engineering. All the students speak from one to four languages.

Huge Building Program Launched At Jax State

Gala Homecoming Event Is Planned For Oct. 8

Plans are under way to make Saturday, Oct. 8, the most successful homecoming in the history of the school. A special alumni bulletin was issued earlier this month with messages from Alumni President and First Vice-President, Clyde Westbrook and Hubert Street, and from Dr. Houston Cole, calling attention to the program and urging attendance at the gala event.

In addition to the full day of special features, reunions of the class of 1916 and 1917 are being planned with pre-homecoming festivities set for Friday night, Oct. 7.

The two classes will have a banquet on Friday night at the Anniston Civic Club. Cecil Harris will be toastmaster; Mrs. W. C. Carson (Kathleen Dauge), chairman; and Mrs. Felix Tredaway (Louise Douthit), co-chairman.

For the parade on Saturday members of the two classes will dress like the graduates of their day, the women in frilly white dresses. The Class of 1917, which was the first to wear caps and gowns, will be in academic garb, the college providing the caps and gowns.

Floats for the two classes will assemble at the home of Mrs. C. W. Dauge at 1 p.m. and all members will ride in the parade. Special automobiles will also be provided for teachers of these two classes.

Football Team Reunion

Dr. Robert C. Maxwell, dentist of Chattanooga, who was a member of the 1917 championship football team, is trying to arrange a reunion of players on the 1916-17-18 teams. Their coach, "Rabbit" Harris, has promised to be present

Benefit Concert For Mason Fund

A benefit concert is being planned on Sept. 27 in the Leone Cole Auditorium at 8 p.m., for the Walter A. Mason Memorial Scholarship Fund. Jack Peterson of Cleveland, Ohio, who at the present time is a pupil of Kilenyi at Florida State University, will be guest artist.

The Music Department is planning a benefit concert in the interest of the Mason Scholarship Fund for Tuesday evening, Sept. 27, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The memory of Walter Mason, head of the Fine Arts Division for many years, is revered by his former students, the faculty, and many others. You are urged to support this memorial scholarship by your presence at the concert. —Houston Cole.

He will give the program with which he will complete his work for the Doctor of Musical Arts Degree in piano early in January.

The program will include three sonatas and four Chopin ballades.

The committee is requesting $1.00 donations for the concert to be added to the fund which was established by the college student body and faculty, and the alumni following his death last January. Mr. Peterson is giving the concert without charge.

It is felt that all who remember Mr. Mason so fondly will wish to have a part in this effort.

CLYDE WESTBROOK
... President

HUBERT STREET
... 1st Vice-President

Presiding over homecoming festivities will be Mr. Westbrook, the president. Other officers of the alumni association are: Hubert Street, Oneonta, 1st vice-president; Miss Mildred Marona, Gadsden, 2nd vice-president; Solon H. Glover, Jacksonville, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the executive board are urged to be present for the meeting at 10 a.m., and the luncheon at noon.

Enrollment Up; Prospects Bright

The fall semester got under way here on Sept. 5 when freshmen arrived for placement tests and orientation. Upper classmen began registering on Wednesday and continued through Friday. Classes began Monday, Sept. 12.

Registration continued even after classes began and the total enrollment figures are expected to be the highest in the history of the college, estimated to run between 2500 and 2600.

Dormitories are filled to capacity and several are furnished with double-decker beds to accommodate three students to the room.

Classes began with a complete faculty which included 15 replacements and additions.

Several interesting curriculum additions are worth mentioning: Russian is being taught by Dr. Anatole von Spakovsky, a native Russian who has been a member of the sociology faculty for the past three years; the college is cooperating with the State Department in offering science courses with a combination of on-the-campus classes and instruction over ETV for high school science teachers in this area.

One of the most progressive steps taken in the language field has been the offering of Spanish and French in the elementary and secondary high schools with students from the International House Program as teachers. Last year the languages were offered in one section of each grade from the first through junior high. This year every room is given 15 minutes of oral training each day.

Jacksonville is one of the very few schools in the nation that have taken this step that is being urged by the government.

With the building program, the enrichment of the curriculum and the continuation of the two-year self study, the year 1960-61 should mark another stepping-stone in the onward march of this college.

The most expansive building program in the history of the college has been launched with the ground breaking early in September for the new dining hall, chapel and conference center. The building, will be located between Dauge and Pannell halls, and will cost approximately $1 million when completed and equipped.

Of contemporary architectural design, this, the largest and most expensive building to be erected on this campus, will combine facilities for a dining hall to accommodate 1600, a conference center that will seat 1400, and a chapel. Funds for the chapel were raised by the student body and alumni several years ago and will be supplemented by the college.

Also on the building program are plans for additions to the Ramona Wood Library, $100,000; and to Ayers Science Hall, $200,000. Both buildings are inadequate and must be enlarged to meet accreditation requirements.

Other new buildings will include two dormitories, making the complete expansion program run in excess of $2 million.

The lowest bid on the dining hall, chapel and conference center was $753,977, submitted by Shenese & Kay of Anniston. The cost had been estimated at approximately $1 million, and because of the amount saved on this building, it will be possible for another dormitory to be erected with the same appropriation, President Cole stated.

When the proposed buildings are completed, approximately $9 million will have been spent on physical improvements on the campus in recent years, Dr. Cole declared.

JSC Graduates Receive MA Degrees At Peabody

Among the graduate receiving MA degrees at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., on June 3, were the following Jacksonville alumni:

Don Murphy Baldwin, Adairsville, Ky.; Barbara Keith, Fort Payne; Zula Nash, Carmen J. Traylor, Arab; and Joel Hewitt Burgess, Trussville, received the Ed.D. degree.

Mrs. John F. Rowan, Dauge Hall director for the past 20 years, is recuperating at her home in Tuscaloosa from a broken knee received in a fall last June, her former students will be interested to know.

Handsome new dining hall, chapel and conference center now under construction on the campus, estimated to cost about $1 million when completed and equipped. The new building is located between Dauge and Pannell halls.

Curtis Johnson Given Achievement Award

Curtis Johnson, '49, biology instructor at Oxford High School, was selected to receive the Fort McClellan chapter's Armed Forces Chemical Association achievement award for science teachers in Calhoun County. The presentation was made on May 20 at Remington Hall, Fort McClellan, during the monthly meeting of the association.
 The award is based on the high school teacher's initiative in guiding the youth of today to become scientists and engineers. This was the first year the Chapter had made this award.
 Johnson received a $100 savings bond, a project-lab for classroom use, a certificate of merit, and a year's membership in the Armed Forces Chemical Association.
 He has a master's degree from Peabody College and is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary education fraternity.

Ann Brothers Now With Tennessee Dairy Group

Ann Brothers, '57, has been appointed executive director of the Dairy Council of the Appalachian Area, with offices in Bristol, Tenn. The council serves four Tennessee counties and one county in Virginia.
 A native of Etowah County, Miss Brothers taught vocational home economics at Glencoe High School for three years after receiving her degree.
 The Dairy Council is the organization through which the dairy industry provides authentic nutrition and health education-public relations services of the National Dairy Council.
 Ensign Alan Mason is an instructor at the U. S. Naval Academy. He and Mrs. Mason live at Port Deposit, Md.

district Scout executive, district Scout executive and director of public relations.

Following his graduation here he attended the National Training School for Scout Executives at Mendham, N. J.

He is married to the former Margaret Ann White of Walnut Grove, who was a student here in 1954-55-56. They have two children, Terry Elizabeth and Sandra Elaine, ages 3½ and 1½.

Dan Traylor Receives Fulbright Scholarship

Dan Traylor, '53, formerly of Gadsden foreign language instructor at Tennessee Military Institute, received a Fulbright Grant to attend a summer seminar for teachers of French to be held at Paris and Provincial Centers, and this winter he will teach English in a French secondary school as an exchange teacher, also under the Fulbright program.

The summer program included five weeks in Paris for classes and tours, and three weeks in Nice. During the stay in Paris, the group attended classes in the morning and took tours during the afternoons and on week-ends. After five weeks in Paris, the group moved to the south of France to observe college and secondary school techniques. The final three weeks of the course, again in Paris, included examinations, plus free time for individual projects.

Mrs. Traylor, the former Yvonne Goetze of Venezuela, and their 3-year-old son, Alan, will join Mr. Traylor this fall after he begins teaching.

The Traylor's met while both were students here and members of the International House Program.

Mrs. John Rowan Recovering From Fall Injuries

Friends of Mrs. John F. Rowan will be happy to know that she is making steady improvement at her home in Tuscaloosa. She has been in a cast for almost three months, but hopes to get out of bed by means of a brace soon.

She spent two months at Anniston Memorial Hospital before going to Tuscaloosa, where she is with her sisters, Mrs. Ida Wyly and Mrs. John Daniel.

A note from her received recently said: "How I do miss all of you dear, kind people and my beloved Daugette Hall . . . I wish like anything that I could be part of all the hustle and bustle at Daugette Hall!"

Mrs. Rowan has been a part of the fall "hustle and bustle" for more than 20 years and we can understand what a difference it is for her not to have all the coming and going, girls complaining, etc.

Her friends are all hoping that it won't be long until she is able to come back to Jacksonville, which is really her home.

Area AFWC Sets Meeting At College

JACKSONVILLE — Second District, Alabama Federation of Womens Clubs, will have its annual convention on the campus of Jacksonville State College, Nov. 19.

Mrs. Dan Waite, Jr., of Centre, district director, met with local committees last week to complete plans for the meeting. Calhoun County clubs will be hostesses for the occasion.

Second District is composed of Calhoun, Cherokee, DeKalb, Marshall, Walker, Winston, Marion, Lamar and Talladega counties, and 200 representatives from these counties are expected to be present.

Mrs. Mary L. Lowrey head of the college home economics department, is assistant district director; Mrs. Buford Jennings, Piedmont, is secretary; and Mrs. C. R. Purser of Guntersville is treasurer.

Mrs. L. J. Glazner is Calhoun County chairman and Mrs. James Haywood is secretary.

The day's program will include an address by the state president, Mrs. J. A. Brittain of Jasper, whose administrative theme is "Light Your Candle Now."

The International House students will appear on the program and special music will be presented under the direction of Dr. Robert Cantrick, head of the fine arts division.

At noon a luncheon will be served in Hammond Hall.

Dr. Cole Speaks At JSC Assembly

Dr. Houston Cole, president of Jacksonville State College, spoke to the faculty and student body Wednesday morning at the first general convocation of the fall semester. The Leone Cole Auditorium was crowded beyond capacity for the occasion.

Dr. Cole was introduced by Bill Anderson of Vinemont, president of the Student Government Association, after the invocation by Mrs. Thomas Callan, a member of the English faculty.

Speaking principally to the freshmen, Dr. Cole said there were three fundamentals he considered essential to success: Preparation, Dedication and Character.

He declared that nothing is accomplished when not preceded by rigid preparation.

"The type of preparation you make here will most likely determine your future success and happiness", he declared. "If you spend less than 25 hours a week on preparation for your studies you will have rough going in college."

"If you dedicate yourself to the task of getting an education, you will succeed regardless of whether or not you are the most brilliant student in your class.

"Character, the third essential, is necessary if you carry through to the finish. Life is becoming more complex and a college education is necessary for survival. If you have character you will prepare yourself well, you will be dedicated, and you will carry on to the completion of your ambitions", he concluded.

Dr. Cole announced the death of Dr. J. Frank Glazner, a member of the faculty for 35 years, and the audience stood in silent tribute to his memory.

Foreign Group Heard On Program

The Anniston Business and Professional Women's Club held its weekly business and program meeting Tuesday night at the club house in Rocky Hollow.

Yellow and gold flowers decorated the tables for the occasion and the speakers' table was centered with a world globe surrounded by dolls wearing the costumes from many different nations.

Mrs. Ruth Lindsay presided over routine business and Miss Mildred Parnell introduced students from the International House program at Jacksonville State College who presented a most interesting and entertaining program.

Hooshidar Badipour of Iran discussed the Baha'i religion and the great need for more widespread education in the Middle-East.

Miss Marilyn Rumble also addressed the group, speaking on what the students participating in the International House program are getting in the form of leadership along spiritual, educational and citizenship lines.

Native dances were done by students from Finland, Columbia and Japan.

Students present at the meeting included Mervette Frid of Egypt, Yukiko Ano of Japan, Suzanne Hanon of Belgium, Stig Bjorleguevist of Finland, Fernan Peralta of Costa Rica, Miriam Gateno and Italo Morales of South America and Carol McKown of Fort Payne.

International Friendship Is PTA Program Topic

Members of the Parent-Teachers' Association of Norwood School enjoyed a most interesting program at their October meeting, the theme of which was "International Friendship."

Mrs. Ernest Henderson presented Brownie Troop 3 as being in charge of the program, which included songs, dances, and guitar music by Miss Esperanza Vidal of Bolivia and Carlos Zeller of Mexico, international students at Jacksonville State College.

Brownie Troop 3 gave the devotional, and also enjoyed was a film of the 1959 Girl Scout Round-Up which was held in Colorado with scouts from all over the world attending.

Mrs. Billy Crow, president, welcomed those present and presided over a short business session, when reports from officers and committee chairmen were heard.

The year's budget was read by Mrs. Marion Mathis and approved by the group. Mrs. E. W. Landers announced that the Halloween carnival at the school will be held Saturday afternoon, October 29, from 4 o'clock until 8 o'clock.

She also reported that the Norwood PTA unit had won the coveted Gold Leaf and Oak Leaf certificates for having enrolled 237 members.

Mrs. B. A. Clark was elected treasurer for this year, and attendance banners for the meeting were awarded to the rooms of Mrs. Pumroy and Mrs. Ceylon Hale.

Fifth grade classes were in charge of a nursery for small children during the meeting.

To Our Trustees:

As one of our most important projects for 1960, we are arranging a Seminar on American Strategy to be held at Jacksonville State College on December 10, 1960. Cooperating with us in this project as co-sponsors are the Third Army Advisory Committees of Gadsden and Anniston and the Post Commander at Fort McClellan, Alabama.

The primary purpose of the seminar will be to provide the latest information for a better understanding of the current world situation to a selected group of leading educators and business and professional men in our state, and to alert them to the dangers imposed by international communism on the security of our country. Those in attendance will receive a deep insight into the international and domestic objectives of communism from eminently qualified speakers. It is hoped that after the seminar the influence of those in attendance will serve to inspire similar programs over our state.

An outline for organization of the seminar and a copy of the program are enclosed. Also enclosed is a list of the committees and I know we can count on your usual fine cooperation in making this undertaking a success.

With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

Organization of Seminar on American Strategy

Date: December 10, 1960 - 10 A. M. to 5 P. M.
Place: Jacksonville State College, Jacksonville, Alabama (Leone Cole Auditorium)
Sponsors: International Endowment Foundation, Inc., Jacksonville State College
Third Army Advisory Committee - Gadsden
Third Army Advisory Committee - Anniston
Post Commander, Fort McClellan, Alabama

Objectives: This Seminar is being held at the suggestion of the Third Army Commander as a result of the seminar held at Ft. Benning, Georgia on September 9-10, 1960. One of the primary purposes of the seminar is to provide the latest information for a better understanding of the current world situation and to alert state and community leaders to the dangers of international communism to the security of our country and the free world.

The Executive Committee has selected a committee chairman in each county in the 17-county Jacksonville State College District and it is hoped that this forum will serve to inspire those in attendance to hold similar seminars in each of their counties. The president of each college in Alabama will be invited to attend and it is hoped they will arrange a similar forum in each of their institutions after the seminar on December 10.

Attendance: The forum will be on a state-wide basis with leading educators and business and professional leaders throughout the state being extended invitations, particularly in 17 counties in Northeast Alabama which are in the Jacksonville State College District. The State Superintendent of Education and the president of each junior and senior college in Alabama will be invited to attend. An allotment of invitations will be made by the Attendance Committee and it is estimated that about 900 invitations will be distributed as follows:

Approximately 100 to the International Endowment Foundation, Inc. for distribution to their trustees and other selected friends.

About 200 to Jacksonville State College for inviting their faculty and student leaders, county and city superintendents of education and high school principals in the college district, the State Superintendent of Education and college presidents throughout the state.

Approximately 100 to the Post Commander at Fort McClellan for inviting selected officers and personnel at the Fort and at Anniston Ordnance.

Approximately 100 each to the Anniston and Gadsden Army Advisory Committees for inviting leaders in Etowah and Calhoun Counties.

Ten tickets to the county chairmen appointed by the Executive Committee in each of the 17 counties of the college district with the exception of Etowah and Calhoun Counties. The Attendance Committee will allot about 150 invitations to these county chairmen.

50 tickets to key National Guard officers in the area

50 tickets to key Army Reserve officers in the area

There will be no charge for admission and luncheon may be obtained for $1 per person at the college cafeteria.

Dear Mr. Jones:

I appreciate your letter of October 25, 1960 and I am pleased that the International students are coming to Montgomery again.

It is always a pleasure for me to meet and talk with them; however, I am sorry that I will be unable to see them on November 4.

I have a previous commitment to be in Perry County on November 4, but I hope that you will bring the students by the Capitol and through my office while they are here.

I hope that I can arrange to see the students at a later date.

With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

"Not only is our aim to pursue a college education, but to learn about the American people, understand life and the world as best we can. Then we can create world peace," Hooshidar Badepour of Iran told the assembly at Lanier today for the International House Program featuring standouts from Jacksonville State College, Jacksonville, Ala.

Putting on its third annual program at Lanier High School, the International House, under the direction of Dr. James H. Jones, received an arousing ovation from the students and guests.

"We have learned more about ourselves than ever before, because you in this country are so interested in knowing about us," Marilyn Rumble of Australia told the assembly.

FROM 14 COUNTRIES

Representing six continents and 14 countries, the students are from France, Belgium, Finland, Cuba, Japan, Iran, Australia, Malaya, Egypt, Costa Rica, Guatamala, Colombia, and Bolivia. Students from Alabama and Georgia are also in the group.

President of the group is Marie-Claire Charton of Marseilles, France. This is her second year at International House. During the summer Marie-Claire travelled 8,000 miles in the United States and Mexico as the guest of the Rotary Clubs.

Students at International House are selected by character through the embassies of their countries. They are on scholarships and, while at school, aid in the teaching of their native language to students in small classes.

CUBAN GIRL SPEAKS

Myrian Gateno of Cuba told the group, "You learn as much from us and we learn as much from you as we can, then we will not work against one another."

Students participating in the program of native songs and dances are: from Europe — Marie-Claire Charton, Denise Auroousse, Jean-Paul Daily, Suzanne Hannon, Stig Eyrick Bjorkqvist; Africa — Mervette Faid, Egypt; Asia — Yukito Aho, Hooshidar Badepur, Patricia Kok Wah Ong; Australia — Marilyn Rumble; Latin America — Myrian Gateno, Italo Morales, Fernan Jaime Peralta, Carmen Rubio, Esperanza Vidal, Carlos Zeller; North America — Carol McKonw, William Vaughn, and Alice Warren.

International House celebrated its 15th anniversary on Oct. 23 with a tea attended by hundreds of people over the South. It originated under the direction of Dr. Jones and at first consisted of only French students but grew until its present size.

All students selected have a good background and are from religious families. The religions represented are Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, Bahai, and Moslem.

The assembly opened by the reading of the 23rd Psalm in French by Lanier student Julia Norton.

Dear Dr. Jones:

Thank you for your thoughtfulness in writing about Miss Ano and forwarding a photograph of the members of the International House.

I am very pleased to know that Miss Ano has been adjusting well to American campus life and has been offered a renewal scholarship to continue her study in 1961-62. I am sure that her family will be very proud of her and I believe that her experience as a member of the International House Project will be enjoyable as well as profitable.

Thank you again for your kind letter.

Sincerely yours,

JACKSONVILLE, ALA. Wednesday, November 9, 1960

NUMBER FORTY-ONE

BY THE GRAPEVINE

Friends of Raquel Nodal of Havana, Cuba, were delighted to learn that she is now teaching Spanish at Walter Wellborn High School. She was present at the morning service of the First Methodist Church where she greeted many of her former acquaintances, and she is staying with Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones until she can get permanently located.

Raquel was an International House student and received her degree in 1951 with a major in business education. She has been teaching in Havana until recently. Her brother, Benjamin, who also graduated here, is in Miami, Fla. Her father is a Methodist minister in Havana.

Both Raquel and Ben received many honors as students and will be remembered by many of the townspeople.

Carmen Rubio, who is an International House student now, is also from Cuba. Her parents arrived in Miami last week and will go to Brazil where her father, a chemist, has secured a position.

We had a renewal for the subscription of Mrs. L. J. Hendrix this week with a delightful note in it. Mrs. Hendrix makes her home in Jasper now and comes to Jacksonville occasionally.

She described a trip she made recently which we thought would be of interest to our readers because it so expresses so vividly the thoughts that are in all our minds as we view the landscape during these autumn days. She wrote:

"The past few days I have spent at Wheeler Dam with very close friends who have a lovely cabin there. The weather is simply magnificent! The going up through the government reservation (posted) was comparable to driving through a massive flower garden. The roadside, which is kept so clean and pretty, is lined on either side with a mixture of gorgeously-colored varied maples, oaks, sweet gums and a other trees, world without end, and the greenery of firs, cedars and so on.

Have you read "Before I Forget" by Mackrossin of past Saturday Evening Post connection? It is very entertaining, easy reading and somewhat informative. I enjoyed.

Clubwomen Plan Meeting Here 19th

Clubwomen of Calhoun County will be hostesses to Second District, Alabama Federation of Womens Clubs, on Nov. 19. The meeting will be held at the Leone Cole Auditorium where registration will begin at 9:15 a.m.

Coffee will be served before the opening session at 10 a.m. Mrs. Dan Waite, Jr., of Centre, district director, will preside. Mrs. J. A. Britain of Jasper, state president, will speak on "Light Your Candle Now".

Mrs. Evelyn Keenon, a stockbroker, will be the luncheon speaker, with a delightful talk on "Stocks in a Hatbox". The meeting will close with the luncheon, which is expected to end by 2 p.m., in order for delegates from distant counties to get home before dark.

The registration fee will be 25 cents and the luncheon will be $2.00. Luncheon reservations should be sent to Mrs. L. J. Glazner, Box 123, Jacksonville, Ala., not later than Tuesday, Nov. 14. Mrs. Glazner is county chairman and Mrs. James Haywood is secretary of the County Council.

The college a cappella choir, under the direction of Malcolm Griffin, will be one of the entertainment features of the program; and the International House students will present a program and Louise Lindsey, Hamilton, Second District scholarship winner in the "Miss Alabama" contest, will sing.

A memorial service for deceased members will be conducted also.

Second District is composed of Calhoun, Cherokee, DeKalb, Marshall, Marion, Lamar, Talladega, Walker and Winston counties and more than 200 representatives are expected to be present.

Mrs. Mary L. Lowrey is assistant district director; Mrs. Buford Jennings of Piedmont is secretary; and C. R. Purser of Guntersville is treasurer.

Personal Items

Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Calvert and Mrs. John L. Oldham were recent visitors at Sewanee, Tenn., where they went to see Donnie Calvert, and Jane Solberger of Slidell, La., who are students there.

Friends of Dr. Robert Felgar will regret to know he continues ill at Brice's Hospital in Tuscaloosa.

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Van Keuren spent the week-end in Gatlinburg, Tenn., where Dr. Van Keuren attended a social science conference.

President Eisenhower and his cabinet meet today to begin work on plans for transferring the reins of government Jan. 20 to the incoming administration of John F. Kennedy. See Page 13.

KENNEDY CLINCHES VICTORY AFTER CALIFORNIA COMES IN

He's Youngest, First Catholic

Native State Of Nixon Pushes Rival Into Office

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Fitzgerald Kennedy in a suspense-laden photo-finish beat Richard M. Nixon today to become the first Roman Catholic, the youngest man, and the first son of the 20th century to be elected president of the United States.

The 43-year-old Democratic senator from Massachusetts clinched victory shortly after 9 a.m. EST by capturing the crucial 32 electoral votes in Nixon's home state of California. He took California by beating the vice president in his own home county of Los Angeles.

Kennedy had gone into the lead early Tuesday evening, but during the night and today's small hours uncertainty in California and a few other states had kept the final outcome in doubt.

WITH VICTORY in California, Kennedy had won 21 states with 299 electoral votes, 30 more than the magic majority. He was leading in two states with 38 electoral votes which gave him an indicated total of 337.

Nixon had won 24 states with 185 electoral votes and led in two with seven electoral votes for an indicated total of 192.

At the moment California's electoral total nailed down the big prize for Kennedy, the senator had polled 30,329,441 popular votes compared to 29,740,948 for Nixon. He had only 50.49 per cent of the two-party vote, the smallest percentage margin since 1888.

Dear Miss Charton:

Yesterday we received the deposit of $60.00 from Mr. James H. Jones. We have applied this to the TS BREMEN June 21 and return August 15.

I am very sorry that there was such a short time given before this deposit had to be in. I know this was probably an inconvenience for you, but since June and August are the most crowded times of the year for the steamships, they must have their deposits right away. In any case, your reservations are now protected and I shall advise you when the final payment is due. This will be about six weeks before sailing.

Meanwhile, if you have any questions please do not hesitate to contact me.

EGYPTIAN VISITS INTERNATIONAL HOUSE—Salah E. Farid, right, of Cairo, Egypt, was the most recent visitor to the International House, coming to see his daughter, Mervette, center, who is a member of the International House Program this year. On hand to greet him was Marie-Claire Charton of Marseille, France, student-chairman of the program. Mr. Farid is director of public relations and sales for the Nile-Hilton Hotel in Cairo, makes frequent trips to the U. S., and is a world traveler. This was his first time to be in this country on election day and he expressed great interest in and admiration for the democratic system.

FBI's Hoover Is Invited To JSC 'Cold War' Debate.

Special to The Post-Herald
 JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 11 — J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, has been asked to come to Jacksonville State College next month to take part in a seminar on American strategy in the conflict between communism and capitalism.

The seminar Dec. 10 will be sponsored jointly by the International House Foundation and the Third Army Advisory Committee of Anniston and Gadsden.

Col. C. W. Daugette of Gadsden will be chairman.

Col. William R. Kintner of the Department of Army Foreign Policy Research Institute will be one of the speakers, along with Dr. Houston Cole, president of Jacksonville State.

Hoover was invited to discuss espionage in the U. S.

Jesse Culp, editor of the Sand Mountain Reporter, Albertville, will serve as moderator for a discussion on "Inside Russia" during the morning session. Walter Merrill, Anniston attorney, will moderate a discussion on "What Can Be Done and Your Action on the Community Level." Other members of the panel will be Reps. Albert Rains and Kenneth Roberts, Dan Gray and Col. Daugette.

EGYPTIANS IN ALABAMA — Salah E. Farid (right) of Cairo, Egypt, was a visitor to Jacksonville State College, coming to see his daughter, Mervette, a member of the International House program this school year. Farid, a world traveler, is director of public relations and sales for the Nile-Hilton Hotel, Cairo.

TAKES CARE OF 'UNOFFICIAL' BUSINESS — Congressman Kenneth Roberts, center, who has given official assistance to a number of students in the International House Program at Jacksonville State College, took time out for 'unofficial' business at the International House this week where he was a guest for luncheon. Shown with him are two of the new students from widely-separated countries: Yukiko Ano, left, of Japan, and Esperanza Vidal of Bolivia.

My Dear Dr. Jones,

Just a short note to thank you again for all what you have done for both Mewette and myself. I would like you to thank on my behalf you very dear wife Mrs. Jones for her hospitality and generosity. I'll always treasure these wonderful days I spent with you.

May the Lord Bless you both for your wonderful efforts towards those girls and boys, who love you both very much, and who find in you both their Parents that they miss back home.

Kindest regards. Yours

DR., MRS. CALVERT ARE AT HOME TO FRIENDS

Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Calvert were at home on Monday evening of last week honoring Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Jones (Alice Landham Edwards), whose marriage took place recently.

Faculty members and their wives from the education, English and physical education departments called during the evening and were received informally to meet Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. John L. Oldham and Mrs. W. J. O'Sullivan presided at the dining table where refreshments were served. The table was laid with an imported cloth of draw-work and embroidery which Dr. and Mrs. Calvert bought in Florence, Italy, and a silver wine cooler holding pinl gladioli and roses supported by silver candle sticks with white tapers furnished the centerpiece. Silver candelabra held lighted tapers on the sideboard and red roses and chrysanthemums adorned the living room and music room.

Dr. and Mrs. Calvert were assisted in receiving by Mrs. C. W. Dauzette.

For the occasion, Mrs. Jones wore aqua lac with matching shores and Mrs. Calvert's gown was white taffeta trimmed in sequins with which she wore white satin shoes.

Personal Items

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Van Keuren will drive to Huntsville Thursday afternoon for a brief visit with their son, Capt. Edwin Van Keuren, Jr., of Fort Bliss, Texas, who is spending three days at Redstone Arsenal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stevenson were among those going over to Atlanta for the Alabama-Georgia Tech game on Saturday.

Mrs. L. J. Hendrix of Jasper was the week-end guests of Mrs. W. C. Sargent.

Egyptian Visits International House

An interesting visitor at the International House this week has been M. Salah E. Farid of Cairo, Egypt, who came to see his daughter, Mervette. Mr. Farid is director of public relations and sales for the Nile-Hilton Hotel in Cairo. He travels all over the world in the interest of the hotel.

Mervette, who arrived here in September, was recommended for the International House Program by the Egyptian Cultural Relations Officer in Washington, D. C. Her maternal grandmother is native English.

Congressman at JSC

Congressman Kenneth Roberts shown above at center, who has given official assistance to a number of students in the International House Program at Jacksonville State College, took time out for "unofficial" business at the International House this week where he was a guest for luncheon. Shown with him are two of the new students from widely-separated countries: Yukiko Ano, left, of Japan, and Esperanza Vidal, right, of Bolivia.

Plans Being Completed For Strategy Seminar

On The Inside

Army Advisory Committees for Gadsden and Anniston.

PURPOSE OF the seminar, held without charge in Leone Cole Auditorium, is to provide leaders with the latest information on the menace of world communism for a better understanding of the world situation, Daugette said.

"It is hoped this forum will serve to inspire those in attendance to hold similar seminars in each of their counties," he said.

Sponsors, with the advisory committees, are the International Endowment Foundation of Jacksonville State College and the post commander of Fort McClellan.

ONE HUNDRED invitations have been distributed to the International Endowment Foundation; 200 to JSC, 100 to Fort McClellan, 100 to each of the advisory committees, 10 each to the 17 counties, 50 to key National Guard officers and 50 to key Army Reserve officers of the area.

Speakers will include a representative of Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters, and an official from Department of the Army in Washington.

SOME 900 invitations to the Seminar on American Strategy, set for Dec. 10 at Jacksonville State College, have been sent to leaders over Northeast Alabama, Col. C. W. Daugette has announced.

Daugette is co-chairman of the event, planned to acquaint leaders with the menace of world communism. He said he hopes the all-day forum will inspire others throughout the state.

Some 900 invitations to the Seminar on American Strategy to be held at Jacksonville State College Dec. 10 have been sent to school, military, community and government leaders, Col. C. W. Daugette, Jr., said today.

Daugette, who is co-chairman of the event, said the 17 counties represented in the college's district, plus other Alabama people, have been asked to attend the meeting, the first of its kind here.

Co-chairman with Daugette is Marshall Hunter of Anniston. The two are chairmen of the Third

MUSICAL ADAPTATION OF THE CLUB COLLECT

Tune - "Love's Old Sweet Song"

Keep us O Lord, from pettiness and strife
Let us be large in thought, in word, in life;
Let us be done with selfishness and greed,
Help us be generous in word and deed.
Shed all that's false, pretense and prejudice,
Bring out the common good that in us lies.

CHORUS

Just a song of gladness,
Just a word of love,
Sounds a note triumphant;
Echoes from above
Send a gleam of heaven
To a saddened mind;
Help us, Lord, we pray Thee,
Always to be kind.
Always to be kind.

Our hasty judgment, help us to restrain,
Help us to guard and shield each other's name.
Help us to see the Right, the Good, the True,
Help us be calm, serene, and move like you;
And may we learn this lesson ere we part,
To sound the beating of our woman's heart.

CHORUS

Send a beam of sunshine
To an achin heart;
Clear away all sadness
Ere tonight we part;
Cast away all worry
From the troubled mind,
Teach us Lord, Oh teach us,
Ever to be kind,
Ever to be kind.

FBI Dignitary To Speak Here

A Seminar on American Strategy will be held on campus

December 10 under the sponsorship of the International House

Foundation and the Third Army Advisory Committee.

A host of national dignitaries will speak throughout the day. Colonel William R. Kinter of the Department of Army Foreign Policy Research will lecture on "World Conflict Between Communism and Capitalism and Forward Strategy For The United States" at 10:20 am in Cole Auditorium. Mr. Charles D. Brennan of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington will speak on "Communism, Intelligence and Espionage in the United States" at 11:55. President Cole will talk on "Challenge to Parents, Teachers and American Youth" at 11:30.

Two panel discussions will be held during the day. Editor Jesse Culp of the Sand Mountain Reporter will moderate a panel on "Inside Russia". He will be assisted by members of the 1960 Alabama 'people-to-people' delegation and will show slides actually taken inside the Soviet Union. Attorney Walter Merrill will moderate another panel discussion on "What Can Be Done and Your Action On The Community Level". Members of this panel will include Congressmen Albert Rains and Kenneth Roberts, Dan W. Gray and Colonel Daugette.

Others appearing on the program will be Colonel Lon Smith, post commander, Fort McClellan; Mr. Marshall Hunter, president of the Anniston National Bank; Lt. General Edward M. Almond (Ret.); and Lieutenant General Paul Adams, Commanding General, Third US Army. A film concerning the recent San Francisco riots entitled "Operation Abolition" will be shown at 3:10 in Cole Auditorium.

Enrollment Figures Show 2,358 Total

Enrollment figures were released last week showing that 2,358 students are enrolled on the Jacksonville State campus this semester. There are 2,015 day students and 343 in the evening session. The daytime enrollment is at its highest peak in the history of the school.

There are 40 Alabama counties and 17 Georgia counties represented in the enrollment; 21 states and 20 foreign countries. The states are: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Montana, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia, Washington. The countries are: Australia, Brazil, Belgium, Bolivia, Costa Rica, Colombia, Cuba, Egypt, France, Finland, Guatemala, Honduras, Italy, Iran, Japan, Korea, Malaya, Mexico, and Nicaragua.

Calhoun County leads with 769; Etowah has 346; Talladega, 117; Jefferson, 114; DeKalb, 84, and others on down the line.

Ground was broken last week for a new dormitory on the north end of the campus facing the Jacksonville-Gadsden road. Construction will begin on two more during the current term. A dining hall, conference center and chapel are also under way, and construction is slated to begin on a fine arts building and additions to the library and science building.

International House Students At Jax Observe Thanksgiving

By FRANCES UNDERWOOD
Times Staff Writer

Thanksgiving Day was observed at International House on the campus of Jacksonville State College this week with a typical dinner as originated by the Pilgrims.

Preceding the dinner, the students from six continents and 16 different countries assembled in the reception room of the home away from home for the foreign students with their hosts while in the United States, Dr. and Mrs. James T. Jones.

Dr. Jones introduced Mrs. Gordon Silvey of Gadsden, who gave the story of The First Thanksgiving, taking up the story of the Pilgrims when they left England and settled for 12 years in Holland for religious freedom. At that time, they were called Puritans, but when dissatisfied with conditions in Holland, they left there for America, in 1620, their name was changed to Pilgrims. Mrs. Silvey told of the long voyage on the two small ships, the "Speedwell" and the "Mayflower" and of the perilous voyage on those unseaworthy ships.

Landing on Plymouth Rock, the small group of 102 souls immediately went to work to establish a colony for their beloved England. That winter 42 died, among them the wife of Capt. Miles Standish. The graves were leveled to keep the Indians from knowing how small the group was becoming . . . but when the "Mayflower" returned to England the next April not a Pilgrim was aboard.

Mrs. Silvey very colorfully brought in the names of the friendly Indians and how they taught the Pilgrims the way to plant corn and in many ways helped them get settled in the new colony.

All this was done to bring the students to the realization of the reason for the first Thanksgiving Day, proclaimed by Gov. William Bradford on the last Thursday of November, 1623.

FIVE GRAINS OF CORN

Mrs. Jones had arranged five small grains of corn before each plate on the huge tables in the three dining rooms to remind the students that that small amount of food was allotted the Pilgrims during the crucial first winter in America. This proved quite a contrast to the bountiful fare set before the foreign students on this Thanksgiving, 1960.

The paper, read by Mrs. Silvey had been prepared and read by her to another group from Jacksonville College back in 1953 when International House students sat down to a Thanksgiving dinner prepared by members of the Gadsden Altrusa Club. This paper has been used by students from different countries in class and on the festive occasion of Thanksgiving ever since.

Grace was said by Carlos Zeller of Mexico City in the beautiful language of the Spanish speaking people of the world. Dr. Jones explained that before each meal in the dining rooms at International House, grace is said by a student of a different country in his or her own language.

FEELING OF FRIENDLINESS

A feeling of friendliness pervaded the atmosphere as the young men and women of far-away places greeted each other and their guests. Among them was Yukiko Ano from Tokyo, Japan, who was excited since she had been invited to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with friends in Charleston, S. C. These were friends whom she had met when they were staying in Tokyo. She was taking her first plane ride the next day in order to have a longer time with her American friends.

Among them, too, was Mervette Ferid of Cairo, Egypt, who was leaving for New York to spend the holidays with her father, Salah E. Ferid, who is on one of his frequent trips to this country since he is public relations director and in charge of sales for the Nile-Hilton Hotel in Cairo, Egypt.

Some of the American students, who are enrolled in International House, are taking their companions home for Thanksgiving and others are going to different homes in Alabama to see how the American way of life is kept.

STUDENTS' IMPRESSIONS

On request, five students gave their impressions of the land in which they are living today. One was my escort to the table, Stig-Eyrik Bjorkqvist, Abo, Finland, who, in his own country, is writing for newspapers. He said: "One thing I have noticed over and over again is how alike people from the United States and my own country are. I think most of us students have had the same experience. The countries may be far from each other, the climates may be different, but men are alike the world over with the same qualities, with the same wishes and the same sorrows. That's why I feel that our work at International House is important. We should work for the good of the people of our country but for people, for mankind."

Suzanne Hanon of Brussels, Belgium wrote: "What I think about Thanksgiving? I like it for I think it is a very nice custom. I like it because it is typically American and, to tell the truth, I'm eager to know all about foreign countries and their habits. I like it because it is a day of rejoicing, because people prepare delicious dishes, turkeys and pies, but I like it the most because everybody ceases to work in order to rejoice and thank God . . . and this is certainly the nicest meaning of this wonderful feast."

Fernan Peralta of San Jose, Costa Rica, Central America said that on arriving in the United States, he was favorably impressed by the friendliness of the people, especially in Alabama. He is very glad that he was able to be here during the presidential election which were very closely contested. He concluded his interview by saying, "Materially, this country is fantastic."

mer, Georgia; Merylyn Rumble, Katoomba, Australia; Stig-Eyrik Bjorkqvist, Abo, Finland; Jean - Paul Dailly, Brussels, Belgium; Carol Sanders, Fort Payne, Alabama; Myriam Gateno, Barranquilla, Colombia; Denise Aourousseau, Ivry (Seine) France; Fernan Peralta, San Jose, Costa Rica; Mervette Farid, Cairo, Egypt; Alice Warren, Gadsden, Alabama, and Italo Morales, Tiquista, Guatemala.

Patricia Kok Wah Ang, Johore Bahru, Johore, Malaya said that she finds a difference between Malayan and American customs. "In Malaya, it is the adults' world, whereas here it is the youngsters' world. Here we have much freedom in what we do and say. The Americans are very hospitable to foreigners," said this young lady with the dark eyes.

And in conclusion, the girl from Cairo, Egypt, Mervette Ferid, said. "Here in the States, I have found that everybody is very friendly to us and really wonderful the way they have shown us their hospitality, entertained us in their homes. This is altogether a wonderful experience for me to meet and live with students from other countries, and I certainly hope that someday, if not all the people I have met, at least some of them will be able to come to Cairo, to visit the Pyramids and the Sphinx."

EGYPTIAN VISITS INTERNATIONAL HOUSE — Salah E. Farid, right, of Cairo, Egypt, is shown as he visited his daughter, Mervette, center, at International House, Jacksonville State College. He is being greeted by Marie-Claire Charton of Marseille, France, student-chairman of the program.

JSC Scene Of Session For Clubs Awards Made In Meeting

JACKSONVILLE — Clubwomen from 10 counties assembled on the campus of Jacksonville State College for the annual Second District convention. Mrs. Dan Waite, Jr., the district director, presided.

Calhoun County clubs were hostesses for the event with Mrs. L. J. Glazner, Jacksonville, as chairman.

Coffee was served the visitors by the Inter Se Study Club of Jacksonville after which they were greeted by President Houston Cole and Mayor Frank Casey.

Music by the a cappella choir and introductions of the International House students preceded the address of the state president, Mrs. J. A. Britain, whose theme was "Light Your Candle Now."

AWARDS WERE given to the outstanding clubs on the district as follows:

Valley Miles Gavel, Guntersville 20th Century, best general report; Lakeman Trophy, Centre Literary (second place), Anne Hutchinson, Dora (honorable mention); Yarbrough Gavel, Creative Visions Study Club, Jacksonville, best report from club under two years of age; Morton Trophy, Jacksonville Progressive Study, conservation work; Whitehead Trophy, Centre Literary, citizenship work; Owen Cup, Sulligent Study, library work.

Vera Beck Award, Jacksonville, Book, largest sale of blind-made goods; Jordan Trophy, Mable Johnson Culture, public welfare; McCabe Trophy, Pamorettes, Double Springs, best junior club report; Forman Trophy, one club

each in Calhoun, Lamar and DeKalb counties, for organizing most clubs;

BRITAIN TROPHY. Guntersville 20th Century, child welfare; Davenport Gavel, Anne Hutchinson Study, fine arts; Gibson Trophy, Fortnightly Study, Centre, international affairs; Drake Trophy, Centre Literary, public affairs; Nan Connell Richardson Trophy, Anne Hutchinson Study, fine arts; Lamar County, Mrs. Foster Sizemore, chairman, best county report.

Mrs. Mary L. Lowrey, Jacksonville, assistant district director, presided over the luncheon in Hammond Hall during which Mrs. John Keenor, a stockbroker from Merrill, Lynch, Fenner and Smith, Birmingham, spoke on "Stocks in a Hatbox."

Mrs. Keenor, the wife of a retired army colonel, charmed her audience with her delightful and informative talk which she illustrated with a variety of hats.

Clubwomen Convene At JSC

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 22—Clubwomen from 10 counties assembled on the campus of Jacksonville State College Saturday for the annual Second District convention. Mrs. Dan Waite Jr., district director, presided.

Calhoun County clubs were hostesses with Mrs. L. J. Glazner, Jacksonville, chairman.

Coffee was served by the Inter Se Study Club of Jacksonville. Visitors were greeted by President Houston Cole and Mayor Frank Casey. Music by the a cappella choir and introduction of the International House students preceded an address by the state president, Mrs. J. A. Britain, whose theme was "Light Your Candle Now."

Awards were given to the outstanding clubs on the district as follows: Valley Miles Gavel, Guntersville 20th Century, best general report; Lakeman Trophy, Centre Literary (second place), Anne Hutchinson, Dora (honorable mention); Yarbrough Gavel, Creative Visions Study Club, Jacksonville, best report from club under two years of age; Morton Trophy, Jacksonville Progressive Study, conservation work; Whitehead Trophy, Centre Literary, citizenship work; Owen Cup, Sulligent Study, library work.

Vera Beck Award, Jacksonville, Book, largest sale of blind-made goods; Jordan Trophy, Mable Johnson Culture, public welfare; McCabe Trophy, Pamorettes, Double Springs, best junior club report; Forman Trophy, one club each in Calhoun, Lamar and DeKalb Counties, for organizing most clubs; Britain Trophy, Guntersville 20th Century, child welfare; Davenport Gavel, Anne Hutchinson Study, fine arts; Gibson Trophy, Fortnightly Study, Centre, international affairs; Drake Trophy, Centre Literary, public affairs; Nan Connell Richardson Trophy, Anne Hutchinson Study, fine arts; Lamar County, Mrs. Foster Sizemore, chairman, best county report.

Mrs. Mary L. Lowrey, Jacksonville, presided at the luncheon in Hammond Hall, during which Mrs. John Keenor, a stockbroker from Merrill, Lynch, Fenner and Smith of Birmingham, spoke on "Stocks in a Hatbox."

She advised her listeners that stocks are a good hedge against inflation, but they should have a sufficient amount of cash for emergencies, a sufficient insurance program, and a reliable broker before launching out into this field.

"Stocks are just like hats; there are all kinds," she said, and she donned a different hat to illustrate those that pay higher dividends; these with a greater degree of safety; those that offer the prospects of growth; and finally, the cats variety that is bought through a broker who calls up out of the blue to pass on a "good hot tip."

Mrs. Welch Huckaby of Guntersville, chairman of the time and place committee, reported that the 1961 convention will be held in Guntersville; Mrs. Britain was presented a pair of silver candleholders.

Present were 137 women from 10 counties.

OGMS To Have Holiday Feast

About 250 Invited From Allied Nations

An international observance of a traditional American holiday is scheduled at the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School tomorrow.

About 250 representatives of allied nations and their families will join top-ranking officers and special civilian guests from Huntsville in the Thanksgiving celebration.

Col. Charles W. Eifler, commandant of the missile school, is host for the feast which starts at 1 p.m. Thursday in the new OGMS mess hall.

The hall has been decorated with flags of the United Nations to provide a colorful background. Sen. and Mrs. John J. Sparkman and their family, Mayor and Mrs. R. B. Searcy, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. R. L. Spragins, (U. S. Army, Ret.,) Maj. Gen. and Mrs. D. F. O'Neill, (U. S. Marine Corp., Ret.,) and officers and men from Belgium, Britain, Canada, China, Denmark, France, Germany, Italy and Norway are among the guests.

Also attending will be three foreign exchange students from the State College in Jacksonville, Ala., who are holidaying in Huntsville as guests of the Rotary Club. They are Mlle. Suzanne Hanon of Belgium, Miss Marilyn Rumble of Australia and Italo Morales of Guatemala, who will be escorted by Mr. and Mrs. Pickens Gates.

Following the dinner the guests are to attend the "Turkey Bowl" football game to be played at Redstone Arsenal between all-star teams from Redstone and the missile school.

REDSTONE ARSENAL DAY

We are assured of a not-notch program because our own Colonel O. T. McCloskey will be in charge. A 100% attendance is urged in order to show our appreciation of Huntsville's biggest industry. This would be a good time to bring guests.

LAST WEEK

Seator John Sparkman gave us assurance that we would not be subject to socialism under the new Democratic administration. He reminded us that Congress and not the president enacts legislation. Sparkman predicted that T. V. A. and Redstone Arsenal will go forward the next four years. John Kennedy was described as a reasonable person, intelligent and willing to work out differences with his opposition. Sparkman's final prediction was that the next administration would be a good one—good enough to merit re-election.

Bill Henshaw, Huntsville High School, and Jimmy McGaha, Butler High School, were welcomed as Honor Students of the Month.

President Ralph announced that there would soon be a Student Counseling Service available, first to Huntsville High School and later to other high schools.

THANKSGIVING HOSPITALITY

Pickins Gates and Rotary-Ann Martha are intertaining two young ladies from International House, Jacksonville State College as their Thanksgiving guests. Miss Suzanne Hanon from Belgium is the Scholarship Student of the Alabama Federation of Womens Clubs—Miss Marilyn Rumble from Australia was selected by District 275 of Rotary—Sydney, Australia for the District 686 (Alabama) as our Scholarship Student. Italo Morales of Guatemala, International House, will be the guest of Bill and Rotary-Ann Mona McKissack. Col. and Mrs. Charles Eifler, Commadant of the Ordinance Guided Missile School will entertain the International House group with Thanksgiving Dinner with the NATO School and a foot ball game in afternoon.

Annual meeting—

Clubwomen from 10 counties convene in Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., Nov. 25—Clubwomen from 10 counties assembled on the campus of Jacksonville State College for the annual Second District convention. Mrs. Dan Waite Jr., Centre, the district director, presided.

Calhoun County clubs were hostesses with Mrs. L. J. Glazner, Jacksonville, as chairman.

Coffee was served the visitors by the Inter Se Study Club of Jacksonville after which they were greeted by President Houston Cole and Mayor Frank Casey. Music by the a cappella choir and introduction of the International House students preceded the address of the state president, Mrs. J. A. Britain, whose theme was "Light Your Candle Now."

Awards were given to the outstanding clubs in the district as follows:

VALLEY MILES GAVEL to Guntersville 20th Century Club for best general report; Lakeland Trophy to Centre Literary (second place); Anne Hutchinson Study, Dora (honorable mention); Yarbrough Gavel, Creative Visions Study Club, Jacksonville, best report of club under two years of age; Morton Trophy to Jacksonville Progressive Study, conservation work; Whitehead Trophy, Centre Literary, citizenship work; Owen Cup, Sulligent Study, library work.

Vera Beck Award, Jacksonville Book Club, largest sale of blind-made goods; Jordan Trophy, Mable Johnson Culture, public welfare; McCabe Trophy, Pamorettes, Double Springs, best junior club report; Forman Trophy, one club each in Calhoun, Lamar and DeKalb Counties, for organizing most clubs; Britain Trophy, Guntersville 20th Century, child welfare; Davenport Gavel, Anne Hutchinson Study, fine arts; Gibson Trophy, Fortnightly Study, Centre, international affairs; Drake Trophy, Centre Literary, public affairs; Nan Connell Richardson Trophy, Anne Hutchinson Study, fine arts; Lamar County, Mrs. Foster Sizemore, chairman, best county report.

Mrs. Lowrey presided over the luncheon in Hammond Hall during which Mrs. Keenon, stockbroker, spoke on "Stocks in a Hatbox."

The wife of a retired Army colonel, Mrs. Keenon illustrated her talk with hats.

SHE ADVISED HER listeners that stocks are a good hedge against inflation, but they should have a sufficient amount of cash on hand for emergencies, a sufficient insurance program, and a reliable broker, before launching into this field.

"Stocks are just like hats; there are all kinds," she said, and donned a different hat to illustrate those that pay higher dividends; those with a greater degree of safety; those that offer prospects of growth, and finally, the cats and dogs variety that is bought through a broker who calls up out of the blue to pass on a "good hot tip."

Mrs. Welch Huckaby of Guntersville, chairman of the time and place committee, reported that the 1961 convention will be held in Guntersville; Mrs. Bill Jones of Jasper reported for the courtesy committee, and Mrs. B. H. Ingram of Anniston gave the credentials report.

Mrs. Britain was presented a pair of silver candlesticks.

Dr. James H. Jones
Director
International House Program
Jacksonville State College
Jacksonville, Alabama

Dear Dr. Jones:

The Entre - Nous French Club of Sidney Lanier High School would like to thank you and your International House students for coming to Montgomery and for putting on such an excellent and enjoyable program at Lanier.

Each year our French Club members look forward to having you and your students come to Lanier. It gives us an opportunity to meet so many interesting personalities and to learn and understand the ways and the customs of many different countries. Understanding among nations is certainly one of the best methods by which international relations may be strengthened.

Again we would like to thank you for taking time out of your busy schedule to come to Montgomery and Janus. We are looking forward to seeing you again next year.

Sincerely yours,
Marilyn Monshy
Corresponding Secretary

Dear Mrs. Jones,

I'm very late in writing, but want you to know how sorry T.C. and I were to have to miss the International House reception last month. We had just returned from New York and, for that reason, were unable to come.

T.C. and I are disappointed that there just seems to be a jinx on our making plans to visit the International House! But we hope we'll be lucky one day! Thank you and Dr. Jones very much for our invitations

Sincerely,

ON AMERICAN STRATEGY

FBI's Brennan Due For Seminar At JSC

JACKSONVILLE — Charles D. Brennan, Unit Chief, Domestic Intelligence Division of the FBI, will be one of the principal speakers at the Seminar on American Strategy to be held at Jacksonville State College on Saturday, Dec. 10. His topic will be "Communism, Intelligence and Espionage in the U. S."

Brennan, who holds a degree in journalism from the University of Pennsylvania, joined the FBI in 1948 and has served in offices on the west coast, midwest and east coast. He is presently assigned to FBI headquarters in Washington, D. C.

His service has included active investigation in counter-intelligence activities, and his present duties are involved in analyses of international and domestic communist activities in research, writing and lecturing.

Also appear in the program will be Col. William R. Kinter of the Department of Foreign Policy Research, Washington, D. C., who will speak on "World Conflict Between Communism and Capitalism and Forward Strategy for the U. S.," and Dr. Houston Cole, whose subject will be "Challenge to Parents, Teachers and American Youth."

The purpose of the seminar, which is sponsored by the Inter-

Col. C. W. Dugette, Jr., Gadsden, and Marshall Hunter, Anniston, are co-chairmen for the event.

Admission will be by invitation, and tickets are being issued to about 800 educators, business and professional leaders throughout the state. This program will set a pattern for future meetings to be held in all parts of the state.

Huntsville Thanksgiving takes on international air

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Nov. 29—The Thanksgiving holiday took on an international flavor here this year as members of the Allied nations and their families at the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School joined civilian and military guests for a turkey dinner.

Special guests including Alabama Sen. John Sparkman and his family dined with families from Belgium, Britain, Canada, China, Denmark, France, Germany, Italy and Norway.

Col. Charles W. Eifler, commandant, was host for the unusual holiday affair held in a new Army mess hall decorated with flags of the United Nations.

Other civilian guests were Mayor and Mrs. R. B. Searcy, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. R. L. Spragins (U. S. Army ret.), Maj. Gen. and Mrs. D. F. O'Neill (U. S. Marine Corps, ret.) and three foreign exchange students from Jacksonville State College.

NUMBER FORTY-FOUR

BY THE GRAPEVINE

The International House received more acclaim last week when a group of its students spent the Thanksgiving holidays in Huntsville as guests of Rotarians.

On Thanksgiving Day, Suzanne Hanon, Belgium, Marilyn Rumble, Australia, and Italo Morales, Guatemala, were guests of Col. and Mrs. Charles Eifler, at the NATO dinner. Col. Eifler is commandant of the Ordinance Guided Missile School.

Senator John Sparkman was the principal speaker at the dinner and the students report that he referred to the International House in glowing terms during his address.

The International House students gave a program for the NATO school at Redstone Arsenal last year.

CAP Celebration Set For Friday

The Jacksonville Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will mark the 19th anniversary of the organization on Dec. 2 when a program will be presented in the Leone Cole Auditorium at 7:30 o'clock. The local squadron is 15 years old.

The program will be presented by members of the squadron assisted by the International House students to emphasize the purpose of the organization. One of the main purposes is to build international goodwill as evidenced by the CAP cadet program in which cadets are sent every year to 15 European countries, Canada and South America. A short film will be shown on the story of Civil Air Patrol.

Jack Young is commander of the local squadron; Dan Porter, scottboro, is communications and supply officer; Gerald Patterson, Lipscomb, is acting commandant of cadets; Capt. Richard Grimes, Fort McClellan, is operations officer; Eloise Murphree, Sylacauga, administrative services officer; Melinda White, Lanett, personnel officer; Bob Cantrick, Jacksonville, cadet commander. Miss Lucille Branscomb is faculty adviser and W. J. O'Sullivan is executive and training officer.

Representatives from Wing Staff Headquarters, Birmingham, are expected to be present for the program.

All citizens are cordially invited to be present and a special invitation is extended to high school and college students, parents and teachers.

English Faculty Pays Honor To Dr. Mock

Members of the English faculty of the college gathered at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Mock on Tuesday evening to pay honor to their former colleague who retired several months ago.

A silver engraved tray was presented to Dr. Mock in appreciation of his long and dedicated service to the college.

Mrs. Ralph Lindsey greeted the group as they arrived and after the presentation ceremony, the guests were invited into the dining room for refreshments. Mrs. W. J. Calvert poured coffee and Mrs. J. A. Smoake served ice cream. Cake and nuts were also served.

Present were Dr. and Mrs. Calvert, Mr. and Mrs. Smoake, Dr. Eugene Mounts, Neal Hagood, Morton Shapire, W. J. O'Sullivan, Mrs. Thomas Callan, Miss Douglas Olsen, Miss Mary Moss Goggans, Miss Gerrye Clegg, Mrs. Christine Forrester and Lawrence R. Miles.

Notables Listed For JSC Seminar

Plans are taking shape for the first Seminar on American Strategy to be held here on Saturday, Dec. 10. One of the primary purposes of the seminar is to provide the latest information for a better understanding of the current world situation and to alert state and community leaders to the dangers of international communism to the security of this country and the free world.

The executive committee, composed of Col. C. W. Dauge, Jr., Marshall Hunter, Dr. Houston Cole, Dr. J. H. Jones, Col. Lon Smith and Mrs. E. N. Lawley, has selected a committee chairman in each county in the college's district of 17 counties to attend with the suggestion that similar seminars be held in each of their counties.

The forum will be on a state-wide basis also with leading educators, business and professional leaders being extended invitations. An allotment of invitations is being made by the Attendance Committee and it is estimated that about 900 invitations will be distributed.

Outstanding Speakers

Scheduled to speak on the program are Charles D. Brennan, Unit Chief, Domestic Intelligence Division, Washington, D. C., whose topic will be "Communist Intelligence and Espionage in the U. S.;" Col. William R. Kinter, Department of Army Foreign Policy Research Institute, Washington, D.C., whose topic will be "World Conflict Between Communism and Capitalism and Forward Strategy for U. S. A. 2;" and Dr. Houston Cole, who will speak on "Challenge to Parents, Teachers and American Youth".

A panel discussion will be conducted with Walter Merrill, Anniston attorney, as moderator, with Congressmen Kenneth Roberts and Albert Rains, Dan W. Gray, Col. Kinter, Mr. Brennan and Col. Dauge participating.

Jesse Culp, editor of the Sand Mountain Reporter, will give an illustrated talk on "Inside Russia" and the highly-rated film on the San Francisco riots will be shown.

The visitors will have lunch in Hammond Hall and open house will be held at the International House at the conclusion of the program.

5th Eisenhower Fellow Named

Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II presents the 5th Eisenhower Fellowship Award to Mr. Takeo Sasakawa as Dr. Shigeharu Matsumoto looks on. Dr. Matsumoto served as Chairman of this year's Eisenhower Fellowship Program selection committee appointed by the Ambassador this past spring.

Mr. Takeo Sasakawa, a member of the editorial staff of the Sankei Shimbun, was awarded an Eisenhower Fellowship by U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II in a presentation ceremony held at the American Embassy on October 26.

Eisenhower Fellowships, established as a living memorial to President Eisenhower, are given each year to "potential leaders living outside the United States who through work have already proved themselves to possess leadership qualities". A Fellow is given an opportunity to travel extensively in the United States for eight to ten months, observing and discussing techniques and practices in his particular field with those especially qualified in that field in the United States.

A former Fulbright grantee at the University of Michigan and Ohio State University, Mr. Sasakawa left for the United States on November 6, arriving just in time to observe the national elections.

Mr. Sasakawa is the fifth Japanese to receive an Eisenhower Fellowship, which has a value of approximately ¥3,500,000. Previous recipients have been: Dr. Akira Oyama, Assistant Professor of Nuclear Engineering, Tokyo University, 1959; Mr. Toshio Deguchi, Chief, Labor Section, Hiroshima Works, Mitsubishi Shipbuilding Company, 1958; Prof. Yoichi Maeda, Romance Languages, Tokyo University, 1957; and the late Mr. Yonosuke Goto, Chief, Research Section, Economic Planning Board, 1954.

Wien International Scholarship Program Announced

Brandeis University has recently announced that Wien International Scholarships will be awarded for the 1961-62 academic year to students of academic merit throughout the world.

The Scholarships, established in 1957 as an effort to promote better international understanding through student exchange, provide for tuition, room, board, fees, and books. They provide, in addition, sufficient funds for domestic field trips and an individual allowance of ten dollars per week for the academic year to cover the student's personal incidental expense. Since only a limited number of travel grants are available, students who are accepted as graduates are invited to apply for travel grants under the Fulbright Program.

Scholarships are primarily intended for undergraduates between the ages of 17 and 25, while a small number of graduate scholarships are also available. The scholarships are renewable yearly, depending upon superior performance in the completion of all courses.

Instruction is offered at Brandeis University in the Humanities, the Sciences, the Social Sciences, and the Creative Arts. Special seminars and lectures are held by Brandeis faculty members for foreign students. Special visits to key points in the United States will also be arranged to give students the opportunity to observe all aspects of American cultural and civic life.

Interested applicants are invited to write to the Educational Exchange Branch, American Embassy, Tokyo, for further information.

Serkin Announces Two Scholarships

The world famous pianist, Rudolf Serkin, after completing a successful concert tour in Japan, left for the Republic of China November 2 to continue his Far Eastern tour under the auspices of President Eisenhower's Special Program for International Cultural Presentations.

Before leaving Japan, Mr. Serkin announced the establishment of two all expense scholarships for Japanese musicians to attend the 1961 Marlboro Summer Festival in Vermont. The Festival is famous for the great names in music on its faculty. Headed by Serkin himself, the staff includes cellist Pablo Casals, violinist Alexander Schneider, and others. The Scholarships are not for students, but for well-established professional musicians looking for an opportunity to refine their technique by studying and playing in small chamber groups with some of America's best musicians.

Mr. Frank Korn, an American businessman residing in Tokyo and a friend of Serkin's, offered to assist in providing transportation to and from the United States.

Details of the scholarships will be announced shortly by the Tokyo American Cultural Center.

Announcement

As described elsewhere in this issue of Pacific Bridge, Mr. Robert M. Cullers is currently working on a brief survey of Fulbright returnees in the Kansai area. Mr. Cullers is in Japan with the Overseas Training Program of Syracuse University and is conducting this research as part of his Master's degree work in journalism. The Editor of Pacific Bridge joins Mr. Cullers in requesting the cooperation of returnees living in Osaka-fu, Kyoto-fu, and Hyogo-ken. The questionnaire he is sending is very brief! Please reply just as soon as you can. Thank you.

Overseas Training of Syracuse University

by Robert M. Cullers

Twelve American graduate students are now studying in Kyoto and Tokyo in the Overseas Training Program of the Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs of Syracuse University. This experimental program is financed through a grant from the Carnegie Corporation.

According to Dr. Gerald J. Mangone, Director of the program in Syracuse, the course of study has two main aims: to help the student acquire familiarity with the conduct of American activities overseas, and to develop an "approach" based on cultural empathy to the patterns of living of foreign peoples.

In line with these aims, after being selected from colleges and universities throughout the country, students began work last June with ten weeks of rigorous study of geography, cultural anthropology, economic development, overseas operations, American civilization, the Soviet Union, and Japan. Classes were conducted at the Maxwell School by experts in each field. These concentrated seminars were followed by four weeks of intensive Japanese language training in a "Language House" with native Japanese teachers.

The students have been in Japan since September 22, under the direction of Dr. Gordon T. Bowles, former Professor of Anthropology at Tokyo University and now Visiting Professor of Anthropology at Syracuse University. Dr. Bowles was one of the first members of the Fulbright Commission Board, and his wife, the first American Program Officer of the Fulbright Secretariat. For the past month, each student has been living with a Japanese family in Kyoto, and continuing his language study.

Now the second phase of the program in Japan has begun, with each student starting an individual research project or internship. These projects are being developed with the assistance of Kyoto University, the sponsoring institution in Japan. In my case, the American Embassy and the Fulbright Commission are cooperating as well.

The students, chosen to include a wide background of study, have all attained Master's Degrees or equivalent professional experience, in a number of fields. Hence the projects are varied in nature: Tom Havill (New York State College of Forestry) is doing a study of the Japanese plywood industry; Janet Anderson (University of North Carolina) is studying recent trends in public health education in Japan, in cooperation with the Ministry of Welfare and Public Health; Mariam Block (Bryn Mawr) is studying as a medical technician in Kyoto University Medical School; Stephen Block (Yale) is doing research in Japanese labor law; Paul Champagne (Notre Dame of Canada) is making a study of the activities of Canadians in Japan, with the cooperation of the Canadian Embas-

Kabuki Actor Directs "Narukami" in U.S.

Baiko Onoe (left), a leading actor of the Kikugoro Kabuki Troupe, called on U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur 11 November 1 to recount some of the experiences he had during his recent visit to the United States. Baiko spent five weeks at the Institute for Advanced Studies in the Theatre Arts, New York City, conducting a seminar on Kabuki and directing the Kabuki play, "Narukami".

Baiko Onoe, one of Japan's great Kabuki actors, was invited last summer by the Institute for Advanced Studies in the Theatre Arts, New York, to conduct a five-week seminar on Kabuki for American Kabuki enthusiasts.

When the seminar opened in September, Baiko had a group of 30 Americans who were selected out of more than one hundred applicants. With a showing of slides and pantomiming, Baiko coached his actors, giving the basic Kabuki discipline of acting. The American actors suffered from the tremendous difficulty of trying to absorb in just a few weeks what may require decades of apprenticeship in Japan. At the end of the seminar, however, under the able direction of Baiko, they were able to perform the classic Kabuki play "Narukami". The dedicated acting of the cast won not only the warm applause of the audience but drew sincere praise from Baiko himself. It was the first time for Americans to put on a Kabuki play, performing in English to Japanese music.

The Institute is in its first year. Since the beginning of the year directors from the Comedie Francaise, Berlin's Schiller Theater and the Soviet Union's Mossoviet Theater have staged productions there.

sy; Robert M. Cullers (Syracuse University) is studying Fulbright returnees in the Kansai area; Masao Matsumoto (University of California) is making a study of the importation and distribution of raisins in Japan; Joseph Mobius (University of Wisconsin) is analyzing recent trends in mass communications in Japan; Joe Ravenis (Johns Hopkins) is studying recent developments in electronics research; and Lee Fritschler (Syracuse University) and Stan Sparks (University of California) are doing research in Japanese labor and economic problems, with the cooperation with the American Embassy.

Announcement

The Educational Exchange Branch is again happy to offer an opportunity to Pacific Bridge readers to obtain an informational pamphlet prepared by USIS, Tokyo. Available this month is the booklet "Social Security". Written in Japanese in a concise manner, the pamphlet outlines the many social security programs now existing in America, both private and government sponsored.

Those interested in reading this pamphlet are invited to send a postcard to the Educational Exchange Branch, American Embassy, Tokyo. There is no charge for the booklet.

Milestones (continued)

Mr. Masaaki Oka, 1952-53 GARIOA/Fulbright grantee at Yale University, is presently with the office of the Australian Representative of the Bank of Tokyo, Sydney, Australia.

"The Year of My Life", a translation of Issa's "Oruga Haru", by Mr. Nobuyuki Yuasa, 1954-56 Fulbrighter at the University of California, was recently published by the University of California Press. In the words of the publishers "Nobuyuki Yuasa has exquisitely rendered into English speech both the prose and the poetry of the entire volume. He has maintained the harmonious feeling essential to a mingling of the two media, has developed a new four-line form of his own, and has captured that quality of 'slenderness' which Issa so much admired.

Mr. Toshiro Ebizuka, 1953-54 Fulbrighter at the University of California, was recently promoted to Assistant Professor of English Literature at Keio University. Previously Mr. Ebizuka was a lecturer at the Keio Hiyoshi campus.

A letter recently reached our desk from Mr. James Jones, Director of the International House of Jacksonville College. Writing of Miss Yukiko Anno, a Jacksonville scholarship student from Japan, he says: "I should like to express to you and all members of your staff my deep appreciation for finding this splendid young lady for us. She seems to be adjusting quite well to her new way of life here and we are indeed very happy to have her here". College authorities have already offered Miss Anno a second year renewal of her scholarship for the academic year 1961-62.

Members of the Jacksonville International House Family. There are represented in this group fifteen different countries from all six continents, six religious faiths, and nine languages. Miss Anno is third from the right, and standing beside her are Mr. and Mrs. James Jones.

Prof. Saburo Yamaya, 1955-56 Fulbrighter at Johns Hopkins University, discussed "Thomas Wolfe" at the November meeting of the Japan American Literature Society held November 26 at Hosei University.

Mr. Ryohei Shishito, 1954-55 Fulbrighter at the University of Michigan, delivered a lecture on "Objectives of English Teaching at High Schools in Japan" at the annual meeting of the National Federation of English Teachers' Association held November 18 at Hibiya Senior High School, Tokyo.

At the same meeting, Prof. Shisei Iino of Hiroshima University, 1955-56 Fulbrighter at New Haven State Teachers College and the University of Michigan, served as a discussion leader on "Practical English".

Mr. Yahiko Yamada, 1956-58 Fulbrighter at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is now with the Hitachi Central Research Institute. Previously Mr. Yamada was a research associate at the Department of Precision Engineering, Osaka University.

Mr. Mitsuo Umezawa, 1957-59 Fulbrighter at Brown University, married Miss Miyako Kiku on October 31. Mr. Umezawa will assume the family name of his bride. Our congratulations.

Another Fulbrighter who married last month was Mr. Koki Horikoshi, 1958-60 Fulbrighter at Purdue University. Mr. Horikoshi married Miss Kaoru Nagayama on October 19. The Editor of Pacific Bridge offers the newly weds his heartiest congratulations.

World Survey of Oriental Studies Underway

The Japanese National Commission for UNESCO is conducting an extensive survey on the overseas institutions and facilities which are wholly or partly engaged in the study of the East and Japan with a view "to contributing thereby to UNESCO's Major Project on Mutual Appreciation of Eastern and Western Cultural Values". Results of the survey will be published next spring in the form of a directory for distribution among National Commissions for UNESCO and all the cooperating institutions abroad as well as in Japan.

Some 2,300 copies of the questionnaire were distributed to educational and research institutions in ninety U.N. member countries. Replies are now coming in from many countries. As of this date, as far as America is concerned, over twenty institutions indicated that they have such a course or courses of study. Among them are: University of Arizona, Brooklyn College, University of California, Claremont Graduate School, University of Florida, Harvard University, Indiana University, Long Island University, University of Michigan, University of Minnesota, Northern Illinois University, University of Pittsburgh, University of Rochester, Rutgers University, Seton Hall University, University of Southern California, Syracuse University, University of Washington, University of Wisconsin, and Yale University.

Our Readers Write

(Following are excerpts from a letter recently received by the Educational Exchange Branch).

Dear Sir:

Thank you very much for Pacific Bridge. . . . I left Japan on August 14, 1960 by plane, took an orientation course for four weeks at the University of Hawaii, and then arrived here on September 12.

I have been working as a research associate at the Department of Food Technology, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. I work on a research project related to "off-flavor" of irradiated beef, trying to synthesize the flavor compounds which must be present in volatile components of irradiated beef.

I live near the Charles River and it takes about twenty minutes to walk to the laboratory from my apartment. Everything is going well and I am now enjoying the beautiful autumn scenery in Boston. I am very happy that I could finally realize my dream to study abroad. I am extremely grateful to you and your country.

Sincerely yours,

Junya Mizutani

Reds' Frisco Riots Reflect Big Gains

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — When are the American people going to be given the full story of Communist infiltration inside the United States?

Just because the late Senator McCarthy went to extremes — due to his excess of zeal and his passionate devotion to the anti-Communist cause — the tendency now is to belittle the Communist menace altogether or to brush off references to it as just a "hysterical" manifestation of McCarthyism in a misguided era.

This same trend has been noticeable in Britain and France, where many writers continuously refer to McCarthyism as a means of pooh-poohing Communist infiltration today.

The Communists, on the other hand, benefiting by indifference and complacency in Western countries, have been making hay, particularly in the United States.

THE NEWSPAPERS generally, for instance, printed brief stories of the student demonstrations at San Francisco when the House committee on un-American activities was meeting there a few months ago, but this correspondent recently saw a half-hour movie compiled from the reels of news photo staff men covering the tragic event, which reveals that it was far more sensational than the news dispatches indicated.

It shows the brazen behavior of persons, known to have been active in Communist Party affairs, who boldly sought by mob action to interfere with the committee's public sessions. The movie contains comments by Democrats and Republicans in the U. S. House of Representatives.

The reels have become available for showing to public and private groups, and information concerning them is obtainable at the offices of the House Committee on un-American activities.

This is the movie which a so-called liberal group of Harvard students booted when it was shown to other students a few days ago.

IT SEEMS incredible that such a demonstration as occurred in San Francisco could be organized inside the United States, but it is not surprising to those who have been pointing out that the Communists have not for a moment relaxed their "cold war" efforts.

The only way to fight this kind of insidious warfare is to bring it out in the open. In such a movement, the people naturally must depend on the committees of Congress.

Here, for instance, are some of the conclusions recently presented by the staff of the Senate subcommittee on internal security in an exhaustive study entitled: "Mob Violence as an Instrument of Red Diplomacy."

"In some Latin American countries, and in Japan, Communist parties controlling an insignificant minority of the total vote cast, have resorted to the policy of manipulating and inciting mobs

Four Pretty Girls Give Rotarians Meeting An International Flavor

Four pretty girls, all on scholarships from foreign lands and attending Jacksonville State College, were guests yesterday of Gadsden Rotary Club. They were accompanied by Dr. James H. Jones, director of the International House at the college.

One of the girls was Marilyn Rumble of Australia, a student sponsored by Rotary District 686, which includes the Gadsden club.

The other three were Patricia Ong of Malay, Suzanne Hanon of Belgium and Yukiko Ano of Japan.

All reside at International House with 12 other students from many parts of the world, including six continents.

The college's unique project is composed of "the most wonderful group of young people anywhere," said Dr. Jones.

George King, program chairman, said the students from the various countries are living together in one house where they have the opportunity of acquiring knowledge and understanding of the countries represented by the students. He emphasized the broad difference between the strong-willed, warped-minded young people under Nazi and Communist governments as compared with the International House kind of indoctrination which creates healthy attitudes and fundamental concepts among these young "ambassadors" of various nations.

The girls presented their own program, consisting of a speech on Australia, a Japanese dance by Miss Ano, dressed in native costume, and the four girls singing in quartet a catchy Malayan song, "The Feeling of Love." Miss Hanon presided, and each gave the Rotarians a greeting in her native tongue.

What did the girls think about American customs?

Miss Rumble — Beautiful architecture, with a predominance of white and green. The many cars. College students were not likely to have their own cars in Australia until after graduation when they had the means with which to buy one.

"The women of my country look after their houses with personal pride... They are dedicated to home life and running of the home... The strength of a nation is the bond of the home."

Miss Hanon — Americans are much more social. They receive guests very well. In Belgium one waits a very long while before making friends and inviting them into their homes.

She was "struck by the football games." One boy, she said, told her they were just "legalized crime."

Miss Ano — Was impressed with "the way gentlemen do." "A lady comes first over here." She said she was embarrassed at first when at entrances to the college, boys "let me go first." She is more used to it now. Cars drive in the left lane in this country, but in the right lane in Japan.

Miss Ong — A number of different races live "side by side" in Malay. There are a lot of different languages spoken. While most persons dress alike in America, in Malay they attire themselves in their own national costumes which are very colorful. People have different religions, "one of the main ones is Christianity." Auto steering wheels are on the right side, and the left lane is used for travel.

Miss Rumble presented Rotary President Dr. Amos Gipson with a banner from Warrigan Rotary Club, South Wales, Australia.

FBI official to be speaker

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., Dec 2—Charles D. Brennan, unit chief, Domestic Intelligence Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will be one of the featured speakers at the seminar on American Strategy to be held at Jacksonville State College on Saturday, Dec. 10.

His topic will be "Communism, Intelligence and Espionage in the U. S."

Brennan, who holds a degree in journalism from the University of Pennsylvania, joined the FBI in 1948. He is presently assigned to FBI headquarters in Washington.

Also appearing on the program will be Col. William R. Kinter of the Dept. of Foreign Policy Research, Washington. He will speak on "World Conflict Between Communism and Capitalism and Forward Strategy for the U. S."

Dr. Houston Cole, president of the college, will speak on "Challenge to Parents, Teachers and American Youth."

Admission will be by invitation. Tickets are being issued to about 800 educators, business and professional leaders throughout the state.

Student Body To Decide Fate Of Amendment No. 12 Today

Today, Jacksonville State students will vote on whether the Student Government Association shall be vested in the Student Government Association House and Senate. The amendment is to remain as already established or change to a bicameral, highly representative council. According to the proposal, the Student Government Association will remain open from eight until two on the first floor of the Graves Hall. It is urged that every student exercise his or her right to vote as the outcome of this amendment will affect the entire student body.

If proposed amendment number twelve passes then membership will be increased by approximately fifteen members, each organization will be represented by its own president, and the International House will have representation. The Council would be divided into a House, (including the Presidents of each of the four classes, one representative from each of the four classes, and the editors-in-chief of the Collegian and Mimosa) and a Senate (which would include the Presidents of each SGA chartered organization, be it fraternity, club or religious assembly, and one representative from the International House.

In addition to the legislature itself, the executive committee would consist of the four officers of the Student Government, all duly elected along with the Student House.

The proposed amendment follows in its entirety:
Section One: Article III., Section 1. is hereby amended to read: The legislative powers of the Student Body, forming the Executive Committee. The House shall further consist of: (1) the Presidents of all four classes; and (2) one elected representative from each of the four classes, all duly elected; (3) the editors-in-chief of the Collegian and Mimosa.

Section Three: The Student Senate shall be composed of the following:
(1) the Vice President of the Student Body, who will act as President Pro Tem of the Senate; (2) the President of each SGA chartered student organization, be it fraternity, club, or religious assembly (formerly assembled as the Presidents' Council); and (3) one representative from the International House.

Section Four: The Student House and the Student Assembly will meet jointly forming the Student Government Association.

Section One: Article III., Section 1. is hereby amended to read: The legislative powers of

American Strategy Seminar Set Saturday, Dec. 10 At JSC

Plans are taking shape for the first Seminar on American Strategy to be held here on Saturday, Dec. 10. One of the primary purposes of the seminar is to provide the latest information for a better understanding of the current world situation and to alert state and community leaders to the dangers of international communism to the security of this country and the free world.

The executive committee, composed of Col. C. W. Dauge, Jr., Marshall Hunter, Dr. Houston Cole, Dr. J. H. Jones, Col. Lon Smith and Mrs. E. N. Lawley, has selected a committee chairman in each county in the college's district of 17 counties to attend with the suggestion that similar seminars be held in each of their counties.

The forum will be on a statewide basis also with leading educators, business and professional leaders being extended invitations. An allotment of invitations is being made by the Attendance Committee and it is estimated that about 900 invitations will be distributed.

Outstanding Speakers

Scheduled to speak on the program are Charles D. Brennan, Unit Chief, Domestic Intelligence Division, Washington, D. C., whose topic will be "Communist Intelligence and Espionage in the U. S.;" Col. William R. Kinter, Department of Army Foreign Policy Research Institute, Washington, D. C., whose topic will be "World Conflict Between Communism and Capitalism and Forward Strategy for U.S.A.;" and Dr. Houston Cole, who will speak on "Challenge to Parents, Teachers and American Youth".

A panel discussion will be conducted with Walter Merrill, Aniston attorney, as moderator, with Congressmen Kenneth Roberts and Albert Rains, Dan W.

CHARLES D. BRENNAN

Gray, Col. Kinter, Mr. Brennan and Col. Dauge participating.

Jesse Culp, editor of the Sand Mountain Reporter, will give an illustrated talk on "Inside Russia" and the highly-rated film on the San Francisco riots will be shown.

The visitors will have lunch in Hammond Hall and open house will be held at the International House at the conclusion of the program.

Home Ec Department Sets Fashion Show Wednesday

Pretty girls plus pretty clothes against a background of music and color should make an interesting combination for a pleasant evening of entertainment for students and faculty, and this will come to pass on Wednesday, Dec. 7, when the Home Economics Department presents its annual mid-winter fashion show in the Leone Cole Auditorium.

The theme, "Picture-Perfect Fashions" will be carried out by attractive coeds wearing cotton frocks, suits and coats and wool dresses they have made in class.

Models for the cotton frocks will be as follows:

DEAR DR. JONES:

IT IS A PRIVILEGE FOR ME TO EXPRESS TO YOU THE APPRECIATION OF OUR CLUB FOR THE DELIGHTFUL PROGRAM PRESENTED BY FOUR OF THE YOUNG LADIES FROM YOUR INTERNATIONAL HOUSE AT OUR MEETING ON THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1. THEY WERE MOST DELIGHTFUL AND THE REFRESHING MANNER IN WHICH THEY PRESENTED THEIR OWN COUNTRIES AND DISCUSSED THE CUSTOMS IN OUR COUNTRY PROVED TO BE MOST INTERESTING TO OUR MEMBERSHIP.

WE SINCERELY APPRECIATE THE WILLINGNESS OF THE INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS TO APPEAR BEFORE OUR CLUB AND WE HAVE FOUND THEIR PROGRAMS ARE ALWAYS INTERESTING AND INFORMATIVE TO OUR MEMBERS.

SINCERELY YOURS,

Seminar Is A Good Beginning

The Seminar on American strategy to be held here on Saturday is a good beginning to awaken the public to the dangers of communism. Sponsored jointly by the Third Army Advisory Committees of Anniston and Gadsden, Marshall Hunter and Col. C. W. Daugette, Jr., chairmen, and by Col. Lon Smith, post commander, Fort McClellan, leading educators, professional and business men will attend with the view to spreading the information to other parts of the state.

One feature of the program will be the documentary film on the San Francisco riots which occurred during a meeting of the House Un-American Activities Committee in that city.

The picture shows identified Communist leaders shouting and mouthing insults at the committee. In a recent editorial, The Saturday Evening Post stated that "the sobering feature of this picture is the participation in the fracas of apparently normal, average students from neighboring universities". And it asks the question, "How could American boys and girls be stampeded into this shameful performance by hard-core Communists, who had arranged the whole show days before the committee arrived?"

Last week David Lawrence wrote his entire column about this documentary film, which further accentuates its importance.

The American people need to be made more aware of this peril which is really at our very door, and this seminar is a step in the right direction.

JSC International Students Florida Bound December 17

For the eleventh consecutive year, Florida Rotarians will be hosts to international students during the Christmas holidays, it has been announced by Dr. J. H. Jones, director of International House.

Two groups of four students each will make the trip this year and other members of the International House program will spend the holidays in various places.

Patricia Kok Wah Ong of Johore, Malaya; Marilyn Rumble of Katoomba, Australia; Yukiko Ano of Tokyo, Japan; and Suzanne Hanon of Brussels, Belgium, will spend the first three days of their vacation as guests of the Rotary Club in St. Augustine, Fla., where Charles E. Walker is president. He has already written that "we look forward always to entertaining this group and have gained much from their previous visits. . . our club wishes to express our thanks to Jacksonville State College for their fine work in making the International Student Program possible". From St. Augustine they will go to Sarasota for about a week to be guests of the Rotary Club of which Warren Kemp is president. They will conclude their visit in Florida as guests of the Tampa Rotary Club of which Fred Martin III is president. While in that area, the students will also be guests of the Ybor City Rotary Club, which was founded by J. C. Hughey (originator of the plan to entertain the students in Florida each year), and of the Interbay Rotary Club. Frank Guinta is president at Your Ybor City and Donald Rose at Interbay.

The other group, consisting of two girls and two boys, Esperanza Vidal of LaPaz, Bolivia; Hoosidar Badipour of Teheran, Iran; Marie-Claire Charton of Marseille, France; and Italo Morales of Tiquisate, Guatemala, will go first to Fort Myers where Julian D. Clarkson is president of the Rotary Club. They will also be guests of the Naples Rotary Club of which Alfred J. Hackney is president. Before returning they will be guests of the Fort Myers Beach Rotary Club, Max Fisher, president; and of the Winter Haven Rotary Club, Tom Walker, president.

This program was initiated by Mr. Hughey, prominent businessman and longtime member of the Tampa Rotary Club, who again has charge of all arrangements for the students.

Marilyn Rumble was selected by District 275 of Rotary International, Sydney, Australia, for the scholarship awarded her by District 686 of North Alabama. C. M. Moore is Governor of District 275 and has since expressed great interest in the work of the International House Program. I. J. Browder, Gadsden, is Governor of District 686.

Suzanne Hanon was chosen for the scholarship student by the Alabama Federation of Womens Clubs of which Mrs. J. A. Britain of Jasper is president.

OTHER STUDENTS
Other students will spend the holidays as follows:

Jean-Paul Dailly, Brussels, Belgium, and Fernan Jaime Peralta, Costa Rica, will be guests of Carlos Zeller at his home in Cerrada Acero, Mexico; Carmen Rubio of Cuba will be the guest of Amelia Hill in Florence; Mervette Farid of Cairo, Egypt, and Stig-Eyrik Bjorkqvist of Abo, Finland, will visit in California; Myriam Gateno of Colombia will go to New York City to be with her brother, who is in school there; and Denise Arousseau, France, will visit friends in Birmingham.

The Jacksonville News, Jacksonville, Alabama

International Group Entertained Royally

International students at Jacksonville State college returned to classes Monday after spending Thanksgiving holidays in homes of friendly Alabamians, or in various parts of the country where they were invited.

Myriam Gateno of Colombia was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Humphrey of Cullman; Marilyn Rumble of Australia and Suzanne Hanon of Belgium were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pickens Gates in Huntsville and had Thanksgiving dinner with Col. and Mrs. Charles Eifler, commandant at Redstone Arsenal. Italo Morales of Guatemala was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. William McKissack of Huntsville, Mr. Humphrey, Mr. Gates and Dr. McKissack are all Rotarians.

Guests in the homes of roommates or friends were: Denise Arousseau of France, Elmer Gober's home in Jasper; Carlos Zeller, Mexico, William Vaughn's home in Homer, Ga.; Carmen Rubio, Cuba, Betty Jane Pace's home, Ashland; Marie-Claire Charton, France, Alice Warren's home, Gadsden; Patricia Ong, Malaya, and Esperanza Vidal, Bolivia, Carol McKown's home, Fort Payne.

Suk Won Choi, Korea, Joe McCullough's home, Childersburg; Hoosidar Badipour, Iran, guest of cousin, Kooros Hemati, at Athens College; Jean-Paul Dailly, Belgium, and Stig Eyrik Bjorkqvist, Finland, guests of family friends, Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb, in Pensacola, Fla.

Mervette Farid, Egypt, spent the holidays with her father at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City, and Yukiko Ano, Japan, was the guest of Comdr. and Mrs. D. C. McCabe in Charleston, S. C., who sent her plane tickets for the trip.

Dear Mr. Jones:

Enclosed for your interest are two copies of this month's Pacific Bridge in which appears a picture of your Jacksonville College International House members.

Pacific Bridge is a monthly news letter this office puts out for Japanese students who have returned from study in the United States under the Fulbright Program.

We were all happy to learn that Miss Anno has been doing well at school and that she has already been offered a second renewal of her scholarship. We hope she can make a contribution to the fine work your school is doing toward increasing international understanding. Please convey our best wishes to Miss Anno.

Sincerely,

Seminar's Plans Set At College

JACKSONVILLE —State and community leaders from throughout Alabama will gather here Saturday for a "day-long" "Seminar on American Strategy" at Leone Cole Auditorium.

The delegation will be welcomed by Col. C. W. Daugette, Jr., of Gadsden, president of the Life Insurance Company of Alabama.

Among the principal speakers expected to address a gathering of several hundred are: Col. William R. Kintner, Department of the Army, Washington, D.C.;

DR. HOUSTON Cole, president of Jacksonville State College; Charles D. Brennan, headquarter

ters, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington; and Lt. Gen. Paul Adams, commanding general, U. S. Third Army.

A series of slides taken inside Russia will be shown at noon, with Jesse Culp as moderator, and a question and answer period is slated at 4:15 p.m. with Walter Merrill as moderator.

PARTICIPATING in the latter session will be Congressmen Albert Rains and Kenneth Roberts, Calhoun County Commission Chairman Dan Gray, Col. Kintner, Brennan and Colonel Daugette.

bert Rains and Kenneth Roberts, Calhoun County Commission Chairman Dan Gray, Col. Kintner, Brennan and Colonel Daugette.

The seminar is being held at the suggestion of the Third Army commander following a similar meeting at Fort Benning, Ga., in September.

One of the primary purposes of the gathering "is to provide the latest information for a better understanding of the current world situation and to alert state and community leaders to the dangers of international communism to the security of our country and the free world."

Committee chairmen have been selected for each county in the 17-county Jacksonville State College District. Sponsors hope that those in attendance will hold like seminars in each of their counties.

The gathering is being sponsored by the International Endowment Foundation, Inc., Jacksonville State College; Third Army Advisory Committee, Gadsden; Third Army Advisory Committee, Anniston, and Post Commander, Fort McClellan.

1

To present with dramatic documentation the grave problems now confronting our nation, any one of which could bring about the destruction of our productive system and the loss of our personal freedoms.

2

To refresh the conferees on the fundamental facts of our American system, how Capitalism works and the extent of its comparative advantages.

3

To discuss and demonstrate educational materials and techniques which are now available and can be effectively used at many levels by active citizen leaders.

4

To stimulate the conferees to return to their respective organizations and community work better prepared to carry the Forum's educational impact to their friends, their neighbors, their co-workers, their families. Each County delegation present is asked to take the lead in organizing similar forums in their home county.

Foreword

Americans are living today in one of the most decisive periods in history. Many thoughtful observers believe the actions of the United States in this 1960 decade will decide the fate of mankind for centuries. Without committing a single division to military action, the Soviet Union has extended its reach onto every continent, and the United States to a dangerous degree now is encircled. Within our nation the trend toward centralized government continues. The decisions determining the course we shall take in the critical days ahead are to be made by American citizens. Shall these momentous decisions be made through ignorance, apathy and inactivity, or through informed, intelligent citizenship actions?

This is a grave challenge laid upon the shoulders of every American. Will we accept it in the spirit of our founding fathers, or will we default? The American people have the inherent capacity to meet the challenge. But most of them are presently inadequately informed or misinformed on the merits of the issues involved. That is why they are apathetic.

We must reach them with facts, stimulation and inspiration.

Men have died to leave these 4 symbols of freedom:

A Holy Bible — symbol of your right to worship as you wish.
(First Amendment, U. S. Constitution)

A door key — your right to lock your door against illegal government force and prying.
(Fourth Amendment, U. S. Constitution)

A pencil — freedom to speak or write what you think, whether you agree with the government or not.
(First Amendment, U. S. Constitution)

And a free ballot — your right to choose the people who represent you in government — your protection against government tyranny.
(Article I, U.S. Constitution)

WILL YOU LEAVE THESE FREEDOMS TO YOUR CHILDREN?

Half the world is trying to destroy these 4 symbols and what they stand for.

Even in this country, there are people who threaten our freedoms, by trying to give the U. S. government more and more control over American life.

They have a start — already the government runs hundreds of different kinds of business in competition with its own citizens. And you read about proposals that government take over even more.

The electric light and power business, for example. The federal government already runs some of it. And Congress is being pressed to take over still more. Even though every such step leads down the road to socialism, one thing most Americans don't want.

If socialism comes to America this way — step by step — you'll never have a chance to vote for or against it. For by that time, government will control your job, your independence, your thinking. Then what freedoms will you be able to pass on to your children?

Follow This Simple 8-Point Program

1. See that other Americans are fully and correctly informed about the true objectives and methods of communism and its danger to all we hold dear.
2. Encourage religion in your community. Attend and support the Church of your choice. The Word of God is the weapon most feared by the communists.
3. Take an active interest in public affairs. ALWAYS vote in elections—get others out to vote.
4. Support the election to public office of candidates who understand the scope and seriousness of the communist problem and agree to work for its elimination.
5. Be fair with your Government. In the interest of fair play and sound economy, vote on the basis of what you feel is best for the country and not on the basis of "what's good for me." Our Government will be only as strong as we make it.
6. Take a vital interest in the education of your children. Get to know their teachers. Know how school books are selected and what they contain. Be sure that communist poison is not being administered right under your very eyes.
7. Don't join groups—don't sign petitions, UNLESS YOU FIRST INVESTIGATE THEM! Communists have so perverted such appealing words as "peace" "freedom" "youth" and "mother" that any organization or document using these or similar words should be questioned until you know who is behind it.
8. If any evidence of communism at work should come to your attention, get in touch with your nearest FBI office. Give them all the facts and then forget about it, unless asked by the FBI to do otherwise.

To Our Trustees:

As one of our most important projects for 1960, we are arranging a Seminar on American Strategy to be held at Jacksonville State College on December 10, 1960. Cooperating with us in this project as co-sponsors are the Third Army Advisory Committees of Gadsden and Anniston and the Post Commander at Fort McClellan, Alabama.

The primary purpose of the seminar will be to provide the latest information for a better understanding of the current world situation to a selected group of leading educators and business and professional men in our state, and to alert them to the dangers imposed by international communism on the security of our country. Those in attendance will receive a deep insight into the international and domestic objectives of communism from eminently qualified speakers. It is hoped that after the seminar the influence of those in attendance will serve to inspire similar programs over our state.

An outline for organization of the seminar and a copy of the program are enclosed. Also enclosed is a list of the committees and I know we can count on your usual fine cooperation in making this undertaking a success.

With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

C. W. Daugette, Jr.

YOUR PANTRY SHOULD BE READY

REMEMBER grandma's pantry, its shelves loaded with food, ready for any emergency, whether it be unexpected company or roads blocked for days by a winter's storm?

Today, when we are vulnerable as always to the ravages of nature as well as the possibility of nuclear attack, every wise and thinking family will likewise prepare for emergencies with the modern equivalent of grandma's pantry.

YOUR RESERVE FOOD SUPPLY

WHETHER you take shelter or follow your local survival plan in an emergency, one of the basic preparations recommended is an adequate food supply for your family. You should have a 2-week food supply in your home shelter area, and a 3-day survival kit in your family automobile. This precaution might mean the difference between comfort and hardship—even between survival and starvation—in case of enemy attack or a natural disaster.

An H-bomb explosion can blanket an area many miles downwind with dangerous radioactive fallout. Following enemy attack, essential services such as gas, electricity, and water, as well as normal channels of food distribution, would be disrupted. If this should happen, a family probably would have to depend wholly upon its own food and resources for survival. An emergency food storage could be the family's only available supply of food.

Start your home food storage and family shelter programs today. Your State or Community Civil Defense will supply you with other information about family preparedness.

START YOUR SURVIVAL PROGRAM TODAY

TO ESTIMATE how much food you should buy for your family's 2-week home food storage, multiply the number of people in your household by the amounts listed below. Amounts listed below are for 1 person for 2 weeks. If the children are young, the amounts can be decreased by one-fourth. If the children are infants, canned baby foods should be substituted for some of the other canned foods. Be sure to plan for old people or invalids.

Check "PANTRY" at Least Once a Month, Preferably More Often, and Rotate Regularly.

*Bottled Water Must Be Changed
Every 6 Weeks*

- MILK: Powdered nonfat dry, 2 pkgs.; evaporated, 4 (14½-oz.) cans.
- JUICES: Tomato, 2 (1-qt. 14-oz.) cans; Orange, 2 (1-qt. 14-oz.) cans; Grapefruit, 2 (1-qt. 14-oz.) cans.
- FRUITS: Peaches, 2 (1-lb. 14-oz.) cans; Pears, 2 (1-lb. 14-oz.) cans; Dried prunes or apricots, 2 lbs.
- VEGETABLES: Tomatoes, 4 (16-oz.) cans; Peas, 4 (16-17-oz.) cans; Corn, 2 (12-16½-oz.) cans; Green beans, 2 (15½-oz.) cans.
- SOUPS: Assorted, 8 (10½-oz.) cans.
- MEATS AND MEAT SUBSTITUTES: Beef stew, 2 (1-lb.) cans; Salmon, 2 (1-lb.) cans or Tuna, 4 (6-7-oz.) cans; Spaghetti and meat balls, 2 (15½-oz.) cans; Baked beans, 2 (1-lb.) cans; Cheese, 2 jars; Peanut butter, 2 jars.
- CEREALS: Ready-to-eat, 14 (individual-serving pkgs.).
- CRACKERS-COOKIES: 2 boxes.
- BEVERAGES: Instant coffee, 2 (2-oz.) jars or instant tea, 2 (1-oz.) jars or instant cocoa, 2 (1-lb.) pkgs.
- SOFT DRINKS: 24 bottles.

HERE ARE OTHER ESSENTIAL SUPPLIES

Water in jugs or bottles, salt, sugar.

Matches, fuel, cooking utensils, can opener, tableware and utensils, paper supplies, old newspapers.

Portable radio, flashlight, candles and holders, first-aid kit, blankets, pail, garbage container.

The Bible or other family religious requirements.

Games and amusements for the children.

Optional supplies: Candy, gum, tobacco.

Personal hygiene needs.

CAUTION: These are emergency actions only. Always call a doctor if possible. If you cannot get a doctor or a trained first-aider and the injured person is in danger of losing his life, take one of the six emergency actions described in this leaflet.

But, first, observe these general rules:

- Keep the injured person lying down, with his head level with the rest of his body unless he has a head injury. In that case raise his head slightly. Cover him and keep him warm.
- Don't move the injured person except to remove him from fire, flood, smoke, or anything that would further endanger his life.
- Examine the injured person to determine whether emergency action is necessary. If he is not in danger of bleeding to death, or is not suffocating, or has not been severely burned, or is not in shock, it is better for the untrained person to leave him alone.
- Do not give an unconscious or semiconscious person anything to drink.
- Do not let an injured person see his wounds.
- Reassure him and keep him comfortable.

1 FOR BLEEDING

take this emergency action . . .

Apply pressure directly over the wound. Use a first aid dressing, clean cloth, or even the bare hand. When bleeding has been controlled, add extra layers of cloth and bandage firmly. Do not remove the dressing. If the wound is in an arm or leg, elevate it with pillows or substitutes. Do not use a tourniquet except as a last resort.

2 FOR BURNS

take this emergency action . . .

Remove clothing covering the burn unless it sticks. Cover the burned area with a clean dry dressing or several layers of cloth folded into a pad. Apply a bandage over the pad, tightly enough to keep out the air. Don't remove the pad. Don't Use Grease, Oil, or Any Ointment Except on a Doctor's Order. On chemical burns, such as caused by acid or lye, wash the burn thoroughly with water before covering with a dry dressing.

3 FOR BROKEN BONES

take this emergency action . . .

Unless it is absolutely necessary to move a person with a broken bone, don't do anything except apply an ice bag to the injured area to relieve pain. If you must move him, splint the broken bone first so the broken bone ends cannot move. Use a board, thick bundle of newspapers, even a pillow. Tie the splint firmly in place above and below the break, but not tightly enough to cut off circulation. Use layers of cloth or newspapers to pad a hard splint.

Broken bones in the hand, arm, or shoulder should be supported by a sling after splinting. Use a triangular bandage or a substitute such as a scarf, towel, or torn width of sheet and tie the ends around the casualty's neck. Or place his forearm across his chest and pin his sleeve to his coat. In this way the lower sleeve will take the weight of the injured arm.

If you suspect a broken neck or back do not move the casualty except to remove him from further danger that may take his life. If you must move the casualty, slide him gently onto a litter or a wide, rigid board. Then leave him alone until trained help arrives.

If a bone has punctured the skin, cover the wound with a first aid dressing or clean cloth and control bleeding by hand pressure.

4 FOR SHOCK

take this emergency action . . .

Shock may result from severe burns, broken bones, or other wounds, or from acute emotional disturbance. Usually the person going into shock becomes pale. His skin may be cold and moist. His pulse may be rapid. He may become wet with sweat. He may become unconscious.

Keep the casualty lying down. His head should be level with or lower than his body unless he has a head injury. In the latter case his head should be raised slightly. Wrap the casualty warmly but do not permit him to become overheated. Try to avoid letting him see his injury. If he is able to swallow, give him plenty of water to drink, with salt and baking soda added. Mix one teaspoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of baking soda to one quart of water. This will help to prevent severe shock.

Do not give anything by mouth to a person who is vomiting, is unconscious, or semiconscious, or has an abdominal wound.

5 FOR SUFFOCATION

take this emergency action . . .

Suffocation can result from pressure on the neck or chest, contact with a live electric wire, drowning, or breathing-in foreign substances such as liquids, smoke, or gas. The usual signs of suffocation are coughing and sputtering or other difficulty in breathing. As breathing becomes difficult or stops, the face may turn purple and lips and fingernails become blue. Unconsciousness will follow quickly unless you act at once.

First, remove the person from the cause of suffocation. If he is in contact with a live wire, don't touch him. Shut off the current if you can. If not, stand on a piece of dry wood or on paper and remove the wire from the person with a long dry stick or other nonmetallic object.

If the person is in a room filled with gas, smoke, or water, get him out quickly. Remove any objects from his mouth or throat that may obstruct breathing. Then apply artificial respiration immediately, as follows:

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

Mouth-to-Mouth (Mouth-to-Nose) Method

Tilt the head back so the chin is pointing upward, and pull or push the jaw into a jutting-out position. (These maneuvers should relieve obstruction of the airway by moving the base of the tongue away from the back of the throat.)

Open your mouth wide and place it tightly over the casualty's mouth. At the same time pinch the casualty's nostrils shut or close the nostrils with your cheek. Or close the casualty's mouth and place your mouth over the nose. Blow into his mouth or nose. (Air may be blown through the casualty's teeth, even though they may be clenched.) The first blowing efforts should determine whether or not obstruction exists.

Remove your mouth, turn your head to the side, and listen for the return rush of air that indicates air-exchange. Repeat the blowing effort. For an adult, blow vigorously at the rate of 12 breaths per minute. For a child, take relatively shallow breaths appropriate for the child's size, at the rate of about 20 per minute.

If you are not getting air-exchange, recheck the head and jaw position. If you still do not get air-exchange, quickly turn the casualty on his side and administer several sharp blows between the shoulder blades in the hope of dislodging foreign matter. Again sweep your fingers through the casualty's mouth to remove any foreign matter.

Those who do not wish to come in contact with the person may hold a cloth over the casualty's mouth or nose and breathe through it. The cloth does not greatly affect the exchange of air.

Mouth-to-Mouth Technique for Infants and Small Children

If foreign matter is visible in the mouth, wipe it out quickly with your fingers or a cloth wrapped around your fingers.

Place the child on his back and use the fingers of both hands to lift the lower jaw from beneath and behind, so that it juts out.

Place your mouth over the child's mouth AND nose, making a relatively leakproof seal, and breathe into the child, using shallow puffs of air. The breathing rate should be about 20 per minute.

If you meet resistance in your blowing efforts, recheck the position of the jaw. If the air passages are still blocked, the child should be suspended momentarily by the ankles or inverted over one arm and given two or three sharp pats between the shoulder blades, in the hope of dislodging obstructing matter.

Other Manual Methods of Artificial Respiration

Persons who cannot, or will not, use the mouth-to-mouth (mouth-to-nose) method of artificial respiration should use another manual method. The nature of the injury in any given case may prevent the use of one method, while favoring another. Other methods suggested for use by the American National Red Cross are: "The Chest Pressure-Arm Lift Method" (Silvester) and "The Back Pressure-Arm Lift Method" (Holger-Nielsen).

When performing any method of artificial respiration, remember to time your efforts to coincide with the casualty's first attempt to breathe for himself.

Be sure that the air passages are clear of all obstructions, that the casualty is positioned in a manner that will keep the air passages clear, and that air is forced into the lungs as soon as possible.

If vomiting occurs, quickly turn the casualty on his side, wipe out his mouth, and reposition him.

When the casualty is revived, keep him as quiet as possible until he is breathing regularly. Loosen his clothing, cover him to keep him warm, and then treat for shock.

Whatever method of artificial respiration you use, it should be continued until the casualty begins to breathe for himself, or until there is no doubt that the person is dead.

6 TO MOVE INJURED PERSONS

take this emergency action . . .

Do not move an injured person except to prevent further injury or possible death. If you must move him, keep him lying down flat. Move him on a wide board, such as an ironing board or door, and tie him to it so he won't roll off.

If you have nothing to carry him on, get two other persons to help you carry. You must kneel together on the same side of the casualty and slide your hands under him gently. Then lift carefully, keeping his body level. Walk in step to prevent jarring, and carry him only far enough to remove him from danger.

These emergency first aid items, in the quantities suggested, are for a family of four persons or less. Assemble them, wrap in a moisture-proof covering, and place in an easily carried box. Paste this sheet to the box cover and place the box in your shelter area.

FOR THESE PURPOSES	USE THESE	OR THESE	SUGGESTED QUANTITY
For open wounds, scratches, and cuts. Not for burns.	1. Antiseptic solution: Benzalkonium Chloride Solution, U.S. P., 1 to 1,000 parts of water.	Quaternary ammonium compounds in water. Sold under trade names as Zephiran, Phemerol, Ceepryn, and Bactine.	3- to 6-oz. bottle.
For faintness, adult dose ½ teaspoon in cup of water; children 5 to 10 drops in ½ glass of water. As smelling salts, remove stopper, hold bottle under nose.	2. Aromatic spirits of ammonia.		1- to 2-oz. bottle.
For shock—dissolve 1 teaspoonful salt and ½ teaspoonful baking soda in 1 quart water. Have patient drink as much as he will. Don't give to unconscious person or semiconscious person. If using substitutes dissolve six 10-gr. sodium chloride tablets and six 5-gr. sodium bicarbonate (or sodium citrate) tablets in 1 qt. water.	3. Table salt.	Sodium chloride tablets, 10 gr., 50 tablets in bottle.	1 box.
For a sling; as a cover; for a dressing.	4. Baking soda.	Sodium bicarbonate or sodium citrate tablets, 5 gr., 50 tablets in bottle.	8- to 10-oz. box.
For open wounds or for dry dressings for burns. These are packaged sterile.	5. Triangular bandage, folded, 37 by 37 by 52 in., with 2 safety pins.	Muslin or other strong material. Cut to exact dimensions. Fold and wrap each bandage and 2 safety pins separately in paper.	4 bandages.
For open wounds or for dry dressings for burns. These are packaged sterile.	6. Two medium first aid dressings, folded, sterile with gauze enclosed cotton pads, 8 in. by 7½ in. Packaged with muslin bandage and 4 safety pins.	a) Two emergency dressings 8 in. by 7½ in., in glassine bags, sterilized. One roller bandage, 2 in. by 10 yds. b) Four large sanitary napkins, wrapped separately and sterilized. One roller bandage, 2 in. by 10 yds.	As indicated.
For open wounds or for dry dressings for burns. These are packaged sterile.	7. Two small first aid dressings, folded, sterile with gauze enclosed cotton pads and gauze bandage, 4 in. by 7 in.	Twelve sterile gauze pads in individual packages, 3 in. by 3 in. One roller bandage, 1 in. by 10 yds.	As indicated.
For eyes irritated by dust, smoke, or fumes. Use 2 drops in each eye. Apply cold compresses every 20 minutes if possible.	8. Eye drops.	Bland eye drops sold by druggists under various trade names.	½- to 1-oz. bottle with dropper.
For splinting broken fingers or other small bones and for stirring solutions.	9. Twelve tongue blades, wooden.	Shingles, pieces of orange crate, or other light wood cut to approximately 1½ in. by 6 in.	As indicated.
For purifying water when it cannot be boiled. (Radioactive contamination cannot be neutralized or removed by boiling or by disinfectants.)	10. Water purification tablets Iodine (trade names—Globuline, Bursoline, Potable Aqua) Chlorine (trade name—Halazone).	Tincture of iodine or iodine solution (3 drops per quart of water). Household bleach (approx. 5% available chlorine) 3 drops per quart of water.	Tablets—Bottle of 50 or 100. Liquid—One small bottle.
For bandages or dressings: Old soft towels and sheets are best. Cut in sizes necessary to cover wounds. Towels are burn dressings. Place over burns and fasten with triangular bandage or strips of sheet. Towels and sheets should be laundered, ironed, and packaged in heavy paper. Relaunder every 3 months.	11. Large bath towels.		2.
	12. Small bath towels.		2.
	13. Bed sheet.		1.
For administering stimulants and liquids.	14. Paper drinking cups.		25 to 50.
Electric lights may go out. Wrap batteries separately in moistureproof covering. Don't keep in flashlight.	15. Flashlight.		1.
	16. Flashlight batteries.		3.
For holding bandages in place.	17. Safety pins, 1½ in. long.		12 to 15.
For cutting bandages and dressings, or for removing clothing from injured body surface.	18. Razor blades, single edge.	Sharp knife or scissors.	3.
For cleansing skin.	19. Toilet soap.	Any mild soap.	1 bar.
For measuring or stirring solutions.	20. Measuring spoons.	Inexpensive plastic or metal.	1 set.
For splinting broken arms or legs.	21. Twelve splints, plastic or wooden, ½ to 1¼ in. thick, 3½ in. wide by 12 to 15 in. long.	A 40-page newspaper folded to dimensions, pieces of orange crate sidings, or shingles cut to size.	As indicated.

JSC Is Scene Of Seminar

JACKSONVILLE — Some 900 of Alabama's leading citizens were invited to gather at Leone Cole Auditorium here today for a "Seminar On American Strategy."

Among the principal speakers are Col. William R. Kintner, a representative of the Foreign Policy Research Institute, Washington, D. C. He was scheduled to speak on "World Conflict Between Communism and Capitalism and Forward Strategy for the USA."

Other speakers include Charles D. Brennan, FBI, Washington, who was to talk on "Communist Intelligence and Espionage in the USA."

Dr. Houston Cole, president of Jacksonville State College, was to speak on "Challenge to Parents, Teachers and American Youth."

Action on the community level and is covered in panel discussions.

Purpose of the meeting is to provide state and community leaders with current information on the world situation, and to alert those in attendance to the dangers of international communism to the security of the country and the free world, the conference announcement said.

Red 'Peace Plan' Said War Program

By JIM LOWREY

JACKSONVILLE — The Communists' much-publicized "peace plan" is actually a plan of war, several hundred prominent Alabamians were told here Saturday.

Col. William R. Kintner, Department of the Army, representing the Foreign Policy Research Institute, Washington, D.C., told a "Seminar on American Strategy."

Other speakers on the program included Jacksonville State College President Dr. Houston Cole, FBI Representative Charles D. Brannan and Third Army Commander Lt. Gen. Paul Adams.

KINTNER POINTED out that the world is in a state of transition, and reminded his listeners that the Russians are experts on revolution.

He referred briefly to the history of Communism as advocated by Marx and Lenin, and said the Russians are making considerable progress.

He said all top leaders in the Kremlin are military men, experts in military strategy and revolutionary tactics. They are also aware, he charged, that Europe, Asia and Africa are generally regarded as key land areas of the world, and are concentrating their energies in these areas.

THEY USE deception, fiction and distortion, the speaker said, "to invert the Golden Rule, to prevent others from doing to them what they do to others."

They try to keep the world rocking back and forth between peace and war, Kintner said. They would try to divide the western allies from within by encouraging internal strife, and from without by promoting dissension among the various nations.

The Russians have used economic aid widely to recruit others to the cause of Communism, he said, adding: "America has finally recognized the adverse trends this is generating, but we haven't had the gumption, vigor and imagination to halt the advance."

"THE RUSSIANS are forming a formidable challenge," he concluded, "and America must develop a global political policy to meet this challenge."

The speaker was introduced by Marshall Hunter, Anniston banker.

C. W. Dauge, Jr., of Gadsden welcomed the group to the meeting.

Other program highlights included Dr. Cole's talk on "Challenge to Parents, Teachers and American Youth," and a series of slides and talks by a local group which recently visited Russia. The moderator for the latter program was Jesse Culp.

Speaking on "Communist Intelligence and Espionage in the United States," Brennan of the FBI told the group that Red espionage activity in the United States was maintained at a high pitch, and described this country as the Communist's number one target for conquest.

Brennan's talk was followed by a film showing riot scenes at a meeting of the Un-American Activities Committee in San Francisco, and this in turn was followed by an entertainment session by students from International House.

The next item on the program, a panel discussion on "What Can Be Done On The Community Level," was cancelled when the Alabama Congressional Delegation members slated to take part were unable to appear.

Gen. Adams, Third Army commander and a native of Heflin, was the last to address the meeting. He urged his listeners not to forget the Russian threat that they would bury the people of America, and urged continued vigilance on all levels.

General Adams was introduced by Edward M. Almond of Anniston, himself a retired Army general.

An open house was held at International House on the campus following the meeting.

Active in Negro movements—

FBI official sees Reds threatening all American life

BY JERRY HORNSBY
News staff writer

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., Dec. 10—No segment of American society, not even Parent-Teacher Assns. or civic groups, is free from Communist influence, a top official of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said here Saturday.

Charles D. Brennan, a top investigator of Communist activities, said Soviet agents have exploited recent Negro sit-in demonstrations and formed committees to work with demonstrators.

He said Soviet agents have been active in Negro, labor and farm movements, and have extended Red propaganda even into PTAs. The biggest threat they pose today, he said, is their attack on American youth.

In this line, Brennan said, the Communists are concentrating heavily in colleges. He said a Communist publication, "New Horizons," first published in September, is being exposed to college students over the nation.

Russian agents are also looking for ways to exploit labor and farm organizations, he continued. Brennan stated that in a recent Moscow conference of party leaders, Russia picked the United States as its No. 1 target for intensified Communist activity.

SUCH ACTIVITY, he continued, includes the recruiting of sub-agents from Americans.

Russian spies, he said, have devised clever methods of decoding messages and have mastered a technique of micro-dots—reducing a message into a pinpoint and incorporated it possibly as a period in an ordinary letter.

Brennan said the United States is not a state in the sense in which Soviet agents have operated. The role of the party is becoming increasingly important as fifth columnists.

Army officer flays American lethargy—

U.S. puts hula hoops and TV above defense, claim

BY JERRY HORNSBY
News staff writer

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., Dec. 10—America's lethargic response to an all-out Russian drive for world domination may be an omen of a declining Western society.

This is what a prominent Army officer and author told an audience estimated at 650 persons at Jacksonville State College Saturday.

Addressing a "Seminar on American Strategy," Col. William R. Kintner of the Foreign Policy Research Institute, Washington, D. C., said the United States has become a nation that values hula hoops and color television higher than munitions and the means for national defense.

The seminar, first of several scheduled over the state, was attended by business and professional men, military personnel and educators from 17 Alabama counties.

DRAWING LARGELY from his book, "A Forward Strategy for Americans," Kintner said the United States has one great advantage over Russia—economics—but has failed to mobilize it. Russia, he said, pours 25 per cent of its gross national products into heavy industry; the United States, less than 15 per cent.

He likened the rules the Soviets are using in the cold war to a football game in which one team is not permitted beyond the 50-yard line.

Kintner, long an analyst of Communist methods, said the Soviets can have no alternative but world domination since they believe all other economic and political systems must be crushed before world peace can be achieved.

Tourist panel gives views on Russ life

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., Dec. 10—a peek into the world behind the Iron Curtain was provided here Saturday through a panel of Alabama citizens who toured Russia this year as part of the people-to-people delegation to that nation.

Among the points they brought out:

One Russian farmer feeds only two persons, while one American farmer feeds 24.

In the Soviet order, scientists are held in the highest esteem, teachers are second.

IN MOSCOW, a Russian will stand in line 12 hours to file through the Lenin-Stalin tomb.

A Russian boy has little choice of professions. The law of supply and demand may determine what his life's work will be.

Only one Protestant church exists in Moscow, and its congregation is composed mostly of the older generation. Organized groups harrass young people who attend the church.

THERE ARE more than 70 universities in Moscow alone. The University of Moscow, tallest building in Europe, has an enrollment of about 25,000. The government pays for the students' education and gives bonuses for good grades.

Since few persons attend church services, Sunday is a big shopping day in Russia.

Russia's top scientists work in missiles and rocketry as the next best go to heavy industry.

A Russian housewife stands in three lines to buy a pound of meat. The first line to determine what kind she wants; the second, to pay for it and the third to receive it.

Few Russian homes have refrigerators.

Russia's national sport is soccer, the English version of football. Nearly all American sports except baseball are played.

Warns of disaster—

Educator asserts individualism lost

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., Dec. 10—Americans have forgotten how to be individualistic, and it may cost us a nation, Dr. Houston Cole, president of Jacksonville State College, said at a seminar on American Strategy here Saturday.

The mass has reached out and engulfed the individual, Cole said, adding that this country is fortunate that men like Werner Von Braun did not get lost in the crowd.

We are also losing idealism, Cole said.

"Art, fiction and music is corrupted. Once, when a student was bright, he was going places. Now he is a square, a screwball, a long hair."

COLE SAID we have lost patriotism.

"We are told that Washington would have had rocks in his head to stand up in a rowboat crossing the Delaware, that Lincoln did not write his Gettysburg address on a train from Washington, but spent months preparing it.

"We are going to have to restore that thing called individuality to let a person know he has dignity and destiny. If this country is to meet the challenge of the hour, the carnival of the last 25 years is over. We must have eyes to see and ears to hear and a will to act. If we do otherwise, the result will be disastrous."

International House Students Reveal Plans For Christmas

For the eleventh consecutive year Florida Rotarians will be hosts to international students during the Christmas holidays, it has been announced by Dr. J. H. Jones, director of International House.

Two groups of four each will make the trip this year, while other members of the International House Program will spend the holidays in various other places.

Patricia Kok Wah Ong, Malaya; Marilyn Rumble, Australia; Yukiko Ano, Japan; and Suzanne Hanon, Belgium, will spend the first three days as guests of the St. Augustine Rotary Club. From St. Augustine they will go to Sarasota for about a week, and then to Tampa, Ybor City and Interbay, being entertained by clubs at each city.

The other group, Esperanza Vidal, Bolivia; Hoosidar Badipour, Iran; Marie-Claire Char-ton, France; and Italo Morales, Guatemala, will go first to Fort Myers, then to Naples, Fort Myers Beach, and Winter Haven, as guests of Rotary Clubs.

This program was initiated by J. C. Hughey, prominent Tampa businessman and Rotarian, and he will again have charge of all arrangements.

Other students will spend the holidays as follows:

Jean Paul Dailly, Belgium, and Fernan Peralta, Costa Rica, will be guests of Carlos Zeller at his home at Cerrada Acero, Merico; Carmen Rubio will be the guest of Amelia Hill in Florence; Mervette Farid, Egypt, and Stig Eyrik Bjorkqvist, Finland, will visit in California; Myriam Gateno, Colombia, will go to New York City to be with her brother, who is in school there; and Denise Arousseau, France, will visit friends in Birmingham.

Editorials

We're In Their Debt

Those of us who went up to Jacksonville State College last Saturday to observe the Seminar on American Strategy at Leone Cole Auditorium are greatly indebted to the International House, members of the Third Army Advisory Committees and the Post Commander of Fort McClellan.

The presentations gave every person attending from many sections of the state and elsewhere a better picture of Russia than ever received before, but even more important than the pleasurable scenes we were shown were the mental pictures revealed as to Russia's threats against the United States.

Col. William R. Kintner is a specialist on Russia for the Foreign Policy Research Institute, Washington, D. C. He was heard recently by Col. C. W. Dauge, Gadsden; Col. Lon Smith, Fort McClellan; Col. Marshall Hunter, Gen. E. M. Almond and Dr. James Meigs of Anniston at Fort Benning.

They were so greatly impressed that they felt called upon to hold the Seminar at Jacksonville under auspices of the International House, of which Colonel Dauge is president. And in addition to the Army speakers, Dr. Houston Cole delivered an address appropriate to the occasion that drew long applause.

In fact, the entire program was an impressive lesson in adult education, which we so desperately need in this country today.

Seminar On Communism

If any doubt about the determination of the Communists to "bury us" existed before Saturday, when the seminar on communism was held here, few left with any illusions about "co-existence" or "peace" between them and the West.

Col. William Kintner, Washington, D. C., said to be the best authority on communism in the country; Charles Brennan, FBI specialist on intelligence and espionage; the film on the San Francisco riots, and testimonials from those who have visited Russia, dispelled any ideas we may have had that we could "work out" a peace plan with Russia and the Communist satellites.

Col. Kintner reviewed the history of communism which showed that any concessions or friendly overtures they may make are simply a plan to disarm us and to further their ultimate goal. They are masters in the art of revolution, war and espionage, he said.

Dr. Houston Cole outlined some of the reasons why we are being challenged by communism today in a speech that many declared was the best one heard during the day.

The program of the seminar was very revealing and should serve to awaken all those who attended to the dangers that face us. They in turn should warn others.

We congratulate Col. C. W. Dauge, Jr., Marshall Hunter, and others who sponsored the movement.

Dear Sir

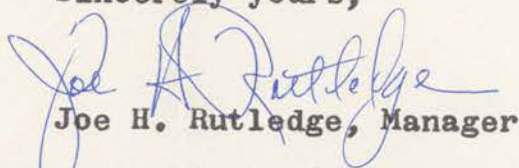

Mr. Webster (Noah is the one we are referring to), is considered to be the authority on the meaning of words in the English language. He says:

"Friend: One who entertains for another such sentiment of esteem, respect, and affection that he seeks his society and welfare."

We think this expresses most completely the way the folks at Coca-Cola feel about you, our teachers; so, may we at this season simply say, Merry Christmas, friend, and all good wishes for a bright New Year.

Sincerely yours,

COLLEGE FACULTY AND STAFF ENTERTAINED AT ANNUAL DINNER ON FRIDAY EVENING

The Jacksonville News, Jacksonville, Alabama

Dr. and Mrs. Houston Cole and members of the Faculty Wives Club were joint hosts on Friday evening at the annual faculty-staff Christmas dinner in the private dining room of the Reich Hotel in Gadsden.

New faculty members were introduced in a receiving line as the guests arrived.

The speaker's table had for its central decoration a miniature Christmas tree studded with pink carnations with arrangements of red berries, holly and red candles at each end of the table. Other tables were adorned with candles, red berries and holly which presented a festive scene for the affair.

The invocation was given by Dr. Elford C. Morgan and Mrs. Edwin Van Keuren, president of the Faculty Wives Club, presided. Mrs. Van Keuren graciously welcomed the large group and introduced Dr. Cole, who also spoke words of welcome and made other appropriate remarks.

Mrs. Lawrence Hicks introduced Mrs. Dan Sparks, chairman of the program committee, who accompanied a quartet composed of Dr. Gail Menk, Malcolm Griffin, Harold Thompson and Dan Sparks to sing Christmas carols. Miss Nancy Mackey, a music major from Gadsden, sang "White Christmas".

Lawrence R. Miles read the Christmas story from St. Luke while the quartet sang "Silent Night" softly in the background. At the conclusion, all stood and sang a verse of this favorite carol.

Present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Garmon, Col. and Mrs. D. J. Coleman, Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Strickland, Dr. and Mrs. Van Keuren, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Anders, Dr. and Mrs. P. J. Left to right are Patricia Kok Wah Ong, Malaya; Marilyn Rumble, Australia; Yukiko, Japan; and Suzanne Hanon, Belgium.

HEADED FOR THE BEACHES—Spending the Christmas holidays as guests of Rotary Clubs at Fort Myers, Naples, Fort Myers Beach and Winter Haven, Fla., will be, from left, Esperanza Vidal, Bolivia; Hoosidar Badipour, Iran; Marie-Claire Charton, France; and Italo Morales, Guatemala.

International House Students Await Tours

JACKSONVILLE — For the past 11 years international students at Jacksonville State College have been entertained by Florida Rotarians in what is perhaps one of the best examples of Southern hospitality and international goodwill.

The custom began when J. C. Hughey of Tampa, a Rotarian and railroad executive, conceived the idea of entertaining the students in Tampa and Ybor City, and from that it has grown to include a number of other clubs and cities. Mr. Hughey is again making all arrangements so that these students will not spend a lonely Christmas while away from home.

Four girls, Patricia Kok Wah Ong of Malaya, Marilyn Rumble of Australia, Yukiko Ano of Japan, and Suzanne Hanon of Belgium, will spend the first three days of their vacation as guests of the St. Augustine Rotary Club. From there they will go to Sarasota for a week and will conclude their visit as guests of the Tampa, Ybor City and Interbay clubs.

The other group, composed of Esperanza Vidal of Bolivia; Hoosidar Badipour of Iran; Marie Claire of France; and Italo Morales of Guatemala, will go first to Fort Myers. While there they will be guests of the Naples and Fort Myers Beach clubs also. En route home they will be guests of the Winter Haven club.

The students will be entertained in homes or as guests of hotels throughout the two-week vacation.

Other international students will spend the holidays as follows: Jean-Paul Dailly, Belgium, and Fernan Perlata, Costa Rica, will be guests of Carlos Zeller at his home in Mexico; Carmen Rubio of Cuba will visit Amelia Hill in Florence; Mervette Farid of Egypt, and Stig Byorkqvist of Finland, will go to California; Myriam Gateno of Colombia, will go to New York City to be with her brother; and Denise Aourousseau of France will be the guest of friends in Birmingham.

Dear Dr. Jones:

Thank you for your letter of December 27, and for the tickets to the film classics which the International House is sponsoring to increase its endowment.

We were away for the holidays and through some inadvertence your first letter was placed in a bundle of club mail.

Thank you for the honor and privilege of sharing this wonderful program with you. I hope that it is most successful, and that the New Year will be a most satisfying one.

Enclosed is my check for $10.00 for the tickets which you enclosed in the first letter.

May we wish for you and Mrs. Jones great joy and peace in the New Year!

Most sincerely,

NEW EXPERIENCE AT CHRISTMAS IN THE USA
... International students to Florida beaches

JACKSONVILLE STUDENTS BOUND FOR FLORIDA
... Two weeks' holiday as Rotary Club guests

From JSC—

Floridians to host international students

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., Dec. 16—For the past 11 years international students at Jacksonville State College have been entertained by Florida Rotarians in what is perhaps one of the best examples of Southern hospitality and international goodwill.

The custom began when J. C. Hughey of Tampa, a Rotarian and railroad executive, conceived the idea of entertaining the students in Tampa and Ybor City, and from that it has grown to include a number of other clubs and cities. Mr. Hughey is again making all arrangements so that these students will not spend a lonely Christmas while away from home.

FOUR GIRLS, shown above, left to right, Patricia Kok Wah Ong of Malaya, Marilyn Rumble of Australia, Yukiko Ano of Japan, and Subzanne Hanon of Belgium, will spend the first three days of their vacation as guests of the St. Augustine Rotary Club. From there they will go to Sarasota for a week and will conclude their visit as guests of the Tampa, Ybor City and Interbay clubs.

The other group, shown in the accompanying picture composed of Esperanza Vidal of Bolivia; Hoosidar Badipour of Iran; Marie Claire of France, and Italo Morales of Gutaemala, will go first to Fort Myers. While there they will be guests of the Naples and Fort Myers Beach clubs also. En route home they will be guests of the Winter Haven club.

THE STUDENTS will be entertained in homes or as guests of hotels throughout the two-week vacation.

Other international students will spend the holidays as follows: Jean-Paul Dailey, Belgium, and Fernan Perlata, Costa Rica, will be guests of Carlos Zeller at his home in Mexico; Carmen Rubio of Cuba will visit Amelia Hill in Florence; Mervette Faird of Egypt, and Stig Byorkqvist of Finland, will go to California; Myriam Gateno of Colombia, will go to New York City to be with her brother, and Denise Arousseau of France will be the guest of friends in Birmingham.

Floridians Hosts To I. H. Students

For the past 41 years international students at Jacksonville State College have been entertained by Florida Rotarians in what is perhaps one of the best ways of demonstrating Southern hospitality and international goodwill.

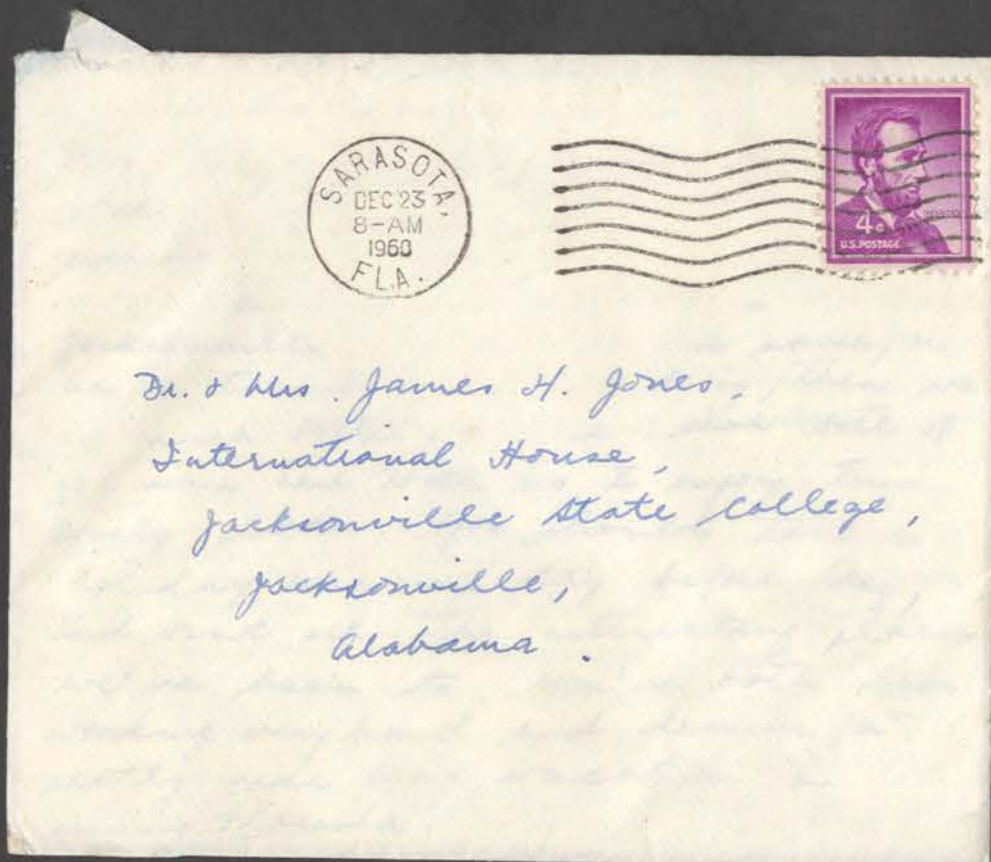

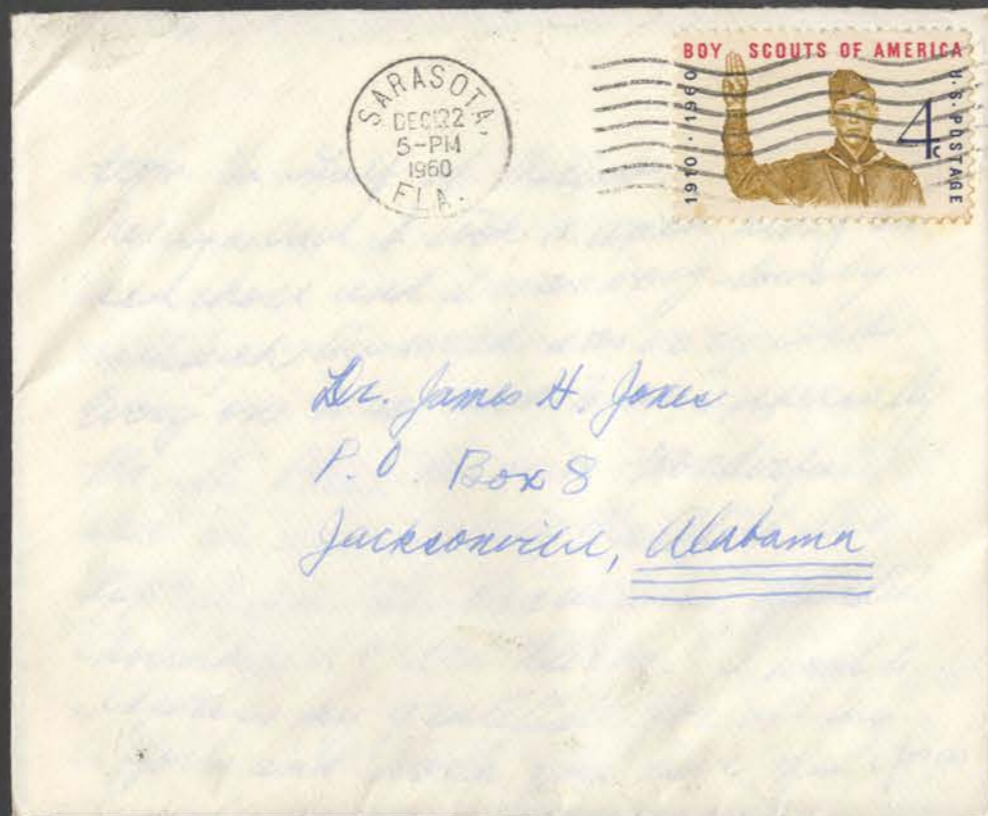

The idea began when J. C. Hughey of Tampa, Fla., a railroad executive, conceived the idea of entertaining the students in Tampa and Ybor City and from that it has grown to include a dozen clubs in various cities. Mr. Hughey is again making all arrangements so that these students will not spend a lonely Christmas while away from their families.

Four girls, Patricia Kok Wah Ong of Malaya, Marilyn Rumble of Australia, Yukiko Ano of Japan, and Suzanne Hanon of Belgium, will spend the first three days of their vacation as guests of the St. Augustine Rotary Club. From there they will go to Sarasota for a week, and will conclude their visit as guests of the Tampa, Ybor City and Interbay clubs.

The other group, composed of Esperanza Vidal of Bolivia; Hoosidar Badipour of Iran; Marie-Claire Charton of France; and Italo Morales of Guatemala, will go first to Fort Myers. While there they will be guests of the Naples and Fort Myers Beach clubs also. En route home they will be guests of the Winter Haven club.

The students will be entertained in homes or as guests of hotels throughout the two-week vacation.

Other international students will spend the holidays as follows: Jean-Paul Dailly, Belgium, and Fernan Perlata, Costa Rica, will be guests of Carlos Zeller at his home in Mexico; Carmen Rubio of Cuba will visit Amelia Hill in Florence; Mervette Farid, Egypt, and Stig Bjorkqvist, Finland, will go to California; Myriam Gateno, Colombia, will go to New York City to be with her brother; and Denise Arousseau of France will be the guest of friends in Birmingham.

Dear Dr. Jones,

I've got your nice letter few minutes ago. We received a large envelope yesterday and were so thrilled to open it. The parcel that you forwarded was there at the office yesterday morning and it was a pretty little pin from my grand-parents' friend in California. Although we are having marvellous time here it is wonderful to receive mails and I really do appreciate you forwarding them. I am sure this keeps you busy. I already have an extra paper bag to carry with beside my three suitcases so please keep my parcel from Japan with you. I hope to open it soon but it seems impossible to have any more things to take with

Our three days in St. Augustine were marvellous. Mr. and Mrs. Walker, two girls (daughters of their friends) and son Rotarians entertained us warmly. There were so many interesting places to see and I found every spot very fantastic and interesting. We had two lovely rooms in the hotel and Marilyn and I stayed together.

I was so excited when they took us to Maryland where porpoise did wonderful show. I had never seen <sup>leg</sup> and heard such an interesting and cute show before in my life. In the morning before we left there, Mrs. Walker came to get our opinions about teen-ages. She is working at radio-station and the tape was put on broadcast at 4:30. We sang Christmas carols in French and Japanese (which sounded awful and dreadful when I heard it!) at the end.

Right now Patricia and I are in one of the wonderful cottages. My sweet sister is writing her letter on the bed and I am occupying the desk. I can see pretty palm trees from the window and can hear the sound from the Gulf of Mexico. This morning Merlyn and I took a walk along the seashore and it was very lovely although the wind was very cold. Every one is so kind to us, especially Mr. St. Philip has been wonderful, and we are really thankful and appreciate this luxurious, splendid holidays we are having. I want to express my gratitude for all the efforts and work you have made for us to make this trip possible. Mr. St. Philip told me that there is a Japanese restaurant and he has promised to take us there some night. I am thrilled to death!!

I could not have any time to write you a "thank you letter" for sending me a record, from St. Augustine. But it arrived safely on Sunday. I feel very sorry the fact that I forgot to bring it with me and troubled you so much. I was so happy to be able to receive it before the program. Thank you so much again.

I was disappointed to hear that you can not go to your son's wedding. Yesterday I was thinking about it as I know that it was the day. I hope she will be better sooner.

This morning we had big breakfast at the dining room and I don't think I'll be hungry by lunch time! Fruits, especially oranges and grape fruit are extremely good and I am enjoying them very much. There are many orange trees in the garden and they look so pretty.

How is Mama Jones? Please do tell my best, best, the most best love to her from your Japanese daughter. In spite of this marvellous trip I miss you very much!!

P.S. With much love,

Dear Ma & Pa,

Delighted to have heard from you. Thank you very much for forwarding our mail to us and for your concern about my flu. The change of weather has certainly done a world of good to Suzanne's & my flu though we have been told that the weather here would be very warm, it is often as cold as in Jacksonville. This morning it was 35°. Nevertheless, we are having a wonderful vacation here in Florida, thanks to you!

You'll be glad to hear that the programs in St. Augustine and in Sarasota went off very well. In the former, Yukiko presided, and in the latter I did. We had lots of fun in St. Augustine and I had a chance to meet a Chinese couple, one Mr. & Mrs. A.S. Chao in whose home I had the occasion to converse in Chinese, the very first time since I left home. You can't imagine how thrilled I was. They invited me over for the Easter holidays, and they also gave me some tins of Chinese sea-food, Chinese noodles, dried shrimps and water-melon seeds to take home. From her refrigerator she took out some tiny oranges, length  $\frac{1}{2}$ " and diameter  $\frac{1}{4}$ ". The queer thing is that the skin is sweet and the inside is sour, though both are edible. All four of us love it very much. Mr. Chao said that it was originally from Canton, China.

We visited many places of historical interest - the old room, a sun, the old school house where there were dormitories of the teacher and his wife and all the pupils in various places. The eleven ones, seated before the teacher who was bent over a book at his desk, a dunce with a dunce-cap on and seated on a high stool beside the teacher, and in the far end of the room, a dungeon where a misbehaved lad was under lock and key. We visited Marineland where we were entertained by some well-trained porpoises and a dog all dressed up in a cute little frilly skirt and an equally frilly cap. He (or maybe she) trotted on hind legs and made the audience roar with laughter. The aquarium was also very fascinating - herds of sea-creatures swam hither and thither trying to show off to the spectators how well they can swim. We had a very amusing time and all of us enjoyed ourselves tremendously. We had fresh, raw oysters dipped in different kinds of sauce and a dish called clam chowder. It was delicious!

The workers were very nice to us, in fact all the people we met were very nice. One Mr. Bernard had our voices taped during breakfast. We spoke in turn, about our impressions of America, and we ended up by singing a couple of Christmas carols. When we went to the camera shop to get some films, we heard us through the radio. He taped our talk to our families and he said he would, <sup>and</sup> at back for us.

So tonight we will be dining in a Japanese restaurant where Fukiko will meet some Japanese people and converse in Japanese. Tomorrow night will find us in a Chinese restaurant where, I hope I'll be able to talk Chinese to the people there. In St. Augustine, Suzanne had a chance to speak French in the French Pastry Shop where the owner, a lady, gave her a packet of French mints. (Only Marilyn has not had a chance to speak Australian to any Australians). This trip as you can see, has been very interesting, thrilling, enjoyable and... (I can't think of any more adjectives at the moment).

Last night we were invited to supper by a Dr. Bishop in his home. There were fourteen of us - a Dr. + Mrs. Finch, Dr. Constantine + his wife Dr. Clarke, Dr. + Mrs. Bishop, a sculptor, three college students and four of us. We had a very enjoyable evening.

We are collecting lots of souvenirs as we go along - things like shells, sand etc. The sand is really clean and fine. It beats the best flour I've seen. At the rate we are going, I'm sure we will have to get an extra suit-case. At the moment among us we have 9 suit-cases, and lots of packages. I have not cashed any cheque yet so far.

I am really amazed at all the fruit trees here, with fruit galore. I've never seen so many oranges on trees before. The oranges are large and very juicy. Florida reminds me of Malaya with palm-trees, banana plant orchids and hibiscus.

How is the weather in Jacksonville? Pretty much the same, or has it turned colder? If it is, then we are much better off here. Wish both of you were here with us to enjoy this lovely place. You should take a holiday here one day before long, and visit all the interesting places we've been to. You've both been working very hard and deserve a really nice long vacation in sunny Florida.

Just heard that Derylene has been invited to have tea with Australian people. How super! That means all four of us have had an opportunity to meet our own people. She has just washed her hair and she has to get it dry in twenty minutes to be ready for her tea can'te - a - tite.

Hope you have a wonderful Christmas and a very happy new year, and take good care of yourselves, darlings!

Love and best wishes to two wonderful parents
From, Petricia.

Dec 22nd.

Dear Dr. Jones & Mrs. Jones,

I really do appreciate very much your kindness in writing to us all while we are away on our wonderful holiday. It was such a thrill to receive our letters from our American Father & all our other cards etc. which arrived safely thanks to you.

Our holiday has been a really wonderful experience for us & we are having a nice rest here at Sarasota after being just about everything there was to see in St. Augustine in the short while we were there. Mr. & Mrs. Walker were indeed kind to us & took us whenever we wanted to go. I have never been to such an interesting town -

My Anne said it reminded her very much of European cities. Whilst in St. Augustine, Patricia had an opportunity to speak Chinese - My Anne to speak French at the little French pastry house.

We have had quite an exciting time travelling - this included being repacked at Atlanta (2 went in one bus & 2 in another) - having our passports checked at Jacksonville - & but of course arriving at Sarasota without our bags (they came the next day in time for the Rotary programme however.)

Thank you indeed for the addresses. I will send a post card to these people - I had already sent Christmas cards.

Both Rotary programmes have gone well - we have been very cordially received and at St. Augustine we were presented with a very nice gift of jewellery.

I am sorry indeed that the wedding of your son was postponed but I am glad you & Mrs. Jones will be able to attend in February. I know how important it is for you both to be there.

The Gulf Bay Club is right on the Bay of Mexico & after breakfast the hardy ones among us go for a walk along the beach as the sand is quite hard & I guess a car could easily drive along it.

Before we go, Suzanne & I are determined to swim in the pool here at the Gulf Bay. It is just a perfect shape for diving & swimming - but the weather has been so cold that we've not been able to go swimming at all.

Tonight I believe we may be dining at a Japanese restaurant & you can imagine how excited Yukiko is about that. <sup>3</sup> I have met an Australian lady & there seem to be people from all parts of the world here in Sarasota. There seem to be many English people too. We were going sailing on a ketch but unfortunately the wind has been too strong & we would have been just about soaked - so we did not go.

Mrs. Jones you have been really kind to send all our letters to us. All have arrived and I cannot tell you how grateful we all are, especially Yukiko who just lives for news from her beloved homeland.

This afternoon we are going to the Ringling Museum & Jungle Gardens & in 10 minutes time we are going to Mr. Skirmitz's ham radio station & he is going to try to contact people in different countries - maybe even someone from our own lands.

We are really enjoying our wonderful holidays here - we only hope you & Mrs. Jones are not working too hard at home. I want to send you warmest wishes for a joyous Christmas day - may the peace of God fill your hearts & give you strength to live with him through the coming year -

We look forward to being home to tell you all about our wonderful holiday -

- With much love & thanks from your Australian daughter - Marilyn.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

We are having a wonderful time here in Florida. We had a thrilling experience last Sunday listening to radio amateurs and Yuba who ever got to speak to a friend of Mrs. J's in Boston - We visited the Ringling Museum and the Jungle Gardens where we got to see very interesting things from our respective countries. We examined fairs flamingos and took many photos and color slides - Everywhere we meet very kind people and our hosts always did their best to see that we spend an agreeable vacation and see the most interesting things - Tomorrow here was very sunny - Hope to send some of our owl to Alabama.

Much love to our American parents.

WINTER HAVEN,

FLORIDA

Dear Dr. + Mrs. Jones,

I am writing you this letter from Winter Haven. Here we are staying in a very nice hotel. We had lunch in Bartow which is 12 miles far from here.

As you know we spend 2 days in Miami. We had a wonderful time over there.

Since we have been in Florida, we have not had a good weather to swim; but Sunday weather was so warm, so we could get sun tan. In Miami we saw Parrot Gangle and Seaquarium which have beautiful birds, and huge sea animals. We enjoyed them very much.

All our programs have been successful,
Marie Claire did very nice job in all of them.

To morrow <sup>we</sup> will have a program in here, we might have some more programs to present. Now we are waiting for a man who comes to take us to his home for dinner; so I think I should end this letter here with saying that I ~~truly~~ wish you have a very Merry

TAMPA, FLORIDA

Dear Dr. & Mrs. Jones,

December 26th.

It was very wonderful to hear your Christmas greetings to us on Christmas day. Naturally we were all thinking very much of our parents & it was very thoughtful of you to think of us. Please forgive us all for not writing more often to you as I know you are anxious for news from us all. But I know you understand the amount of thank you letters etc., we have to write, as well as our parents at home - to whom we write as often as possible.

Thank you for being understanding in this regard. If it were possible, we would send you a letter each day.

Well, Mrs. Mrs. St. Phillip & Mrs. Mrs. Kemp were really very kind to us & we had only one programme - as in Sarasota we had a lovely rest - with swimming only on the last day unfortunately because the weather was a little too cold up until then. We collected as many shells as it was possible to - as we were told they were very rare & not found anywhere else in the world. Both Patricia, Suzanne & Yukiko have had opportunities to speak their native tongue & Yukiko & Patricia have had the joy of dining in a Japanese & a Chinese restaurant. I know what a thrill it was for them. We went to church to the midnight services & then came back & ate Pizza Pie with the St. Phillip family. We have really been most spoiled at the Golf & Bay Club, we have had the opportunity to taste many strange new dishes prepared by the chef there. We had collected so many souvenirs that we packed a big box & left it with Mr. St. Phillip to send on.

On our arrival at Tampa, Mr. Gillie Tolzevant met us - escorted us to the hotel & made sure we were comfortable. He is more or less looking after us & we shall leave if we want.

anything at all. He is really very kind to us. Today the Rotary programme at Tampa was a real success. We had a good sized stage & a gentleman operated the record player for us. (there was quite a bit of amusement over the fact that he played the wrong records for our different dances.) There were many International Students studying elsewhere in Florida & it was very interesting to meet them after the programme & there being 1 from France, & 2 from Japan (none from Australia though!) This afternoon we practised on the trampoline for the first time. My goodness - I'm sure we'll all be sore tomorrow.

Everyone joins with me in sending their love to our American parents - it won't be long before we'll be home now - & will be able to tell you all about our trip.

Much love -

Dearest American parents,

Many thanks for forwarding all our mail. Hooshi sent his passport this morning after having filled up the numbers 9-10-11! It was so kind of you to have intended of calling us for Xmas, we do appreciate your sweet thoughts and we thank you sincerely. I think, I sent you a card from Miami!..... I cannot remember now..... We were on Friday 23 at 11 a.m. - We had a beautiful apartment of 4 rooms with all the comfort in a very nice motel. It was our best Xmas present from the Moores! We went to the Parrot Jungle, and dinner with some friends of the Moores in a delicious restaurant. On Saturday we visited the Seaquarium - lunch in an Italian Restaurant where I drank an "Espresso", very strong and succulent coffee like at home - We celebrated Xmas dinner in the Bucks' house, then we went to Miami Beach to see the fabulous hotels and all American luxury and richness!!..... Esperanza and I went to the Midnight Mass at the Dade Auditorium for a High Mass - I never saw in my life ~~some~~ many people - More than 3 or 4,000!..... We went to bed at 2:30 a.m. The Fort Worth Rotary gave us a beautiful leather wallet (please!).

We left Miami at 10 o'clock, and we had lunch at Mr. Moore's home, and we took a sunbath!... It was very warm and wonderful weather. We came back at 5 o'clock to the Bradford Hotel.... and we had a party in one hour with piano music, American folk dances, and ballets! I was rather tired and I would have preferred to go to bed. But it was nice.

We left Fort Myers, on Monday 25, and Mr Moore and Clarkson took us to the bus station.

D? Bethea was in Barrow. He took us to the Phosphate Museum, and Mr Johnston invited us for lunch to the restaurant - then we went to Winter Haven. We rested a lot ... and we had dinner in a restaurant.

I called my friends Callanew, and they are expecting the four of us on Saturday!

Yesterday Mr Milner from Lake Wales came at 10 a.m. to take us to <sup>the</sup> Passion Theater, then in his home. He traveled a lot in Africa and Egypt and spoke French like me! We went to the Rotary of Lake Wales. We had a very warm reception. They gave us the flags of the Rotary! It was the 1st time that they had the students from J.S.C! ... and we had a lot of success. Pictures and so on ...

We went to the masterpiece, mosaics, blowglass - then to the Swinging Tower where we had the privilege to go inside, and I spoke French with Mr Brees from Belgium, the player of the Carillon!

At 6 p.m. we were invited for dinner to Mr Swith's home.

To day D? Bethea came at 11 a.m. to pick up us.

Previously the newspapers of Winter Haven came to the hotel to interview us and they took pictures!

The Barrow Rotary gave us a secretary notes with "Barrow Rotary". We have been very applauded by our program! ... then we visited the Phosphate Mines. It was very interesting --- and at 6 p.m. a Rotarian will come to take us for dinner in his home!

To. tomorrow morning, we will go to Cypress gardens. then Rotary meeting, and in the afternoon visit of the Can-Oranges! ... on Friday program to Haines City Rotary.....

We are very busy as you see. The weather is pretty warm.... and we would like to swim.... but we don't have time!

Mr. Hughey wrote me and sent me a lot of small presents for the four of us. I just wrote him back, because he told me that if he understood the boys are going back to Jacksonville on Saturday as planned!... He is sorry not to be able to see me.... and he told me, call me to my office on Monday!... so I wrote him that we will be in Tampa on Saturday morning and I shall call him, and we will go to Sarasota the four of us, and we will be to Tampa Sunday at 5.30 (the same bus it was planned for Saturday).

So we will be to Anniston on Monday 2nd at 12.30 - We will call you .....

We wish you a very special excellent
Happy New Year 1961, full of happiness, joy, success for your numerous interwar health - We will tell you all our best wishes on Monday "de vives voix" !

Many thanks again for the wait, and the delicious candies - I did the Santa Claus in Miami on Saturday -
I put the parcel under the pillow of Esperanza, and she went to bed before me !... She was so funny .... she looked under my pillow, and was very surprised not to see anything !...

Hooshi is not too much naughty !...
I smacked him a lot in the French

Four Foreign Students To Speak At UA Center

By FRANCES UNDERWOOD
Times Staff Writer

An unusual treat is in store for the presidents and representatives of all civic clubs and other organizations of Gadsden and Etowah County who are interested in promoting the "Community Ambassador" project. A mass meeting has been called at the library at the University Center, Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The treat in store is the honor of having four foreign students from International House at Jacksonville State College appear at the program to give Gadsden folk an idea of the kind of people with whom an ambassador from this city would be associated during the trip abroad.

The students who are to appear in Gadsden Monday night are Esperanza Vidal Guarchi, Bolivia; Hooshidar Badipour, Iran; Marie Claire Charton, Marseille, France; and Italo Morales from Guatemala. They will be accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. James H. Jones, who heads International House Program at the college.

Miss Guarachi is the daughter of Cesar Vidal, a lawyer, and was born in La Paz, Bolivia, Dec. 3, 1937. She completed elementary and high school at English Catholic College, continuing her educational studies at Teachers Training College, receiving a teaching degree in 1959.

She taught at private and public schools such as: Franz Tamayo High School, Dora Smith High School and Hispano Boliviano Elementary School.

She said, "In order to receive the present scholarship, it was necessary to stand an examination. The test was taken by more than 100 Bolivian students, and I feel extremely grateful and honored to have received this scholarship and I will sincerely try to represent my wonderful country in the fashion that it deserves."

Esperanza hopes to stay in the United States for two years and at the moment, is majoring in English. She hopes to teach in the high school level on her return to Bolivia. There are many faiths represented at International House. She is Roman Catholic.

Hooshidar Badipour from Iran was born there, and has lived in Teheran part of his life. His father is an officer in the Iranian Army and most of his life has been spent in different parts of Iran. He finished his high school studies in the best schools in Teheran with a major in mathematics. In this school, he studied 17 subjects of which English, as a foreign language, was required.

He decided to continue his college education in America and is now in his sophomore year at Jacksonville State College with a pre-engineer major. After completing his work in mathematics and physics he intends to transfer to one of the best engineering schools in America. His religion is Bahai, which is derived from the name of the founder, Bahai-lah. This religion was founded 118 years ago and the belief is that the foundation of all religions is to revere Christ, Moses and the founders of all the world's revealed religions such as Christianity, Judaism, Islam as part of God's plan of progressive revelation down through the ages. These are believed to be the inspiration and the cause of civilization that has followed in their wake.

Marie Claire Charton is from Marseille, France. Her father is a retired army physician with the rank of colonel. She is Catholic.

She has studied in the college in Marseille and received the degree of Secretariat of Direction. She worked as a secretary in Marseille before coming to Jacksonville in September, 1959. At present, she is spending her second year in Jacksonville and hopes to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree. Her major fields are English and Spanish, with a minor in sociology because she says that she has the proof of the friendship of Americans and she feels very grateful to them.

During last summer she had the experience of a fabulous trip of 8,000 miles, 240 hours by bus and two months of traveling as a guest of 26 Rotary Clubs. She visited Mexico City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Washington, D. C. and New York.

Her ambition is to work with the American Consulate in Marseille.

Italo Morales from Guatemala, Central America, is 20 years of age and was born in a little town called San Bernardino, which is situated in the south of Guatemala. His mother teaches in an elementary school.

He was graduated from Colegio La Patria in Quezaltenango in Guatemala, in 1957 where he received his bookkeeper's degree. In 1958, he came to the Pan American School in Kingsville, Texas and studied there for one year in order to learn English. In September, 1959, he entered Texas College of Arts and Industries in Kingsville. Last summer, he worked in the state of Idaho doing social work as a staff member of the Migrant Ministry.

In September, 1960, he came to Jacksonville to become a member of International House Program. His special interests are music, languages, art and psychology. His religion is Presbyterian.

All four of these students were guests of Rotary during the Christmas vacation and were sent to spots in Florida.

Speakers, other than the foreign students at the mass meeting on Monday night will be Douglas Lanford, Jr., who is with the University of Alabama and who was one of the American student ambassadors two years ago spending some weeks in Russia. Lanford hopes to bring with him Sam Achizer, Putney, Va., who is one of national representatives in the Experiment in International Living.

The project, in which Gadsden and Tuscaloosa have decided to participate this year, is nationwide and is one which will send 1,200 young Americans this summer abroad for homestay and travel experiences in Latin America, Western Europe, the Middle East, Africa and Asia. Gadsden's committee with Mrs. Guy Woodliff, chairman, has decided that South or Central America would be the most logical country to send the ambassador from this community.

Dear Dr. & Mrs. Jones,

I received your very nice letter.

Thank you very very much for sending me my passport. I really appreciate for what you have done for me, and for what you do for me. Be sure I won't forget your kindnesses. I will love you both as my American parents for ever.

As you wrote me I filled out the application form, Marie Claire helped me to print them, as you wanted.

I gave <sup>Italo</sup> a very big hand-shake for you; but I could not give La General Charton and Esperanza a two big kisses.

Here, in Winter Haven we are staying in a nice hotel. We have had two programs and we will have two more. Tomorrow we go to see Cypress Garden.

We are having a nice time here, but our schedule is a little rough. We get tired; but we enjoy them.

Now will have to end here, because I would like to get some rest for our next meeting.

With much love

Dear Dr. and Mrs. Jones:

As you know, I do not have enough vocabulary to express my gratitude toward you. You are the only persons who make me feel happy, making a truth my childhood's dream. Anytime and anywhere I am, gazing at the beauties of nature, the sea, and in particular the kindness of all the people, we are knowing here, I bless your names, and I thank you every minute.

The principal object of this letter, is to wish you merry Christmas and Happy New Year. Having my best wishes of health, and all kind of happiness and prosperity to you and all the members of your family.

I hope to see you soon, in our beloved and missed "International House" because now, I felt low is to be home-sick, and I know that is, because, I am far from you.

LIVING NATIVITY—Centering attention on the local scene this week is the Living Nativity on the east side of the square pictured above. The characters include Mary, the mother of Jesus; Joseph, the Angel, the Christ Child, and three shepherds. Adding to the setting are three sheep, a cow and burro. The Living Nativity was planned and is being carried out by St. Luke's Episcopal Church, and the rector, the Rev. John L. Ebaugh, III.

The International House of Jacksonville State College is presenting a series of literary classics for the enjoyment and enlightenment of the people in the Anniston area. These films are being presented with the co-operation of the Calhoun Theatre.

The students of the county have already enjoyed Charles Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities," which was presented on January 20th, and "The Crucible," starring Simone Signoret and Yves Montand, which was shown on January 19th. In the coming weeks four more of these classics will be presented.

The titles and dates that they are to be shown are as follows: on February 2, "Tales of Hoffman" starring Moira Shearer; on February 16, "The Magician" starring Igemar Bergman; on March 2, "The Devil's Daughter"; on March 23, "The Lady Killers" starring Alec Guinness.

These movies bring to life what is normally considered dull literature. They turn the plots of these stories into interesting and entertaining drama. The tickets for the performances are on sale at Scarborough Drugs and by the students of the International House.

Admission is 60c for students at the student performances and $1.00 for all the night performances.

Foreign Movies Are Scheduled

"A Tale Of Two Cities," the first of a series of foreign films sponsored by the International House at Jacksonville State College, will be shown at the Calhoun Theatre Thursday night.

Films to be shown include "The Crucible" Jan. 19, "Tales Of Hoffman," Feb. 2, "The Magician," Feb. 16, "The Devil's Daughter," March 2, and the "Lady Killers," March 23. Tickets for the series can be obtained at the Calhoun Theatre box office or from any of the International House trustees.

FOREIGN STUDENTS OUR GUESTS TODAY

(By FRANCIS JONES)

The following short biographies, written by our guests of today will undoubtedly prove of great interest.

They are this year's group of foreign students who visit us each year from Jacksonville State College of Jacksonville, Alabama.

It is nice to have these young people with us, especially at this particular time of year and we extend to them our heartiest greetings and trust their visit will be a happy and successful one.

They will be entertained by the Rotary Club of Ybor City on Wednesday of this week and on Thursday by The Interbay club.

Mason Trupp and his Rotary Ann Marion will take care of them for the afternoon, today and evening and see they are nicely entertained. This they have done for the past several years.

Patricia Kok Wah Ong, Malaya

Prior to my arrival in the United States I was living in Johore, Malaya, with my maternal grandparents, and my uncle and his family. My uncle, a lawyer in Johore, is my legal guardian. My father died before I was born in Singapore. I was three months old when I went to China with my mother and my grandmother where we lived for three years. I followed my grandmother to Malaya at the age of three. My mother is still in China. I am an Anglican (Church of England) by religion.

I am grateful to my uncle who paid for my education in the Convent School in Johore, from where I graduated in 1955. I attended the Singapore Teachers' College and graduated in 1959 with a Certificate in Education.

Having heard a great amount about the hospitality and kindness of the people of the United States from friends who have been here, I decided that I would like very much to visit the country which my Malayan friends had told me so much about. Moreover, I would like to learn about the customs and the Education system here and to get to know the American people, at the same time to impart to the people here what knowledge I have of my own country. I hope to complete the requirements for an MA degree here before returning to Malaya where I would like to teach in the Teachers' College.

Merilyn Rumble, Sydney, Australia

Merilyn Rumble considers it a real honor to have been chosen as the Rotary Scholarship student of District 626 in Alabama, corresponding to District 275 in her state, New South Wales. She hopes to stay in your beloved United States for two years, at the end of which time she will have her Bachelor of Science in Education. She is anxious to learn as much as possible about America and the

LAST WEEK'S MEETING

Our meeting last week was in the spirit of Christmas and Harold Hoag never had a more attentive audience than did his splendid choir which handled our program.

Robbie Robbins (Life Insurance) did an unusually fine job of introducing our visiting Rotarians and our guests. Maybe he was inspired by the thought of the Christmas music to follow.

Milton Twedell (Associations — Fairs and Expositions) gave an excellent report on the clubs cooperation in the Salvation Army's drive for Christmas funds and he thanked the many Rotarians who joined in ringing bells at several downtown locations. Splendid work.

Bill Saul (Manufacturing Sportswear) thanked the club for the splendid response to our Christmas effort for needy children. His group of Baby Rotarians have done a wonderful job of bringing Christmas cheer to 150 boys and girls who otherwise would have had a bleak Holiday Season.

Bill Gillen was Chairman-of-the-Day and briefly introduced Mrs. Norma Dobson and the St. Andrew's Episcopal Choir. Mrs. Dobson is organist and Director of the choir and has a splendid group of adults and youth.

The program was made up of familiar Christmas tunes, with three excellent solos and several choir numbers. Mrs. Dobson even invited our members to join in Silent Night... and our boys did quite well.

It was a wonderful and inspiring program and we are most grateful to Mrs. Dobson and each member of the choir for their kindness in being with us.

Don't criticize your wife's judgment—look who she married.

American way of living.

Her family lives in the Blue Mountains, a famous holiday resort of New South Wales. She attended Sydney Teachers' College and has taught for one year in an Elementary School of her home town. Her sister is in High School, her brother is training to be a Health Inspector with the City Council and her father is a retired Guest House Proprietor. Her mother teaches at the Katoomba High School.

When she returns to Australia she hopes firstly to be a really well informed ambassadoress for the United States, and secondly to teach in one of the State High Schools in Australia.

Her faith is Episcopalian, and she has worked among children of varying age levels in the Episcopalian church.

Yukiko Ano, Tokyo, Japan

On August 4th, I boarded the ship sailing for the United States with three suitcases, two trunks, a purse and a mind full of my hope and ambition to the new future waiting for me. This was the climax of the past twenty-one years of my life.

I, Yukiko Ano from Tokyo, Japan, am a daughter of the late Mr. Suefusa Ano who was a writer of the largest newspaper in Tokyo. Since he was killed during the last war, my mother, sister and I are living with my maternal grandparents. My grandfather is a retired admiral of the Navy and he spent some years in Washington, D. C. as a Naval attache. From my childhood my grandparents had been telling me about their life in the United States and I had dreamed of the day when I could come to this country. I feel that it is a very great privilege to have been chosen by International House Program of Jacksonville State College.

In March of 1960 I graduated from Horticultural Jr. College in Tokyo and was working as an assistant at the kindergarten of English-speaking private school, where I also attended when I was ten years of age.

My religion is Protestant, and my interests are floral decorations and education. I hope to become a kindergarten or elementary school teacher when I finish my years of study in the United States.

Suzanne Hanon, Belgium

Eighteen year old Suzanne Hanon of Brussels, Belgium, who graduated from high school this past June, was selected by the Cultural Affairs Officer of the American Embassy in Brussels for a scholarship, under the plan of the International House Program at Jacksonville State College of Jacksonville, Alabama for the current academic year. In high school she studied French, English, Latin, Greek, Dutch, German, Math, Physics, Biology, Chemistry, History and Geography, having languages as her major course of study. At Jacksonville State College she is studying oral and written English, American Literature, German, Spanish, Music and Folk Dancing.

Suzanne, who finished at the head of her class in Belgium, was selected by the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs, which has a membership of some thirty thousand Alabama club women, to be its scholarship student in the International House Program this year. Some of her hobbies are: studying languages, traveling, reading good books, collecting stamps, and baby sitting. As she is the oldest of five children, she has had considerable experience in baby sitting and loves children very much. Her father, who is native Belgian, is in the automobile business, and her mother, a native of Southern France, is a housewife. Suzanne is a good cook and especially likes to make pastries at home on Saturdays when she is not in school. While she gave serious consideration to becoming a teacher of languages before coming to Jacksonville, she now believes that she would like to prepare in some field that would permit her to try to make a contribution to world peace. Suzanne is Catholic and has sung in the choir.

We will be well on the road to losing our freedom as well as our honor when a majority of our citizens, calling themselves liberals, show by preference and example that they believe they can have an easy life by voting to force their neighbors to pay for it. ### LETTERS

Dear Rotary Friends:

Ernest's association with his Rotary Club was always a very pleasant and interesting one to him, and I know he would appreciate very much your gift to The Boy's Club in his name.

Thank you.

Mildred Brown.

Dear Fred:

To you and the other members of Rotary the children and I extend our heartfelt thanks and gratitude for helping to complete Jack's last project, the lights at Robinson Sr. High School Stadium.

Jack would be so very pleased for this particular project was dear to his heart. We cherish the memory of the dedication and the tribute you paid to him.

Now, when the lights shine at the Jack Peters Field, high in the sky, bright and purposeful, they have a double meaning. Not only is it the best lighted field in Tampa, it is a place where no matter whether the lights are on or off the glow of love and respect for your fellow member will keep it bright forever.

Bless you,

Eleanor, Ann and Pete Peters.

Dear President Fred:

Along with this Christmas card and Pat's usual donation to the Salvation Army Christmas Fund, I want to thank you for the beautiful bouquet of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums Pat received from the Tampa Rotary Club. I am sure the flowers and notes speeded up his recovery so that he was allowed to come home Sunday, December 18th, to convalesce.

Dr. Joe Flynn will tell you when he is permitted company. Pat appreciated very much that B. G., Sandy, and possibly others, came to call on him even though he was not allowed to see them. When permitted company, he will be happy to see any of his fellow Rotarians.

Thanks again for everything.

Sincerely,

Viola D. Patterson.

COST OF DISHONESTY

Did you know American businesses lose about $1 billion a year because of employee dishonesty and that less than three per cent is covered by insurance?

the hard way. It was handed down to us through history. But now that the condition of war has changed from hot to cold in recent years it is too early for us to turn to history for guidance in the cold war. While victory in that kind of war will also greatly depend on loyalty and sacrifice we must add self restraint. The latter is most important in the Democracies where free speech is permitted. In view of world conditions today this is no time to exercise the right of free men outlined in that famous statement "I may Disagree With What He Said, But I Will Defend Until Death His Right To Say It."

In many cases today, many things are being said that should go unsaid because world conditions are such that the meaning can be changed into propaganda and used against us by our enemies.

Free men should remember that truth to free speech is like water to

Foreign Classics Shown

A series of foreign film classics is being sponsored by the International House of Jacksonville State College and are to be shown at the Calhoun Theater. On January 4 adults and young people alike were thrilled by the English film version of Dicken's immortal "Tale of Two Cities," which starred Dirk Bogard, Dorothy Tutin, and Cecil Parker. Next to be presented is a foreign adaptation of a play by one of America's greatest playwrights, Arthur Miller. THE CRUCIBLE will star Academy Award-winning Simone Signoret and her husband, Yves Montand, and will be shown January 19. TALES OF HOFFMAN, to be shown in technicolor on February 2, will feature the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham. It is in the tradition of the famed RED SHOES. On February 16 will be seen THE MAGICIAN, one of the master-pieces by the controversial Swedish director, Ingmar Bergman.

Two weeks later, March 2, a modern version of Seneca's classic drama "Phedra", entitled THE DEVIL'S DAUGHTER, will be presented. The last film in the series will be THE LADYKILLERS, a farce starring Alec Guinness. As a special attraction, "The Golden Fish," an Academy Award-winning featurette filmed in color, will be shown March 23 on the same program with THE LADYKILLERS. Admission for each movie is $1 and will be shown at the Calhoun Theater at 8:00 p.m.

My dear Dr. Jones:

This acknowledges receipt of your letter of January 1 in which you enclosed two tickets to the 1961 Film Classics.

I have noticed the accounts of this promotion on your part, and you may be assured that I appreciate the tickets which you enclosed.

With every good wish to you and Mrs. Jones for the New Year, I am

Muy queridos Amigos:

Con gran placer leímos su cariñosa carta del 15 de Diciembre. Querido les agradecemos las noticias que nos dan de nuestro hijo Fermán y estamos muy contentos de saber que se está portando bien y que se hubiera adaptado bien al ambiente del Colegio.

El nos escribió también y nos cuenta que le ofrecieron una beca para continuar sus estudios allá el próximo año y tanto él como nosotros estamos profundamente agradecidos por tanta gentileza de Ud. y lo mismo me encargo Barton mi marido que les dé en nombre de él las más expresivas gracias.

Esperamos que Ud. tuviera una Navidad muy feliz y les deseamos un año Nuevo lleno de felicidad para todos.

Les escribo en Español pues para mí es más difícil escribir en Inglés esperando que no sea para Ud. muy difícil entender la carta y si no que Fermán se las pueda traducir, yo entiendo mucho el Inglés, y lo leo pero escribirlo es más difícil y así en Español más a menudo podría escribirles. Les agradecería mucho que cualquier cosa mala que haga Fermán o si no estudia bien nos avisaran enseguida. Todavía no hemos recibido ninguna nota de las calificaciones de sus estudios. Barton y los niños les mandan muchos saludos cariñosamente.

Thank You

Dear friends:

Thank you so much for sending us the tickets to the film classics. You are so sweet to remember us so thoughtfully. We will share them with Marion & Phil and I know we will enjoy them.

It is a wonderful idea, I think, to have the excellent movies made available.

As usual, it's hard to believe that another two year period is finished. This time the transfer seems to be Washington, and after nine years in Latin America it may take a little getting used to ... Contrary to what friends say, however, I have not forgotten my English!

All best wishes for a pleasant holiday season -

Como de siempre, es difícil creer que se haya terminado otro período de dos años. Esta vez el traslado parece ser a Washington y es posible que cueste un poco acostumbrarse a eso después de nueve años en la América Latina. De toda forma y al contrario de lo que dicen mis amigos, no me he olvidado del inglés...

Dear Dr. Jones,

Enclosed you will find two books of tickets for the 1961 Film Classics which I am returning to you. I think this is a very worthwhile endeavor, but finances at this time will not permit me to purchase the tickets. I hope my family and I will be able to attend some of the movies, but I will have to depend on being able to purchase tickets at the door.

I am very much interested in the International House program and I hope that I will be able to make a financial contribution at a later date.

I am proud to say that I have had a class with a man who has made such a contribution to helping the peoples of the world understand each other as you have.

Dear Dr + Mrs Jones,

You have both been very much in our thoughts these last few weeks. We hope the festive season has been a very happy one for you, full of the gratification & fulfilment of the wonderful inspiration you are to the young folk in your charge.

Words cannot express our gratitude nor could we ever repay the kindness and renders tending which you have shown Meredith. She is indeed a lucky girl to have had this opportunity of knowing you both, and I do hope that we too may have that privilege some day.

It makes us very happy to know she has fitted into your way of life so easily and like you are hoping she can stay on next year, we realise how much it will mean if she can.

I must take this opportunity of thanking you personally for so generously including Meredith in the trip to Florida. We have had glowing letters in which she tells so she has never fitted so much into two short weeks in her life. The experiences and overwhelping kindness

I know will be a milestone in her life on which she will always look back, as one of the most delightful she has ever had. and the thought that none of it could have been possible with out you wonderful folk makes it hard for me to really express in words how we really feel about it all.
So please accept this very special thank you.

May God's richest blessings be yours in the coming year and the many more which lie ahead.
My husband joins me in thanking you again and conveying these thoughts also to you both.

Sincerely

Roma Rumble.

Practice Teaching Now Available In Foreign Languages

For the first time, students majoring and minoring in foreign languages are having the opportunity to do practice teaching in that field, and according to Dr. A. B. Hatch, their supervisor, it is an advantage they should appreciate.

The students teach French or Spanish fifteen minutes every day in grades one to eight. The work is entirely oral and the lessons consist of conversation, games and songs. Dr. Hatch supplies the materials and offers suggestions for improvement.

In addition to those teaching in the Elementary Laboratory School, Denise Auroousseau and Marie-Claire Charton of France; and Italo Morales of Guatemala teach 20-minute classes each day in the junior and high school. Denise also teaches a 50-minute class each day in the ninth grade.

Other high school students who take languages are in classes taught by Dr. Hatch or Dr. J. H. Jones. As the number increases, they will be taught at the high school in regular classes.

MISS JOANNA BREEDLOVE—foreign language consultant for State Department of Education, visited the campus recently to observe the foreign language program. She is shown with the teachers and their advisors, left to right, are Dr. A. B. Hatch director of the program, Linda Sparks, Mary Maude Clark, Miss Breedlove, Mrs. Ernest Stone director of the school, Katherine Grizzard, Carolyn McKowen, Myriam Gateno, Martha Pledger, and Erskine Love.

Dr. Hatch pointed out that the idea of teaching languages orally in the elementary grades is spreading and there will be a great demand for trained teachers in this field. Jacksonville students are among the very few in this country who are receiving this training, he said, and they have a distinct advantage as the demand grows for foreign language teachers.

The college laboratory schools are among the two or three schools in the country that are sponsoring this program of foreign languages.

FOREIGN STUDENTS VISIT BEACH CLUB—Four foreign students from Jacksonville State College demonstrate "La Fricasse," a French folk dance depicting a fight between lovers, who tweak each other's ears and noses, and pummel each other with hand and elbow. From left: Houshidar Badipour, from Tehran Iran; Marie-Claire Charton, Marseille, France; Esperanza Vidal, La Paz, Bolivia; and Italo Morales, Tiquisate, Guatemala. # 'The Crucible,' 2nd In Film Series, Set At Calhoun Theater Thursday

'CRUCIBLE' STARS—Among the stars of "The Crucible," to show Thursday at the Calhoun Theater, are, above, Simone Signoret and Yves Montand. Jean-Paul Sartre's adoption of Arthur Miller's powerful drama will be sponsored here by International House.

"The Crucible," second in the series of notable foreign-made films being sponsored at the Calhoun Theater by International House of Jacksonville State College, will show here Thursday.

A matinee performance will be presented at 5:15 p.m. and an evening performance at 8 o'clock.

Playwright Arthur Miller penned the memorable drama, "The Crucible," in which he centers his story on the infamous "witch-burnings" in and around Salem, Mass., in the early 1600's. It was a Broadway success of a few years ago and was filmed in France by Jean-Paul Sartre.

"The Crucible", inasmuch as it is the story of the Massachusetts extremists who executed men and women accused and convicted of practicing witchcraft, tells the violent and enthralling story of one such woman.

The woman finds her marriage disintegrating because of her refusal to be a real wife, and then subsequently finds herself condemned as a witch because of malicious and untrue gossip spread about her by the mistress of her husband.

Simone Signoret, honored by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences as the Best Actress of 1959 for her superb portrayal in "Room at the Top", is cast in "The Crucible" as the young matron whose life is made miserable and almost destroyed by the young woman she befriends.

In the role of the husband whose faith is first questioned by his wife and then destroyed by the beautiful young vixen is Yves Montand.

The beautiful, brazen and heartless little creature who is behind all the torture and torment that besets Miss Signoret and Montand is enacted by Mylene Demongeot.

The pert young newcomer made her American screen debut with Van Heflin and Charles Laughton in "Under Ten Flags", a recent release. She was seen in a co-star role with Deborah Kerr and David Niven in 1958's "Bonjour Tristesse" and

Teaching Practice

Set At JSC

Dr. Hatch Is Director

JACKSONVILLE — Students majoring in foreign languages at Jacksonville State College have had their first opportunity to do practice teaching this semester under the direction of Dr. A. B. Hatch, associate professor of languages.

Last year a language program was set up in the laboratory schools of the college from the first grade through junior high. Teachers for the daily 15-minute oral lessons were students at the International House who carried on a routine of conversation, games and songs in Spanish and French.

This year the international students are teaching in the junior high school and American students majoring in foreign languages have taken over the practice teaching in the Elementary Laboratory School.

Dr. Hatch, who supervises the program, has called attention to the advantage these students have in putting into practice what they learn in the classroom. Since the teaching of foreign languages is receiving more emphasis and more schools are following the idea of beginning this instruction in the lower grades, there will be more demand for teachers with experience, he pointed out.

Miss Joanna Breedlove, foreign language consultant for the State Department of Education, visits the school regularly and keeps in touch with the program.

MOHANDAS K. GANDHI

Jan. 30, 1948

I

We drink from the river of your life
Flowing through many lands,
With rich loam in being,
The wine of Truth
Remembering . . .

II

Through cumulous horizons
Triumphal constellations rode
With the power of unmatched horses
Down wide avenues of delay,
Where there reared, at the sound of trumpeting,
A hydra-headed beast of despair,
Whose tail drew a third of the stars,
And the ram and the he-goat locked horns
In the fearful eyes of the drivers,
While the three states of being hung
On the crucified air Waiting . . .

III

The music of evening permeated the garden,
Odor of sandalwood sang, petunias chimed,
In the enclosure red the rose . . .
The afternoon was theirs
The Fast being broken
They were preparing to give thanks
To pray for the Apparition of Peace,—
The temple would never hold the prayers . . .

Quietly
Sainthood hovering above his head
Across the grass moved
A small frail man
At the irrevocable timeless moment
In the Garden of New Gethsemane
Coming to meet the betrayal fire
From whose smoke would rise
His Phoenix Word.

The translucent vessel overflowed,
See how his blood streams in the firmament Confounding Babel.

IV

Ah, Mahatma, you the symbol, unassuming;
Giving graven in the mind.
The open palm for syllables of fire,
Dissolving fingers
Writing indelibly upon the Indian Afternoon
Your winged word, "Ahimsa;"
Heroically it lingers
Riding upon the back of the sky.

MOHANDAS K. GANDHI
... great and beloved Indian leader

Which was the instrument and whose the choice?
Can we speak thus of one Whose every was choice,
Led to this hour?
Shall we choose wisely then, now and here?
Everywhere that children scatter
The petals of their innocence?
For these teachings are as Non-sectarian as hunger.
The scattered leaves of all the universe
Float through the mind unbound.

VI

From the quick thirty-eight,
Accumulated hatred and misunderstanding,
Hard packed in the small lead of dissent,
Made its rat tat tat;

Three drops of awful Truth stained the green grass
Beside a crumpled rose,

A little worm of smoke hung on the air
And was gone.

Burst into the golden butterfly of love;
And the frail hand that fluttered to forehead
Touched to flower that afternoon
The Springtime of a new age.

MRS. MELANIE GORDON BARBER
... early portrait of former resident

VII

Peace, Immortal, Being,
In Union conceived . . .
It was a good Friday that it happened,
This parting, this dawn,
This flame that rose.
The heavens opened, even as Stephen said,
Will and Deed, One.
The Morning Star was here.

Sacred River blazed to Sea of Glass . . .
Rose of Guru,
Vertical as a tree,
Shedding flame leaves at Harvest.

VIII

The ashes stir . . .
Now a gray rustling of wings
For the foreheads of men;
And the war of ideas to be won
Only by the lifted arm of your farewell,
Non-violent, forgiving, evangelical,— Bapuji, you are claimed by the ages now,
You whose word could federate the world,
Whose way could morally re-arm mankind.

Sweet and bitter is the Open Book,
Whose leaves are for the healing of Nations . . .
You are the Proclamation . . .
Hearing the Trumpet, will the people come?

I lift a white carnation
From the feet of your bronze benevolence
And weep.

COMMUNISM

Follow This Simple 8-Point Program

1. See that other Americans are fully and correctly informed about the true objectives and methods of communism and its danger to all we hold dear.
2. Encourage religion in your community. Attend and support the Church of your choice. The Word of God is the weapon most feared by the communists.
3. Take an active interest in public affairs. ALWAYS vote in elections—get others out to vote.
4. Support the election to public office of candidates who understand the scope and seriousness of the communist problem and agree to work for its elimination.
5. Be fair with your Government. In the interest of fair play and sound economy, vote on the basis of what you feel is best for the country and not on the basis of "what's good for me." Our Government will be only as strong as we make it.
6. Take a vital interest in the education of your children. Get to know their teachers. Know how school books are selected and what they contain. Be sure that communist poison is not being administered right under your very eyes.
7. Don't join groups—don't sign petitions, UNLESS YOU FIRST INVESTIGATE THEM! Communists have so perverted such appealing words as "peace" "freedom" "youth" and "mother" that any organization or document using these or similar words should be questioned until you know who is behind it.
8. If any evidence of communism at work should come to your attention, get in touch with your nearest FBI office. Give them all the facts and then forget about it, unless asked by the FBI to do otherwise.

D. Thompson Dies

It was many months before we could get adjusted to the resignation of Dorothy Thompson, one of the first of the women columnists to come forth and enlighten the world through the medium of her outpourings in the press.

But while Dorothy was opinionated to a considerable degree, pontificating on the world problems of her time and on the foibles of her sisters of the common gender, she was not always to be dismissed with a smile.

For Dorothy Thompson was widely read and widely traveled. She was especially familiar with Germany, in peace and at war, and what she had to say frequently made sense.

But she was prejudiced in many respects and never did reconcile herself to the wonderful progress made by the Jews in Israeli and to the superiority of other Near Easterners as she saw them in her time. And she knew her English language applicable to any subject she selected.

'Tales Of Hoffmann' Film Slated Thursday

"Tales of Hoffmann," the third in the series of foreign-made films sponsored by Jacksonville State College's International House, will be shown at the Calhoun Theatre Thursday.

The principal performance is at 8 p.m. A student matinee will be provided at 5:15 o'clock.

Proceeds will benefit the student program at JSC.

The movie is in technicolor. The musical score is by the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham.

The motion picture, "Tales of Hoffmann", is based upon the famous opera of the same name by Jacques Offenbach.

Offenbach has won fame as a composer for the charm and appeal of his melodies. The can-can melody form "Gaité Parisienne" is among the best known of his tunes.

The opera "Tales of Hoffmann" is based on the fantastic and grotesque short stories of the early nineteenth century German writer Ernest Theodor Amadeus Hoffmann, considered to be one of the world's greatest story-tellers.

The episodes are depicted in the opera's three acts. Each episode deals with the love of Hoffmann for a beautiful woman and each ends in tragedy. The first woman turns out to be a mechanical doll, the second a faithless courtesan, and the third a singer who dies under the spell of the devil.

The gay tavern scenes, the lavish dance sequences, the enchanting musical score, and the innumerable touches of the grotesque and the bizarre make this movie an extraordinary experience.

Film Series Offers Notable 'Magician'

"The Magician," fourth in the series of six foreign films sponsored here by International House of Jacksonville State College, will be shown at the Calhoun Theatre Thursday.

There will be a matinee at 5:15 p.m. and the main showing at 8 o'clock.

Net proceeds of the show will go toward support of the foreign student program at JSC.

Ingmar Bergman is the undoubted magic worker of "The Magician", a searchingly human film drama set in the mid-19th century.

The director of "The Seventh Seal" and "Wild Strawberries" and other notable productions proves again that he is one of the great men of the 20th Century cinema, a creative artist whose talent may well amount to genius.

In "The Magician" Bergman unfolds another of his cinema parables, this time in the form of a fascinating story of ghosts and the supernatural, clothed in a clash between ignorance and intelligence.

Although everything that occurs seems almost inexplicable, everything, finally, is explained: logically, simply, persuasively, absorbingly.

This picture's plot resembles a chess problem: seemingly impossible of solution until you discover the key; and then in an instant becoming exquisitely clear.

The story is that of a small, unsavory group of traveling magicians and their effect on the household of a well-to-do Swedish merchant, where, for one reason and another, they are compelled to spend a night.

Some of the magicians are in disguise, and this, as well as their very presence, spreads fear through the household.

Each person reacts differently. The lady of the house pours out her unhappiness to the leader of the group; a scoffing local doctor nearly goes mad when the leader, on whom he believes he has just performed an autopsy, pursues him through the attic; a giant servant, dumbly enraged by the evil cast of the troupe's faces, tries to strangle one of them.

The next day, after the magicians drop their disguises and reveal themselves as penniless fakes, they are hounded from the house by the people they have shamed, only to be rescued by an order to give a performance before the King.

While the story is replete with hidden meanings, it is also a thoroughly entertaining tale of magic, tragedy and comedy, and one which — as all good stories should — ends properly.

Dear James,

Thank you for your good letter of the fourteenth just here and I regret so much not to be able to accept your kind invitation to visit you when we are in Birmingham. We never arrive until early afternoon and by the time we get to the hotel and checked in plus the obeisances we must pay to our local sponsors and the press it is time to begin thinking about the evening performance. On the second day, there is always a big three-hour luncheon given us by the Metropolitan Opera Guild and we leave after the performance on Tuesday evening.

I would like nothing better than to see your International House Program and to see you and Myra again. I think about you and your family more often than you realize. I had a message from Floyd and Mary after my last broadcast.

My best, please to William and Ritchie when you are writing and again my thanks and regrets. I hope you and Myra will be at our performances in Birmingham and that I shall see you there.

Sincerely,

Francis

Dating And Autos

Arriving in the United States in late December, Per Ottar Seglen is playing the part of "youth ambassador" from Norway prior to participating in the New York Herald Tribune Forum for High Schools, to be held in New York City in March.

The 17-year-old Oslo boy thus is enlarging upon the person-to-person friendship and understanding that also is being helped greatly by the International House program at Jacksonville State College and similar programs at other colleges and universities.

Per's forte seems to be teen-age dating. He is quoted as saying that young Americans have asked him many questions about the boy-girl relationship in Norway, and that he is able to describe it for them on the basis of six years' study of English in Norwegian schools.

We trust that he has occasion to mention the automobile or the telephone very infrequently. And if these two devices could be relegated to the background, the boy-girl relation in the United States would be placed on a much more wholesome footing.

MISS NODAL SPEAKER—The years 1898-1902 when American missionaries were first sent to Cuba are among that country's most important, Miss Raquel Nodal, a native of Cuba, told Piedmont Jaycees last night. A graduate of Jacksonville State College, she joined the faculty of Walter Wellborn School for this school year after teaching in a private school in Cuba. She previously taught two years at Oxford. Miss Nodal is the daughter of a Methodist minister. Her family still resides in Cuba. Coach Howard Waldrep and the Piedmont High School basketball team and Supt. W. H. Kimbrough were special guests of the Jaycees. The team placed second in the Class A tournament this year. Shown, from left, are Robert Reedy, program chairman; Miss Nodal, and Jaycee President Jim Bennett.

if you know a young man anxious to get started...
...tell him about the Prudential!

Think back! Ten...twenty...thirty years ago. You were young, ambitious...ready for the big job. How did you get your start? Who gave you a helping hand, introduced you to the right people, opened doors that you couldn't open yourself?

Today, there are many young men who need a start. We, at Prudential, feel that successful men like yourself will want to help some young man get ahead. It's an investment of your time that will pay off in satisfaction for years to come. If you know a bright young man with ability and ambition — tell him about The Prudential.

There's a great new opportunity for sales in the insurance industry. Year after year insurance sales are going up. The market for insurance is growing steadily. People marry, have children, buy homes and plan to retire. Insurance is a big factor in the lives of everyone. There's room in this widening career field for a young man of your acquaintance.

The Prudential is a large company that offers prestige and good earnings. It's a growing company with opportunities for advancement. It's a dynamic company that has tremendous public acceptance. Think of what this can mean to a young man starting out in life. This is your opportunity to help a promising young man...why not get in touch with him soon and suggest that he stop in and talk to the Manager of the nearest Prudential office or, even better, introduce him yourself.

So you think metered mail is only for big business?

"Tain't so. This little postage meter is a big help, even in this me-and-the-boss outfit. Always has the stamp we want, for letters or packages. Printing postage is quicker and slicker than sticking old-fashioned stamps. And I don't have to baby-sit with a stamp box, or lick envelope flaps any more."

You don't have to be a big mailer to use a postage meter. No minimum mail volume is required. One third of the users of the DM, the small desk model meter, average less than $1 a day for postage.

A postage meter prints postage as you need it for any class of mail—directly on the envelope, or on special gummed tape for parcel post. Prints your own small ad at the same time, if you want one. Seals envelopes, too. Makes mailing fast, easy.

The postoffice sets your meter for as much postage as you want to buy at one time. Postage in the meter is protected from loss, damage or misuse; and is automatically accounted for.

Metered mail also needs less handling time in the postoffice, can often make earlier trains and planes.

Dr. Modi—Unique

While in casual conversation with Dr. M. C. Modi during the free eye camp he conducted recently in Coondapoor, he showed me a proof of the article about him scheduled to appear in THE ROTARIAN for February [see 'Do Good . . . Then Silently Disappear']. There could be no encomium you could give him more fitting than the publication of the story of his tireless, free, selfless service in eye-operation work in mass camps, and all successful. I can only pray the Creator to give him strength and courage to give light to all blind eyes for a large number of years.

From actual observation we feel that there could be no second in the world who would successfully operate on eye patients numbering hundreds to a maximum of 500 a day and examine thousands with appliances—the best in the world. This with the after-care taken by him with the costliest up-to-date medicines has resulted in the eye-camp program becoming a 100 percent success.

We are happy to inform you that in a colorful ceremony the Rotary Club of Coondapoor recently elected Dr. Modi to honorary membership. Our Club has encouraged and helped Dr. Modi in his free eye-camp work and has given financial aid which has gone a long way in making the eye camp in Coondapoor a success.

A Welcome Overflow . . .

The 50th-anniversary issue of THE ROTARIAN [January, 1961] reminded me once again of the many interesting things to be found in its pages each month. Within the last year the Magazine has overflowed with articles of human interest, on world problems, on new developments in science and industry, on ways in which people are working together to further the cause of world peace and to slow the race toward catastrophe. I would not have wanted to miss a single copy of my Magazine!

'Too Many Heads in Sand'

I trust every Rotarian has read, will read, or will read again Clarence B. Randall's article, Can Capitalism Win? [THE ROTARIAN for January].

Too many of us have our heads in the sand or in the clouds regarding our economy and our world position. Selfish individual security may well pull the house down on us unless we take a good look around to see what we can do to keep not only our individual security sound, but our collective security sound from the least of these to the top ranks of our society.

Broaden the Fighting Front

Clarence B. Randall's article was wonderful. It perhaps should have been titled Can Capitalism and Democracy Win? If we were realistic, we would know the answer is "No" with our present methods. We are fighting Communism, dictatorship, etc., on one front only—war preparation—and perhaps it is a tie. Let's hope we never try for a decision.

We are losing ideologically because the others force and brain-wash and educate their people to believe that their system is best. We preach freedom, but we don't really believe in it.

We are losing economically because we are living too high to com-

SAYS ALEXANDER F. RICHARDS, President of Richards Dairy, Inc., Newark, Delaware, about his company's New York Life Employee Protection Plan and NYL-A-PLAN. “Our employees have experienced some of the many benefits our plan offers—we feel it's the finest program available.

“The agent has done an outstanding job of installing and servicing a complete line of life, weekly indemnity*, basic hospitalization and major medical** coverages. He truly has lived up to your slogan, ‘The New York Life Agent in your community is a good man to know!’”

Progressive companies like Richards Dairy with four or more employees are finding New York Life's Employee Protection Plans an excellent way to help build morale, attract and keep high-grade people. These Plans offer a wide choice of valuable coverages including: life insurance, weekly indemnity, medical care benefits, and in

A 'Sputnik' Suggested

In his article Clarence B. Randall says: “No one doubts the patriotism of the American businessman. . . . What he needs today is some dramatic force, some economic Sputnik, that will startle him out of his lethargy.” Again he says: “Paramount at all times must be the preservation of freedom.” But, like other writers, Mr. Randall does not suggest what the answer is going to be.

May I suggest the following “force” or “Sputnik”:

1. Place the equity capital of a corporation on the pay roll with men, so that capital and men will be paid on a percentage basis out of all the income of a corporation using the plan, over and above all other costs.

2. Distribute all the income, above all other costs of the corporation, to capital and labor.

3. Have the corporation using this program guarantee to employ a definite number of persons while using this plan.

Study this program. It will stop the inflationary spiral now bringing the Western world to the feet of Communism. It will lower the cost of production. It will lower the amount of taxes needed by the U. S. Government. It will eliminate involuntary unemployment. It will break up the huge accumulation of dollars in the hands of the few (this, of course, is objectionable to the present-day capitalist). It will break up the national labor union (this, of course, is objectionable to the leaders of national unions). It will put [Continued on page 54] is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

First. The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;

Second. High ethical standards in business and professions, the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations, and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society;

Third. The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business, and community life;

Fourth. The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service.

NEWS FROM 1600 RIDGE AVENUE, EVANSTON, ILLINOIS, U.S.A.

NOMINEE. Choice of the Nominating Committee for President of Rotary International for 1962-63 is Nitish C. Laharry, an advocate of the High Court of Calcutta, India. For a brief biography of him, see page 41.

PRESIDENT. As this issue went to press, President J. Edd McLaughlin had just finished presiding at a nine-day session of the Board of Directors at the Central Office in Evanston, Ill., U.S.A. Decisions made at this meeting will be reported in the April issue. After attending to other administrative matters, the President was to begin more Club visits in the U.S.A. and Canada, these to be followed by other visits in Europe...For a pictorial report of earlier Presidential travels, see pages 32-37.

HONOR. To the announcement last month of President McLaughlin's Chilean award, add Brazil's "Order of the Southern Cross" awarded him in Brasilia, the nation's capital, during his visit there following the South American Regional Conference in Santiago, Chile.

CONVENTION. Though Rotary's Convention in Tokyo, Japan, is only three months away—the dates are May 28-June 1—good hotel (or Japanese inn) accommodations remain. But to obtain the housing you desire, act now! Your Rotary Club has the official forms for requesting accommodations. Obtain one, indicate your preference in housing, and mail the form to the address shown. It will be your first step toward an experience in international friendship you will never forget.

MEETING. On March 20-21 the Finance Committee is to meet at the Central Office in Evanston, Ill.

A "WEEK" . . . in which your participation is urged is "World Understanding Week," proclaimed by President McLaughlin for March 19-25. Your invitation to join this observance is on page 23 and to your Club has gone a "kit" of practical suggestions for celebrating the "Week."

REMINDER. Rotary Clubs in the U.S.A. which intend to propose a candidate for Director of RI for 1961-62 and 1962-63 have been reminded that April 1—a deadline set by RI By-Laws—is the final date for filing with the General Secretary of Rotary International a Club resolution naming a candidate. Affected are U.S.A. Zones 1, 2, and 3.

"MILLION-DOLLAR MEAL." A plan called the "Million-Dollar Meal" recently raised $6,509.40 in District 795 for The Rotary Foundation. Core of the idea: substitute a coffee-and-sandwich lunch for a regular meal, then contribute the difference in cost to the Foundation. Maybe you already know about this plan. If not, you can learn its details in a future issue. Watch for it! It may be something your Club and District will want to do.

VITAL STATISTICS. On January 27 there were 10,832 Rotary Clubs and an estimated 503,000 Rotarians in 120 countries. New Clubs since July 1, 1960, totalled 136.

About Our Cover and Other Things

EVERYBODY ought to see Australia. It's a great big piece of ancient earth, about the size of continental U.S.A., lying under the Southern Cross (which is on its flag) in the austral waters of the Pacific and Indian oceans. It has sophisticated Sydney and huge herds of wild kangaroos. It has stately Melbourne and the cuddly koala. It has palm-shaded Perth and rain-drenched Darwin and capacious Canberra, its parklike capital. It has blue jacaranda and yellow wattle and red poinciana and endless miles of mulga scrub. It has sheep and sheep and sheep and cattle and a fierce wild dog named the dingo.

It has gibber plains (a gibber is a stone) and a vast treeless plain (verily named the Nullarbor) where no thing, no creature, no person, grows. Practically.

And Australia has men and mountains. One of its 10 million people is Captain Frank Hurley, perhaps the best known of that nation's photographers and an explorer who has been five times to the South Pole. It was he who took the picture of the mountains on our cover. These are the Blue Mountains in New South Wales, and the rocky spires are The Three Sisters—a famous Australian landmark climbed by hundreds every year. (Thanks to Captain Hurley and his publishers, Angus & Robertson Limited, of Sydney, for the use of the picture.)

Just 250 miles or so from The Three Sisters loom the Snowy Mountains—the setting of our Men Through Mountains story. A gigantic undertaking, the Snowy Scheme will freshen the dry plains and the lives of millions of Australians to come. Everybody ought to see Australia. Can you—on your way to or from Rotary's '61 Convention in Tokyo? Everybody, of course, ought to see the world. How could it be arranged?

YOU may see some parts of the world you haven't seen . . . in our April issue. It's all on TRAVEL.

AUSTRALIAN Don Farquhar is a modest fellow. We asked him for his story. He was surprised we wanted it. "Don is always a little shy in a crowd," says one of his countrymen, "but he gives off a light that people like to stand in."

TEXAN Bill Dazey opens with some large predictions about the size of the coming Tokyo Convention. We hope all of them will come true, but want to point out that he and we are talking about conventions as they are known in the West. This would exclude the enormous religious and political gatherings that sometimes take place in Asia.

WE'VE TALKED for several months about wanting stories of the influence this Magazine has had on people, what it has made them do, how it has stirred action. Enough of talk: For the 30 best stories of this sort we receive from readers anywhere, we will pay $5 each. Use up to 300 words on any kind of paper. Let the deadline for receipt here be the last day of this Magazine's 50th year—1961.

About Our Contributors

For 28 years, Thomas C. Desmond held a seat in the New York State Senate and headed a committee on problems of the ageing. An engineer with degrees from Harvard and M.I.T., he was president of a building firm before entering public service. He writes prolifically, as does his wife, she being the author of 13 books, mostly for children. Holding high rank among his other concerns are world travel, the Boy Scouts, and New York State history. He's also ardent about horticulture, has an arboretum with 850 species of plants.

An Illinoisan turned Texan, William B. Dazey is a Houston lawyer and Rotarian and a Past President of the Texas City Rotary Club. As an infantry officer at Leyte and Okinawa, he became interested in the Japanese, wanted to know them better. To do this he lived for a year in Japan, studied the language in Tokyo, returned home to help "acquaint my fellow Americans with the Japanese people as I saw them." Married, he has a 14-year-old daughter, two-month-old son.

Illustrator of the Understanding Begins . . . article is Felix Palm, Chicago artist who likes to draw so much that he does it in his spare time. At home in all art media—editorial, advertising, and industrial—he is one of the busiest free-lancers in the field. His four children—two girls, two boys—like to draw, the two college girls being art majors. He makes use of his penchant for architecture by remodeling his own home occasionally.

Understanding Begins at Home . . . by Donald N. Farquhar*

Through blindness comes light—an inspiring message for men of 120 nations who this month mark Rotary's World Understanding Week.

humble, abashed manner, and for a moment he said nothing. Yet I felt a great outpouring from that man, and a great gulf had been bridged.

Two days later, as I was about to leave the Asian Friendship Meeting of that Conference, a man grasped my arm and thrust his hand in mine. It was a Japanese Rotarian, saying, "I want to thank you for what you said to a fellow countryman of mine the other day. You have made it easier for us."

This and several other experiences have strengthened my conviction that understanding begins at home—in your heart, in your community, in your nation. If we place faith in ourselves, in each other, we can more easily have faith and trust in people abroad. Only from this moral strength, not from armed might, will men successfully negotiate their differences.

We all wish for peace. What can we do to achieve it? One day while I was on a train bound for Melbourne, a voice, obviously that of a New Australian, said to me, "Excuse, please. Could you tell me when this train arrives in Melbourne?" I answered, and then we began to chat. He was from Yugoslavia and his wife was from Austria. Both seemed eager to talk. "You don't mind me speaking to you?" he asked when I invited them to my compartment. "I really do appreciate this. Do you know, sir, I've been in this country eight months, and you're the first Australian who has spoken to me outside my place of employment? I do thank you."

Here was a contribution I could make. There is much that I and my fellow countrymen can do to make our New Australians—more than 1½ million of them since 1947—feel at home. By and large we are doing a good job, and Rotary is playing a significant part, but we can do more.

We can give so much to each other. We can give tolerance for intolerance, trust for distrust, a ready appreciation of the other person's point of view, a little sympathy, forgiveness, and, overriding all, love for hate. These are not easy gifts to give. But then we seek a precious goal.

There is little need here to remind you of the avenues to peace opened through membership in Rotary. We talk with each other, we exchange sons and daughters, we send students abroad, we visit each other, we sponsor hundreds of wonderful projects which help erase our differences, or, at least, help us understand and appreciate them.

I believe we are pushing along on this road to peace, but we can do better if each of us resolves to carry part of the burden. These opportunities come to us in many ways. Five years ago two Rotarians, a Japanese and an Australian, walked side by side in a wreath-laying ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Sydney. Fifteen years ago few people would have predicted that such a ceremony could take place, for the wounds of war heal slowly. Yet here were two men who had taken up their burdens in this quest of peace, and they were not light burdens, for each had lost a son in battle during World War II.

"There is a destiny that makes us all brothers," said "Robbie" Robinson, a Past Rotary District Governor of Canada, who, as many of you know, is also blind. "None goes his way alone. All sent out to the lives of others comes back into our own." I think we all might take these words to heart as we explore the avenues for understanding open to us.

THE SUN had set in all its tropic brilliance on the evening of September 22, 1942, and now the moon was tracing a long golden path in the Coral Sea off New Guinea. It was one of those beautiful nights—a fine night for an air raid.

As an observer in the Royal Australian Air Force, I had been attached to the 28th Squadron of the 19th Bomber Group of the U. S. Army Air Corps in North Queensland, 2,500 miles north of my home in McCrae, near Melbourne. Our operational area included New Guinea and the Solomons. Tonight our mission was to bomb the Vunakanau air strip at Rabaul, a Japanese stronghold on the volcano-studded tip of the island of New Britain.

If it was a good night for navigation, which was my job, it was also a good night for anti-aircraft gunners. During the raid a burst of flak shredded the plexiglass nose of our B-17. Ever since I have been totally blind, a legacy of the stupidity of war.

If someone had told me in those days of anguish and despair and physical suffering that there would come to me a new faith in mankind, I could not have accepted it. Yet in the years that followed I discovered that I was able to feel, perhaps even more keenly than those with sight, the impact of life about me. I have had time to assay true human values. It came to me that the only way we can look forward to a better world is to forgive and to forget the past. Slowly, the bitterness in my heart and soul gave way to a new faith in life, a new hope which makes life worth living.

During the Pacific Regional Conference of Rotary International in Sydney in 1956 I asked a friend to introduce me to a Japanese Rotarian, a delegate to the Conference. I tried to explain to my new acquaintance what I felt in my heart, and offered my hand in friendship. He took it, I felt, in rather a

*Behind the By-Line . . . an Unusual Rotarian

BEFORE his enlistment in the R.A.A.F. in 1940, Donald N. Farquhar was a proofreader with several leading newspapers in Melbourne. Blindness ruled out this occupation after the war. Hospitalized for 18 months, he found his desire to return to active life further frustrated by doctors' orders that his activity be kept to a minimum for two more years.

In 1946 his boyhood fondness for the sea took him to the resort town of Rosebud, 46 miles south of Melbourne on Port Phillip Bay. There, with the help of his wife, Joan, whom he married in 1940, he launched a successful boat-rental business.

Selling out in 1952, he and his wife transferred their energies to the management of four resort residences which they built near their home. General maintenance work and gardening now occupy the author, who also devotes much time to community activities. He is a charter member of the six-year-old Rotary Club of Rosebud. "Rotary's influence," he says, "has been a tremendous sheet-anchor to me, providing great inspiration and stimulation." He plans to attend Rotary's Annual Convention in Tokyo next May. The message presented here is akin to one with which he thrilled a recent Conference of his Rotary District.

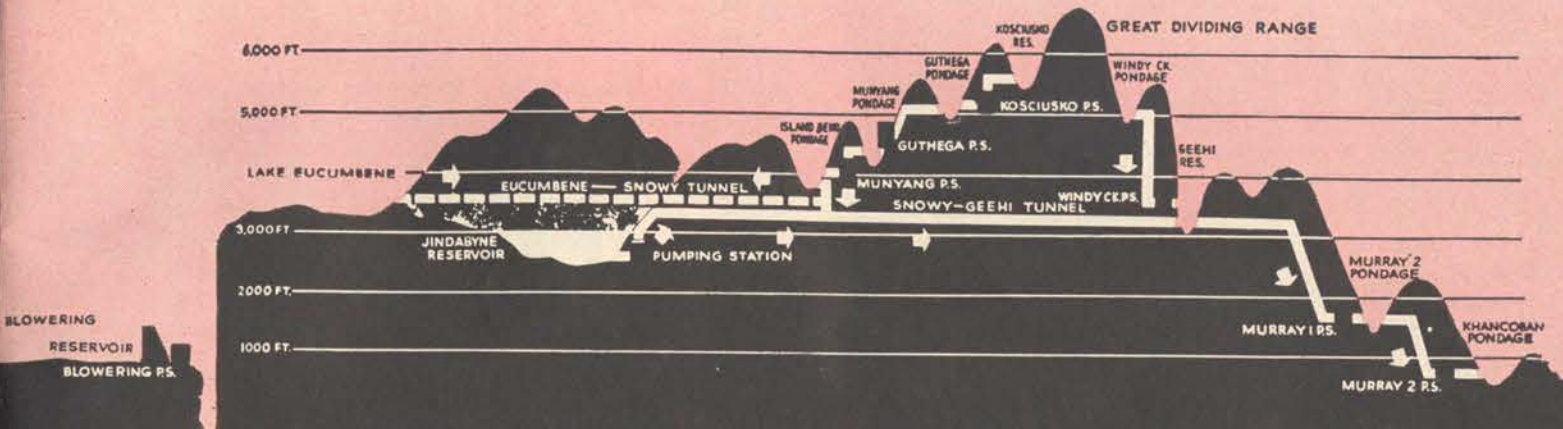

After the war, author Donald Farquhar did what most men believed impossible for a blind man. He started a boat-rental business.

THE ENGINEER pointed to a map and a model. "You can see," he said, "that the Snowy River is like an open tap wasting water into the ocean. The water isn't needed east of the Australian Alps where there is ample rainfall, where the river sometimes causes floods. It is needed on the western side where the soil is rich but dry."

In Australia, which has an area almost equal to the first 48 United States but with an arid interior, the possibilities of using the wasted snows of the Australian Alps have excited man's imagination for more than a century. Now the act is being accomplished.

Australia's population has reached 10 million. Water is needed to increase food for export and home consumption. Secondary industries are developing rapidly and more electric power is required. The Snowy Mountains Scheme, which has cost 160 million Australian pounds ($358,400,000) so far, will water 1,000 square miles of arid land in Southeastern Australia and increase Australia's 1958 electric-generating capacity by 60 percent.

The Australian Alps cover a larger area and receive more snowfall than the Alps of Switzerland, but formerly the Snowy River took more than half the melted snow in a torrential rush to the near-by sea. On the other side of the Great Dividing Range two big rivers, the Murrumbidgee and the Murray, travel westward across almost all the width of lower New South Wales and Victoria, eventually joining forces before entering the next State of South Australia, where the joined stream heads southward to the ocean. [See maps page 12.—Ebs.]

On their meandering way across hundreds of miles of Western plains, the two rivers, since about 1885, have been put to work irrigating 1½ million acres—which is not nearly enough. Time and again disastrous droughts have limited their flow.

But in late 1949 began the gigantic task of turning the waters of the Snowy River westward, into the channels of the Murray and Murrumbidgee.

On the highest point of the mountains, Mount Kosciusko itself, the Upper Snowy River falls rapidly from 7,000 to 3,500 feet, and along here three power stations will tap its energy. At the lower level the waters of the Upper Snowy will drop through a shaft into a 22-foot-wide, 15-mile tunnel to be driven westward under the main mountain range—to feed the Murray River and generate more electricity in a fall of an additional 2,500 feet. If not needed immediately, they will instead be routed northeast and stored for future use in Lake Eucumbene.

In a similar manner, far to the north, the waters of the Tumut River, which normally find their own way to the Murrumbidgee River, can, at times of high flow, be turned back through a 21-foot-wide, 14-mile tunnel under the main mountain range to be stored also in Lake Eucumbene—for future discharge down the Tumut River when required.

Lake Eucumbene, on the Eucumbene River, a major tributary of the Snowy, is the focal point of the Scheme, and has been created by building one of the highest earth-and-rock-fill dams in the world. In addition to the waters of the three rivers already mentioned—namely, the Eucumbene, the Tumut, and the Snowy—the upper waters of the Tooma and Murrumbidgee rivers are diverted through tunnels each about nine miles long, to be stored in this same lake, for eventual discharge through either of the two main tunnels to the Murray or the Tumut River.

Lake Eucumbene, which will eventually cover an area of 55 square miles, commenced storing the waters of the Eucumbene River in 1957. Two years later, upon completion of Tumut Pond Dam and the transmountain tunnel, the waters of the Tumut River were added. Recently the Tooma and the Upper Murrumbidgee rivers were diverted and in another three years the Upper Snowy will add its peak flows. Already the waters stretch back 20 miles from the dam.

Below the level of this reservoir and along the general course of the Tumut River will be a series of power stations to develop electricity from the 2,500-foot fall of the water. Some of the larger stations are underground in huge caverns excavated inside the mountains. Here the water rushes through a tunnel from a storage pond, drops down shafts to the power station, and then flows back to the river at its lower elevation through another tunnel. The water is then again impounded and the process repeated. Other smaller stations will be built adjacent to dams on the river itself.

After passing through the last power station, water is impounded in a reservoir and released as irrigation water is needed.

At present the first station, Tumut 1, is operating and Tumut 2 is almost ready. These two stations will generate 600,000 kilowatts. (The entire project eventually will generate 2½ to 3 million kilowatts.) On the diversion to the Murray River much the same pattern of power development will be followed. In this case the waters will finally discharge into the Hume Reservoir to regulate the waters for irrigation needs.

PERHAPS a unique feature of the Scheme is the system of concrete pipes embedded in the mountain which collect the waters from numerous small streams and divert the flow into tunnels or reservoirs at the highest possible elevations. Water which joins the Snowy River below the point where it drops down the shaft to the main tunnel will be collected in another reservoir and then pumped up approximately 600 feet to the main tunnel.

Such a massive and complex project as the Snowy Mountains Scheme takes a generation to accomplish; the two main power stations of the Snowy-Murray Highest peak of the Snowy Mountain range is 7,314-foot Mount Kosciusko. The Snowy River rises on this range, which is snow-covered a good part of the year.

Water backed up by a dam floods the valleys near a construction camp reached by a twisting road. Roads built during the project will remain for tourists.

Tunnellers rig up scaffolding at the face of the Tumut 2 tailrace tunnel. The 280,000-kilowatt Tumut 2 project is the second of five hydroelectric developments on the Tumut River. The power station itself is 800 feet underground.

Maps indicate the vast scope of the Snowy Mountains Scheme. The small map above shows how the Murray and Murrumbidgee rivers originate in the Snowy Mountains near the east coast of Southeastern Australia and flow hundreds of miles westward through arid country. The dark areas are irrigated land. Irrigation water will be greatly increased by preventing water from flowing down the Snowy River and diverting it to the Murray and Murrumbidgee. The Tumut River is a tributary of the Murrumbidgee. The legend in the corner of the map at left is helpful in understanding the diversion system. Tunnels carry water under mountains to connect natural bodies of water; in some, flow is reversed at certain times of the year to stock-pile water in lakes for future use. Heart of the Snowy Mountains Scheme is Lake Eucumbene, which was made by damming the Eucumbene River.

The townsite of Adaminaby was due to flood when the reservoir of the Eucumbene Dam began to fill up; the town was moved six miles.

The 283-foot-high Tumut Pond Dam, completed in 1958, stretches 817 feet across a gorge immediately below the outlet of Eucumbene-Tumut Tunnel.

Cooma, N.S.W., site of the administrative and scientific headquarters of the Snowy Mountains Scheme, has grown from 2,200 to 10,000 people.

development, for example, will not be finished until the period 1966-70, and subsidiary projects will come even later. But as each step of the project is completed, immediate benefits follow.

Already Lake Eucumbene is providing enough additional water to irrigate 90 square miles of desert land; by 1963 it will provide enough for 260 square miles, and eventually enough for 1,000 square miles. As power stations are completed, they whirl into action and start producing the electricity which will pay back the Commonwealth Government for its investment—for the project is designed to pay for itself even though no revenue is to be received for the irrigation water.

To accomplish the task, the Scheme Authority gathered in a labor force of men from 30 nations. In the face of a labor shortage in Australia, labor was recruited intensively in New Zealand, Britain, and Europe. More than 600 tradesmen from West Germany were signed to an initial two-year contract. Immigrants, and many workers brought to Australia from Norway and Northern Italy by contractors, joined the force.

Skills and knowledge developed in other countries long experienced in hydroelectric work were needed. The United States Bureau of Reclamation helped in designing the elegant concrete-arch Tumut Pond Dam and the rock-and-earth-filled Eucumbene Dam. The [Continued on page 52]

In the Center of Things— Cooma Rotary

TO SEE best the meaning and effects of the Snowy Mountains Scheme, you first visit the boom town of Cooma, site of its headquarters and the men who run it—many of whom you'll meet when you "make up" at the local Rotary Club. Three mayors are among the Rotarians who have shaped the town's decade of fivefold growth, as new stores and houses and streets and schools have been built, as more tourists have discovered the joys of Alpine skiing and sight-seeing, of fishing and boating in the man-made lakes of Kosciusko State Park.

Club Vice-President Hugh Dawson runs a tourist service.

Police Inspector Oss Lynch has kept Cooma's crime rate low.

Schools Inspector John Yubsley, Scheme official "Bill" Joyce backed this hostel for out-of-town school children.

Rotarians Keep Wheels Turning in Headquarters Town

IN A BOOM town, everything booms. As the base of operations for the Snowy Mountains Scheme, Cooma has grown from 2,200 to 10,000 in a decade. Other thousands populate area construction settlements, and the two new towns of North Cooma and East Cooma have been built. The boom necessitated more water, sewerage, streets, houses (two new ones every week), churches, seven new Cooma schools with 2,200 enrolled, 40 more rural schools, a 100-bed hospital, tourist facilities (and an ambulance service for skiers), taxis, fuel, food, and clothing. Pictured here is a cross-section of the 45 Rotarians who keep the base humming.

Lofty Symbol

NEAR the little seaside resort of Lorne, Victoria, you cross a foothill of the Great Dividing Range which borders the coastline of Southeastern Australia, and see, ten miles in the distance, a white Rotary emblem etched on a green hillside. Having already viewed for yourself the enthusiasm and seriousness with which Rotary is practiced by the nearly 17,000 members of Australia's 416 Clubs, you are not totally surprised by this outward display, but you are impressed. Closer inspection reveals an authentic Rotary wheel at least 60 feet in diameter, made of thin slabs of white rock anchored in the side of the hill. It was put there by the Rotary Club of Hawthorn just before it hosted the 1960 Conference of District 280. And it will likely greet future Conferencegoers, for Lorne, 80 miles southwest of Melbourne and about 300 miles southwest of the great Snowy Mountains project described on previous pages, has long been a favorite site for the annual get-together. The emblem is in a guarded place, on public land, and District 280 Rotarians expect it to last a long, long time, for it is made of almost indestructible material—which is not to say that it is expected to outlast Rotary itself in this land of wide-open spaces and hearty people who know a good emblem when they see it.

The size of the 60-foot-diameter emblem is best appreciated up close—as Mrs. Allan R. Patterson, wife of one of the persons most responsible for it, is here finding out for herself.

Making the Most of the Mature Worker—A Symposium

A FOREWORD

By THOMAS C. DESMOND

Member, New York State Senate, 1930-58; Chairman Emeritus, New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of the Ageing

DESPITE the current economic slowdown, most experts everywhere appear to agree that the economies of many nations are poised for rapid growth during the next ten years. This will require full utilization of manpower resources.

In the United States, for example, economists are confidently predicting a gross national product (total value of goods and services) of 750 billion dollars by 1970, or 50 percent higher than today. That level of activity will require 87 million workers, compared to the 74 million in the labor force at present.

Where will these new millions of workers come from? Mostly, of course, from a growing population. The largest increases in numbers will be among those under 25 and over 45. There will be 5½ million more U. S. workers over 45 in the next decade; but studies have shown that these 45-plus workers encounter resistance in finding employment.

On the horizon of every businessman today are two distinct possibilities: a manpower squeeze and the growing pressure of Government intervention.

Seven States—New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, and Oregon—already have laws barring discrimination in employment against older workers. The United States Senate Subcommittee on Problems of the Aged and Ageing has urged the other 43 States to consider similar legislation.

Is legislation the answer? What are the alternatives?

The New York State Committee on Problems of the Ageing has devoted much time and attention to the problem. Recently we enlisted the aid of some of the top industrial, labor, and public figures in the nation. We asked them simply this: "In your opinion, is legislation the answer to ending age discrimination in employment? If not, what do you see as the solution to increasing employment opportunities for the 45-plus?"

Here, in brief, is what some of them told us:

It's hard to get a job when you're over 40.

Should legislation open the door? Here are

AWAKEN THE PUBLIC CONSCIENCE

ERWIN D. CANHAM

President of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in 1959, Mr. Canham is editor of The Christian Science Monitor. In 1949 he served as an alternate delegate to the General Assembly of the United Nations.

IT SEEMS to me all of us interested in the problem, and particularly those in business, must hammer away against the employment practices of those who discriminate. An awakening of public conscience, under the stern fire of public opinion, can do a great deal to mitigate the problem.

One can also appeal to business self-interest, since with proper retraining and personnel practices immense value can be derived from the capacities of those allegedly over-age.

I do not believe legislation is in any way an adequate answer. Any legislation I have heard of would be considerably too drastic and restrictive. It might well defeat its own ends.

EDUCATION IS THE ANSWER

DAVID SARNOFF

Chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, Mr. Sarnoff is a brigadier general in the U. S. Army Reserve. Born in Russia, he began his career at 15 as a cable-company messenger.

THE PROBLEM of employment of older people obviously differs from other situations where discrimination is apt to occur. The employer seeks to hire the person who can perform in the current job and who has the development capacity to fill new jobs as they evolve. It is in this area that education and better understanding may enable the employer to be more flexible in his approach.

On the other hand, the older worker, consciously or otherwise, tends to develop his own ideas as to the amount of mental or physical effort he thinks he can or should exert. The older worker may be unaware that his skills are becoming obsolete and may resist adjusting to new processes, new techniques, and new products. Better orientation of the older worker and an increased awareness by him of the need to remain flexible in such matters can be approached once again through the educational process.

In terms of organizing this educational effort, I believe the State should take the lead, but with the active and coordinated participation of employer associations, industry trade groups, and fraternal, service, and civic organizations. Such a program should be aimed at:

1. Helping the employer to understand the contribution that the older worker can make and the need for both industry and the country to use such workers properly.

2. Helping the older worker to understand both his assets and his limitations so that he can recognize the right job for him and be happy in it.

3. Training workers in upgrading their skills, knowledge, and abilities so as to meet the changing requirements of industry.

I believe that the approach outlined above will produce better long-term results than any legislative program.

UNIONS TIE OUR HANDS

R. CONRAD COOPER

Executive vice-president, personnel services, United States Steel Corporation, Mr. Cooper started his career as a field engineer for a cement company, has been in the steel industry since 1937.

ONE OF the principal reasons that it sometimes appears that men over 40 find difficulty in securing new employment is that positions on the level which such candidates generally seek are filled from within. Obviously, such a practice has the effect of reducing the new job opportunities for outside applicants regardless of their attained age.

The other aspect of this situation, such as the seniority provisions of the various labor agreements United States Steel has negotiated with unions representing its employees, presents a different kind of problem. Such provisions, designed to protect the attained seniority of existing employees, operate generally so as to limit the kind of jobs to which new employees can be assigned. Except for certain skilled occupations, where shortages are known to exist, such assignments are generally in beginner classifications.

Beyond the point of initial hiring, the seniority provisions control advancement to higher-rated jobs for people represented by the union. Where the factors of ability and physical fitness are equal, promotions within the bargaining unit are based upon the length of continuous service. The same factors are considered at the time of force reductions. Thus, where continuous service is the determining factor, men joining the corporation in their later years face a problem with respect to promotion as well as a threat of being laid off before younger workers who have accumulated sufficient continuous service to protect them from such a layoff.

The solution to increasing employment opportunities for the 40-plus could come in several ways. Efforts could be made to give prime consideration to employees in this age group in recall from layoff where not restricted by labor agreements. Similarly, attention can be given to older workers whose physical condition has become impaired or whose abilities have diminished by considering them for transfer to lighter or more suitable work in lieu of dismissal.

As a matter of interest, it may be also noted that despite an increase in population, there have been various predictions of an actual labor shortage within the present decade. Such a shortage may well contribute to the solution.

U. S. LABOR DEPARTMENT COPE WITH THE PROBLEM

JAMES P. MITCHELL

U. S. Secretary of Labor during almost all of the Eisenhower Administration. Mr. Mitchell, originally a personnel expert for private firms, has also served as Assistant Secretary of the Army.

THE UNITED STATES Labor Department has been attacking the problem of equal job opportunities for middle-aged and older workers through (1) research studies to determine the facts about the employment and employability of older persons; (2) educational programs to eliminate bias toward employment of older workers; and (3) job counselling and placement services to older workers through our public employment offices. With regard to the placement program, it is encouraging that during the calendar year 1959 more than 1,185,000 placements of persons 45 and over were made. These placements represented 19.4 percent of nonagricultural job placements of all applicants, and were 17.7 percent above similar placements effected the preceding year.

At this time, I believe that the key to solving the problem of unrealistic age restrictions in hiring lies primarily in an intensive educational campaign, from national, state, and local levels, directed at employers and the general public. I feel that we should continue to concentrate our efforts and resources on the voluntary measures represented by the three methods of approach outlined above, and attempt to gauge their effectiveness.

For some time now, the Labor Department has been carefully studying the desirability and feasibility of antidiscrimination legislation related to age. It is now in the process of analyzing the experiences of those States having such legislation. Thus far there is no apparent indication that such laws in themselves are able to effectuate a real and permanent solution to the employment problems facing older workers. I believe that the answer lies mainly in achieving acceptance by employers of the principle that it is really a sound employment practice to consider job seekers on the basis of their individual qualifications without regard to age.

OLDER WORKERS JUST AS GOOD

CONRAD N. HILTON

Son of a Norwegian-born merchant, of San Antonio, Tex., Mr. Hilton bought his first hotel in 1919, now has a string of 41. The Hilton Hotels Corporation he heads is the largest of the hotel chains.

IT SEEMS to me that there is no valid rule of thumb that can set an age at which any man or woman is not an able employee. No two people are alike—mentally, morally, or physically. So why say that people over 40 are less alert than those under that age? Or that people have to retire at age 65?

In the hotel industry, with which I am obviously most familiar, we employ a great many men and women of 40 and over. Most of them, except for purely physical heavy labor, are just as efficient as many of their associates who are much younger. A good waiter is a good waiter whether he is 25 or 50—or 60 or 70. A housekeeper's sense of cleanliness and order has nothing whatsoever to do with her age. Our top executives are well over 40. If they were not able, our corporation, which is large and efficiently managed, would surely replace them.

I note with interest that a number of large companies have raised the mandatory retirement age from 65 to 68 for men; from 60 to 65 for women—with exceptions made for even a longer term of service if reviews indicate they are merited. I note, also, certain surveys showing that 60 percent of employees forced to retire at 65 want to keep on working—and that 53 percent of them went out searching for jobs.

I hope legislation is not required to convince industry that an employee is only as old as his work record indicates. I hope that far-seeing employers, through further education and self-examination, can be convinced of this. But if there is no other way out, I suppose I could agree that the only remedy is legislative action of some sort.

WHAT IS THE CAUSE?

BERNARD M. BARUCH

An economic adviser to U. S. Presidents Wilson, F. D. Roosevelt, and Truman, former stock broker Bernard Baruch, now 90, has long been famed as a sage and as the "grand old man of U. S. finance."

IHAVE no views as to how you can force anybody to take anyone into his employ, except perhaps in a government job or a tax-free institution. This problem in our State is accentuated by the large number of people who come in from other States or other countries. Also, it is deeply affected by the establishment by American interests in other countries, of production units where labor is cheaper. Goods are imported here, even with the duties, and undersell American production.

What is the cause of unemployment of people above 40? That should be the first inquiry.

TOO COMPLEX FOR LEGISLATION

CARROL M. SHANKS

Until his recent retirement, Mr. Shanks was president of the Prudential Insurance Company of America. A one-time Yale law professor, he handled Prudential legal matters, became head in '45.

THE PROBLEM of jobs for people over 40 is not, I think, one problem but several. Some of the unemployed at these ages are perfectly competent people who are out of work through no fault of their own and who have skills needed in the market place. Perhaps, for example, the companies that employed them have failed and gone out of business. These people should not be too great a problem. They are desirable employees, more reliable in many cases than younger ones, and a prosperous economy should absorb them.

Others are out of work through no fault of their own, but perhaps possess only skills no longer needed, made obsolete by technical advances. The progress of automation in the years ahead may cause some unemployment of this kind, although at the Prudential employees have been told that no one will lose his job for this reason. All such people will be kept and retrained. As a matter of fact, they generally go on to higher-paying jobs than they had before.

A third group—and this unfortunately is a sizable group—consists of people who are marginal at best—the unstable, the alcoholics, the drifters, and some whose intelligence is too low to enable them to hold a job of any consequence. Of course, these people exist at all ages, and it would be a mistake to think of their problems as problems stemming from age. The people in the Prudential Employment Bureau tell me that of the job applicants aged 40 and up many fall into this third group.

In view of all these considerations, I do not feel that legislation is the answer to the problem. The considerations as to whether or not to hire a given job applicant are so complex that to attempt to police such legislation would, it seems to me, be far more expensive than the results could justify.

UNIONS FAVOR LEGISLATION

WALTER P. REUTHER

President of the C.I.O. division of the A.F.ofL.-C.I.O. and of the U.A.W., Walter Reuther organized auto workers in Detroit, is now one of the top U. S. leaders and spokesmen for organized labor.

OUR UNION has long been concerned with the problems of age discrimination in employment. It was not too many years ago when a production worker stood in fear and trepidation of his 40th birthday, because he saw many "old-timers" lose their jobs during seasonal shutdowns or layoffs because they were "too old" in the minds of the foreman or the employment manager.

The drives for the protection of seniority and later for pension benefits by our union were motivated by our efforts to combat this ruthless and heartless scrapping of human resources during the prime years of productivity. Seniority continues to offer maximum protection to the older worker so long as his job, his department, his plant, and the company he works for continue to exist. But with rapid technological change and automation came reorganizations, mergers of companies, relocation of plants, and reallocation of job duties and assignments.

The result is that many old-timers lose their jobs, because the jobs, or the plants, or even the corporation in which they were employed no longer exist. And once they lose their old job the men past 40 or 45, and the women past 30 or 35, have great difficulty in finding new ones. There are still, for example, hundreds, if not thousands, of Hudson and Packard workers in Michigan in the older age groups who have never found full-time employment since these companies merged with others in the early part of the last decade.

Through collective bargaining we have attempted to protect these workers, but our best efforts have been inadequate to meet their needs fully. That is why anti-age discrimination legislation is important.

The most obvious and practical solution to the employment problems of middle-aged and older workers would obviously be to put America back to work, as advocated by the United Auto Workers and the A.F. of L.-C.I.O.

However, even a significant upturn in employment will not completely solve the unemployment problems of middle-aged and older workers, as evidenced by the Department of Labor's studies in this field, done in 1947, 1950, 1953, 1955, and 1956. These were all years of comparatively full employment, and yet it was found with almost unbelievable consistency that, whereas about one-third of the job seekers were 45 years of age and older, almost two-thirds of the orders placed by employers with employment offices carried age discriminatory specifications and only about one-sixth of those placed in jobs by the public employment services were 45 years of age and over. Discriminatory age requirements listed by employers began at age 30 or 35 for women in white collar and semiskilled jobs and became acute for men in most occupational fields at age 40 or 45.

There will be many arguments advanced against such legislation, as there were against other forms of antidiscrimination legislation. From our knowledge and study of the problem, and the known effects of such legislation in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, and New York, we, too, could present many arguments pro and con. But all these arguments seem to me, when viewed in historical perspective, to miss the main point, and that is that the voluntary and educational methods proposed as alternatives to such legislation simply have not worked effectively. This does not mean that we should abandon the voluntary methods and expect the law to do the job all by itself. It does mean that with the law, the voluntary methods will take on more practical meaning and there will begin to be positive action on the part of employers and other groups in the community to do something about age discrimination in employment. This has been the historical pattern in dealing with problems of other forms of discrimination in employment, including race, religion, and national origin.

Of course, like any other job seeker, the middle-aged and older worker must be qualified by training, experience, aptitude, and personal characteristics to perform the job which he seeks. It would be a misrepresentation of the facts to suggest that age alone is the only barrier faced by some older job seekers. For example, some, by virtue of long attachment to a particular occupation or industry, may have become skill-rusty and will need vocational training or retraining before they can be reemployed. Another segment of the older unemployed may need vocational-rehabilitation services. Still another group needs positive assistance in choosing a change of occupation or industry; they need the specialized counselling and placement services available through employment services offices.

That is why the various legislative bodies should give serious consideration to expanded vocational training, vocational rehabilitation, job counselling, and placement services for middle-aged and older workers.

*A little more tired at close of day,
A little less anxious to have our way,
A little less ready to scold and blame,
A little more care for a brother's name;
And so we are nearing the journey's end
Where time and eternity meet and blend.*

*A little less care for bonds and gold;
A little more thought of the days of old;
A broader view and a saner mind,
And a little more love for all mankind;
A little more careful of what we say;
And so we are faring a-down the way*

*A little more love for the friends of youth,
A little less for established truth;
A little more charity in our views,
A little less thirst for the daily news;
And so we are folding our tents away
And passing in silence at close of day.*

*A little more leisure to sit and dream,
A little more real the things unseen;
A little bit nearer to those ahead,
With visions of those long-loved and dead;
And so we are going where all must go,
To the place the living may never know.*

*A little more laughter, a little more tears,
And we shall have tolled our increasing years;
A book is closed and the prayers are said,
And we soon are a part of the countless dead.

Growing Old

INVITATION TO WORLD UNDERSTANDING WEEK MARCH 19-25

Fellow Rotarians in all Countries!

This is an appeal for your concentrated attention and wholehearted cooperation in a matter of extreme urgency. The times call for every member of our world fellowship to live Rotary, express it, and expand its influence in the field of world affairs. Mankind is being dragged down into confusion and drawn toward destruction by the dominance of self in relations between nations. Only the strenuous application of the ideal of "Service above Self" can avert disaster.

What can we do?

We can act together as half a million dedicated leaders in the communities of 120 countries. In a simultaneous surge of action, we can share this ideal with millions of our neighbors who are not Rotarians and join with them in applying it to the grave issues that confront the world.

How can we do it?

The date is set for our simultaneous effort—World Understanding Week, March 19-25, 1961. But the preparations must start now! Practical suggestions are being made to all Rotary Club Presidents. I leave it to you to adopt and enlarge upon this "kit" of suggestions as opportunities are opened to you.

Make Rotary live where we live in the growth of world understanding; express Rotary during this special observance so that its ideals may be expanded into the hearts and minds of all men.

I am confident that your Club and every one of our 11,000 Rotary Clubs will respond to this appeal.

J. EDD MCLAUGHLIN
PRESIDENT

INVITATION TO WORLD UNDERSTANDING WEEK

Seattle Looks Ahead to Century 21

The largest city of the U. S. Northwest plans a futuristic world's fair for 1962.

By MURIEL LEDERER

FOR THE FIRST TIME since 1939, when both New York and San Francisco played hosts to all nations, the United States in 1962 will be the site of a true world's fair.

Now rising in Seattle, Washington, not far from Puget Sound, is the Century 21 Exposition—planned as a "preview of the world of tomorrow . . . how man will live, work, and play in the year 2000."

The Exposition is slated to extend, appropriately, from April 21, 1962, to October 21, 1962. Seattle Rotarian Edward E. Carlson, board chairman of the fair, expects that a good many Rotary couples bound to or from the 1962 Convention of Rotary International in Los Angeles, California, will be among the 10 million visitors expected.

Fair guests will be whisked in 96 seconds from the center of Seattle to the Exposition grounds a mile away on a sleek monorail train. Once there they can ascend by elevator to the top of the theme structure

During ground-breaking ceremonies for the Century 21 Coliseum, three notables join in cutting a cake modelled after the structure. They are: speaker of the day Dr. John P. Hagen, of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration; Seattle Rotarian Edward E. Carlson, chairman of the board of Century 21; and Paul Thiry, primary architect of the building—which has no interior supports.

This scene does not exist—yet. Art and photography have been blended to show the Century 21 Exposition as it will appear on opening day, April 21, 1962. A 550-foot "Space Needle" observation tower rises between the U. S. Science Pavilion and the Washington State Pavilion. The "World of Century 21" will be housed in the large structure in the foreground, surrounded by exhibits of the "World of Commerce and Industry," Sports and "spectaculars" will be presented in the stadium, and various arts in buildings near it.

Arching towers symbolizing man's continuing quest for knowledge rise from a model of the U. S. Science Pavilion, which will house some of the fair's most striking exhibits.

of the fair—a 550-foot "Space Needle" tower topped by a revolving observation platform and 200-seat restaurant that will make a complete revolution each hour, affording a panoramic view of the lakes, mountains, and salt water surrounding Seattle.

Looking straight down on the 74-acre Exposition site, the revolving observers will see the "Five Worlds of Century 21": the Worlds of Science, of Century 21, of Commerce and Industry, of Art, and of Entertainment.

Core of the Exposition will be the "World of Science," with both U. S. and non-U. S. exhibits. The U. S. science exhibit, feature of a 9-million-dollar Federal program of fair participation, will be larger in size and scope than the U. S. exhibit at the 1958 Brussels, Belgium, World's Fair.

In the "World of Science," fair visitors will learn how researchers are approaching such problems as how to determine human sex before birth; motivate man to do good; give him longer, healthier life; create sheltering weather; and provide enough food for the world's burgeoning population. The science exhibit will be capped by a "trip into space," in a planetarium-like "spacearium," where visitors view the planets as though from a speeding space ship.

In the second "World," the "World of Century 21," international exhibits housed on three levels under an 11-story-high roof will depict man's environment

Construction is under way on the 4-million-dollar Coliseum to house the "World of Century 21" exhibits. The Exposition is being managed by a nonprofit corporation with the support of the U. S. Government, the State of Washington, and the city of Seattle, and has acquired an investment potential of over 77 million dollars.

The Coliseum of the "World of Century 21," shown here in model form, will cover 3½ acres, rise to a height of 11 stories, and contain three levels on which many nations will portray life as envisioned for the year 2000.

in the next century, with models and prototypes of the goods and products he will be using.

In covered and open areas around the "World of Century 21" building will be international exhibits comprising the "World of Commerce and Industry," where various nations will depict their achievements in commerce and industry since the dawn of the Space Age, and where private industry will display its contemporary achievements and dreams for the future. In the "World of Art," nations will present their best artists and art productions, and art forms ranging from traditional fine handicrafts to new uses of the visual arts and the most advanced industrial design.

The "World of Entertainment" will feature international performing arts in the concert auditorium and arena, where the latest dance, music, and drama from the five continents will be staged—this in addition to sports and "spectaculars" in the stadium and futuristic rides and games.

More international flavor will be added by bazaars, restaurants, shops, and entertainment from all over the world present in the 15 acres of Boulevards of the World, connecting the various "Worlds."

Eighty-five nations were invited to participate in the Exposition by the President of the United States, and already Canada, Japan, Yugoslavia, Vietnam, and the Ivory Coast have reserved space.

Once the fair is over, instead of crumbling into desolation, the Exposition area, with its concert hall, exhibit hall, theater, stadium, and armory, will become Seattle's model new Civic Center. For more than 75 percent of the buildings being constructed for the Exposition will be permanent structures housing cultural, convention, and sports programming for the area.

Thus, in one ambitious but prudent project, the city is bettering the future of its own citizens while stimulating peoples of all the world to look ahead.

Talk 'Shorthand Japanese'

Fourth in a series of 'Little Lessons in Japanese'

EVEN without knowing a bit of Japanese grammar, with the use of memorized nouns and appropriate sign language you can get along remarkably well in Japanese. The Japanese themselves dispense with a good many parts of speech that appear in other languages.

On this page is a collection of nouns that will come in handy for Rotarians and their families planning to attend the 1961 Convention of Rotary International in Tokyo, Japan, May 28-June 1. If they haven't already, of course, they'll want to preface this fourth lesson in this Magazine's series on "Little Lessons in Japanese" by working the lessons that appeared in the December, January, and February issues.

All lessons are drawn from Samuel B. Martin's handbook, Easy Japanese, with the permission of the publisher, the Charles E. Tuttle Company, of Rutland, Vermont, and Tokyo, Japan.

American clothes	yōf'ku
Japanese clothes	waf'ku
ticket	kippu
this one	kore
this . . .	kono . . .
that one (near you)	sore

In these lessons, the Japanese is presented in a modified version of the Hepburn romanization.

Consonants are pronounced about as they are in English. "G" is always pronounced hard, as in "garland." (But in the middle of a word, it is often pronounced through the nose, as in "singer.")

Vowels are pronounced about as they are in Italian:

a	as in	father
e	as in	met
i	as in	marine
o	as in	solo
u	as in	lulu

These vowels are shorter than English vowels; the long vowels (marked ā, ō, ū, ī, and ei or ē) are a little longer and tenser than the English sounds like them.

Silent vowels. When an "i" or a "u" is to be slurred in speaking, an apostrophe will replace it.

Syllables are very short, only two or three roman characters. When two consonants occur together, the first forms a syllable by itself.

Accent as we know it is almost missing in the Japanese language. For the purposes of these lessons, try to stress all syllables the same.

TRANSLATION

A: This—what (is it)? B: That—(it is) cigarettes. Please (have one). A: Thank you. (Have you) a match? B: Yes, please (help yourself). A: Thank you. B: Not at all. A: (Will it be) water? Beer? Milk? B: Milk. A: Yes, sir, here you are. B: Thank you.

A: Say. B: Yeah. A: This—what (is it)? B: That—(it is) clothing. A: Oh? B: American clothes? B: No, Japanese clothes.

A: This book—What (is it)? B: That book—(it is) a textbook.

A: Excuse me, this pencil—(is it) you (it belongs to)? B: No, me—(the one which belongs to me, or the one which I am using, is) that pencil over there. That pencil (near you)—please, you (take it). A: Thanks.

TIPS

By now you find you can say a great many things with very little in the way of grammar. Just stringing the words together with appropriate pauses is enough to convey a lot of meaning. Japanese often talk this way, but they also often add various elements to make the meaning clearer. We will learn about these elements little by little. Notice that a Japanese word has a much wider, and vaguer, meaning than the corresponding English word. Tabako means not only "cigarettes" but "a cigarette," "the cigarette," "some cigarettes," "a pack of cigarettes," etc. Anata can mean "you," "yours," "the one you are going to use," etc. Of course when the Japanese wants to be specific, he has ways to narrow the meaning down, but usually he finds it unnecessary to be too specific. Do not worry about little English words (like a, the, some, none, it, you, me, etc.) which often do not appear in the Japanese sentences. Japanese speakers, like Japanese artists, can achieve great effects with a few nicely poised strokes—they leave all they can to your imagination. This is part of the charm.

A splendid reminder of the early Tokugawa days (1600-1868) in Japanese history is Yomeimon Gate at Nikko, some 90 miles north of Tokyo.

Japan

Her People...and Why I Love Them

By WILLIAM B. DAZEY

Counsellor at Law; Rotarian, Houston, Tex.

I TAKE OFF MY HAT to the Rotarians of Japan. I bow to all 16,500 of them in their 399 communities from Wakkensi to Kanoya. They have taken on a very large job: the entertainment of Rotary's 1961 Convention in Tokyo—in May. They have taken it on with a joy and a zeal and an organizational skill which have convinced me, as they convinced our President, J. Edd McLaughlin,* that the '61 Convention "is going to be the most unusual, most beautiful, most colorful, and most meaningful Convention in Rotary history."

They are going to achieve this despite the fact that the city in which they will entertain us was rubble filled just 15 years ago, and despite the fact that Tokyo brims with 9 million people (one out of every ten Japanese), and despite the fact that the tourist industry of the land is still in its infancy. They may even achieve—or at least find themselves handling—the largest international convention ever held in Japan, the largest international convention ever held in Asia, the largest Rotary Convention in history in the largest city on earth.

Have I gone off the deep end? Maybe. Maybe not. I don't think so. I have seen the Japanese Rotarians at work on our Convention. I know the Japanese people, I think, and I need not point out that I have a distinct bias toward them—an empathy which antedates World War II. Nothing that happened to me while I soldiered in an infantry division in the Pacific theater, including the sustaining of permanently crippling wounds, diminished the respect and admiration I early cultivated for these magnificent island peoples. Now, having recently completed a 14-month tour of the Land of the Rising Sun, I'm a firm Japanophile.

Do you know the history of Japan? Only by considering the development of the country in the light of its astonishingly swift transitions can we begin to appreciate the unique character of the Japanese people.

Just 101 years ago, when my country opened diplomatic relations with Japan, the nation was as rigidly feudalistic as ever England was prior to the date of the signing of the Magna Carta in A.D. 1215. The lords of the lands had absolute dominion over the peoples residing in their respective fiefs, a dominion enforced by a ruthless caste of fighting men known as samurai. The vast majority of people were abject serfs whose obedience was compelled not by the musket with which brother slaughtered brother in the U.S.A. in the early 1860s, but by the dreadful two-handed samurai sword.

In 1868 a young Emperor named Meiji took the dynastic reins and began reforms so drastic and so effective as to confound every student of history we know. He began an era known as "The Restoration" which enabled the Japanese people, in less than 30 years, to leap the gap between feudalism and industrialism—a gap which took the Western nations centuries to bridge. In 1872, Meiji promulgated a Constitution which was carefully drawn to extract the best features of both English and American organic law, but preserving the tight governmental control which had kept the Japanese people disciplined and obedient through thousands of years of feudalism.

By 1900 smoke was belching from ultramodern factories, and Japan was reaching into China for the raw materials necessary to slake the insatiable appetite of a highly organized industrial economy. In 1905 Japan's newly acquired knowledge of modern military weapons, applied by her soldiers' ancient spirit of Bushido, enabled her to defeat overwhelmingly the armies of Russia on the mainland of China and then completely crush the Czar's proud navy.

Japan emerged from World War I the only member of the victorious Allies who was in a far stronger position than she was when she entered the war. Her deft diplomacy at the peace tables enabled her to solidify her territorial gains in China and to consolidate her areas of influence among the islands surrounding her in the Pacific Ocean. In 1941, less than 90 years after she discarded her feudalistic obsolescence, the imperial Japanese armies and navy, backed by her amazingly efficient industrial complex, swept one-fifth of the earth's surface into her exclusive sphere of influence, and two-thirds of the world's peoples trembled at her political and military aggressions.

But every nation has enjoyed political and military successes of one kind or another. The gauge of the national character of a people, it seems to me, is taken far more accurately by the manner in which she meets defeat. In 1945 these warrior people, never before defeated in international conflict, were beaten into unconditional surrender. While it must be said—to my country's credit—that its occupation of Japan was one of the most enlightened and sympathetic in the history of mankind, it must also be admitted that there has never been so thorough and dedicated an effort to change completely the lives of a vanquished people. Not a single phase of Japanese life escaped the searching scrutiny and the radical surgery of U. S. military, political, economic, social, and educational postwar experts.

We Americans deliberately attempted to crush Shintoism, a quasi-religious cult which had formed the core of the spiritual background of Japanese soldiers. (Unwilling to admit that even an indigent people could place so high a regard on duty to one's country as to make the line soldier the dedicated instrument of war he was, we decided he was motivated by some sort of a religious fanaticism and concluded by the Cartesian method that the elimination of Shintoism would emasculate him!)

We insisted on a redistribution of land so extensive that thousands of families which had existed for centuries on the fruits of sorely ridden tenants were suddenly stripped of their possessions and obliged to seek new economic horizons in a land already hard pressed to find jobs for her regular working people.

We smashed the zaibatsu, the great and uniquely Japanese combinations of industry and finance, upon which the nation had built her vast military capacities. The initial hammer blows against these combinations were directed without regard to the fact that the ability of the Japanese to survive in this age of intense international competition was being greatly impaired.

Labor unions were encouraged, in an attempt to buttress the efforts of the people to achieve a truly democratic form of government, and then we confused these very people by reversing our policies when we became alarmed at the growing strength of international Communism.

We invaded the domestic lives of individual Japanese families by insisting that women be granted, in one fell swoop, the rights that feminists in Western nations had struggled 200 years to achieve. This in a nation in which the traditional place of women has been notable for its complete subordination.

Most important, we obliged the Emperor of Japan to disclaim publicly any divinity, a disclaimer which ran head on into the very warp and woof of the social fabric which most sociologists agree had enabled Japan to perform her stupendous evolution from abject and sterile feudalism to immense industrial vitality in less than a century.

And yet, despite the trauma of these events, the Japanese have created a nation which now has a gross national product of more than 30 billion dollars annually! In less than 15 years she has become a respected and independent member of the world family of nations. In 1959, as a result of the ceaseless toil of these men and women, Japan became a dollar creditor of the United States! Its progress dwarfs that of France and Italy and East Germany and surpasses even that of West Germany.

Even more important than all this, Japan—despite an almost obsessive fear of war—has resolutely and with an almost sublime courage aligned herself with the nations of the West against Communism. She has forfeited many opportunities for reviving trade with Red China, her nearest and historically her greatest market, and she suffers constant penalty from Russia for her friendship with the U.S.A. The Russians have steadfastly refused to sign a peace treaty with her and continue to cripple her economic efforts. As you know, the Japanese people exist on fish as the main staple of their diet. The Russians are plaguing them with constant encroachments on their fishing rights, holding out the implicit promise of an adjustment of these difficulties in exchange for a rupture of their ties with the U.S.A.

If one considers the fact that Japan's island of Hokkaido is within easy small-boat distance of Russian territory on the north and that only a few hundred miles separate her from the mainland of China and North Korea, and if one views these physical facts in light of her unique experiences as being the only nation in the world which has actually experienced the horrors of nuclear war, one can but marvel that the demonstrations which took place in Japan in mid-'60—and which I witnessed as an unattached civilian—were so restrained. To speak of them just briefly, they were instigated by teachers, students, and labor unionists who were firmly persuaded that Japan can and should be a neutral, patterned after the position of Switzerland in the world; not one tailored to the hegemony of the West in the mode of Great Britain. After all, there are 600 million hostile Chinese and another 600 million fearful mortals at her very doorstep.

I assure you that the wondrously hospitable people of Japan, regardless of their political sentiments, will welcome you, Mr. and Mrs. Rotarian, in all walks of life regardless of how overt may be their demonstrations on political issues. After all, Rotarians of all the people should understand and applaud vigorous participation of citizens in the affairs of their country. And may we never forget that the Japanese people today stand as lonely, proud symbols of the democratic way of life in a feverish and uncertain Asia, regardless of the direction her body politic may take in international affairs.

But enough—I have already dwelt too long on the miracle of Japanese history and politics. Suffice to say that those of you who have a yen to follow Rotary's lane of International Service will find inexhaustible excitement in observing the Japanese people at work and at play.

Then there is another avenue of Rotary, a broader one, which should interest every Rotary visitor to Japan: that of Vocational Service. Nearly every Rotarian will find his vocational counterpart in Japan. For instance, the banker will find endless fascination with Japanese banking methods. Despite the fact that very few Japanese even know what a checking account is, the overwhelming majority of them use the extensive banking facilities available. To make a deposit or withdrawal, one personally visits the bank of his choice, where he is greeted by a gentleman especially employed to receive him. The customer is given a special escort to the proper window, where he initiates the transaction, and then is shown a comfortable seat in the lobby. There he spends a leisurely ten to 15 minutes passing the time of day with a neighbor and, when the proper entries are made, his escort will oversee his journey from the chair to the window where he completes the transaction. One's first reaction is one of amazed amusement. How, I think you'll ask yourself, does a nation build so thriving an economy with such a prodigious waste of time? Or is it waste?

And you, my fellow lawyer: Japanese jurisprudence is largely of German origin. The tendency since the turn of the century (particularly since World War II) has been to interpret law in the light of American and English code and stare decisis. There is just enough Japanese custom and tradition thrown in to disorient one [Continued on page 49]

The traditional straw-thatched houses of the Japanese farmers are still to be seen—but only in the mountainous hinterlands.

Riding the Rotary Range ... with President Edd

Trail the 'chief' pictorially as he visits Rotary Clubs in 24 countries.

RIDING the range—by air. The photo was taken in Chicago, Ill., as the President and his wife, Pearle, set out for Europe and Africa.

RIDING the range—by boat. The craft took President Edd from Rio de Janeiro to Governor's Island during his South American tour.

RIDING the range—a-horse. The President, on a gayly caparisoned mount, shows Arab horsemen at Cairo his Texas style.

UNDER a warm desert sun, near the pyramids outside Cairo, a band of white-robed horsemen performed for J. Edd McLaughlin, Rotary's President, and his wife, Pearle. Raised in the saddle on a Texas ranch, President Edd asked if he might try one of the mounts. Offered a sleek black one, Edd took the reins, swung up in the saddle, and rode off. "I couldn't resist it," he told his hosts, Cairo Rotarians. "I've always wanted to ride a well-trained dancing horse."

Later, as his African itinerary took him into Northern Rhodesia, another sporting thrill came to the President. While visiting the Rotary Club of Livingstone, he mentioned his enthusiasm for fishing. The next day some Livingstone Rotarians took him some 60 miles up the mighty Zambezi River, renowned among fishermen for its scrappy tiger fish and sea bream. Edd landed one tiger fish and some bream. It was a big day for Rotary's world leader—and for Rotary fellowship.

In some 60,000 miles of Rotary travels (in countries listed in the President's log at left below), President Edd and Pearle enjoyed many special occasions arranged by Rotarians and their ladies to make the Presidential visit a memorable one. But the purpose of a Presidential tour is not to go riding and fishing. Instead, it is to see Rotary at work in the countries visited, to talk with the men who help it to meet new challenges, and to inspire them to work still harder to advance Rotary's goals.

In the U.S.A. and Canada, in Europe and Africa, and in South America, President McLaughlin fulfilled this mission as he addressed scores of gatherings in nearly 100 communities in 24 lands. How many Rotarians he talked with can only be estimated in the thousands. Reporting on his travels, he wrote, "I have seen Rotary clinics for the crippled, playgrounds for the healthy, recreation centers for the aged; I have been told of Rotary youth exchanges across national boundaries; I have learned firsthand of the devotion of people to the cause of peace so that their lives and the lives of others might be better, happier ones."

In meetings with Government officials the President talked of Rotary's efforts in promoting international understanding and friendship, and found these leaders of national and state governments praiseful of the organization's work in this field. One of these officials, Farik Ibrahim Abboud, President of the Supreme Council of Sudan, received President Edd and Pearle at an afternoon tea at his residence in Khartoum.

Among the President's fondest mementos of his journeys to date is one he often pulls out of his pocket and reads to those around him. It is a clipping from a Southern Rhodesian newspaper that tells about his visit in Salisbury. The part Edd likes best says: "He's tall, he's lean, and he talks a lot. He's a Texan, but the first one I've met with whom I didn't have to indulge in a but-our-rain-is-wetter-than-yours conversation."

The photos on these and the following four pages record some of the events that high-lighted these Rotary travels on four continents.

RIDING the range—on camel. In flowing headdress President McLaughlin mounts a "ship of the desert" at Egypt's pyramids.

PRESIDENT'S ROTARY LOG: July, August, 1960—Canada and the U.S.A. September, October, 1960—Europe (Switzerland, Turkey, Greece, France, and Belgium) and Africa (United Arab Republic, Eritrea, Ethiopia, Kenya, Northern Rhodesia, Southern Rhodesia, Nyasaland, Union of South Africa, Tanganyika, Sudan, and Aden). November, December, 1960—South America (Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Paraguay, and Uruguay). In July President McLaughlin visited Japan, as reported in the September, 1960, issue.

Following a dinner meeting in Cairo with Rotarians and their ladies, President Edd and Pearle are shown a model of a new art museum to be erected. At right are Abul Ela Hanafi, Club President, and Yehia El Alaily, a Past District Governor.

An early stop on the President's African journey is in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, where Rotary became part of the community in 1955. Proud of their large collection of Club banners, Addis Ababa Rotarians display them for President McLaughlin.

Wearing his emblem of office, W. H. Olds, Mayor of Livingstone, Northern Rhodesia, attends a gathering for the First Couple of Rotary. At right is Lindsay Willman, Livingstone Rotarian. Other Rotarians and their ladies travelled from Wankie and 300 miles from Lusaka to meet and hear President McLaughlin.

In Pretoria, Union of South Africa, the President attends a one-day Rotary Information and Extension Institute conducted by RI Counsellor J. R. Webb (left), of Bulawayo, Southern Rhodesia. To his left are C. A. Cilliers, Pretoria Club President; F. E. Benjafield, Institute Secretary; District Governor Edw. Schutte, of Parys, Union of South Africa; President Edd; and District Governor James W. MacGregor, of Umtali.

Warm welcomes all along the way! This one is in Nairobi, Kenya, and is being extended to Edd and Pearle by F. W. C. Bompas, Club President. Impressed later with Nairobi's National Park, Edd complimented his hosts on their Government's maintenance of it. "People come from all over the world to see this," he said, "and you are preserving it so well."

Tea and conversation, much of it about Rotary goals, are enjoyed by the President and Sir Roy Welensky, Prime Minister of the Federation, in Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia. In Salisbury, the President met an old friend and Past Vice-President of RI, Sir Henry Low.

From Cairo to Capetown Warm Welcomes, More Meetings

DURING three weeks of Rotary visits in ten African nations, the President added several thousand miles to his Rotary log. He also strengthened his conviction that the similarities of people are greater and more important than their differences. In Nairobi, in an airport interview, he said: "No matter how much you travel, you don't get to know people until you learn what is in their hearts and minds. I am kept hopeful by the similarities of people all over the world."

In Aden the McLaughlins heard themselves called "indefatigable." Edd's reply was that "we have to move fast to see only a little of what Rotary has accomplished on this Continent."

In 1934, Paul Harris, Rotary's Founder, planted this tree in a garden in Capetown, Union of South Africa. President Edd views the plaque on its stone marker with Capetown Rotarians and Andries Dewalt de Kock (left kneeling), of Bloemfontein, Union of South Africa, Governor of District 235.

In a setting made to appear out-of-doors by a beautiful wall mural, Rotary's chief addresses Rotarians and their ladies of Asmara, Eritrea. This was the President's final African stop before going on to other Rotary Club visits in Portugal, France, and Belgium.

A handclasp says, "Welcome, friend," the greeter being Habib Jamal, President of the Rotary Club of Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika. Waiting to add her greeting is President Jamal's daughter-in-law at right. . . . (Below) At the home of F. C. J. Hewgill, President of the Rotary Club of Khartoum, Sudan, Edd tells the Rotary folk around him about the progress of Rotary world-wide.

No visitor to Athens, Greece, ever leaves without seeing its ancient buildings, the treasure of world architecture. Here, with the Parthenon in the background, Edd and Pearle rest for a moment with their hosts, Basil Collas, Athens Club President, and his wife, during a walk around ruins on the Acropolis.

On the airfield at Paris, France, just minutes after his arrival, Edd gets warm embrace from Pierre de Gorsse, a Past District Governor and an international Committee member.

With District Governor Stephen J. Macrymichalos, of Athens, at his right, President McLaughlin accepts at a meeting of the Rotary Club of Athens a booklet given him by a Rotarian as a memento of his visit.

On the Range in Europe . . . South America . . . North America

BEFORE his African journey—and following it—President McLaughlin paid visits to Rotary Clubs in Europe, and attended the Zurich, Switzerland, meeting of Rotary's European, North African, and Eastern Mediterranean Advisory Committee. He returned to the U.S.A. from France, ending a six-week Rotary tour in Europe and Africa.

His trail then led to South America to attend a Regional Conference in Santiago, Chile, and visit Clubs in five countries. In Brasilia, the fabulous new capital of Brazil, President Edd was decorated with the "Order of the Southern Cross," and in Santiago he received the Chilean "Orden al Merito."

Early in his year the President visited Clubs in Canada and the U.S.A. In Prince George, B. C., a pipe band welcomes him. In Chippewa Falls, Wis. (left), he fished with Rotarian hosts, landed the "musky" he is holding.

Two Presidents confer in Asunción, Paraguay—Rotary's and Paraguay's General Alfredo Stroessner (behind desk).

At an island school sponsored by the Rotary Club of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, President Edd visits with the children on a festive day, asks one about a plaything.

On the "Rotary range" in South America, President McLaughlin meets hundreds of Rotarians and their wives of Buenos Aires, Argentina, at a dinner.

"Fits perfectly," says Edd, as he tries on a poncho de huaso—cowboy's cloak—in Valdivia, Chile, drawing admiring glances from all present.

With U. S. Ambassador Carl Strom (center), Rotary's world President meets Victor Paz Estenssoro, President of Bolivia, in La Paz.

■ Time Extension Cord. A portable time-switch six-foot extension cord automatically turns off radios, television sets, fans, heating pads, lamps, and other electrical appliances and it can be plugged easily into any wall outlet. As many as three appliances can be simultaneously controlled from this device which "remembers" up to four hours and then turns the electricity "off." It also may be used as a conventional extension cord by setting the control knob at "hold." (1)

■ Portable Water Heater. A practical way of heating water once it has been poured into a tub, sink, or other container is through use of a 1,150-watt electric portable water heater. Since this unit requires no installation, hot water is as available as the nearest electrical outlet. It is designed to eliminate any possible shock hazard and is constructed of aluminum parts as a protection against corrosion by water. It weighs about one and one-half pounds, is nine and one-half inches high. (2)

■ Paper Trimmer. The inventors of the first mechanical paper cutter in 1881 are introducing the first paper trimmer that needs no adjustment. It also makes cutting quicker, easier, and more accurate, and is said to be the first major improvement in 50 years in this standard equipment for offices, schools, photographers, and hobbyists. Seven models and sizes are available. (3)

■ Barbecue Balancer. A unique stainless-steel device which slips on the end of the spit or the roasting rack permits the movement of a weight by turning it on a threaded shaft and thus adjusts any uneven distribution of weight of the meat. A smooth-turning piece of meat cooks better and reduces unnecessary wear on the electric motor. It fits indoor oven rotisseries, too. (4)

■ Folding Nut-Fruit Tray. A beautiful hand-carved walnut wood tray, encircled in polished solid brass, provides three units—for fruit, nuts, and candy. When open, it measures 10 by 15 1/4 inches; when folded, it makes an attractive ornament. It is made in India but distributed by a United States importer. (5)

■ Pocket-Watch Lighter. A combination pocket watch and lighter, with time to burn, consists of an attractive chrome-case lighter into which is set a shock-resistant, antimagnetic, Swiss-made jeweled-movement timepiece with gold numbers and luminous dial and hands. A small time lighter is designed for pocket or purse. A windproof outdoor lighter gives protection outdoors. (6)

■ Synthetic Quartz. A new synthetic quartz suitable for communication devices such as oscillators is expected to prove an economical substitute for the natural product. Small pieces of natural quartz provide the nutrient for crystal growth, which takes place at high temperature and high pressure in an autoclave filled with sodium hydroxide solution. High-quality sand may be used in future production since it is less expensive and more readily available. So far, synthetic-quartz crystals approximately three by six inches have been made in pilot operations.

■ All-Aluminum Alloy Auto. Development of an aluminum engine seems to be the most practical way to reduce drastically the weight of a car while increasing its economical operation without loss of spaciousness. Iron engines represent the largest single-weight mass in modern cars. A fully assembled all-aluminum engine would use 200 pounds of light metal, but it would eliminate a total of 400 pounds of iron on the engine alone. This would give better gasoline mileage, and tires and brakes would last longer. However, all-aluminum alloy constructed cars would further decrease operations costs and reduce production costs. Why hasn't this been done before? Aluminum expands about three times as much as cast iron at increased temperatures. Also, aluminum pistons and cylinder walls wear rapidly if made of conventional alloys. Chrome plating reduces the wear, but it is costly. Possibly some silicon-aluminum or other alloy will be developed.

■ Helicopter Transportation. Commuting by commercial "choppers" or whirlybirds seems much closer than the dream of a helicopter in every garage and a landing pad in every back yard. The breakthrough came with the development of jet engines for helicopters and the first practical transport—a helicopter version of the DC-3 airplane—is in the offing. A number of small one-man helicopters have been developed for military use. Aviation authorities debate upon the time when helicopters will be owned by the average family. However, aviation magazines now carry an advertisement for 'copter-type craft building plans and kits for 'copter do-it-yourselfers. Cost of purchase and maintenance is only one factor. Flying a helicopter is somewhat more exacting than flying a fixed-wing airplane and far more difficult than driving a car.

■ Synthetic Clothing. A new type of synthetic fiber called polypropylene—a chemical cousin of the polyethylene plastics—may be a newcomer in the textile industry. It is made from the most plentiful and cheapest fiber-forming materials known—chemical by-products of crude-oil refining. One company reports it has spun polypropylene yarns finer than natural silk and reports it has the feel of wool. It is light in weight, has high strength, dries quickly after washing, and recovers well from wrinkling.

Speaking of Books

The year past produced a rich harvest of history; here's the pick of the crop.

By JOHN T. FREDERICK

THE YEAR which, as I write this article, has just ended has been one particularly rich in new books of history, in wide variety of method and subject matter. Among them there's surely something to meet the taste of everyone who reads history at all: and history can be very good reading indeed. I shall try in this article to give at least brief descriptive comments on a large number of these books, hoping to help my readers make their own further choices.

We can begin with a book of prehistory: Digging Up America, by Frank C. Hibben, an Albuquerque, New Mexico, Rotarian. Knowledge of prehistoric man in America has increased enormously in the last few years. Eminently readable and intensely interesting is Rotarian Hibben's account of the Mound Builders and of Folsom Man, of the Aztecs and the Incas. If you haven't read previously in this field, Digging Up America is the best of introductions to it—a book I recommend most warmly. The Spanish explorers and conquerors ended the Aztec and Inca cultures and at the same time began the written history of America. In The Golden Conquistadores, Irwin R. Blacker and Harry M. Rosen have brought together some of the most valuable of these early narratives—of Balboa, Cortes, Coronado, De Soto, and others—abridged and modernized for the reader of today, with helpful introductions and commentary.

The story of the first English-speaking settlement to survive in the New World is told in rich detail in the two handsome volumes of Colonial Virginia, by Richard L. Morton, published for the Virginia Historical Society by the University of North Carolina Press. This is a work eminently scholarly and at the same time rewarding for the general reader. In its pages the major figures of colonial Virginia from John Smith to George Washington come alive, against a colorful background of the life and experience of their times. The last decades before the Revolution are rightly given especially full treatment. A part of the same period, for all the 13 colonies, is closely studied in Bernhard Knollenberg's Origin of the American Revolution, 1759-1766.

If you are a little skeptical about my assertion that history can make uncommonly good reading, I urge you to try Now We Are Enemies, by Thomas J. Fleming, subtitled "The Story of Bunker Hill." Thorough research and discriminating analysis of evidence have provided the substance for writing of marked literary merit—a narrative of sustained dramatic power and vigorous portrayal of character. I recommend it highly. Fleming draws the title of Now We Are Enemies from a famous letter of Benjamin Franklin, written after Bunker Hill to a member of Parliament. The second volume of The Papers of Benjamin Franklin, the fine definitive edition being published by the Yale University Press under the editorship of Leonard W. Labaree, covers the decade 1735-44 and contains much fresh and valuable material.

I have found special interest and value in The Cultural Life of the New Nation, 1776-1830, by Russel Blaine Nye. This book introduces the reader to the development of American science and religion, art and architecture, literature and social structure, in the crucial early decades of independence. It marshals much information with firm organization and admirable concreteness of detail. The Farmer's Age, by Paul W. Gates, subtitled "Agriculture 1815-1860," I found especially interesting in its accounts of the introduction of improved strains of animals and crops in the period indicated, and of the rise of agricultural journalism.

Brass-Knuckle Crusade, by Carleton Beals, is a vigorously written account of one of the darker chapters of American history, "The Great Know-Nothing Conspiracy: 1820-1860." In No Compromise, Arnold Whitridge tries to assess the influence of the fanatics and extremists, North and South, who, in his words, "paved the way to the Civil War."

When this article reaches its readers, the centenary of Lincoln's First Inaugural Address will be at hand, and that of the firing on Fort Sumter not far off. In the current flood of books on American history, those about Lincoln and the Civil War are most numerous. The new books about Lincoln include two of special interest and value which deal with his earlier years. Lincoln's Youth, Indiana Years, 1816-1830, by Louis A. Warren, is the fruit of sustained research for which every student of Lincoln's life must be grateful. Warren explodes scores of legends and false deductions, gives in their place a clear, detailed, and consistent story.

I value also very highly the work of John J. Duff in A. Lincoln, Prairie Lawyer, fruit of Duff's belief that details of Lincoln's law career and an account of his work at the bar, "written in a manner that any literate non-lawyer might understand, has been a crying need in Lincoln literature." I have myself felt that need, and Mr. Duff has met it handsomely, in a distinctly readable book of lasting value.

A third book of major importance for the Lincoln student and of marked interest for the general reader is Lincoln's Manager, David Davis, by Willard L. King. The character and career of Davis have great importance in their own right, in addition to their tremendous significance in their relation to Lincoln.

Last Summer my wife and I spent a day at Gettysburg, viewing the battlefield and tracing the action with the help of a pleasant and knowledgeable guide. That experience adds much to my enjoyment of two new biographies among the Civil War books: Meade of Gettysburg, by Freeman Cleaves, and Soul of the Lion, A Biography of General Joshua L. Chamberlain, by Willard M. Wallace. I became especially interested in Chamberlain when I read a few years ago (and reviewed with high praise in this department) John J. Pullen's The Twentieth Maine. Last Summer a closed road kept us from driving to the area, on the lower slope of Little Round Top, where Chamberlain and the Twentieth Maine saved the day for Meade's army, but we could see the monuments through the second growth. Both of these biographies seem to me marked by sound scholarship and just assessment of the facts; and they offer excellent reading. Also relevant to Gettysburg is The Haskell

General U. S. Grant, as seen during one of the greatest battles of the U. S. Civil War, appears on the jacket of The Wilderness Campaign, a book by Edward Steere.

Memoirs, the brilliant and candid personal narrative of John Haskell, a Confederate artillery officer, not previously printed in full and now most ably edited by Gilbert E. Govan and James W. Livingood.

Three of the new Civil War books dealing with specific phases of the struggle seem to me especially good in achievement of their purposes: Storming of the Gateway: Chattanooga, 1863, by Fairfax Downey; The Wilderness Campaign, by Edward Steere; and Lee's Last Campaign, by Clifford Dowdey. Downey's colorful account captures the vivid drama of the battles for Chattanooga, but the use of long passages from firsthand accounts, though these are valuable in themselves, sometimes impedes the flow of the narrative. Steere's study of the Wilderness is one of the series of immensely detailed and copiously documented studies of individual battles being published by the Stackpole Company of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Mr. Steere's patient scrutiny both of the documents and of the battlefield has corrected some earlier mistakes and produced an absorbing and informing volume. Dowdey's narrative of Lee's campaign against Grant in 1864 is surely close to being Civil War history at its best. It is controlled, beautifully proportioned and balanced, with flashes of sardonic humor and with occasional eloquence.

Of general books about the Civil War, one of the most useful new volumes is They Fought for the Union, by Francis A. Lord, a massive and encyclopedic treatment of the Federal fighting man from recruiting and training to equipment and weapons, special services, prison and hospital. The bibliographies are especially extensive. Tragic Years, 1860-1865, in two big volumes edited by Paul M. Angle and Earl Schenck Miers, is the latest and by far the best of the efforts to weave diaries, letters, news stories, and other contemporary accounts into a coherent and sustained documentary history. This work is a Civil War library in itself. The Singing Sixties, by Willard A. and Porter W. Heaps, is a most thorough study of the popular war songs of both North and South. There is rich social history here, for these songs are expressive of prevailing emotions and attitudes. This handsome big book—with the words of hundreds of songs and the music of many, and reproductions of the contemporary sheet music—belongs in every Civil War collection and holds special interest for many readers.

Walt Whitman's Civil War is a collection of Whitman's writings about the War and about Lincoln, edited by Walter Lowenfels. The volume gains much in interest by the inclusion of a number of the war drawings of Winslow Homer, harmonious in spirit with Whitman's notes. A most promising new venture in Civil War history is a three-volume study of The Civil War at Sea, by Virgil Carrington Jones, of which Volume I, The Blockaders, has recently appeared. It carries the story down to the first encounter between the Monitor and the Merrimac. I like the way Jones arranges his widely varying material, and I like the way he writes. I shall look forward to the second volume of this work in a relatively undeveloped field.

In contrast, the naval aspect of World War II, so far as the United States is concerned, is the most adequately recorded thus far of all its phases. This is thanks to the great History of United States Naval Operations in World War II, by Samuel Eliot Morison, now complete in its narrative portion with the appearance of Volumes XIII and XIV, The Liberation of the Philippines and Victory in the Pacific. It is almost unbelievable that a man could write 14 volumes of detailed history, with all the research involved, and still be writing with verve, with color and grace and force, at the very end. This is precisely what Morison has done, however; these final volumes have the same narrative drive, the same compelling interest, as their predecessors. All told, this work is a very great achievement.

These Rotarians...

Their honors, records, unusual activities

NOMINATED. Nitish C. Laharry, an advocate of the High Court of Calcutta, India, is the choice of the Nominating Committee for President of Rotary International for 1962-63. The Committee made the nomination at its meeting in Evanston, Ill., in January.

Until 1959, Rotarian Laharry was managing director and district supervisor of Columbia Films of India, motion-picture distributors for India, Pakistan, Burma, Ceylon, Afghanistan, and Nepal. He is vice-president of the Safety First Association of Bengal, has advised the Government of India on film distribution, and has been active in several organizations.

A Past President of the Rotary Club of Calcutta and a former member of the Rotary Club of Bombay, he has been a Rotarian since 1926. He has served Rotary International as Vice-President, Director, District Governor, and Committee member and Chairman.

Rotarian Laharry was born in Calcutta and was graduated from the University of Calcutta.

President of Rotary International

It's not often that a Rotarian giving a classification talk can surround himself so effectively—and beautifully—with the product that he is talking about, as florist Gerald L. Boeh, a North Side (Pittsburgh), Pa., Rotarian, is doing here.

in 1961-62 will be Joseph A. Abey of Reading, Pa., U.S.A., who was elected at the 1960 Convention of Rotary International. Rotarian Abey will assume the duties of the office July 1, 1961.

Sailing Rotarian. One of the busiest members of the Rotary Club of Haugesund, Norway, is almost never there. He's John Fagerland, ship captain of the Ellen Bakke, and an honorary Rotarian whose work prevents him from regular attendance. But according to Myron C. MacLennan, a safety engineer of Phoenix, Ariz., who recently travelled on Captain Fagerland's ship on a 30,000-mile trip, the seafaring Rotarian is a "real human link between the local group at home and the outside world... a travelling ambassador, so to speak... who... sells the principles of Rotary as he travels." Wherever his ship docks, Captain Fagerland drops in on the local Rotary Club—and frequently finds himself in the rôle of speaker of the day. "I am surprised," says Engineer MacLennan, "how Filipinos, Malaysians, Australians, Hong Kong Chinese, and Japanese are so interested in the views and ideas brought to them by this one captain. The goodwill and understanding of this world organization are truly amazing."

Fine Feathered Friends. One day a couple of years ago when John A. Lifur, a Rotarian banker of Vernon, Calif., was digging in his garden, a pair of bluejays approached him, one landing on his shoulder. The birds evidently knew a kindly face when they saw one; their friendliness was rewarded with peanuts, which they carried away one by one. Since that day, the birds have joined the Lifur household. They occasionally fly into the kitchen to see what's cooking, and, being music lovers, flutter into the living room whenever Mrs. Lifur plays the piano. Recently, when the Lifur family journeyed to France and Spain, Rotarian Lifur made sure his bird friends would be well provided for in his absence. He left a good supply of peanuts and a bird-sitter to feed and guard them!

Electronic Church. At any time of the day you can walk into the downtown Presbyterian church in Lebanon, Ind., push a button, and hear a miniature church service via tape recording. The 12-minute program, titled "Moments of Meditation," opens with music, which is followed by a four-minute "sermonette" by Rotarian Pastor Arthur K. Korteling, and a closing musical selection. The unique electronic unit that makes this possible was assembled by Rotarian R. H. Wiseheart, who hopes that it may provide a boost to metropolitan churches that face the possibility of membership loss. The project stemmed from a previous venture when Rotarian G. E. Hines donated an automatic tape phonograph on which recordings of famous European carillons are played and amplified on an outside public-address system.

Rotarian Honors. At the 40th anniversary of the Rotary Club of Danville, Pa., three men were given special recognition for their long Rotarian Speer, who lost his sight in the past year, was presented with a Braille Bible.

Sword Tracer. The Japanese family that owns a samurai sword bequeathed to it by a warrior ancestor prizes it above all other family treasures—especially since many samurai swords were surrendered or lost to troops of World War II foes. Seven such prized swords that found their way to the United States are being returned as a gesture of international friendship by Oriental art collector Edward Dunlap, a canner of Plymouth, Ind., who has enlisted the aid of Columbia City, Ind., Rotarian Shinzo Ohki (see photo). Rotarian Ohki, in turn, has been helped by Japanese newspapers and Rotary Clubs, and to date has traced two swords to their owners. Shinzo Ohki's brother, who lives in Japan, helped him locate the owner of the first sword—a former Japanese captain now a professor at the University of Nagoya. The Rotary Club of Yamagata and the Yamagata newspaper helped him find the widow of the owner of the second sword. At this writing, Rotarian and Mrs. Ohki are thinking of visiting the land of their birth to attend the 1961 Convention of Rotary International May 28-June 1—and, if possible, to locate the owners of the remaining five swords.

Greens Verse. Golfer Lester W. Hink, a Rotarian of Berkeley, Calif., is also a versifier. As a matter of fact, he's combined his two avocations in the "how-to-do-it" stanzas below:

PAR GOLF IS EASY

Golf's a game of concentration,
"Know how," and mere application.
Here are the facts one needs to know,
And don't be sidetracked by your "pro."

To start, one takes his choice of days
And casually walks the course and plays.
Swinging well with slothful zest,
Golf is easy—prove this test:

Sometimes 'tis well to follow through,
Don't care whether or not you do.
The main thing is that blissful poise,
Happy for wind or hills or noise.

A hook need never take a toll,
Hooking you know will make her roll.
And don't let slicing mar your game,
For pars will pan out just the same.

Say to yourself, "No trap is tough."
Admit you love each fairway rough.
The greens all have such huge dimension,
Approaching needs but casual mention.

Putting is the least of all!
Cups are thrice the size of the ball.
With odds you sink three to one,
Once on the green, that hole is done.

Love thy opponent as thyself,
And never, never seek his pelf.
When tired of par, shoot birdies instead.
Golf's not tough—it's all in the head!

Fund. Income from a $25,000 bequest of the late W. C. Jackson, Griffin, Ga., Rotarian, will support the studies of one overseas student a year in Georgia colleges. The scholarships will be administered by the Georgia Rotary Student Fund (see Georgia—Making a World of Friends, by Elliott McCleary, THE ROTARIAN for October, 1959).

Biographer. Gordon A. Fisher, headmaster of a school in Armidale, Australia, and a Past District Governor of Rotary International, has turned biographer. He has compiled a booklet entitled Famous Australians, which includes brief biographies of 30 men and women who have led notable lives. It's his aim to inspire young Australians, and older ones, too, with accounts of people who have brought a sense of purpose to their lives and who used to the fullest extent their abilities.

Governors' Day. Rotarians and Lions of Hayward, Calif., mixed and broke bread together recently. The occasion: to fête two Hayward men currently serving as District Governors of their service organizations: Melvin G. Henningsen, Sr., Governor of Rotary District 516, and David S. Hansen, Governor of the area's Lions District. More than 200 members and their wives from the two service clubs met for the recognition dinner at a local country club.

Signal Honor. To Harald Mandt, of Hamburg, Germany, a Past District Governor of Rotary International, has come a unique honor. For his efforts in furthering better Harald Mandt, German named for honors by Britain's Queen.

Anglo-German understanding, he was named by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth of England as an Honorary Officer of the Order of the British Empire—a distinction usually reserved for citizens of the Commonwealth. A former Rhodes scholar, Rotarian Mandt has been active in various Anglo-German Societies most of the last 50 years. For these activities, and for his achievements in business, he was also recently awarded the Grosses Verdienstkreuz mit Stern by the German Government.

Brother Act. Rotarian Russell Scherk, retiring as postmaster in Prince Rupert, B. C., Canada, after 34 years' service, was guest of honor at his Rotary Club the same day his brother, Vernon Scherk, a baker, was inducted as a member of the Club.

Poetic Parson. Rotarian clergymen—and laymen, too—will find chuckles and food for thought in a poem written by Father John Forrest, of Watford, England, and published in a little illustrated booklet by A. R. Mowbray & Co., Ltd., of Oxford, England. The poem traces, hour by hour, "A Town Parson's Day." It starts this way:

A quaint conception of the way
In which a parson spends his day
Is entertained on every hand
By those who do not understand;
Who wonder, sometimes comment too,
"Whatever can he find to do,
This lucky man whose work unique
Is only needed once a week!"
We know he gets his little pay,
But does he earn it, anyway?

Wait till this tale attains its end,
Perhaps you'll think again, my friend!
After a hectic day of meetings and duties, the parson's day closes at 11 P.M. And this is a weekday.
The poem closes by commenting:
. . . frequently, you'll hear him say
That Sunday is his easy day.

Name's the Same. Although the Rotary Club of Mount Vernon, N. Y., has only 89 members, by coincidence it has two members, unrelated, whose names are almost identical: William E. Seely and William W. Seeley. "Bill" E. Seely, editor of the local newspaper, has the distinction of having three relatives who have been District Governors of Rotary International: a brother, Walter G. Seely, of Port Chester, N. Y.; a brother-in-law, Francis Boland, of Nimmonsburg, N. Y.; and his father-in-law, the late Alexander Caven, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. "Bill" W. Seeley, the oldest member of the Club, is 98. A Rotarian for 35 years, his work in advertising took him all over the world, and brought him into contact with such persons as Theodore Roosevelt, Thomas A. Edison, circusmen Barnum & Bailey, and boxer James J. Corbett.

"Bill" says he remembers seeing the Lincoln funeral train, Mark Twain, Buffalo Bill, "Diamond Jim" Brady, and U. S. Presidents Grant, Cleveland, McKinley, and Taft.

Triple Play. Three sons of three Past Presidents of the Rotary Club of Chapel Hill, N. C., were inducted into the Club on a recent evening. They were Roland McClamroch, Jr., radio-station owner; Collier Cobb III, insurance man; and Dr. Erle Peacock, Jr., a plastic surgeon. For Club President Dr. E. M. Hedgpeth it was an extra-special occasion, for he had taught all three of the young men at the University of North Carolina.

Versifier. Verses written by Past Club President Ernest Cronmeyer have helped make the Rotary wheel turn in the Rotary Club of Redlands, Calif. Alternately factual and admonitory, one verse appeared in each of 20 issues of the Club bulletin, The Spoke. A sample:

At Rotary luncheons every week

But tolerance will pave the way
To see the other fellow's side.

SUMMIT MEETING

The Good Neighbor Policy took dramatic form a few weeks ago in Chicago, Ill., when the Presidents of the Rotary Clubs of Mexico City, Mexico; San José, Costa Rica; Managua, Nicaragua; Panama City, Panama; Guatemala City, Guatemala; and Winnipeg, Man., Canada, sat down at the head table of Rotary's oldest and largest Club (see photo). Each man had been invited, expenses paid, to help launch from the platform of Chicago Rotary a fresh venture into the task of strengthening bonds among American nations. Arriving by air on Monday, the Presidents were whisked by Program Chairman Thomas Gause to the studio of a Chicago radio station for a taped interview. At the meeting the next day before more than 700 Chicago Rotarians and guests gathered in the vast Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Sherman the men swung into a frank discussion of areas of accord and discord in the Western Hemisphere, the topics ranging from foreign investment to tourism to trade. Opportunities for a further and more intimate exchange of views came Tuesday evening in fireside meetings which drew large turnouts in the suburban communities of Elmhurst, Oak Park, and Evanston, and which carried on well into the night. On his return to Mexico City, where the press had given wide coverage to his Chicago visit, President Ignacio Soto, Jr., telegraphed: ". . . abundant benefits gained in Latin-American understanding through summit meeting." And from President Eduardo Cáceres Lehnhoff, of Guatemala City, came the enthusiastic comment that of all his trips to the U.S.A., "this was the finest. For one thing, it was the first time I had ever been inside a home in the United States." Earlier in the meeting, in a spirit akin to the topic of the day, Club Magazine Chairman Ingo Ingenohl marked the 50th anniversary of THE ROTARIAN Magazine, praising its "devoted interest in the objectives of Rotary, its crusades for peace and goodwill, and its cohesive power in binding all members of Rotary into a family." The certificate of appreciation was accepted by the Editor of the Magazine. All in all, Chicago Rotarians agreed it was a banner program, one in which versatile Program Chairman Gause (who has resolved to learn Spanish as his part in promoting hemispheric solidarity) outdid himself.

CUT CALORIES TO SWELL FUND

Five years ago the 46 Rotarians of Hornchurch, England, hit upon a plan to broaden their program of service and slim their waistlines at the same time. Their desire to support the Cancer Research Fund meant trimming support to other agencies until the adoption of "austerity luncheons." In lieu of boiled beef and potatoes, Hornchurch Rotarians eat a sandwich one meeting a month. They pay the cost of a normal meal: The cost of the sandwiches, plus a profit to the restaurant owner, is deducted, and the rest goes to the Cancer Fund. They have raised £250 in five years in this way, and no one has felt the pinch, says member George Fleury, either financially or gastronomically.

BONNY TOURNAMENT

Polish up your clubs, men. Ladies, too. St. Andrews, Scotland, golfers' mecca and headquarters of the 200-year-old Royal and Ancient Club, will again be the scene of the "Rotary Open Championships" from May 22-25. This year, reports Andrew A. Carstairs, President of the Rotary Club of St. Andrews, the tournament is open to all Rotarians. Formerly it was limited to Rotarians living in Great Britain and Ireland. The Club hopes to host teams or individual players from many nations. Reservations should be made early. For complete information write President Carstairs, Roselea, Fleming Place, St. Andrews, Fife, Scotland.

CUM LAUDE CANINES

This is the month when Rotarians of North Kansas City, Mo., begin tuning up plans for their annual "obedience class." No, it's not for obstreperous members. The class is for dog owners interested in teaching their four-footed friends proper canine manners. Seventy dogs were enrolled in last year's course, which lasted one hour a week for ten weeks, and 29 won diplomas for their owners. The Rotary Club does not charge a fee for the course, believing that a well-trained pooch around the neighborhood is payment enough.

LIGHTING THE LAMP

A few months ago 1,481 books valued at almost $10,000 were turned over to 13 colleges and other schools of higher education in the city of Bangalore, India. The volumes are earmarked for use by students who heretofore were unable to obtain the books because of lack of funds. The idea for these "Book Banks," as they are called, came from Rotarian Ramnarayan Chellaram, who in 1952 prepared a list of needed books and sent it to Rotary Clubs abroad, offering to exchange books on India for the volumes. Later the banks became a joint project of the Bangalore Rotary Club and a trust sponsored by Rotarian Chellaram. It has drawn in nine years contributions of more than 100,000 rupees from the government of Mysore, businesses, and individuals.

TALL IN THE SADDLE

If Texas is the finest State in the U.S.A., as claimed by approximately 10 million of the 10 million people who live there, it only follows that the little rural town of Shady Grove in Upshur County, which recently won a State rural-community improvement contest, is the most improved town in the nation. Shady Grovers won't deny it, but they do heap a Nearing completion in the Italian Alps is the 858-foot Vaiont Dam, the tallest arch dam in the world. Viewing its towering facade (left) are Rotarians of Trieste, Italy, who also toured the Soverzene power plant. The dam, built by Rotarian Carlos Semenza, will create an artificial lake of 150 million cubic meters.

Texas-size portion of the credit on their neighbors—especially the Rotarians of Gilmer—for their help and encouragement. The Gilmer Rotary Club helped to launch the project in seven communities last year, providing $500 in prizes for the county competition. The towns are judged on conservation efforts and civic improvement by the Texas A. & M. Extension Service.

COOLER FOR ALL HANDS

However hot it may be in the foc's'le, the sailors who make port in Bermuda know there is relief on the horizon. The Rotary Club of Hamilton recently raised $1,200 in a barbecue, using half the funds to air-condition the reading and writing room of the Bermuda Sailors Home, which every year is visited by almost 20,000 seamen. The rest of the funds were put into the Club's Student-Loan Fund.

THAT'S MY BOY!

A few weeks ago after Juan Carlos Ondarts, Jr., arrived in this world, the postman delivered his first letter. "Welcome to this world," it read. "We envy your youth and hope that during your life you will see the fulfillment of the dreams that we in Rotary have for a world-wide fellowship and understanding among all men." It was signed by 70 Rotarians of Auburn, Mass., and addressed in care of Juan's father, who is President of the Rotary Club of Morón, Argentina. The letter, an innovation in the frequent correspondence between the two Rotary Clubs, was read before the Club, then presented to proud Papa Ondarts. "There is no better way to win the hearts

Two ways to celebrate Rotary's World Understanding Week come from the Rotary Club of Wyoming Park, Mich. (above), which held a roundtable discussion with students from four nations, and (below) the Rotary Club of Bombay Suburban (West), India, where a distinguished panel discussed economic cooperation between the U.S.A. and India. At the microphone is Honorary Rotarian G. L. Mehta, former Ambassador of India to the United States.

Three Rotary publications—Adventure in Service, Service Is My Business, and Seven Paths to Peace—are presented to public librarian K. Virginia Krick by the President of the Rotary Club of Altoona, Pa., Rabbi Nathan Kaber (left), and Club Secretary Ralph A. Mannion. Club also gave copies to local campus library.

of a man and woman than for someone to write their new-born child," writes Jorge Seoane, then Chairman of the Club's International Service Committee.

EVER THINK OF THIS?

Now on the reference shelf of the public library in Mount Vernon, Ohio, is a bound volume containing a year's editions of the local Rotary Club weekly bulletin. In addition to the bulletins, which will provide research data for some future historian, the volume contains five newsletters describing a world tour by freighter by Club member M. Curtis Kinney.

2 x 2 AMBASSADORS

If a visitor from abroad "makes up" in the Rotary Club of Bethesda-Chevy Chase, Md., chances are good that his home Rotary Club will get more than the perfunctory make-up card. The International Service Committee of this Maryland Club mails his home Club a series of 35-mm. color transparencies and a script, a complete program showing scenes in the U. S. capital and such historic sites as Mount Vernon, Monticello, Williamsburg, and Jamestown. A letter of greeting from the Club accompanies the slides, which are making friends for Bethesda-Chevy Chase Rotarians from Australia to Israel.

Packets containing seed of the kowhai, a graceful, flowering tree, have been sent to 25 Rotary Clubs from Rotarians of Feilding, New Zealand. It's their way of saying a friendly "hello" to Clubs abroad.

JUST FINE FOR CARLOS

How much can a person over 65 earn in one year without reduction of his monthly retirement benefit under the Social Security program of the United States? Answer: $1,200. This and scores of other questions were answered by a representative of the U. S. Social Security Administration during his recent talk before Rotarians of Tecumseh, Mich. They all thought it an especially worth-while program—especially member Carlos Jones. When he heard that the $1,200 earnings limitation does not apply to persons 72 years of age and older, he hustled up to the speaker after the meeting, confirmed the statement, and then applied for retirement benefits which he had not known were due him. Rotarian Jones, who has been levying Club fines for a number of years, was, at last report, shelling out a few of his own after his unexpected boon.

THE TORCH GLOWS FOR ROTARY

"We, the students of Westville High School, respectfully dedicate the 1960 edition of The Torch to the Westville Rotary Club." Thus begins the message on the dedication page of the annual publication of this Nova Scotia, Canada, high school. The school saluted the Club for its financial aid to students, for its part in sending students to the United Nations Summer School and to Ottawa for the "Adventure in Citizenship" project, and for introducing in 1958 The Four-Way Test. It was the first time The Torch has been dedicated to a service club.

WELCOME TO 21 NEW CLUBS

Since last month's listing of new Clubs in this department, Rotary has entered 21 more communities in many parts of the world. Bimonthly lists sent to your Club Secretary include the names and addresses of the President and Secretary of each new Club listed below. The new Clubs (with their sponsors in parentheses) are AUSTRALIA: Preston (Northcote); Barcaldine (Rockhampton); Longreach (North Rockhampton). ENGLAND: Bedworth; West Wight; Cowbridge. ISRAEL: Kefar Saba (Sharon). JAPAN: Kitakami (Morioka); Kuzuu (Sano); Mizu-

HIGH ON THEIR SLATE

From the number of Rotary man-hours invested in young people, it's evident that adults don't think that the younger generation is going to the dogs after all. Rotary Club projects range from financial aid to career conferences. Here is a world-wide sample:

Six local students attended the annual seminar of the United Nations Society held on the campus of the University of British Columbia. The Rotary Club of West Vancouver, B. C., Canada, paid their way. . . In Taree, Australia, Rotarians celebrated Education Week by bringing 42 students to the Club meeting, inviting several to address the gathering. . . Rotarians of Carson City, Nev., starting saving in 1956 to bring an Austrian student to their community for a year. In this way, they felt, they might salve a bit of Austria's disappointment in losing out to Squaw Valley as host for the recent Olympic Winter Games. Their student, Rainer Berghaler, turned out to be an excellent photographer as well as an effective ambassador, so he took home with him a fine set of transparencies on the Games. He also served as interpreter for the Austrian team during the Olympics.

Scholarship notes: An auction by Rotarians of Brandon, Vt., netted $1,100, enough to send a boy and girl to college this year. Rotarians of Ridgefield, International students from Iran, France, Bolivia, and Guatemala regale a Rotary gathering in Naples, Fla., with "La Fricassee," a French folk dance in which lovers tweak each other's ears and nose. In the center, wearing a wistful "gee-to-be-a-kid-again" expression is Alfred J. Hackney, President of the Club.

Conn., continue their financial aid to students, granting an $800 scholarship last year. They raised the money through a jazz concert. . . . The Rotary Club of Salem, Ind., has donated a trophy which goes each year to the high school which has the greatest percentage of students passing the graduation examinations. . . . Rotarians of Terrell, Tex., faced with a tie for "the most deserving high-school graduate" last year, solved the problem by presenting scholarships to both girls. . . . Recently established by the Rotary Club of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., is an annual award to the outstanding engineering and non-engineering students of the Sault Branch of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology. Winners receive trophies, and their names are inscribed on a school plaque. . . . Two students each month are guests of the Rotary Club of Coronado, Calif. At the end of the year they put on the program. A rewarding project, a Club spokesman reports.

Rotarians and students of East Aurora, N. Y., worked in harmony recently on a project to buy new uniforms for the high-school band. Together they raised more than $3,500, enough to outfit all 65 band members.

BLOODY CONTEST

As in many communities, there is a good-natured rivalry among Rotary, Kiwanis, and Lions clubs in Springdale, Ark. Recently this rivalry took the form of a contest designed to replenish the local blood bank. The final tabulations showed that Rotarians had donated the greatest number of pints of blood, helping the town top its 145-pint goal by 35 pints.

IT ALL BEGAN WITH 88 KEYS

Thirty-seven years ago the Rotary Club in Flint, a sprawling automobile-manufacturing city in central Michigan, raffled off a piano to raise funds for the treatment of local crippled children. Last year the Club outlay for similar aid, carried on through a local clinic, totalled $12,000. The more important statistic to them, however, is the number of children they have been able to help: 775 last year, and more than 5,000 cases since 1939. . . . The Rotary Club of Cape Girardeau, Mo., recently was honored for its many contributions in behalf of crippled-children work, receiving a citation from the State Society.

SALUTE TO THE PIONEERS

When the town of Ardmore, Okla., paused to note its 73d anniversary not long ago, a high light of the observance was a poster which Rotarian Harry Seaman made up and placed in the window of his office. On it were photographs of men who had pioneered businesses in Ardmore—a thoughtful salute to 35 men who have made great contributions to their fast-growing city.

IN THE SAME HARNESS

More than 250 members of eight service clubs in the steel town of Gary, Ind., sat down to a common board a few weeks ago in a meeting high-lighting Service Club Week, a series of special events designed to tell citizens of Gary and its environs the story behind the lapel emblems. Rotary International Treasurer Lloyd Hollister, of Wilmette, Ill., represented President J. Edd McLaughlin at the meeting. The local newspapers supported the Week with editorials and feature articles about the purpose, history, and activities of each club.

In Steubenville, Ohio, members of five local service groups gathered for a Rotary-sponsored tribute to a local resident, Charles S. Thompson, who recently was named as president of the International Association of Y's Men's Clubs, a service organization composed of 660 clubs in 41 nations.

PASS THE MUSTARD

When the 34 Rotarians of Vandalia, Mo., learned that several students in their district would need free school lunches, they staged a hamburger fry to raise money for them. Net proceeds of their afternoon's work over the grill: $373.60.

BERHAMPUR DELIVERS

In a recent survey the Rotary Club of Berhampur, India, discovered that the most critical of all its community needs lay in the lack of facilities for maternity care. Berhampur Rotarians pledged themselves to the task of raising 30,000 rupees, which, combined with a contribution of 80,000 rupees from the Red Cross, paved the way for construction of a new maternity hospital. The 33 Rotarians successfully filled their pledge, and now the building nears completion. (A rupee, if you don't know, is about 20 cents U. S.)

Rotarians of Toronto, Ont., Canada, march steadily toward achieving their goal of $75,000 in pledges for the construction of the Rotary Club of Toronto Lodge, a hotel-motel to be located near the Crippled Children's Center. The lodge will accommodate out-of-town parents and relatives visiting children under treatment at the Center, and also parents who are taking instruction in the care of their crippled children. So far the proceeds from Club sponsorship of a theater benefit, an ice show, and New York Metropolitan Opera performances total $63,000.

Rotary Clubs in Kentucky, U.S.A., are teaming up to build a $75,000 recreation and dining hall for Camp Kysoc, a rehabilitation center for crippled children near Carrollton. "This is the biggest project ever undertaken by Rotary in Kentucky," reports Past District Governor O. L. McElroy, of Eminence. . . . The Rotary Club of Newtown Square, Pa., recently gave a "Medical Loan Closet" to its community. Beds, wheel chairs, crutches, and other equipment are loaned at no cost to persons needing them. The Club also recently completed a classification survey of its territory, a report so well done that more than 1,000 copies have been distributed as a model to other Rotary Clubs. The survey revealed a total of 190 unfiled classifications in the Club territory. . . . Rotarians of Sandwich, Ill., played a leading rôle in their community hospital project. Every member of the Club helped in some way in bringing the 41-bed, $800,000 hospital from the planning board to reality. Their individual contributions exceeded $15,000. Club projects netted another $1,500, which was used for laundry equipment and a flag pole.

Japan—Her People . . . and Why I Love Them

completely. Both criminal and civil procedures are impressively similar to but fascinatingly different from those of the U.S.A. For example, while there is no such thing as a jury system, the rules of evidence are followed with much the same ticklish rigidity found in American courts. From the standpoint of effective penology, one may be interested in the fact that intoxication is, in many cases, a complete defense to a criminal charge. What conclusions can the lawyer draw from the fact that despite the density of the population (there are 92 million people in an area less than the size of the State of Montana, large sections of which are uninhabitable), the punishments are in most cases substantially less severe than those meted out by U. S. courts?

How, Merchant Rotarian, does one run a mercantile establishment grossing millions of yen without the device of credit buying? You will see hundreds of mercantile operations apparently fabulously successful, with sales techniques you've never heard of.

The list of comparisons is at least equal to the list of European or American occupations. The commercial contractor can see buildings in an earthquake-ridden land built as much into the ground as on top of it, with the Japanese pioneering the field of building it on the surface first and then sinking it into place hydraulically. The residential builder will see apparently flimsy residential buildings which survive winds of velocities unheard of in other parts of the world. The plant manager will behold the spectacle of unions announcing in advance the duration of the strikes they project and wonder at the absence of violence in a land where strikebreakers are still available. Pharmacists will gasp at the number of "prescription only" items sold over the counter in Japanese drug-stores; physicians will be interested in how the nation's doctors have raised, in less than 15 years, the longevity of the Japanese male from the early 40's to the late 60's; surgeons will be amazed at the manner in which patients convalesce in cold hospitals on bedding and with nursing care furnished by the immediate family; insurance men will see the birth of their business in the making; the grocer will wonder at the abundance of foodstuff produced from land less than one-sixth the area of the State of California, and he will see beautiful fruit and vegetables, attractively packaged processed food, and unique

To the offices of The Rotary Foundation in Rotary's headquarters in Evanston, Ill., a few weeks ago came a unique book entitled We Believe. Attached to its 20 pages were 49 checks totalling $460, a contribution from Rotarians of Cooperstown, N. Y. It boosted their total investment in The Rotary Foundation to more than $1,300 and vaulted their Club into the ranks of the "200 Percent" contributors. Here George R. Means, General Secretary of Rotary International and Secretary of The Rotary Foundation, reads the comments which Cooperstown Rotarians wrote below their checks in carrying out the "we believe" theme.

Aloha, Rotarians

May I extend an invitation from all the People of Hawaii to all of you...

On your way to the Tokyo Convention, or en route home... pause for a visit here in Hawaii.

Our Islands will be at their loveliest in May and June... flowering trees in bloom... Waikiki surf and weather close to perfection.

Make it a long stay, if you can. Relax in true Hawaiian style. Enjoy the fun and beauty you'll find on all the islands of the 50th State... Hawaii, Maui, Kauai... as well as Honolulu, the Capital, on Oahu.

Hotels? Your choice of just the accommodations you want... at world-famed Waikiki Beach resorts, in attractive smaller establishments nearby, in conveniently located apartment hotels or modern resort hotels on Neighbor Islands.

Just one suggestion: Plan your Hawaiian stopover now... make it a definite part of your Convention trip. Your travel agent can attend to details. Or, for additional information and assistance, contact sales methods which he will remember for the rest of his life.

Most Rotarians will seek their entertainment by visiting the extremely interesting art galleries (Rodin's major works are in Tokyo), attending concerts and operas staged by internationally known virtuosos, and standing in awe at the evidences of a civilization old when their own ancestors were beginning to form communities. However, in every organization there are an unregenerate few who look elsewhere for their pleasure. To them I say that the Japanese night clubs compare favorably with those any place in the world.

I conclude these comments with a few do's and don't's, though you may think me presumptuous to do so. I do! Very few of the things I'd been told about Japan before I visited it agree with my personal experiences. I think that's because Japan is also, in large measure, a state of mind. I can promise nothing to the listless. But to those of you who approach the trip to Tokyo as one of the unique opportunities of your life—well, how can one describe the indescribable?

First, the do's:

1. Do stay in a ryokan or Japanese inn sometime during your visit—during all of it if possible. Personally my wife and I would rather be treated like a king and queen in a Japanese hostelry than left to our own devices in the conventional Western room.

2. Take your wife, by all means! This will probably be one of the happiest experiences you will have with her in this world. Furthermore, mine found endless fascinations with everything from the unique theater of Japan (Kabuki, no, bunraku, and so on) to the elaborate tea ceremony, the exquisitely beautiful dolls, and the sobering affinity one notices Japanese men and women have for natural beauty. More than that, your wife's chance to observe the Japanese woman's loving care of and patience with her child is alone worth the trip.

3. Travel light. What you find you need after you arrive in Japan will be readily available. And don't expect to make a fortune in buying things in Japan and bringing them back with you. First of all, customs people frown on this activity and, secondly, the Japanese people will probably see to it that most of the potential profit remains in Japan.

4. Try to read something about Japan before you go. I recommend Lafcadio Hearn. He was an American who became a citizen of Japan. His writings are the best I know if one seeks to capture the spirit loves of the Japanese people. (By the way, his Japanese name is "Yakumo Koizumi." Every Japanese knows of him by that name, and I found it an unflinching conversational gambit every place I went in Japan.)

5. Go to Japan to learn. Japan, with the highest literacy rate in the world, is loaded with students, young and old. In fact, everyone is a student! You're whipped if, by the innate gentleness of the Japanese, you're beguiled into thinking you "know it all."

6. Strain yourself to make the trip. Money is a problem to most of us. I think the trip will be worth borrowing to go.

Now the don't's:

1. Don't go to Japan if you harbor any residual hostility toward the Japanese people. Not only will you aggravate your illness, but you owe the cause of world peace the act of self-quarantine.

2. Don't go if you are one of those fellows who projects a swift going and coming. I refer to those of you who moan the limitations of a 24-hour day in the conduct of your store, your clinic, your law practice, or your factory. The mystery of Japan will elude you, you will compound your frustrations, and you will exhaust yourself as well.

3. Don't raise your voice, and do keep a firm grip on your temperament. Remember that a gesture made impersonally, as for emphasis, may be interpreted as anger. A Japanese host or hostess wants more than anything else to assure your pleasure and may take a personal responsibility for your distempers.

4. Don't slap a Japanese on the back, regardless of how warmly you feel toward him. Except in public conveyances, where getting on or off may mean the difference between keeping or losing a job, personal contact with others is not pleasant to the inexperienced Japanese man or woman. Even shaking hands may be difficult for him.

5. Don't mistake a passive face for hostility. Remember that many Japanese people, especially among the older generations, have been taught from birth to conceal their emotions. There may be times when a return smile does not follow your friendly gesture immediately. The words of the Rotary song "Smile, and the world smiles with you" have particular application in Japan. Given a few moments, your smile will be answered as surely as the day follows the night.

6. Don't hurry yourself or your Japanese friend. Most Japanese speak some English, but are shy about even attempting to use it. Give them time. Your rewards will be immeasurable.

* * *

If you do all the things I've told you not to do, and vice versa, you'll still have a glorious time in Japan. Properly approached, the visit will bring more flowers to the garden of memories you share with your wife than anything else you can do. Should you borrow money to make the trip? Yes. I'd almost say: "Mortgage your life—to live!"

Adieu, Margot and Lillian!

TWO long-familiar faces are missing from the staff of your RI Secretariat, one from the Central Office in Evanston, Illinois, and the other from the Continental European Office in Zurich, Switzerland. These two girls—devoted, competent, and ardent about Rotary—made serving Rotary Clubs and Rotarians an important part of their lives.

For 20 years Margot Gascard served on the Zurich staff. Being French, she worked primarily with District Governors and Clubs using her native language. She also translated Rotary publications from English to French; most of the French material used today by the Zurich Office is her translation.

Margot's cheerful personality won her the pleasurable duty of welcoming visitors to the office. This made her widely known among European Rotarians, as did her assignments at Regional Conferences in Stockholm, Ostend, and Cannes, and at Rotary Conventions in Nice and Paris. She retired last month.

Lillian Dwyer (then Lillian Moore) joined the Central Office staff in 1928, and remained until September, 1960, when she requested retirement before reaching maximum retirement age. She liked stenography and spent most of her 32 years on the staff in the Stenography and Typing Section. Her special assignments included work at three International Assemblies and two international Conventions. She and her husband live in a suburb of Chicago.

Why drift along on only one income?

ARE YOU thinking of trying to get along the rest of your life on your income from your job? Then you'll be interested in this:

Many millions of your fellow Americans today enjoy a second income from good common stock. Or from sound bonds.

Why don't you?

Both the income and value of stock have a chance to grow if the company prospers. While income from good bonds is usually more stable. Many families own both to build soundly for a more comfortable future.

The rules for sensible investing are simple: Use only money not needed for normal expenses or emergencies. Invest only after you have facts—never merely on alluring tips or rumors. Remember that stock and bond prices can and do go down, that dividends and interest can be omitted. So take time to choose wisely, with the help of a nearby Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange.

If you feel you don't know how to invest you'll be glad to know there's plenty of help available—at no charge and practically at your elbow.

First, a simple guide that takes the mystery out of common stock investing: "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS." It's packed with useful information, including the records of some 460 stocks that have paid a cash dividend every year for more than 25 years. The coupon below will bring it to you free.

Second, give yourself the pleasure of dropping in at a nearby Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. A Partner or Registered Representative there will be happy to advise you—at no charge. That's Headquarters for investing. Every Registered Representative has been carefully chosen and has had to meet the Exchange's requirements for thorough knowledge and experience. Helping people invest well is his full-time occupation.

You may not have to drift along on one income. Send the coupon and consider two.

Australia: Men Through Mountains

Guthega power station was built by a Norwegian contractor. Contracts for tunnelling, dam building, and supply of machinery have been let to U. S., Australian, Norwegian, Italian, French, and Swiss firms.

Within 11 years a major part of the Scheme has been built in remote isolated country snow-covered for six months of the year. The groundwork was laid by Authority specialists who completed topographical and geological surveys of 3,000 square miles of mountainous land, who measured snow and rain precipitation and correlated the results with river flows, who drilled to depths of 2,000 feet searching for solid rock. Field engineering laboratories assisted in solving problems ranging from the design of spillways at dams to the design of transmission lines able to withstand icing and high winds.

In the 46 miles of tunnel that have already been driven through the Great Dividing Range, world tunnelling speed records have been achieved.

The Snowy Mountains Authority is a temporary organization. Its work will end and it will go. It will leave behind, for other organizations to maintain, a great source of cheap electric power and a large quantity of water annually for irrigation. The visible works it leaves behind, the dams mainly, will have their own massive beauty to harmonize with the sublime beauty of the mountain valleys. It will also leave a road system which was initially carved around the mountain sides by bulldozer blades and which is now a system of first-class sealed highways giving access to a great State park.

Already Lake Eucumbene is fast becoming a tourist center, with scenic cruises, water skiing, and speed-boat racing attracting holidaymakers. Fishermen, who often make spectacular catches, claim that for trout fishing it rivals New Zealand's world-famous Lake Taupo. In the Winter the snow fields and ski resorts near the lake attract an increasing number of sportsmen.

Other indirect benefits of the Scheme are significant. It has been estimated that the new irrigation areas and the population they will carry will give the Commonwealth Government 16 million pounds ($35,840,000) a year more in revenue from taxation. The tremendous additional power capacity will spur secondary industries. Finally, a project of this kind will be a good partner for atomic power when it is commercially produced. Hydroelectric power is ideally suited to meet peak-hour demands for power, whereas both atomic and coal-burning stations are better suited to provide steady round-the-clock power.

The blueprints are being translated into physical things—into growing crops and turning wheels, into food for Australia and the world, and into power for a multitude of new factories. The Snowy project is huge, not only by Australian standards, but by any nation's; it justifies enthusiasm.

Who Is My Neighbor?

Who is my neighbor? The world grows small,
And boundaries scarcely exist at all.
There's a Chinese child, and a boy in Peru—
(And the folks next door are my neighbors too!)

Who is the neighbor that I should feed
If the world would be free of hate and greed?
There's a dark-skinned child on a distant shore,
(And the bothersome youngster who lives next door!)

Who is the neighbor that I must love
That earth may reflect the peace above?
There are brown folks and yellow far over the sea—
(And the cross old lady next door to me!)

Who is my neighbor? The world grows small,
And boundaries scarcely exist at all.
I have neighbors in Greece and in Timbuctoo,
(And the folks next door are my neighbors too!)

How to Improve World Understanding

Following is a winning entry in an essay competition sponsored by the Rotary Club of Rylstone-Kandos, Australia, in observance of World Understanding Week in 1960. It was written by 14-year-old Hazel Carroll. For an invitation to World Understanding Week in 1961, see page 23.—Eds.

I BELIEVE world understanding and peace may be achieved firstly by total disarmament and cessation of further development of nuclear war weapons, thereby leaving brilliant scientists to concentrate on research that will benefit all mankind instead of destroying them.

I think that if freedom of travel is encouraged throughout the world it would improve understanding. This would come about through friendly sporting fixtures and sight-seeing travels for young and old. When people meet under such friendly circumstances, they would naturally be good diplomats. In this way we would cement friendship and it would help us to understand one another's views and ways of thinking.

The more I think of how the migration system has improved world understanding and of the many sincere and helpful friends we have gathered about us and how easily they have settled into our communities and way of life, the more I believe world understanding would most likely improve by friendly exchanges and freedom of travel, and by the help of our wonderful world peace organizations, and the fine movements such as Rotary, Boy Scouts, Red Cross, and numerous other organizations. I honestly believe the only way we can improve world understanding is through the encouragement of friendship and understanding of other people's needs.

If the freedom of trade, such as import and export, could be well considered, allowing more freedom for trading vessels passing through foreign ports of call and if the import and export system was relaxed to allow more quality goods to circulate through the countries, it would thereby enable us to compete in more freely and friendly trade competition.

The overseas countries manufacture products that Australia is earnestly in need of to keep her secure and her people clothed while in return they need our goods, especially frozen foods and wool.

Therefore I believe the only way to improve world understanding is through friendship and freedom of trade activities; probably the only way this may be achieved is through the help of United Nations conferences.

'Vibrantly Irritating Fact'

Congratulations on the outstanding issue of THE ROTARIAN for December.

One of the vibrantly irritating facts of our day is the round-the-world refugee problem. Intelligent citizenry needs to know more about these people. Spiritually these people and their problems are of great significance in the fight for freedom in our day.

'We Would Help a Refugee . . .'

The article Rotary and the Refugee, by Robert A. Placek [THE ROTARIAN for December], was an inspiring one, and our Rotary Club wants to explore the possibility of our helping a refugee or refugee family to establish himself or herself here in Fort Myers Beach. We would help a refugee to find a job and a place to live. The Rotary Club of Selma, Alabama, has given us some very useful information [see Bela and Ari Make a Fresh Start, by Sam Sommers, Jr., December issue], and I have written to some of the organizations listed in On the Side of the Refugee.

Add: Helpful Agencies

I noted that the fine article by Trevor Philpott [THE ROTARIAN for December] reported the movement of refugees to Israel. I would like to bring to the attention of our readers the monumental task done around the world by the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, the United Israel Appeal, the United Service for New Americans (constituent agencies of the United Jewish Appeal, 165 West 46th Street, New York 36, New York), and the United HIAS Service, 425 Lafayette Street, New York 3, New York.

The Joint Distribution Committee and the United HIAS Service are known

NEW DUN & BRADSTREET HOME STUDY COURSE

PROFITABLE MANAGEMENT

Why does one small business owner succeed—where another man fails—when both are good men operating under the same conditions?

Over and over the story is the same. The small business owner needs not just experience—but “balanced experience”. He must know how to buy, know his product, know how to get customers into his store and how to handle them once they are in. He must know how to handle his money, his credit, his records, how to make his store attractive, how to control his inventory.

Every year Dun & Bradstreet reporters and correspondents talk to more than 3,000,000 business owners from coast to coast. They see—close up—the methods that succeed, the causes of failure.

Now this experience, boiled down to essentials, is available in a remarkable home-study Course. Here are the principles which show how to avoid the mistakes and danger spots in a small-business operation.

How about you? Are any of these small-business “headaches” watering your profits?

Not enough sales · Not enough capital · Debts too high · Neighborhood changes · Rent too high · Don't know what's moving · Hurt by competition · Poor selling · Ineffective advertising · Faulty inventory control · Hazy about changing line or adding new lines · Unable to manage help

The new Dun & Bradstreet Course, “Profitable Management for Small Business”, shows you how to go about solving these problems and many more . . . how to do better at running your business and boost profits.

The Course is divided into 13 study units sent to you one every two weeks. To make sure you get the full benefit from each lesson, questions follow each unit. The answers are marked and returned to you with personal notes and suggestions from the Dun & Bradstreet analyst working with you. In grading your work, your instructor will take into account the length of your experience and the type of business you are in.

Here, in this Course, is the small-business know-how, the “balanced experience” that is the key to a well-run, profitable store. Send for complete details today. A booklet answering your every question will be sent to you free. Just fill out and mail the coupon below. Take this important step today.

throughout the world to be most prominent in the effort to find new homes and build new lives for broken people wherever they may be.

—JOSEPH M. MOSESON, Rotarian Executive Director Savannah Jewish Council Savannah, Georgia

And More Refugee Agencies

In your December issue, with its excellent articles on the refugee problem, the list of agencies in the refugee field failed to include the Christian Children's Fund, Inc. The Fund operates in more countries, has more children receiving aid, and has the largest budget of any organization that follows the “adoption” plan. It has 385 affiliated orphanage schools in 42 countries, making it the largest Protestant orphanage organization in the world. Information about its “adoption” plan is obtainable by writing to the Christian Children's Fund, Inc., Richmond 4, Virginia.

—J. CALVITT CLARKE
Founder and International Director Christian Children's Fund Richmond, Virginia

And Still More

You are to be commended for the deeply stirring and soundly practical series of articles on the refugee problem in your December issue. No peace can come to the world without a deeper understanding of the causes of worldwide uprootedness and a more determined concern to grope our way toward solutions.

To your helpful list of agencies should be added the largest American interdenominational agency—Church World Service, 475 Riverside Drive, New York 27, New York. You do mention the World Council of Churches through which CWS operates abroad, but I believe your readers will welcome the address through which they would normally work in the U.S.A.

—L. HUMPHREY WALZ
Clergyman Crown Point, Indiana

‘Y’ Should Have Been Included

. . . Friends of the Young Men's Christian Association, both in North America and around the world, certainly must feel that the refugee services carried on by the World Alliance of YMCAs, 37 Quai Wilson, Geneva, Switzerland, represent a volume and quality of work that should be underlined as a major contribution. Thus the “Y” should have been listed in THE ROTARIAN for December with other voluntary agencies.

—MILLARD F. COLLINS, Rotarian Associate Executive Secretary International Committee of YMCAs of the United States and Canada New York, New York

Supplies Food—Plus

I was glad to see Lutheran World Relief included in the list of agencies that are helping refugees. The listing mentioned that LWR sends food and clothing shipments to refugees.

I am aware that in a limited space you can say only so much, but I should like to add that the Department of World Service of the Lutheran World Federation, under which Lutheran World Relief operates, also finances local settlement projects, especially in West Germany; sponsors an emigration program that has helped more than 88,000 persons find homes abroad; aids exile churches in Germany; helps families become self-supporting by providing small sums for business ventures; and is engaged in an extensive medical-aid program in Hong Kong and the Middle East.

World Service, the largest department of the Lutheran World Federation, has offices in England, Germany, Austria, India, Hong Kong, and the Middle East, and employs some 600 persons, most of them refugees.

—EDWARD H. WIEDIGER, Rotarian Clergyman Middleburgh, New York

An Editorial Judgment

Congratulations on the excellent job of reporting and presenting the story of the world refugees in THE ROTARIAN for December. Every page of your presentation speaks of long and careful work—of the kind that pleases any editor when he sees it in any other magazine as much as when it works out well in his own.

‘Challenging . . . Timely’

Ivan Hill's It's Time to FIGHT the Cold War [THE ROTARIAN for December] is challenging and timely. It is, as he tells us, imperative that free men everywhere recognize the challenge with which we are confronted, a challenge which cannot be met solely by passive resistance. It must be met aggressively on three major fronts: political, economic, and educational. We can all help in this.

If our oncoming generation of young men and women selflessly and wholeheartedly dedicate and devote themselves to winning this “gigantic struggle for men's minds and hearts” to the cause of individual freedom, in obedience to the higher natural laws for life at its best, the outcome cannot be in doubt; they will prevail. In Lincoln's words, “Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it.”

—GEORGE H. GILBERT
Past Service Secretary, Rotary Club Taunton, Massachusetts

Hearty Approval for Hill

I give hearty approval to and offer agreement with everything Ivan Hill said in his It's Time to FIGHT the Cold War [THE ROTARIAN for December].

I became a Rotarian in 1923, but I had studied the aims and ideals of Rotary for some time before that and became convinced that Rotary was and is the most potent power in the world to promote universal understanding and a resultant universal peace. Even before World War II I believed that Rotary was an instrument capable of preventing that conflict.

The Rotary Foundation provides a program today that leads in the right direction, but its aims will be realized by future generations. We are fighting the cold war now.

—WILLIAM H. MANNING, Rotarian Watch Repairman Del Rio, Texas

‘Our Only Hope Our Children’

One must agree with Ivan Hill that the ethical conduct of our citizens is one of the weapons [in the cold war]. General Alfred M. Gruenther, former Supreme Commander of NATO and president of the American Red Cross, declared before the Philadelphia Teachers' Association in December that in all fields of endeavor the balance of power is on the side of the free world, but that the United States is weakest in the spiritual and psychological field, and urged teachers to stimulate the interests of their students in knowing more about other parts of the world and to instill in them a desire to help others. . . .

Improvement in the ethical conduct of our citizens must originate from the education and training of our children, as adults are not prone to change their habits or attitudes. Our only hope rests with our children. . . . Rotarians should

A View on Art

I am very glad that the discussion on art was presented in THE ROTARIAN for October, because I as an artist am a great believer in the importance of art in our daily lives.

I can agree with Cecil J. Sibbett that most of the modern art we experience today is "depressing" and difficult to understand. The reason why it is sometimes referred to as "Bolshevism in art" is not because the Russian artists under Bolshevik rule are in any way leaders of this trend, but because Bolshevism to the Western part of the world means "antireligious" and "destructive." I find the best in modern art destructive in the sense that it sometimes points the finger at the false pretenses and inhumanity of our age, but seldom or never builds up our ideals or inspiration. One is apt to wonder if modern art really believes in the future of mankind. It may be that modern art is merely a "true mirror" of our modern times; but if that is the case, should we not deplore the fact that modern man, overwhelmed as he is by the destruction of his beliefs in the world he has known and believed in, cannot turn to art for new inspiration and for new constructive ideals?

In the past centuries, the artists have always been in the avant garde—the prophets of new times to come, and it is therefore most depressing to visit galleries of modern art. Humanity does not find there the inspiration which it so needs in these times.

Unfortunately in "purging his soul" the modern artist does not reveal much that can be inspiring to others.

Information Not Slanted

It seems to me that every word of THE ROTARIAN warrants careful reading by all who have access to it. This is particularly urged on articles concerning world peace and the understanding of problems in all free countries. In no other publications, and a great many come into our home, do we find such interesting and informative facts without slanting the information to suit personal desires.

A Matter of Definition

HAROLD W. SMITH, Rotarian
Elementary-School Superintendent
Glendale, Arizona

I have exercised a great deal of restraint in the following lines, but perhaps they will get out into the open the problem of the increasing number of Rotarians—visitors and home-Club members—who leave as soon as the speaker is introduced, sometimes before:

HOW DO YOU DEFINE THEM?

*It takes all kinds of guys, I guess,
To make a Rotary Club—
The ones who come for fellowship
And the ones who come for grub.*

*But I sometimes have to cogitate—
Just get right down and ponder—
And let my imagination stray
Into the wild blue yonder. . . .
But still I can't appreciate*

*A certain curious kind
Who nowhere in our literature
Have ever been defined:
And that's the kind who come in late
To attend a Rotary meeting,
And then jump up and hurry out
Before they've finished eating.*

*Sometimes I wonder where they go
And what they have to do—
Just why they can't associate
With guys like me and you.
Perhaps they think they haven't time,
But that is just not so.
Those who stay through Rotary meetings
Are the busiest I know.*

*Sometimes I think the guys must think
We fellows aren't worth meeting;
The way they poke it down and run
Our food is not worth eating.*

*So, I don't know just what they are;
I know they're not gregarious.
Sometimes I wonder—could it be They're just plain poor Rotarians?*

Re: Packaged People

CHARLES H. BROWER
Advertising Executive
New York, New York

Among the great skills that we Americans boast is our ability to package things. We package food and drugs so attractively that the package has almost as much to do with the sale as the contents. We package cars and furniture and even life-insurance policies. Finally, I am afraid, we are beginning to learn how to package people. They will shortly be coming bright and shining from our collegiate assembly lines. They will be shaped on one side by taxes and on the other by benefits. All impurities, such as ambition, discontent, curiosity, desire, and pride, will be carefully removed—and replaced by security and welfare. Finally, our packaged people will be given several coats of canned opinion by press and TV—and sent on their uniform way. If you read directions on their sides, you can hardly go wrong. And inside an occasional package you may be lucky enough to find a premium. Yes, we are soon going to be packaging people and we are going to homogenize society.—From an address before the Rotary Club of Los Angeles, California.

On Getting into Life's Stream

F. LORIN BUNKER, Rotarian
Chief of Police
North Las Vegas, Nevada

Everyone is surrounded with opportunities to reach a helping hand to those who have fallen in the mire. To withhold the hand of fellowship marks pride, arrogance, selfishness, and greed. To extend the hand of fellowship takes man away from his base self and puts him in the ranks of the gods. It is to this end that Rotary stimulates the members to become aware of the needs of others and extend the hand of friendship. He who fails to do this has failed Rotary and himself. Rotary will only grow and prosper as the members get into life's stream that is boiling with human frailties and put the principles of Rotary to work.

Rotary does not take the place of religion nor does it replace the divine Commandments. It does give men from all faiths an opportunity to mingle together on a Rotary basis and find meaning in the words "Am I my brother's keeper?"

Reflections Re: Rotarians

LARRY THOMPSON, Newspaperman
Miami, Florida

Sometimes I think the average Rotarian is just a little too dignified for his own good. At most meetings he looks a little self-conscious as he tries to sing the jovial Club songs, and he isn't quite at ease as he tries to call his fellow members by their first names. And if the Club happens to go in for high jinks, such as fining a member for being tardy or not joining in the singing, the merriment seems a little forced. . . .

If Rotarians are apt to take themselves seriously, they most certainly do take their Club seriously. I wouldn't go so far as to say that Rotarians are fanatics about the organization, but I do think it correct to say that most of them are dedicated members. . . .

In my callow youth I used to poke fun at the Rotary custom of wearing big name badges. I thought that if men knew one another well enough to be in the same Club and to meet together once a week, they should be able to get along without big identification tags. Now, however, I'm all in favor of the custom. When I go back to Stillwater, Oklahoma, to visit, my father always takes me to Rotary. And I find it a great convenience when meeting a schoolmate who has lost his hair and added a few chins to be able to sneak a look at his tag. Without them, I couldn't recognize some of my best old friends.—From the Miami Herald.

Don't Smother Rotary!

WILLIAM HIRAM FOULKES
Honorary Rotarian
Newark, New Jersey

Don't smother Rotary's real fellowship. Neath highly organized plans and schemes.

They may be good, or simply empty dreams.

In fellowship by handclasp and by lip,
Is Rotary's real heart. Its lasting grip
On busy men is fellowship that seems Upon its face so trite, yet in it gleams
The light of manly life without a slip.

For regular attendance always brings Together men of many moods and minds.

Its heart is simply fellowship. Its goal
Of world-wide unity of which it sings
Is fellowship in which each member finds

A treasure trove for heart and mind and soul.

Share These Meetings with Your Club

How many members of your Rotary Club have yet to attend a District Conference or a Rotary Convention? How many are acquainted with the basic purpose of the District Assembly? Some, perhaps, will never know all three of these important Rotary gatherings from firsthand experience. What they learn about them will have to come from Rotarians who have attended.

In April and May, District Assemblies for the instruction of incoming Presidents and Secretaries of all Rotary Clubs in each District will be held; on May 28-June 1, Rotary's 52d Annual Convention will take place in Tokyo, Japan; and annually a District Conference is convened in each District to further the program of Rotary through fellowship, inspirational addresses, and discussion of District affairs and Rotary world-wide. The majority of District Conferences come in March and April.

If attendance at one or more of these meetings is on your schedule, and if you are to present a report on them to your Club, you will handle your assignment more like a seasoned reporter if you know what to look for and make notes on in advance.

The District Assembly

First, the statistics: obtain from the District Governor the number of Clubs represented and the number of incoming Presidents and Secretaries present.

After a presentation of a general outline of the Assembly program, the essentials of various reports—on the International Assembly, on specific phases of the Rotary program, and on new program ideas and techniques—might be presented. New Rotary literature, if announced at the Assembly, should also be named and described.

To conclude your report, tell how attendance at the District Assembly benefited you personally by extending your knowledge of Rotary and increasing your Rotary acquaintanceships.

The District Conference

Again, gather up all the figures on total attendance, the number of Clubs represented and not represented, the number of new Clubs organized, and so on. Conference business will include discussion of proposed Convention Resolutions and Enactments, and your report should note this, along with Conference Resolutions adopted, if any.

Speeches at the plenary session can be summarized and group discussions described, noting any unusual Club activities reported at these meetings. Your listeners will also want to know something about the entertainment features, so jot down a few notes about the Conference dinner, professional entertainers on the program, and any exhibits set up.

The International Convention

If you are going to Tokyo for the May-June gathering of Rotarians and their families from around the world, keep a day-by-day account of your trip and include some of it in your report. Also, fill a notebook with interesting facts about the Convention city, its hotels and Japanese inns, its restaurants and major sights. Figures on attendance and coun-

At Your Leisure

Hobbies, sports, adventure—how Rotarians relax.

FROM the north country of British Columbia, some 300 miles above the Province's population belt, comes a call to adventure that ROTARIAN RONALD J. PERRY, a furnace maker of Vancouver, answers as often as he can. He tells of its hold on him in the following story.

NOT FAR from the mighty Fraser River, the longest in British Columbia, is Clinton, a famous frontier town of the '70s that had stagecoaches on its streets until 1912. It is a jumping-off point for hunters headed for the foothills and canyons of the Cariboo Mountains, where mule deer, moose, mountain goats and mountain lions, bighorn sheep, and grizzly, black, and brown bears test a man's courage as well as his hunting skill. I've been a hunter for some 30 years, and the Cariboo country, its rugged beauty beyond my power to describe, is my hunter's paradise.

Even the town of Clinton has its own fascination for me. My trips into the Cariboo region always begin with a stopover in Clinton to visit some mining prospectors, cattlemen, and other local business people I am proud to call old friends. Our usual meeting place, the Clinton Hotel, a sturdy inn built of logs in 1862, has burned down. It was the oldest hotel in British Columbia. Many a wayfarer, poking around its nooks and crannies, often turned up relics of the building's earlier days.

After an overnight stay in Clinton, we—and this usually means my hunting partner, "Doc" Lewis, and myself—start out early the next morning for the Gang Ranch, some 85 miles to the northwest, via some pretty rough roads. The scenic grandeur on all sides more than makes up for the bumpy ride, however, as we pass through canyons and fertile valleys once inhabited by the Chilcotin Indians, fierce fighters who massacred, in the 1840s, some 300 of another tribe who were looking for new grazing land.

After crossing the Fraser River on a wooden bridge, we enter Gang Ranch country. This cattle empire consists of more than 3 million acres of grazing land, and is the largest cattle ranch on the North American Continent. To the south of it is the Empire Valley Ranch, popular with many American hunters who come from all parts of the U.S.A. for some of the best mule-deer hunting Canada has to offer. I always stop at the Empire Ranch for some hunting talk and good coffee before going on to our hunting camp and grounds about 15 miles away.

One of the most memorable trips I ever made in the Cariboo region was in '58. "Doc" Lewis and I, along with our guide and long-time friend, Alfred Higginbottom, saddled up one morning and headed for Black Dome Mountain. A three-hour ride brought us to a high ridge overlooking a grassy canyon about a mile away. In the canyon, hemmed in on three sides and with only one way out, were about 20 mule deer. To move them toward the canyon's open end, Alfred circled around to the other side which sloped up to a flat ridge. At the same time, "Doc" moved to a position about a third of the way up the left side of the canyon, while I went in the same distance on the right side.

City Speeder

Dissatisfied with our slow pace
 He flashes by in frantic flight.
 Thus, weaving in and out he'll race
 To greet us at the next red light.

Since deer can pick up a scent more than half a mile away, our movements had to be made against the wind. Arriving at our positions, we waited for our guide to appear over the top of the ridge. Soon we spotted him coming slowly down the canyon about 150 yards above the animals. Step by step he narrowed the gap. Then, when he was about 70 yards from the deer, he fired his first shot. A big buck fell, as the others leaped into motion and began running toward "Doc" on the left side of the enclosure. I stood transfixed, all the time wishing I had a camera instead of a gun.

As Alfred continued to fire into the air, "Doc" faced the frenzied herd as it stampeded toward him. When I wondered, was he going to shoot? When no more than 75 feet separated him from an onrushing buck, he shouldered his rifle and fired, and the racing buck tumbled to the ground. "Doc" later told me that the sight of so many deer coming at him full speed caused him to freeze for an instant.

"Doc's" shot caused the herd to wheel back up the canyon toward Alfred, who waited till the deer were 100 yards or so from him and then he began firing in the air again to turn them back down the canyon. This time they pounded right down the center of it, and again "Doc" had the shooting position, so he opened fire and brought down a six-pointer.

While all this was happening, I quivered with excitement, knowing that any instant it would be my turn to draw a bead on a charging buck. As the herd came closer to me, "Doc" stopped shooting and I began. I was as excited as a sweepstakes winner and my first three shots missed their mark. But the fourth brought down a 230-pound buck, and the fifth a 200-pounder. Two consecutive hits, and that made it a big day for me. In all, we had five deer to clean and load on the horses for the trip back to camp. Man, what an afternoon!

The next day we saddled up again to do some shooting—with cameras. The Black Dome Mountain country is also a cameraman's paradise, its dense forests, plateaus, and deep valleys as beautiful as any I have ever seen. Someday I'm going to head for this region with nothing but camera and film for equipment; I'll just leave all my guns and ammunition behind.

In fact, I did leave my guns and ammunition behind one year, but not intentionally. I forgot them, and some of my hunting partners have never let me forget it.

Launderamas

Coin-Operated • Fully Automatic • Laundry Stores

Launderamas are the perfect "second" business for men in all salary brackets. The Initial Launderama investment is amazingly low; the return is exceptionally high and begins the day the store opens.

Because Launderama operating costs are extremely low and free of franchise fees, you are able to offer your customer from 40% to 60% savings on all their laundry needs. Consequently, Launderamas quickly win community acceptance and popularity and are conducive to chain operation.

You enjoy built-in security when you invest in Launderamas because they are competition proof. Their custom-designed equipment can handle twice the amount of clothes as the average commercial washers and at half the maintenance and utility costs. And this outstanding double-load (20 lb.) equipment is available to you at the lowest financing terms in the industry—10% down with the balance financed at 6% over three years.

The nation-wide Zeolux Corp. organization, pioneer in this highly successful and proven field, is ready to offer you assistance in planning, establishing and financing your own laundry store business.

My Favorite Story

When my husband and I lived in Santa Clara, California, across the street from us lived a very elderly, but very spry, couple, he being 90 years old, and she 86. Each morning I had to arise at 6:30 in order to get my husband off to his work some distance away. I had noticed that the lights were always on in their house when I arose, so one day I asked the wife, "Why do you two get up so early? I'm just longing for the day when my husband retires, and I can sleep late once again."

"Dearie," she said in dead seriousness, "you have to get up early in order to get three good meals a day."

COMING TO CALHOUN—Vicente Parra, shown with Emma Penella in the "Devil's Daughter," will be seen at the Calhoun Theatre in the foreign-made film Thursday.

ISC-Sponsored Movie At Calhoun Thursday

When moviegoers see "The Devil's Daughter," the Spanish-made drama, fifth in the six-film series being sponsored by International House at Jacksonville State College, at the Calhoun Theatre Thursday, they will be impressed — and with good reason — by the realistic quality of the picture.

The entire production was filmed on the shores of Cadix and Malaga, on the Mediterranean shores of Spain. Dozens of families who had never before seen a camera participated as extras. The professional manner in which they performed and the colorful atmosphere they helped to establish is almost unbelievable.

This highly dramatic story concerns a voluptuous, proud and willful daughter of the sea, living with her blind and aged father in the small fishing village of Aldor, on the Spanish shores of the Mediterranean.

Despised with vehement jealousy by every woman in the village and desired by every man, Estrella, played by Emma Penella, is determined to retain her freedom and independence. However, she reckons without love.

When rejected by the young man she chooses, she sets out to marry his father, a widower, in order to be near the young man. Upon this the story hinges.

American movie-goers, usually not familiar with the realism of foreign films, are in for many surprises as the tale unfolds.

The picture, which was produced and directed by Manuel Mur Oti, is a modern adaptation of the classic drama, "Phaedra", written before Christ by Lucius Eneus Seneca.

The matinee showing is at 5:15, the evening performance at 8.

There's More Than One Way To Win

In the opinion of this paper, the Anniston Chamber of Commerce and other agencies that are promoting our growth and general welfare have relied too much on industrial payrolls. And while industry has always been our basic source of prosperity, present needs call for diversification.

Every little hamlet here in the South, if not all over the United States, seems to think that industry is the one sole source to which it must look for prosperity. And, if we only knew, every industry of size keeps a file on the numbers of solicitations it receives.

But important as industry may be, very few of us give enough consideration to other means by which we could get more dollars to start running up and down the gutters of our streets, as the picture used to be drawn by the late E. L. Turner, Sr., then president of our Chamber of Commerce.

Let's look at the schools as a case in point. If we would all get behind Dr. Houston Cole up at Jacksonville, for instance, and make his school the biggest of its kind in the United States, that would put more men to work in building, which is a top factor in dollar distribution.

It also would be a great help to Calhoun County merchants, who would derive more trade from the students; and if we built a larger International House as an accessory, we would draw more tourists, not only from other states of the Union, but from foreign countries as well.

Does that sound fallacious? Well let's see. When Dr. Cole, who is a promoter of the first water, came to Jacksonville, there were about sixty students enrolled there from Anniston. But today there are some 300, more or less, and the number gets bigger each year.

Moreover, let's consider the material value of a bigger Library and a bigger Museum close by. That, too, would call for building that would put more men to work, and it would draw tourists from every corner of the United States, as we have something unusual to offer as museum pieces.

Again, let's use our ingenuity, plus the best brains of the experts along that line and bring about the most challenging city of our size in this part of the country, thereby winning another national prize, as we did a few years ago, using Paul Harvey to tell the world about what he had seen.

And while all this is going on let's resurface our principal streets. Then, too, let's make Quintard an avenue of monuments to our founding fathers, adopt a city flower, keep our parks free of trash, and give the tourists something they will remember from year to year as they come here to visit or to trade.

In fine, just because we have been going backward industrially the last few years, that is no reason why we should crawl into a corner, sit on our hands and bemoan the good old days that used to be—days when our forefathers were men of vision and courage and dared to build here a Model City out of farm land and ore pits.

OPERA BUS PLANNED—A bus chartered under auspices of the Anniston Branch of the Alabama Opera Association will take area students to Birmingham May 8 when the Metropolitan Opera will present "La Traviata." Opera Association committee members making plans for the bus above, from left, are Mrs. E. D. King, Mrs. Harry M. Ayers, Mrs. E. M. Almond, Mrs. Robert Scherer and Mrs. Lee Freibaum. Anyone wishing to donate a $3 student ticket may call any of these. The bus will take the students to the performance, pick them up afterwards and return them to Anniston.

Gadsden Host To Rotarians

The annual conference of Rotary District 686 convenes here this afternoon for a two-day convention of the 31 clubs in the Northern half of the state.

Official host to the conference will be I. J. (Ike) Browder, superintendent of Gadsden City Schools, who is district governor. He will be assisted by Dr. Amos Gipson, president of the host Gadsden club.

Representing J. Edd McLaughlin, president of Rotary International will be J. Cleve Allen of Coral Gables, Fla., who is chairman of the 1961 Rotary Institute Agenda Committee.

Headquarters for the convention will be the Reich Hotel where registration will begin this afternoon at 2 p.m. when more than 400 Rotarians and Rotary Anns will begin converging on Gadsden.

Purpose of the conference is to review the service work of the Rotary Clubs in the district and to plan ways of increasing the effectiveness of their future activities.

Allen is South Florida general agent and a director of the Piedmont Southern Life Insurance Co. He is also president of the Allen Granite Co., vice-president of American Granite Quarries and secretary of the National Granite Co., in Elberton, Ga.

A graduate of Georgia Tech. he has been a Rotarian since 1934. He is a past president of clubs at Elberton, Ga., and Coral Gables.

Browder, a Rotarian since 1939, is a former member of clubs in Tuscaloosa, Montgomery and Birmingham. He is a past president of the Gadsden club.

An advisory member of the Alabama Medical Center, he is a trustee of International House at Jacksonville where the district which he governs sponsors Marilyn Anne Rumble, an Australian student. He has been an Alabama state senator, president of the Alabama Association of School Administrators, American Association of School Administrators, president of the Etowah County UGF and council president of the Boy Scouts of America.

Dr. Gipson is a Gadsden pediatrician and a longtime member of the Gadsden Rotary Club. He will preside at the noon luncheon Monday.

Rotary Creed

According to its credo, "Rotarians endeavor to exemplify their mottoes of 'Service Above Self' and 'He Profits Most Who Serves Best' in all of their business, social and civic contacts by placing the obligation to serve others before the desire for profit for themselves."

Rotary's program calls for the encouraging and fostering of:

1. The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service.
2. High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society.
3. The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life.
4. The advancement of international understanding, good will and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service.

Rotarians Welcomed Warmly

About 200 Rotarians and members of their families, representing 33 Rotary clubs in Northeast Alabama are convening in Gadsden today, and we bid them a warm welcome.

Here for their annual district conference, the Rotarians will conclude their meeting at noon Tuesday and from all appearances, their fellow members in Gadsden have arranged a schedule that will be most pleasing to the out-of-town Rotarians.

Rotary clubs in this district have a distinguished record of service, and Gadsden citizens are well aware of the work of the local Rotary club in carrying out the organization's "ideal of service."

This year, the Gadsden Rotary Club is furnishing college scholarships for four Gadsden young people. It is one of the sponsors of the International House program at Jacksonville State College, and for several years has been sponsor of the Boy Scout Show at Municipal Auditorium. The local club also works with underprivileged children.

When the efforts of Gadsden Rotarians are multiplied by 500,000—the number of Rotary club members in 120 countries—the broad scope and influence of this worldwide service organization becomes magnified.

The Gadsden Rotary Club is one of more than 10,700 Rotary clubs throughout the world which are working for community betterment, high standards in business and professions, international understanding, good will and peace.

To all Rotarians and their guests, we accord our best wishes for a successful district conference.

Swede To Play Christ In Film

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19 (UPI) — Producer George Stevens has selected tall, slender Swedish star Max von Sydow to portray Jesus Christ in "The Greatest Story Ever Told," it was announced today.

Little known in this country, Von Sydow's casting came as a surprise to Hollywood and was accompanied by an element of mystery.

Stevens spirited the actor into town last Tuesday and sent him off to his native Stockholm before making the announcement. The secrecy forestalled interviews with the press and public appearances for the lanky Swede.

Von Sydow will return in late Summer when filming begins on the story of the life and times of Jesus Christ.

Actor Von Sydow is best known for his work with famed Swedish Director Ingmar Bergman in such films as "The Seventh Seal," "The Magician" and "The Virgin Spring."

He will lead a cast which thus far includes John Wayne as a Roman soldier, Sidney Poitier as Simon of Cyrene and Elizabeth Taylor as Mary Magdalene.

Von Sydow stands 6 foot 1, speaks perfect English, is active in athletics and is 32 years old.

Since Von Sydow played the lead in The Magician I thought you might be interested in this.

Mr. I. J. Browder
Governor, District 686, R.I.

Dear Ike:

I wish it were possible for me to extend in person my greetings to you and your fellow Rotarians as you assemble for your annual district conference. However, since I cannot have this pleasure, please be assured that I will be with you in spirit, wishing for all those in attendance an inspiring and happy experience in Rotary fellowship.

My earnest hope is that each Rotarian will gain a wider knowledge of Rotary, a deeper appreciation of the concept "You Are Rotary," that he will live it, express it, expand it, and make it more effective in his community.

My warmest greetings and best wishes to all the Rotarians of your district.

Sincerely,

Last Film In Series Is Slated

Guinness Stars In JSC Event

Coming to the screen at the Calhoun Thursday is the last in the series of foreign films sponsored by International House at Jacksonville State College.

In Technicolor, and starring the superb Alec Guinness, Britain's award-winning comedian, "The Lady Killers" is nothing but fun from beginning to end.

In this farcical spoof of gangster melodramas, Guinness satirizes the leader of a quintet of would-be big-time burglars whose split-second armored car robbery is thrown into hilarious confusion when a nice little old lady, in whose home they are temporarily boarding, inadvertently interferes. Seventy-seven-year old Katie Johnson, in the role of the septuagenarian femme fatale, not only won the recent British Academy Award as "the year's best actress," but has become an "international conversation piece," as a result of the deceptively bland innocence with which she plays the "Rock of Ages" against which the desperate gang knocks itself out.

This film, incidentally, won for author William Rose a British Film Academy Award as "the year's best original screenplay."

Cecil Parker, Peter Sellers, Danny Green and Herbert Lom play the crooks, each with his own dim-witted individuality, who, with their "genuine" leader, pretend to be members of a musical string quintet in the nice old lady's boarding house as a cover-up for their nefarious machinations.

How they are undone by her guilelessness forms the crux of the story's plot which thickens and quickens by one zany turn after another.

The matinee will be at 5:15 o'clock and the evening performance at 8 o'clock.

AT ANNUAL MEETING—Among those present at the annual meeting of the International Endowment Foundation, Inc., held at Jacksonville State College's International House Monday night, were from left, Col. C. W. Daugette, Jr., Gadsden, chairman; Mrs. George Deyo, Anniston; Merilyn Rumble, Australia, student chairman of the International House Program; and Dr. W. J. Calvert, Jacksonville, chairman of the membership committee.

International House Trustees Hold Meeting At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE — The annual meeting of the trustees of the International Endowment Foundation, Inc., was held Monday night at the International House on the campus of Jacksonville State College.

Members, their wives and guests were greeted by Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones, directors of the International House Program, and Merilyn Rumble, student chairman, of Australia.

During the business session which followed, Col. C. W. Daugette, Jr., of Gadsden, the chairman, who is beginning the second year of his term, presided. Mrs. E. D. King, Anniston, the chaplain, led the invocation.

Dr. Jones reminded the group that the foundation was formed eight years ago with 16 charter members. Since that time only five of the original group have resigned, and each had good reasons, he said. He thanked the board for its support and cooperation.

Reports were made by committee chairmen: Dr. W. J. Calvert, Jacksonville, membership; Eugene L. Turner, Jr., finances; Mrs. E. D. King, hospitality; Col. H. M. Ayers and Ralph Porch, Anniston, buildings; General Edward M. Almond, projects; I. J. Browder, Gadsden, resolutions.

The foundation took for a special project last year the responsibility of helping to alert citizens to the dangerous spread of communism in this country. The first seminar on American strategy was conducted here in December and since that time speakers and films have been furnished for groups totalling around 25,000, it was reported.

Resolutions were approved expressing confidence in the Un-American Activities Committee and in the proposed Freedom Academy Bill.

Colonel Ayers made an appeal for better support of the International House Program, which he described as being "a monument to brotherhood among men around the world, and a plan that will be the salvation of the democratic processes."

Present were: Mrs. J. A. Britain, Jasper; Col. and Mrs. Daugette, Charles Frazier, I. J. Browder, Gadsden; Mrs. C. R. Shepherd, Mrs. J. S. Brown, Attalla; Col. and Mrs. Ayers, General and Mrs. Almond, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Freibaum, Rudy Kemp, Miss Mildred Parnell, Mrs. E. D. King, Ralph Porch, Mrs. George Deyo, Anniston; Dr. and Mrs. Houston Cole, Dr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Coffee.

Aussie Girl Is Speaker At Rotary She Describes Native Land

A Rotary Foundation student from Australia, Marilyn Rumble, spoke to the Anniston Rotary Club Tuesday about her native land and her first months in this country.

Miss Rumble, a student at Jacksonville State College, is a member of the International House program. Her home is near Sydney, in New South Wales. Sydney is Australia's metropolis.

She was introduced to the club by C. M. Jesperson.

The attractive burnette said she thinks the U. S. is friendly, bewildering and beautiful. She has been received with kindness in Alabama, she said, but the traffic on our "beautifully kept" roads leaves her head whirling. She is fond of the hills here, which remind her of those at home.

Australia Is Huge

Australia is almost as big as the U. S. and has a climate that varies from tropical to temperate.

Its educational system, government, geography, people and problems are different from ours, she said.

The east coast of her homeland, like ours, is cut off from the rest of the continent by a mountain range that slowed exploration in the pioneer days, when Australia got its start as a penal colony.

Short rivers that soon "run wastefully" into the sea denies the arid inland the watered pastures it could so well use, she said. Irrigation has not been done on a large scale because the dry land also lacks essential minerals needed for plant growth, she said.

They Are Industrious

Australians are industrious but they are not extreme in religious, political or other feelings. For this reason there are not many riots and demonstrations, she explained.

There are few very rich or very poor people, few hovels or mansions. Most people own their own homes.

Schools are run by the state education departments. Attendance is compulsory up to 14, 15 or 16 years, depending on the state.

The government is democratic. The secret ballot and free, compulsory education are firmly grounded. While Australia is tied to the United Kingdom by a common sovereign (the Crown or royal family), the country is fully independent and self-governing with state legislature and a federal government.

Charter Member Of UN

Australia is a charter member of the United Nations and participates to the fullest possible extent.

The colleges and universities are located mostly in cities, and there are only a few small college towns such as Jacksonville.

The continent has a coastline of 12,000 miles, of about 10 million inhabitants, 53.9 per cent are urban dwellers.

Australia is not, as commonly thought, a land teeming with koala bears and kangaroos, Miss Rumble said, although they may be found there.

Aborigines, the original black people who lived there before the Europeans came, are by official policy being assimilated. But there are only 47,000 left, and many of them are wards of the government, she said.

Report Is Explained

The printed report on financial needs of local schools was distributed at tables, one day before being placed in the homes of more than 20,000 school children.

Ralph Callahan, chairman of the County Committee for Better Schools, briefly explained the report and said a study on implementing the needs will be presented later by another committee. He asked the club's support in meeting the needs when called upon.

President Frank Robinson reminded members of Ladies' Night April 10 at Remington Hall, Fort McClellan.

Guests included E. R. Smitherman of Bessemer, Howard Minckler of St. Louis, Mo., Robert Christie, Pat Pate, Claude Kitchin of Birmingham, and the Rev. W. S. Talmage.

ROCKETS TO THE STARS

The George C. Marshall Space Flight Center is the birthplace of mighty boosters designed to ultimately transport men and their scientific instruments to the Moon and beyond. The team of scientists and engineers at the Marshall Center are pioneers in rocketry and space research. They developed the REDSTONE and JUPITER ballistic missiles for the United States Army and conducted several outstanding space projects including launching of the free world's first scientific satellite of the Earth, EXPLORER I, January 31, 1958; the first satellite of the Sun, PIONEER IV, March 2, 1959, and the first successful flight into space and recovery of animal life, monkeys Able and Baker, May 28, 1959.

Now as a field agency of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration the Center's current programs include the development of the 1,500,000-pound-thrust SATURN eight-engine booster; the launching of a series of satellites and space probes with the JUNO II booster; providing and launching modified REDSTONE rockets for NASA's MERCURY manned satellite program. The Center also manages the development of the AGENA-B and CENTAUR space vehicles and the F-1 single-chamber 1.5-million pound thrust engine.

The Center, located at Huntsville, Alabama, employs some 5,500 persons under the direction of Dr. Wernher von Braun. They are dedicated to a program of research and development that will literally open wide the gates to the wonders of outer space.

PROJECT JUNO II

JUNO II was the rocket that launched PIONEER IV, the free world's first satellite of the Sun, and EXPLORER VII, the "Radiation" satellite. Recently EXPLORER VIII was lofted to a 1,500 mile orbit by a JUNO II to investigate the "ionosphere".

The JUNO II vehicle consists of a modified JUPITER missile serving as the first stage and a three stage cluster of solid propellant rockets placed in a spinning "tub" mounted on the nose of the first stage. It is 76 feet high and weighs about 60 tons at liftoff.

It has been a "workhorse" of the space age until more advanced boosters become available to hurl manmade objects and instruments to outer space.

PROJECT MERCURY

Project MERCURY is designed to place man in orbit around the Earth to recover him and to study human capabilities under the stresses of acceleration, weightlessness, deceleration, and landing.

Under the direction of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration the first phases of this program is using the Marshall Space Flight Center's MERCURY-REDSTONE booster as a launch vehicle.

After intensive training and conditioning, an astronaut will be mounted in the carefully constructed and pretested MERCURY capsule and will be carried by a MERCURY-REDSTONE to an altitude of about 100 miles and to a distance of about 200 miles down the Atlantic Missile Range in 16 minutes.

These short flights will pave the way for later manned orbital flights using MERCURY-ATLAS launch vehicles.

PROJECT SATURN

The major current mission of the Marshall Center is to develop an efficient and reliable system for lifting multi-ton loads into orbit around the Earth and into deep space. The vehicle under development for this purpose is SATURN. The first SATURN vehicle will be a booster unit of eight rocket engines powered by liquid fuel clustered together to produce an overall thrust of 1,500,000 pounds, equivalent to 32,000,000 horsepower, plus two upper stages. Ultimately the SATURN will have three or four stages and will be able to orbit payloads of 45,000 pounds and to transport two or three men around the Moon and back to Earth, or to place instruments on Mars or Venus.

THE FUTURE

The mighty SATURN should be hurling payloads around the Moon or toward nearby planets by 1964. Beyond SATURN is the NOVA concept, a mammoth booster composed of a cluster of F-1 engines capable of generating 9,000,000 pounds of thrust. This giant booster could place 290,000 pounds in a 300-mile orbit of the Earth or send 100,000 pounds to the Moon.

Along with development of these big multi-stage boosters are the research and development programs of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to put man into space; to achieve soft landings on the Moon and planets; to improve and perfect suitable guidance, control and telemetry systems; to accomplish return of space vehicles to Earth, and to solve numerous other problems incident to space travel.

SATURN will knock a hole in the sky and NOVA may open wide the vistas of the Universe. Soon man may be climbing the craggy peaks or probing the gaping valleys of the Moon; or exploring distant planets.

Space vehicles of the future, conceived, designed and developed by personnel of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center and other NASA installations will take us there. The entire Universe, in a sense, is at our fingertips.

MAJOR MISSIONS AND PROGRAMS

The George C. Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Alabama, is the newest and largest installation of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The new Center is in charge of developing NASA's launch vehicles and conducting related research. Dr. Wernher von Braun is the director.

Employing about 5,500 persons with an annual payroll of about $48,000,000, the Marshall Center, with its unique "in-house" facilities, is the nation's most complete establishment for the development of large rockets. It is capable of conducting a rocket program from conception of the idea, through design, development, fabrication and flight testing.

The Center occupies 1,200 acres adjoining the city of Huntsville. Its facilities are valued at about $100 million. Both the facilities and a majority of the employees were transferred to NASA from the U. S. Army at the direction of the President. The Center was formally opened on July 1, 1960.

Marshall Center personnel are pioneers in rocketry and space research. The group developed the Redstone and Jupiter ballistic missiles and conducted several outstanding space projects, including the launching of the Free World's first:

- a. Satellite of the earth, Explorer I, January 31, 1958
- b. Satellite of the sun, Pioneer IV, March 2, 1959
- c. Successful flight into space and recovery of animal life, monkeys Able and Baker, May 28, 1959

Among the Center's current programs are the Saturn heavy space vehicle, Agena-B, Centaur, the F-1 single-chamber 1.5 million pound thrust engine and the J-2 200,000 pound thrust engine. MSFC is also launching a series of satellites and space probes with the Juno II booster, and providing and launching modified Redstone rockets for the United States Mercury manned satellite program.

The Center's budget for the 1961 fiscal year is about $350,000,000, more than 80 percent of which is being spent with private industries and research organizations.

Key Personnel

Dr. von Braun has two deputy directors. Dr. Eberhard F. M. Rees, who has been Dr. von Braun's deputy for many years, is the deputy director for research and development. He is assisted by E. W. Neubert. The deputy director for administration is Delmar M. Morris, veteran government administrator who was formerly with the Atomic Energy Commission. His assistant is Harry H. Gorman, also formerly with the AEC.

The nine divisions in the R&D organization, listed with their directors, are as follows:

Aeroballistics, Dr. E. D. Geissler; Computation, Dr. Helmut Hoelzer; Fabrication and Assembly Engineering, Hans Maus; Guidance and Control, Dr. Walter Haeussermann; Launch Operations Directorate, Dr. Kurt Debus; Research Projects, Dr. Ernst Stuhlinger; Structures and Mechanics, W. A. Mrazek; Systems Analysis and Reliability, Dieter Grau; and Test, Karl Heimburg.

Directors of staff and project offices are:

Saturn Systems, Dr. O. H. Lange; Agena and Centaur Systems, Dr. Hans Hueter; Weapons Systems, Werner Tiller; Future Projects, H. H. Koelle; Technical Program Coordination, Dr. George Constan; Technical Services, David Newby; Management Services, V. C. Sorensen; Financial Management, Claude Stockton; Procurement and Contracting, Wilbur Davis; Management Analysis, Chauncey Huth; General Counsel, W. E. Guilian; Patent Counsel, John H. Warden; and Public Information, Bart J. Slattery, Jr.

The Marshall Center reports to Maj. Gen. Don Ostrander, director of Launch Vehicle Programs in the Washington headquarters, who in turn reports to the NASA Administrator.

Technical Functions

The technical functions of the MSFC are divided among nine divisions, as follows:

1. The Aeroballistics Division conducts research and development activities in the field of aeroballistics and related sciences. This includes vehicle design work with respect to aerodynamic heating and external fluid properties. The Division also conducts flight evaluation and performs research in aerophysics, geophysics and astronomy as these sciences relate to booster systems.
2. The Computation Division is responsible for establishing and conducting high speed digital computation, simulation, and data reduction in the fields of space vehicle research, development, test and flight firing; and devising improved methods and systems in this field. The Division operates one of the largest concentrations of computation equipment in the Free World.
3. The Fabrication and Assembly Engineering Division is charged with producing experimental model and prototype super boosters and space vehicles. This facility has manufactured Redstone, Jupiter and Saturn rockets. It is also responsible for conducting research in and development of new technology and novel manufacturing methods and procedures for advanced scientific application.
4. The Guidance and Control Division designs, develops and does pilot manufacturing of guidance, control, electrical network, missile-borne tracking, measuring telemetering and range safety components and systems for space vehicles. The Division also designs electrical ground support equipment associated with missile-borne guidance and control components.
5. The Launch Operations Directorate, Cape Canaveral, Fla., is responsible for planning, coordinating, scheduling, directing and/or executing the checkout and launching of NASA boosters and space vehicles; this includes firings at both the Atlantic Missile Range and the Pacific Missile Range. Among other duties are the responsibilities for participating in the measuring and tracking of space vehicles, and the designing and developing of vehicle launch facilities and accessories.
6. The Research Projects Division is charged with initiating and executing original and supporting scientific research in specialized fields, and collecting and evaluating scientific and technical information with a view toward using it in future programs. Areas of activity include physics and astrophysics, space environment, nuclear physics, space thermodynamics and electronic systems.

7. The Structures and Mechanics Division conducts research and development in the fields of structures, mechanics, propulsion, chemistry and materials as related to super boosters and space vehicles. This includes design and development of airframes, propulsion systems, temperature and pressure control systems, propellant feed systems, and mechanical accessories; design integration of complete missile systems; and research in the field of future rocket vehicles.

8. The Systems Analysis and Reliability Division assures that super boosters, rocket systems, their subsystems, components and related support equipment will perform satisfactorily under the conditions and purposes for which they are designed. The Division establishes and maintains a comprehensive quality control program for rocket systems during the developmental manufacturing and assembly phases and assures that material accepted meets quality levels.

9. The Test Division performs experimental and developmental testing of super boosters and complete rocket systems and their components including static firings, providing an independent evaluation of test results and recommendations on design criteria. The Division conducts research and development in rocket system testing methods and techniques and provides design criteria for test facilities and auxiliary equipment.

THE SATURN

Saturn is the world's largest known rocket. It is a project of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Saturn development is under direction of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Alabama.

The Marshall Center, headed by Dr. Wernher von Braun, is the largest of NASA's installations and is in charge of developing NASA's launch vehicles and conducting related research.

Saturn will be capable of sending payloads weighing several tons or more into orbit around the earth, to the moon and into deep space.

There are several versions of Saturn in progress or being considered. The first will consist of three stages and is known as the Saturn C-1 rocket. Later versions may include additional stages using chemical and/or nuclear propulsion.

Saturn is expected to be the major rocket for U. S. space exploration for a number of years. It is the first large rocket to be developed in the U. S. specifically for scientific programs.

Saturn will use all inertial guidance. Many of the basic features of Saturn control are simply an adaptation of Jupiter system components to meet Saturn requirements.

C-1 and C-2: The First configuration of Saturn, the C-1, will consist of stages named S-I, S-IV and S-V. It will be about 180 feet in height (150 feet without payload) and liftoff weight will be about 500 tons.

A proposed four stage Saturn, called the C-2, would include an additional stage, named S-II. The S-II would be located between the S-I and S-IV stages in the C-1 configuration. The C-2 would be about 230 feet in height. Two and three stage C-2 Saturn rockets are also being considered.

S-1: The Saturn first stage, or booster, called S-1, is made up of a cluster of eight Rocketdyne H-1 rocket engines, giving a total thrust of 1,500,000 pounds (equal to 32,000,000 horsepower).

The S-1 is 258 inches in diameter and 82 feet tall. It is under development at the Marshall Center and has been successfully static fired a number of times, including full duration runs of more than 120 seconds.

The H-1 engine is an advanced offspring of the Jupiter and Thor rocket engine. It has 188,000 pounds of thrust and burns RPI (kerosene) fuel and liquid oxygen.

S-IV: The S-IV (second stage of the C-1 vehicle and third stage of the proposed C-2) is powered by four liquid-hydrogen engines known as Pratt & Whitney LR 119's. Each engine has 17,500 pounds of thrust.

The S-IV is 200 inches in diameter and 40 feet tall. It is now under contract for design and manufacture by the Douglas Aircraft Co. of Santa Monica, Calif. The LR-119 is the uprated Centaur engine.

S-V: The S-V (third stage for the C-1 and fourth stage for the proposed C-2) will be a Centaur rocket modified for use on Saturn. Two 17,500 pound thrust Pratt and Whitney LR119 engines, the same as those used in the S-IV, will power the S-V.

The S-V is 120 inches in diameter and 29 feet tall. S-V modification design studies are being done by Convair Astronautics.

S-II: The S-II is the second stage in the proposed C-2 rocket. It would be similar in length and diameter to the S-1 and, according to present plans, powered by a cluster of four Rocketdyne J-2 engines.

The J-2 will have a thrust of 200,000 pounds. A contract for design and development of the J-2 has been signed with Rocketdyne. No contract has been awarded for design of the S-II vehicle.

Firing Schedule: The Saturn program currently includes a 10-vehicle research and development (R&D) program for the C-1 rocket. Firings have been scheduled as follows:

Vehicle Description	Launchings per Calendar Year
	1961	1962	1963	1964
R&D, S-1 with dummy upper stages	1	2
R&D, S-1, S-IV, dummy S-V			3
R&D, S-1, S-IV, S-V			2
R&D, S-1, S-IV, S-V				2
C-1 Operational Firing				1

Saturn Missions: Saturn C-1 will be capable of placing payloads weighing 19,000 pounds into 300-mile earth orbits, of sending 5,000 pounds to escape velocity, and placing about 2,500 pounds on Venus or Mars.

The proposed C-2 would, in comparison, be capable of orbiting payloads of 45,000 pounds around the earth, transporting a manned vehicle around the moon and back to earth, or placing instruments on Mars or Venus.

Some specific missions under study for Saturn C-1 and C-2 include:

1. Re-entry tests, orbital qualification tests and circumlunar flights with the Apollo space craft, a three-manned space vehicle.
2. Mars and Venus probes and planetary satellites.
3. Lunar soft landings.
4. 24-hour communication satellites.
5. Carrier for nuclear propulsion tests.

S-1 Transportation: Because of its size, transportation of the S-1 from Huntsville to Cape Canaveral posed a unique problem. It is too large to be moved by conventional transport. As a result, a specially designed 180-foot barge, the Palaemon, has been built by Todd Shipyards of Houston, Tex. to transport the S-1.

S-1 Recovery: In order to reduce the cost of the long range Saturn program, plans are being made to recover the Saturn S-1 after launching. Two or three possible recovery schemes are being evaluated using retrorocket, parachute and glider techniques, or combinations of these techniques. Recovery will not be attempted during the first Saturn launchings.

PROJECT MERCURY

The Marshall Space Flight Center's Mercury Redstone booster is serving as the launch vehicle in early flight tests of the Project Mercury space craft.

Under the direction of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, of which the Marshall Center is an agency, Project Mercury is the initial step in the United States manned space flight program designed to further man's knowledge of the solar system as well as of his own planet.

In these early tests, Mercury Redstones will transport both manned and unmanned capsules over ballistic trajectories, that will carry them to altitudes of more than 100 miles and to distances of about 200-300 miles down the Atlantic Missile Range in about 16 minutes.

The Mercury Redstone is a modification of the highly-reliable Redstone ballistic missile originally developed by Marshall Center personnel before their transfer to NASA from the Army.

During the flights, the six-foot-diameter spacecraft reaches speeds of some 4,000 miles an hour and withstands gravitational forces as high as 6-1/2 G's during exit and 11 G's during reentry. A five-minute period of weightlessness is achieved.

Mercury Redstone flights permits a thorough qualification of the Mercury capsule and its systems under environmental conditions. Two launchings have been conducted to date. The first Mercury Redstone-boosted spacecraft containing only instruments was launched Dec. 19, 1960.

A spacecraft containing a chimpanzee was flown Jan. 31, 1961. At a later date, manned ballistic flights will be made.

Man, in these later flights, will be subjected to about five times the period of weightlessness heretofore possible. The experience gained by the astronaut in the operation of the capsule in these relatively short flights will pave the way for later manned orbital flights using Mercury Atlas launch vehicles.

In order to meet the strict requirements of the Mercury mission, the basic Redstone rocket was extensively modified. Changes in the system include the elongation of the tank section to increase fuel capacity; the design of a new instrument compartment and adapter section to accommodate the Mercury spacecraft; changes in the engine and control systems in the interest of simplicity, improved reliability and increased performance; and the development of an abort system to assure safety of the spacecraft and, on later firings, its occupant.

The 78,000-pound thrust, liquid propelled rocket, complete with spacecraft, has been successfully static fired at the Marshall Center facilities, Huntsville, Ala. The rocket stands 83 feet tall and measures 70 inches in diameter.

AGENA-B

The Agena-B system, initiated as a replacement for the Vega and as a successor to the Thor-Able, Delta and Juno II programs, will serve as the second stage to both the Thor and Atlas boosters in satellite launchings and lunar landings.

A project of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's George C. Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., the Agena-B is being developed by Lockheed Missiles and Space Division. The system utilizes an engine produced by Bell Aerospace under subcontract to Lockheed.

Agena-B vehicles, which will be similar to those used by the Air Force, are considered operational, rather than development vehicles. The Marshall Center's main responsibilities, therefore, are in the control of changes in the system to meet NASA mission requirements; in the resolving of interface problems encountered in the integration of launch vehicles and spacecraft; in launch operations, and in overall project management.

In this latter capacity, Marshall serves as the coordinating agency between the prime contractor (Lockheed) and other NASA agencies, such as the Jet Propulsion Laboratory and Goddard Space Flight Center.

BOOSTER & AGENA-B VEHICLES:

The two-stage NASA-Agena vehicles will consist of either a Thor or an Atlas first stage and an Agena-B second stage. These rockets will carry a separable spacecraft which will vary in design with the assigned mission.

The second stage Agena-B is an improved and enlarged version of the Agena-A, which is being used for Discoverer launches. The Agena-B vehicle has integral, load-carrying propellant tanks with twice the capacity of Agena-A tanks and will be powered by a new Bell Aerospace turbopump-fed engine. It burns unsymmetrical dimethylhydrazine (UDMH) as fuel and inhibited red fuming nitric acid (IRFNA) as the oxidizer.

The new engine develops substantially higher performance than prior Agena engines and possesses a multiple start capability. Ullage rockets are utilized in preparation of the propellant system for restart. Firing of the ullage rockets gives the vehicle the necessary acceleration to collect fuel and oxidizer at the bottom of their containers prior to reignition.

The Agena-B guidance system is essentially the same as that employed in the Air Force Agena-B vehicles. The system shall be capable of establishing attitude references and aligning the vehicle with them during the coast and engine operation phases. It will also initiate programmed signals for the starting, stopping and maintaining of various equipment during flight.

AGENA-B PROGRAM PLANS:

There is currently an approved 16-vehicle NASA-Agena-B program -- eight Thor-Agena-B's and eight Atlas-Agena-B's. The initial launch is scheduled for mid-1961, with firings extending through mid-1964.

The Thor-Agena-B is capable of placing an approximate 1,600-pound spacecraft into a 300-nautical mile orbit or about 850 pounds into a 1,200-nautical mile orbit. It is currently planned to launch scientific satellites with the Thor Agena-B from the Pacific Missile Range.

Tentatively included in the eight launches are four Nimbus meteorological satellites, the Polar-Orbiting Geophysical Observatory (POGO) which is to be placed into a 300-mile circular orbit and the Canadian-furnished Topside Ionospheric Sounder.

The Atlas-Agena-B has a substantially greater payload capability than the Thor-Agena-B, and is able to place an approximate 5,800-pound payload into a 300-nautical mile orbit or to launch a 750-pound lunar probe spacecraft.

The major use currently planned for the Atlas-Agena-B's is in the lunar impact or Ranger program managed by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory with five launches scheduled between mid-1961 and mid-1962. The first two launches will be basically spacecraft tests not aimed at the moon but to measure the performance of various Ranger components, such as the attitude control system, power supplies, and communication equipment, but they will also carry special radiation, solar plasma, and magnetic field experiments. The remaining three Ranger launches will be full lunar impact missions including photography, X-ray spectroscopy and seismographic experiments.

CENTAUR

The Centaur is being developed as the nation's first high-energy space vehicle. Designed to open the entire inner solar system to research, the system is under the technical direction of the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Centaur, which is scheduled to begin flight tests in the second quarter of 1961, will be used in the launching of interplanetary probes planned in 1962, and "soft" landings on the moon (Project Surveyor) in 1963.

The Centaur space vehicles (exclusive of engines) and ground support equipment are being developed for NASA by Convair (Aeronautics) Division of General Dynamics Corporation. The engines, the first to burn liquid hydrogen, are under development by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, a Division of United Aircraft Corporation.

The two-stage rocket consists of a modified Series D Atlas rocket topped by a short, high-energy stage of Atlas-type construction. It will be capable of placing 4 1/4 ton payloads in 300-mile earth orbits, and of sending large, instrumented probes deep into space.

The Centaur second stage will be used as the final stage of the Saturn heavy space vehicle, currently under development at the Marshall Center's Huntsville, Ala., facility.

VEHICLE: Centaur's first stage is powered by three main rocket engines--built by North American Aviation's Rocketdyne division--developing 360,000 pounds of thrust. Two small vernier rockets provide acceleration at the end of the first-stage propulsion period.

The second Centaur stage is powered by two hydrogen-oxygen rocket engines of 15,000 pounds thrust each. Ten smaller rockets, four of which are "ullage" rockets and six are verniers, are used for stabilization and attitude control, respectively. The combined Centaur vehicle is 10 feet in diameter and 105 feet in length.

Both stages are built of thin-gage, lightweight stainless steel. Each is free of internal framework and is pressurized to maintain its shape.

OBJECTIVES: The importance of the Centaur to NASA is more far-reaching than the capability of the vehicle itself. This is because of its relationship to Saturn, which will begin flight tests in 1961. In addition to being a final stage for the massive Saturn, basic Centaur engines in a different arrangement will power the Saturn's second stage.

Further use of Centaur in manned space mission is under study by NASA.

HISTORY: The Centaur vehicle evolved from studies of strategic high-altitude satellites for early missile warning, global surveillance, communications and weather reconnaissance work. With the realization that such satellites would require a high-energy upper stage for Atlas, the hydrogen-oxygen combination was selected.

In the fall of 1958, the Advanced Research Projects Agency selected Convair's proposal to develop a modified Atlas and a 30,000-pound hydrogen-oxygen engine. Pratt & Whitney, which has developed a liquid hydrogen pump, was designated associate contractor for propulsion. Thus it was possible to abandon the pressure-fed propulsion system considered up to that time and develop instead the pump-fed, twin-engine hydrogen-oxygen stage.

LIQUID HYDROGEN: Because liquid hydrogen offers a maximum amount of energy per pound, it becomes possible to lift--with a two-stage vehicle--payloads which would require three or more stages using earlier fuels.

It is estimated that Centaur's hydrogen-oxygen engines will produce a specific impulse (amount of thrust per pound of propellant during each second of engine operation) 40% greater than high-altitude rocket engines that burn kerosene-type fuels.

The reason given for the slow development of hydrogen-oxygen engines is that prior to 1956 there were few suppliers. Since then, however, several large liquid hydrogen plants have gone into operation.

ENGINE PERFORMANCE: Efficient performance of these engines depends on propellants being received by the propellant pumps at precise pressures. This is accomplished by special boost pumps developed by Pesco Products Division of Borg-Warner Corporation. In this pump-fed system, the initial high propellant pressurization designed to force the propellants into the main fuel and oxidizer pumps is avoided.

The hydrogen reaches the main fuel pumps as a liquid, then flows through a cooling jacket which surrounds the combustion chamber. This process cools the engine and simultaneously heats the hydrogen. The "hot" hydrogen (the temperature of which is still more than 100 degrees below zero) operates a turbine which, in turn, drives the fuel and oxidizer pumps. These pumps force the hydrogen and oxygen into the combustion chamber.

GUIDANCE: The Centaur second stage is controlled in flight by an inertial (self-contained) guidance system developed by the Minneapolis Honeywell Regulator Company. A general-purpose computer is contained in the guidance system. It stores information on the vehicle's position and velocity, received from accelerometers mounted on a gyro-stabilized platform. If changes in position or velocity are required, the guidance system sends an electronic message to the autopilot, which transmits corrective information to the engines.

FLIGHT SEQUENCE: In a typical flight operation, the three Centaur first stage engines and two verniers are all ignited before launch. After several minutes of flight, the booster section, with two of the main engines, is jettisoned. Thrust is then provided solely by the remaining sustainer engine. At sustainer cutoff, the vehicle is traveling at approximately 10,000 miles per hour. The upper stage is unlatched and driven out by the four ullage rockets, while small retrorockets aid in the separation and prevent the first stage from bumping the second stage. Moments later, the second-stage engines ignite.

Most missions will require the Centaur engines to stop at a pre-determined time to allow for a "coast" period. Thus, the vehicle can wait until its "target" is in the most advantageous position before the engines continue flight. Current planning provides for two restarts during a mission.

Rotary Is Part Of Americana

By B. LONNIE NOOJIN
Gadsden Rotarian

Americana is composed of many things, such as baseball in the summer; football in the fall; basketball in the winter; picnics in the spring, golfing and fishing on weekends and hard work throughout the year.

Another part of Americana is the growth and development of civic clubs dedicated to the betterment of their communities through various approaches, ranging from sponsoring and contributing to worthwhile charitable causes on a local level to sponsoring and contributing to programs seeking to bring better international understanding.

Like the proverbial power of a woman, let no man underestimate either the results brought about or the power and influence that can be exerted by these so-called "knife and fork" clubs of America.

never been privileged to attend one, I have been told many times by those who have, that if the United Nations could conduct its meetings and solve the issues before it as amicably as does a Rotary International meeting, we would not fear nor be faced with the threat of war.

I assume that this is because Rotarians are seeking betterment of mankind through understanding of each other and without regard to nationalistic issues. With this goal in mind, Rotary sponsors an exchange student program in which each year scores of students from foreign countries are educated in the United States and American students are educated overseas.

I cannot close this explanation of Rotary without referring to the "four-way test" which is a guide by which all Rotarians seek to regulate their daily lives, actions and decisions.

ADJOURNMENT

Gadsden Club Began In 1917

Rotary International celebrated its 56th anniversary last month. Gadsden Rotary Club is No. 308 in the 4,924 Rotary clubs in the United States. It is a member of Rotary International which has 10,815 clubs in 120 countries, with a membership of 503,000 business and professional executives.

The Gadsden club received its charter June 1, 1917, and of that early membership Dr. A. W. Ralls and Adolph Reich are living in Gadsden today.

Present officers are Dr. Amos Gipson, president, John Thomas, Sr., vice-president, and Tom Banks, secretary-treasurer.

Gadsden Rotarians hold their weekly meetings on Thursday at the Reich Hotel at 12:15 p.m.

The organization is a world fellowship of business and professional executives who accept "the ideal of service as the basis for success and happiness in business and community life. In Rotary, thoughtfulness of others is regarded as the basis of service, and helpfulness to others as its expression. Together they constitute the Rotary ideal of service."

It is not a secret organization, nor does Rotary seek to supplant or to interfere with any religious or political group. It "assumes" that its program of service is in accord with all religions, and it does not concern itself with a Ro-

Rotary Has Guest From 'Down Under'

Rotary International District 636, of which I. J. Browder is district governor and which is holding its annual conference in Gadsden, will have a guest from "down under" during the convention.

Rotary's Role At Jax State

Mr. I. J. Browder
District Governor
Rotary International
Gadsden, Alabama

Dear Ike:
Rotary in North Alabama has earned a cornerstone in the International House Foundation at Jacksonville.

The clubs in this district have given moral and material support to this project for the past ten years. In addition to financial support, various clubs and their individual members have entertained students from the House in their homes and at other points.

Through these channels, the Rotary Clubs have implemented in a practical way the fourth object of Rotary International. The hundreds of youngsters from foreign countries who have participated in the program in the past dozen years have gone back to their various countries and are now serving as beachheads of good will between the United States and their own nationals.

Reports that reach us from these students from time to time indicate that they not only obtain a more favorable impression of this country while here, but that they left us with a deep appreciation of Rotary and its efforts toward building lasting peace in the world.

Through our International House, the Rotary Clubs in North Alabama have bridged the gap between talk and action as it relates to the ideal of international peace and good will.

Sincerely,
HOUSTON COLE, President
Jacksonville State College.

The guest is Merilyn Anne Rumble from Katoomba, Australia, who is attending International House at Jacksonville State College on a Rotary International scholarship and is a member of District 636.

Miss Rumble is a junior at International House in commendation of the program in her hometown.

She is 21 years of age, graduated from Sydney College in 1959. She is interested in French, social studies and especially in the training of children.

Miss Rumble is a junior in English with a minor in history. This is her first year at International House and she has accompanied other members of the group to all parts of the world where they have presented programs at clubs, churches and other organizations.

During the Christmas season she was with a group of six cities where they were of Rotary Clubs and programs for them.

She is the daughter of Mrs. L. A. Rumble of Jacksonville.

"Jimmy is very democratic. He'll fight with a boy whether he knows him or not!"

This "four-way test" calls for all decisions to be measured by these yardsticks:

- 1. Is it the truth? 2. Is it fair to all concerned? 3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships? 4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

No one can deny that this would be a better world in which to live if we all, everyone of us, lived according to this test.

First Rotary Club

The first Rotary Club was organized in Chicago Feb. 23, 1905, and from that beginning the Rotary ideals of friendship, fellowship and service to others have spread through six continents.

Mayor's Proclamation

NOW WHEREAS it has come to the attention of my office that the City of Gadsden is the site for the Rotary District Conference for District 636 of Rotary International on March 5, 6 and 7 and;

WHEREAS, this means that Gadsden will be host to many out-of-town Rotarians and their wives during these days and;

WHEREAS, the City of Gadsden wishes to officially recognize the presence of these outstanding business and professional leaders from other neighboring towns and cities and, at the same time, compliment them, along with Gadsden's own Rotarians, for the outstanding community and international service which they so well perform in their respective communities in carrying out Rotary International's motto of "Service Above Self."

NOW THEREFORE, I, Hugh Patterson, as Mayor of the City of Gadsden, do hereby issue this official proclamation welcoming all visiting Rotarians and their wives to our City, and do hereby call upon all the people of the City of Gadsden to make them feel welcome during their stay. We look forward to having you visit us both now and in the future.

ISSUED this the 24th day of February, 1961.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of International Endowment Foundation, Inc., JSC, attention was called to the fine cooperation given by you in connection with publicity for our picture series.

In fact the Anniston Star was particularly commended for the wonderful help they have always given us in our efforts.

Personally, I have never approached a member of The Star staff who was not nice — and helpful. It just seems that they get nicer as time goes on, and as I meet new ones.

Clubbers to exchange ideas at AFWC convention

A more informal format is being mapped for the 66th Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs convention April 18-20 at Hotel Whitley, Montgomery.

Convention doings will center on actual club programs, exchange of ideas, recognition of achievements.

Mrs. Walter V. Magee of Lakewood, Ohio, general federation treasurer, will give the keynote address and will be honored at a reception Tuesday, April 18. Among others to be invited as honor guests for a VIP banquet that evening are Gov. and Mrs. John Patterson, Mayor Earl James of Montgomery and Mrs. James, Dr. and Mrs. John McLure, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fleming, Mrs. Sam Lowery of Burnt Corn, first Alabama member of the federation's ESO sorority and other outstanding clubbers.

MRS. JAMES A. BRITAIN, Jasper, AFWC president will speak on the convention theme, "Let Your Light Shine," at the opening assembly at 2:30 p.m. April 18. Planned for early comers is a luncheon feting district directors and featuring a Montgomery Centennial fashion show with Mrs. Madera Spencer as commentator.

International affairs will be in focus Wednesday, April 19. Mrs. Loren D. Moore of Orange Beach, international affairs department chairman, will speak on "Dollars for Scholars," a GFWC project to provide U. S. scholarships for Latin American students.

Dr. James E. Jones of International House, Jacksonville State College will present the AFWC scholarship girl, Suzanne Hannon, and Mrs. Franklin A. McCartney, Anniston, will give introductory remarks to an Army film, "Operation Abolition."

Poet Laureate Bert Henderson will be speaker at the annual creative writers' breakfast Thursday, April 20.

ALSO SCHEDULED Thursday is a community affairs panel discussion. Mrs. H. V. Richey of Dothan, public affairs chairman, and Mrs. Wilmer Bullock, second vice president, are in charge. Participants will include Mrs. Hal C. Lamar, Hope Hull, hostess director for the convention; Mrs. F. D. Griffin, Decatur; Mrs. Dan Waite Jr., Centre; Mrs. W. J. Gandolfo and Mrs. Charles E. Seibert, Birmingham.

Mrs. Seibert is director for the federation's new junior club division, which will be given special recognition at the convention.

MUSICAL highlights will be a piano program Tuesday evening by Mrs. W. R. Norton, Florence, president of the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs, and a Wednesday night performance by the Lanier High School mixed chorus.

Mrs. Hooper Barton of Gunter'sville and Mrs. Bill Jones of Jasper are program chairmen for the three-day meeting, which will be preceded by an executive board and council session at 10 a.m. April 18.

Ladies Night Event Held By Rotarians

Wives and guests of Anniston Rotarians were entertained at the annual ladies night program last night, held at Remington Hall Fort McClellan.

Students of the International House at Jacksonville State College presented a program of songs and dances of their native lands. The students were dressed in costumes of their countries.

President Frank Robison welcomed guests and introduced officers and directors.

Ralph Porch, past district governor, was master of ceremonies.

The students represented six continents and the countries of France, Belgium, Finland, Egypt, Iran, Japan, Malaya, Australia, Mexico, Colombia, Guatemala, Bolivia, Costa Rica and the U.S.

Marie-Claire Charton introduced the students and their numbers.

A professional piano-vocal duo from Florence—the Tri-City Pair, Jack and Dee Vorhies—concluded the evening with a program of music and comedy.

Dimmer music was provided by Dr. R. Earle Jones, Jr., at the organ. The Rev. J. Phillips Noble gave the invocation.

An administration of progress under Governor John Patterson

John Patterson
Governor
State of Alabama

"We are writing four years in Alabama history, and I want our Administration to be recorded as one promoting good sound government. I want it to be remembered for bringing about the substantial betterment of our State and our people. I want it to be an administration of outstanding progress."—Governor John Patterson

Gov. Patterson sworn in by Judge Walter Jones

Governor Patterson pledges sound, progressive government

ALABAMA'S HISTORIC State Capitol gleamed marble-white in a hot January sun as thousands jammed Montgomery on Inauguration Day, 1959. They came to see John Patterson, four years their Attorney General, sworn in as the State's 49th Governor. The swearing-in ceremony at high noon on January 19, 1959, marked the beginning of an impressive new era in State government—one of honesty, efficiency and progress.

From the moment he took office, Governor Patterson set a high-minded course for his administration: nobody but the people would benefit. He went to work on a far-sighted program to provide them with more roads, better schools, higher pensions and additional State services. His program has met great success, earning him a well-founded reputation for "getting things done."

In his first year, Governor Patterson worked the State Legislature longer and harder than ever before. As a result, he could lay claim to numerous legislative "firsts" for the State. In fact, United Press International rated the 1959 Legislature as "the most successful in State history."

Never has the State built so many miles of roads

TWICE AS LARGE as any before, Governor Patterson's road-building program got off to an early start. Days after taking office, he summoned the State Legislature into Special Session and requested the issuance of $60 million in revenue bonds for highway construction. In almost unprecedented action, the legislators approved the Governor's proposal unanimously.

To be used only for matching Federal highway funds, the bond issue assured a comprehensive, four-year road program totaling more than $650 million. Largest project is the 878-mile Interstate Highway System, a network of four-lane, limited-access highways criss-crossing the State.

The highway program has already brought record-breaking construction on farm-to-market roads, county roads and State highways as well as the Interstate routes. Major links on the Interstate system are now opening to traffic, more than 1,000 miles of new county roads are being paved annually, and all 67 counties have received substantial grants from the State for road-building projects—all part of Governor Patterson's program to provide "more roads and better roads" for Alabama motorists.

School-building program first in State's history

URGENT NEEDS in the field of public education led Governor Patterson, whose parents had both taught school, to call the second Special Session of 1959. The 10-week session starting June 24th met the school crisis head-on. At the Governor's urging, it enacted a record-breaking program for education: Alabama's largest increase in school appropriations and the State's very first bond issue for school construction.

The bond issue provided funds for a mammoth $100 million school-building program, the likes of which the State had never before seen. By mid-1960, new school buildings began springing up all over Alabama, heralding a great new day for public education.

The administration's school program won Governor Patterson the title of "friend of education." The Alabama Education Association's monthly Alabama School Journal promptly named him along with former Governors Comer, Kilby and Graves as "one of Alabama's four great education governors."

Old age pensions on rise, mentally ill remembered

UNDER GOVERNOR PATTERSON'S leadership, the old age pension program is making history.

In March 1960, the average pension check topped $50 a month for the first time. By mid-1960, the average had climbed to about $55—a big jump from the $38 average in mid-1958. Payments to 99,000 Alabama old folks continued to rise each month with Governor Patterson pushing hard for $75-a-month pensions, a goal now within sight.

Already pensioners with no outside income were receiving an average of about $65 monthly. And, some 8,000 elderly persons in great need are drawing $75 to $110 each month.

Alabama's mentally ill have not been forgotten. Along with old folks, they were the benefactors of one of the 1959 Legislature's main programs. Mental health also received a boost from a $3½ million bond issue, which Governor Patterson supported and voters approved in January 1960.

Loan sharks finally licked: first potent law enacted

ANOTHER MAJOR legislative accomplishment came in the passage of a law regulating the small loan business, effectively curbing the vicious "loan shark" racket in Alabama. For 30 years, the powerful loan shark lobby had beaten down all attempts to enact such a law.

Defeating this lobby was the toughest fight of the year, and it was climaxed only when Governor Patterson's legislative team dramatically broke a 39-hour filibuster in the State Senate. It was a star success, said The Mobile Press, which "should forever shine brightly in the crown of the Patterson Administration."

Stopping up 'bucket-holes' means more State services

IN AN ENDLESS CAMPAIGN to "plug the bucket-holes," Governor Patterson has saved taxpayers millions of dollars. This he has done by insisting on good business practices, mainly centralized buying and competitive bidding.

New records in management and efficiency have been set in nearly every State department: the State Docks turned a $250,000 loss in 1958 into a $750,000 net profit in 1959 . . . the Finance Department is buying each auto $103 cheaper now than in 1958 . . . contracts in a single Highway Department letting ran $1 million under estimates, which were based on previous projects.

Everywhere, similar savings mean more roads, more docks, more pensions, more services the State is able to perform.

Governor asked to testify frequently before Congress

AS THE STATE'S chief executive, Governor Patterson is often called upon to represent the citizens of Alabama outside the State. He has made numerous trips to Washington—to testify in strong opposition to civil rights bills, to plead for the Governor in Washington to testify before Congress

Millers Ferry and other river development projects, to demand Alabama's right to its tidelands, to speak out for the South in National Democratic Committee functions.

In New York, Governor Patterson met with Wall Street financiers and sold them on Alabama's fiscal soundness, earning on the $100 million school bond issue an "AA" rating for the first time and saving taxpayers some $5 million in interest. In Puerto Rico, the Governor greeted influential importers, exporters, and shippers to boost shipping trade for the State Docks at Mobile.

stately Governor's Mansion on his Inauguration Day. It is now the scene of frequent teas and official receptions.

Bought by the State in October 1950, the handsome Mansion at 1142 South Perry Street is one of Montgomery's most beautiful homes. Mrs. Patterson has just supervised the complete landscaping of the spacious, tree-lined grounds and redecorating the white-columned Mansion, a year-round tourist attraction.

Record as Attorney General led way to Governorship

GOVERNOR PATTERSON'S RISE to chief executive of the State came after he had compiled an outstanding record as Attorney General, principal law enforcement officer of the State. Diligently enforcing Alabama's laws, Patterson waged a continuous campaign against organized crime, loan sharks, public nuisances, and other illegal activities. He acted to halt the illegal spending and squandering of taxpayers' money, leading to enactment of the State's first competitive bid law.

As Attorney General and as Governor, Patterson has maintained segregation in public schools and other public facilities in Alabama. In 1956, he asked for and received a court injunction barring the NAACP from doing business in the State. Tirelessly he has fought to preserve and uphold the State's laws, customs and traditions, winning wide recognition as a champion of the South's cause.

He became the first Attorney General to move directly to the Governor's office.

From despair in Phenix City to decency in government

MR. PATTERSON'S ELECTION as Attorney General followed the assassination of his 57-year-old father, crime-fighting Albert L. Patterson. Still limping from a World War I machinegun wound, he had taught school many years before becoming an attorney in vice-ridden Phenix City and then in 1954 running for State Attorney General. Despite flagrant attempts to steal the election from him, the elder Mr. Patterson won a narrow victory.

Days later, on June 18, 1954, he was gunned to death outside his Phenix City law office. His brutal slaying brought this wide-open "city of sin," long dominated by gangsters and racketeers, under martial rule. National Guardsmen brought hundreds to trial and restored order. John Patterson, then a practicing attorney, played a leading role in the clean-up of Phenix City.

Subsequently, he was elected to replace his father as Attorney General. Taking office January 17, 1955, he worked hard to put his hometown back on its feet. In 1956, he saw Phenix City win nationwide honor as "America's Model City."

Among America's top 10 outstanding young men

SINCE ENTERING public life, Governor Patterson has received many high honors.

In 1956, he was named one of the 10 outstanding young men in America by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce. He won the honor in competition with nominees from all over the nation. The same year, Mr. Patterson was selected as one of the four most outstanding young men in Alabama.

Along with Governors Ernest Vandiver of Georgia and Fritz Hollings of South Carolina, Governor Patterson won the National Veterans Day Award in 1958. In addition, many organizations have named him their "man of the year."

He is a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Dixie Lions Club of Montgomery, Woodmen of the World, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Omicron Delta Kappa, board of editors of Alabama Law Review, Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity, Phi Eta Sigma scholastic fraternity, Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity, Farrah Order of Jurisprudence legal scholastic society, Alabama Bar Assn. and American Bar Assn. He is a Methodist and a Democrat.

Law school education at University of Alabama

AN HONOR GRADUATE of Alabama Law School, Governor Patterson enrolled at the University of Alabama in 1945. In under-graduate school, he majored in political science, public administration and history. He received his law degree in August 1949, and immediately hung up his shingle in Phenix City, joining his father's firm.

His pre-college education was at schools in East Central Alabama, where his father served as high school principal. The Governor attended grammar school at Rockford, Opelika and Alexander City. He went to high school at Alexander City and Central High School in Phenix City where he was graduated in 1939 as war clouds gathered over Europe.

Governor's military record: in as private, out as major

ENTERING THE U. S. ARMY in 1940 as a private, Governor Patterson served in the North African, Sicilian, Italian, Southern France and German campaigns. He was a member of the Fifth Field Artillery Battalion, First Infantry Division and the 17th Field Artillery Battalion. Winning numerous promotions, he was discharged in 1945 with the rank of Major.

Recalled into the Army during the Korean Conflict, he served from March 1951 to December 1953. He was a member of the 42nd Field Artillery Battalion, Fourth Infantry Division, and the Judge Advocate General's Section, Headquarters, Fourth Infantry Division, where he prosecuted and defended criminal cases for the U. S. Army in Germany.

At present, Governor Patterson holds a Reserve commission as Lieutenant Colonel in the field artillery.

Young son, daughter pride of the Patterson family

A NATIVE OF TALLAPOOSA COUNTY, Governor Patterson was born September 27, 1921, in the red-clay hill country near Goldville, where once gold was mined. He is the son of Mrs. Agnes Louise (Benson) Patterson and the late Albert L. Patterson. His grandparents were the late Robert and Louvenia (Hart) Benson of Sunny Level in Tallapoosa County and the late Delona and Mary Green (Sorrell) Patterson of Goldville. Grandmother Patterson, 93, died only a few days after attending Governor Patterson's inauguration and proudly dancing the first waltz at the Inaugural Ball with her famous grandson.

The Governor has three younger brothers. Maurice Patterson is assistant director of the State Finance Department. Jack Patterson is a law school student at the University of Alabama and Sam Patterson is on the Phenix City fire department.

While studying at the University, Governor Patterson was married to the former Mary Jo McGowin at Clanton on October 19, 1947. His lovely wife, who was born at Georgiana in Butler County, is the daughter of Mrs. Mildred (Dunn) McGowin and the late Sibley McGowin of Clanton.

Governor and Mrs. Patterson have two children, Albert L. Patterson, III, age 11, and Barbara Louise ("Babel") Patterson, age 7. Both attend Montgomery public schools. The Patterson household also consists of a coal-black tom cat, Tar Baby, pet of the children.

IT WAS A GRASSROOTS CAMPAIGN which won him the State's highest office. Taking his campaign to the people, Governor Patterson made more than 500 speeches in the four months preceding the 1958 Democratic primary. Professional politicians, however, discounted his chance to win the gubernatorial nomination, prompting his oft-heard campaign slogan: "Nobody but the people for Patterson."

When the returns were in from the first primary May 6, 1958, he out-pollled all 13 opponents, leading the runner-up by more than 34,000 votes. In the June 3 run-off, he carried 52 counties out of 67, tallying 315,353 votes and defeating his opponent by 65,000 votes.

At 37, he was the youngest Governor ever elected in Alabama.

Winning Friends

The students of International House at Jacksonville State College are winning many friends and influencing numerous people for their college and their countries.

This was in evidence last Friday night at the Bemiston Community Building when these foreign students provided entertainment for the members of the Talladega Rotary Club, their wives and guests at a ladies' night banquet.

Although they are from such diverse nations as Japan, Iran, Peru, Belgium, Mexico, France, Turkey, Korea, Cuba, Uruguay and Germany, these college teenagers impressed us as being very much like American teenage students.

We observed the similarity in their enthusiasm, their appreciation of humor, their youthful appeal, and underlying all else their apparent serious purpose.

It was interesting and inspiring to see students from a dozen nations joining in native dances and songs of Turkey, Peru, Mexico, Iran, Germany, Korea and France.

Jacksonville State College and its officials are making an important contribution to international understanding in the International House program. We hope it will be possible for them to expand and widen the influence of this work.

My dear Dr. Jones:

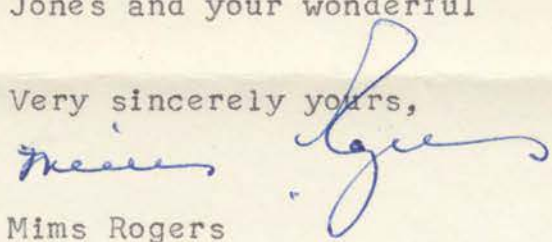

It is entirely impossible to adequately express how much we enjoyed having you and your wonderful boys and girls with us last Friday night. It is a stimulating and exciting experience to be with these young people. Our only regret was that Mrs. Jones could not have joined you on the trip.

We were fascinated with Merilyn and Suzanne. It is our hope that these two young ladies can visit with us during the summer and we have received a promise from Merilyn that she will in fact spend a few days with us in August. We want you to hold her to her promise.

Yours is a great and rewarding work and how good it is of you to share your young people with others.

Mrs. Rogers joins me in every cordial regard for your good self, Mrs. Jones and your wonderful boys and girls.

Very sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Jones:

I so much appreciated your letter and am only too happy to give any help I can. The letter I refer to was dated April 4th - the one of February 5th was never received.

Naturally, I am pleased to hear that the young Belgian lady of whom you speak is interested in a career with the United Nations. Although no longer officially connected with the U.N., I feel it my duty to do everything possible in its furtherance, including the encouragement of gifted young people.

As for concrete details on job opportunities, it is hard for me to be specific. I would suggest that the young lady herself write to Mr. W.A.B. Hamilton, Director of Personnel, United Nations Secretariat, New York City. This office is prepared to mail out complete brochures on careers with the U.N. If she is particularly interested in UNESCO (and certainly interpreting at the Secretariat and UNESCO are the two logical places for a linguist), she might write to Mr. Arthur Gagliotti, who is in charge of personnel at the New York office of UNESCO in the U.N. building.

With all best wishes for her future success and for the continued prosperity of your own International House,

Very sincerely yours,

*Keep us, Oh God, from pettiness;

Let us be done with fault-finding
And leave off self-seeking.
May we put away all pretense
And meet each other face to face.
Without self-pity and without prejudice.
May we never be hasty in judgement and always generous.
Let us take time for all things;
Make us to grow calm, serene, gentle.
Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid.
Grant that we may realize it is
The little things that create differences,
That in the big things of life we are at one.
And may we strive to touch and to know

Convention Prayer

Most merciful Father, we beseech thee to send Thy heavenly blessing upon this gathering, that all who come may dwell together in unity and love. Keep far from us all self-will and discord. Endue us with righteousness and so enable us faithfully to fulfill our mission. Help us to turn from the tumult and clamor of the world to the calm of Thy great assurance.

Stir the hearts of all clubwomen that by their prayers, their gifts, and their labors they may have a part in the spreading of good-will over all the earth.

Our Heavenly Father, we adore thee, whose name is love, whose nature is compassion, whose presence is joy, whose word is truth, whose spirit is goodness, whose holiness is beauty, whose will is peace, give us grace at all times humbly to rejoice in thy mysterious companionship.

Convention Hymn

"Let there be light, Lord God of Hosts"

Verse 1.

Let there be light, Lord God of Hosts,
Let there be wisdom on the earth!
Let broad humanity have birth!
Let there be deeds, instead of boasts!

Verse 2.

Within our passioned hearts instill
The calm that endeth strain and strife;
Make us Thy ministers of life:
Purge us from lusts that curse and kill.

Verse 3.

Give us the peace of vision clear
To see our brothers' good our own,
To joy and suffer not alone;
The love that casteth out all fear!

Verse 4.

Let woe and waste of war-fare cease,
That useful labor yet may build
Its homes with love and laughter filled!
God give Thy way-ward children peace!

Convention Rules

Sessions of the convention shall open promptly at the appointed hour stated on the official program.

Members of the convention should be present and seated at the opening of every session. Those taking part on the program should be seated on the platform before the session begins. Doorkeepers shall be appointed to admit latecomers only between program numbers. Members should remain seated until the meeting is declared adjourned by the chair.

Doorkeepers and ushers will admit no one to sessions without a badge or official card either delegates or visitors.

Members should refrain from talking except when addressing the chair; a speaker shall announce her name, club and district. No member shall speak more than once on the same subject until after all the others desiring to speak have spoken.

In debate, no member shall speak longer than three minutes, unless granted permission by two-thirds vote of the assembly.

A timekeeper shall be appointed to call time on all speakers in accordance with the time limit adopted by the assembly. It shall be her duty to give a warning signal one minute prior to the time limit.

Should the author of a report be absent, that report shall be filed without being read, unless a motion for reading said report is adopted by a two-thirds vote of the assembly.

All motions, amendments, etc. shall be put in writing, signed by the mover and a copy given to the Recording Secretary.

An emergency resolution before being presented to the assembly must have previously been passed by the Resolutions Committee.

ADJOURNMENT

POST CONVENTION BOARD MEETING

2:00 P.M. Civic Room

The American's Creed

I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect Union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

I, therefore, believe it is my duty to my country to love, to support its constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies.

Alabamian's Creed

I believe in Alabama, a state dedicated to a faith in God and the enlightenment of mankind; to a democracy that safeguards the liberties of each citizen and to the conservation of her youth, her ideals, and her soil. I believe it is my duty to obey her laws, to respect her flag and to be alert to her needs and generous in my efforts to foster her advancement within the statehood of the world.

--MRS. H. P. THETFORD

Adopted by State Legislature July 1953

Salute To The Flag

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

--FRANCIS BELLAMY

Junior Pledge

I pledge my loyalty to the Junior Clubwomen
By doing better than ever before what work I have to do
By being prompt, honest, courteous!
By living every day trying to accomplish something
Not merely to exist.

--HELEN CHANEY KIMBERLY

THE MORE WE GET TOGETHER

The more we get together
Together! together!
The more we get together
The happier are we.
For your friends are my friends
And my friends are your friends;
The more we get together
The happier are we.

GOODNIGHT SWEETHEART

Goodnight, sweetheart,
Till we meet tomorrow.
Goodnight, sweetheart,
Sleep will banish sorrow,
Tears and parting may make us forlorn;
But with the dawn, a new day is born,
So I'll say Goodnight, sweetheart
Tho' I'm not beside you,
Goodnight, sweetheart
Still my love will guide you,
Dreams enfold you,
In each one I'll hold you,
Goodnight sweetheart, goodnight!

THERE'S A LONG LONG TRAIL

There's a long, long trail awinding
Into the land of my dreams,
Where the night-ingales are singing
And a white moon beams;
There's a long long night of waiting
Until my dreams all come true;
Till the day when I'll be going Down that long, long trail with you.

WHEN I GROW TOO OLD TO DREAM

When I grow too old to dream
I'll have you to remember.
When I grow too old to dream
Your love will live in my heart.
So kiss me, my sweet and so let us part
When I grow too old to dream,
That kiss will live in my heart.
(Repeat last three lines)

SMILES

There are smiles that make us happy,
There are smiles that make us Blue;
There are smiles that steal away the teardrops
As the sunbeams steal away the dew;
There are smiles that have a tender meaning
That the eyes of love alone may see,
And the smiles that fill my life with sunshine
Are the smiles that you give to me.

OH SUSANNA

I come from Alabama with my banjo on my knee,
I'm gowan to Louisiana my true love for to see.
It rained all night the day I left,
The weather it was dry,
The sun so hot I froze to death,
Susanna, don't you cry.
Oh, Susanna, oh don't you cry for me,
I've come from Alabama with my banjo on my knee.

MUSICAL ADAPTATION OF THE CLUB COLLECT

Tune - "Love's Old Sweet Song"

Keep us O Lord, from pettiness and strife
Let us be large in thought, in word, in life;
Let us be done with selfishness and greed,
Help us be generous in word and deed.
Shed all that's false, pretense and prejudice,
Bring out the common good that in us lies.

*(Chorus) Just a song of gladness, just a word of love,
Sounds a note triumphant; echoes from above.
Send a gleam of heaven to a saddened mind;
Help us, Lord, we pray Thee, always to be kind.
Always to be kind.*

Our hasty judgement, help us to restrain,
Help us to guard and shield each other's name.
Help us to see the Right, the Good, the True,
Help us be calm, serene, and move like you;
And may we learn this lesson ere we part,
To sound the beating of our woman's heart.

*(Chorus) Send a beam of sunshine to an achin heart;
Clear away all sadness ere tonight we part;
Cast away all worry from the troubled mind,
Teach us Lord, Oh teach us, ever to be kind Ever to be kind.*

AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL

O beautiful for spacious skies,
For amber waves of grain;
For purple mountain majesties
Above the fruited plain!
America! America!
God shed His grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining Sea!

O beautiful for patriot's dream
That sees beyond the years
Thine alabaster cities gleam Undimmed by human tears!
America! America!
God shed His grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining Sea!

ALABAMA

Alabama, Alabama
We will aye be true to thee.
From the Southern shores where groweth
By the sea, thine orange tree,
To thy Northern vale where floweth
Deep and blue thy Tennessee.
Alabama, Alabama,
We will aye be true to thee.

Little, little can I give Thee
Alabama Mother mine.
But that little-hand, brain, spirit.
All I have and am are thine.
Take, O take the gift and giver,
Take and serve thyself with me.
Alabama, Alabama,
We will aye be true to thee.

DIXIE LAND

I wish I was in the land of cotton,
Old times there are not forgotten,
Look a-way! Look a-way!
Look a-way! Dixie Land.
In Dixie Land where I was born in Early on one frosty mornin'
Look a-way! Look a-way!
Look a-way! Dixie Land!

Then I wish I was in Dixie Hooray! Hooray!
In Dixie Land, I'll take my stand
To live and die in Dixie;
A-way, A-way,
Away down south in Dixie;
A-way, A-way,
A-way down south in Dixie.

Dear Dr. Jones,
The picture shall be a treasure for me always, thank you so much for sending it. You have been so fine to work with and so kind to do and say thoughtful things. I regret ~~that~~ <sup>not</sup> being able to give International House more Convention program time but really look forward to next year. Please forgive this hastily written note. I'm home only to-day. have been at my mother's bedside since Convention will return to Sheffield to the hospital to-morrow. My husband's father is seriously ill in Decatur hospital so we are under great stress.

Please give Mrs Jones and Suzanne my love and again Thank you
Sincerely
Ruth Britain

DR. WALTER R. COURTENAY

Dr. Courtenay, a native of Canada, was graduated from Maryville College in 1929 and completed his theological training at Princeton in 1932. Upon graduation from Princeton, he accepted a call to a church in Wisconsin, a position which he held until his appointment in Nashville in 1944. He has had only two parishes in his entire career as a minister.

During recent years, seven of his addresses have been read into the Congressional Record. In 1957, LIFE MAGAZINE featured him and one of his sermons, calling the sermon one of the six best Easter sermons of 1956.

No minister in Nashville or in the South has a larger following, and no minister is a stronger defender of true Christian Americanism and the free enterprise system of our country.

1. He Lead-eth Me; O Blessed Thought!
O Words With Heavenly Comfort Fraught!
What-E'er I Do, Wher-E'er I Be,
Still 'tis God's hand that lead-eth me.

CHORUS

2. Lord, I would clasp Thy hand in mine,
Nor ev-er mur-mur nor re-pine,
Con-tent, What-ev-er lot I see,
Since 'tis my God that lead-eth me.

CHORUS

3. And when my task on earth is done,
When by Thy Grace, The Vic-tory's Won,
E'en Death's cold wave, I will not flee,
Since God through Jor-dan lead-eth me.

CHORUS

He lead-eth me, He lead-eth me,
By His own hand He lead-eth me,
His faith-ful follower I would be,
For by His hand He lead-eth me.

SOLDIERS OF CHRIST, ARISE

1. Sol-diers of Christ, a-rise, And put your ar-mor on, Strong in the strength which God sup-plies
Through His e-ter-nal Son
Strong in the Lord of hosts, And in His Might-y power,
Who in the strength of Je-sus trusts
Is more than con-quer-or.
2. Stand then in His great might,
With all His strength en-dued,
And take, to arm you for the fight,
The pan-o-ple of God;
That hav-ing all things done,
And all your con-flicts past,
Ye may o'er-come through Christ a-lone,
And stand en-tire at last.
3. Leave no un-guarded place, No weak-ness of the soul,
Take eve-ry vir-tue, eve-ry grace,
And for-ti-fy the whole.
From strength to strength go on,
Wres-tle and fight and pray,
Tread all the powers of dark-ness down,
And win the well-fought day.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 19—Alabama clubwomen are keeping close watch on headlines about Cuban charges and revolutions.

As the federation's Latin American programs moved into convention focus today, individual members in corridor chats expressed varied views about possible U. S. action in the nearly off-shore situation.

"WE CANNOT ALLOW Russia to make inroads into the Western Hemisphere," said Mrs. Loren D. Moore, Orange Beach, AFWC international affairs chairman. "The Soviets have proved if they take a little bite, the next bite is bigger. We cannot let happen in this hemisphere what has happened in Europe and Asia."

Mrs. Ernest Stone, Jacksonville, also feels the United States should not remain "passive if Russia actively supports Castro forces."

"It's time to shake American complacency," said Mrs. Louis Kilpatrick, Mississippi federation president, who formerly favored the "watch and pray" procedure. "We must be interested, inquisitive, informed," she asserted.

CLUBBERS CONCERNED WITH U. S.-LATIN RELATIONS

... Mrs. Ernest Stone, Mrs. Loren Moore, Mrs. J. Cecil Eagerton Jr.

AMONG OTHERS urging more awareness of U. S. relations with Latin American neighbors were Mrs. Bill Jones, Jasper, and Mrs. J. Cecil Eagerton Jr., president, Montgomery City Federation of Clubs.

"We cannot afford to treat our Southern neighbors with the casual attitude we have in the past," Mrs. Walter V. Magee, general federation treasurer from Lakewood, Ohio, told the clubbers in her keynote address Tuesday night. She suggested "serious study of the Americas with discussions leading to tangible support according to your ability." She pointed out the general federation's "Dollars for Scholars" program which will bring Latin Americans to this country for a year of study and a series of seminars in South America to be attended by GFWC representatives in June.

MRS. MAGEE said U. S. relations with Canada have been "eroded because of our unconcern and thoughtlessness."

The general federation officer also called on clubwomen to adopt a militant attitude against "the flood of unwholesome influences found in indecent publications, suggestive, mediocre or violent TV shows and books which appeal to prurient interest."

Conventioners tonight will see the film, "Operation Abolition" presented by the Fourth Corps, U. S. Army. Special guests at tonight's international affairs banquet will include Dr. James R. Jones, director, and Suzanne Hannon, AFWC scholarship girl, from Jacksonville State College's International House.

HONORED AT luncheon today was W. D. Fleming, Birmingham, longtime publisher of The Alabama Clubwoman.

During Tuesday's business sessions came an offer from the Alabama School for the Blind offering the Alabama federation as state headquarters a floor of the Wrenn residence in Talladega which has been willed to the Adult Blind Department. Final decision regarding acceptance will be made after a conference between the AFWC executive committee and headquarters chairman and officials of the institution.

JSC Student Given Grant

JACKSONVILLE — Denise Auroseau of Paris, France, an International House student at Jacksonville State College, has received a graduate scholarship at the University of Alabama for $1,000 per year to study English. She will receive her degree here in July and will transfer to the University this fall.

She will graduate with a 2.17 scholastic average and a major in English.

In Paris, where she was associated with the Texaco Company in a responsible position, she had already graduated from Sophie Germain College, and she has spent two complete years on the Jacksonville campus.

In addition to her activities at the International House, she has assisted in the language program in the laboratory schools.

A BROTHERHOOD OF HUMANITY

There is but one Eternal Truth, one universal, infinite and changeless spirit of Love, Truth, and Wisdom, impersonal, therefore, bearing a different name in every nation, one Light for all, in which the whole Humanity lives and moves, and has its being. Like the spectrum in optics giving multi-colored and various rays, which are yet caused by one and the same sun, so theologized and sacerdotal systems are many. But the Universal religion can only be one if we accept the real primitive meaning of the root of the word.

We are all brothers--by the laws of nature, of birth, of death, as also by the laws of our utter helplessness from birth to death in this world of sorrow and deceptive illusions. Let us then love, help and mutually defend each other against the spirit of deception; and while holding to that which each of us accepts as his ideal of truth and unity-- i. e., to the religion which suits each of us-- let us unite to form a nucleus of a Universal Brotherhood of Humanity without distinction of race, creed or color.

NEW COMERS TO INTERNATIONAL HOUSE, 1960-61

International House is proud indeed to welcome this year, new students from all corners of the earth. They are all contributing in some field or another to making this year at International House such a happy and profitable one for all concerned. We welcome 26 new students. Of these, three are from Europe, two are from Asia, two are from Central America, one from Latin America, two from South America, one from Australia, and one from Africa. There are ten new American students.

From Brussels, Belgium, comes Suzanne Hanon. She speaks French, Dutch, English and German. She has many hobbies and likes especially to travel, to collect stamps and to cook. Suzanne is of French descent by her mother. At first Suzanne wanted to become a teacher of Germanic languages, but now she will stay at International House for two years and will then try to get a job dealing with foreign countries, perhaps with some business or International Organization such as UNESCO. Suzanne is the A. F. W. C. scholarship student for the academic year of 1960-61.

Although Jean Paul Dally was born in Brussels too, he has travelled over a large part of Europe. He speaks French, Flemish, English and German and graduated from high school with honours in Greek, Latin and French. Jean Paul's major subject at college here is engineering.

Yukiko Ano comes from Tokyo, Japan. Yukiko agrees that Tokyo is now the most crowded city in the world. Prior to her arrival in the U. S., she had been working as an assistant at the Kindergarten of English-speaking children for three months. She has graduated from Teachers' College in Tokyo. Yukiko would like to be a kindergarten or elementary school teacher (first or second grade), on her return home after her studies here, and is now majoring in the subjects which will enable her to do this.

Stig-Eyrik Bjorkqvist comes to us from Abo (Turku), Finland. Abo is the former capital of Finland, and one of the few cities in the world with two universities. After graduating from Svenska Normallyceum High School in Helsinki, he completed his military service. He then commenced preliminary studies in medicine which he is now continuing here at Jacksonville State College. His premedical course here includes Chemistry, Biology and American Literature. Stig will probably complete his medical studies at Turun Yliopisto, Abo.

We are pleased indeed to have Patricia Kok Wah Ong with us from Johore, Malaya. She has graduated from Teachers' College in her own land and has taught for a year before coming here. Patricia's mother is still in China so she has been brought up chiefly by her uncle, a Johore lawyer trained in London. She speaks English, Malay and Chinese. Patricia is taking subjects at College which will enable her to get a B. A. degree, so she can teach in the Teachers' College in Malaya on her return home.

From Cairo, Egypt, we welcome Mervette Farid. Before her arrival here, Mervette finished her studies in an English School in Cairo, and then did two years of languages and secretarial science. She speaks English, French, Arabic and Italian, and hopes to get her B. A. here so that she can study Interior Decorating at the University of California.

From Sydney, Australia, we have with us this year, Marilyn Rumble. After graduating from High School, she completed two years at Sydney Teachers' College, and then taught for a year in the Elementary School of her home town. She will stay in the U. S. for two years, and at the end of this time hopes to have her B. S. in Education so that she will be able to teach in the High Schools of New South Wales, Australia.

We welcome from Guatemala, Italo Morales Hidalgo. Italo has studied at the Texas College of Arts and Industries, and during the past summer worked in the state of Idaho, doing social work as a staff member of the Migrant Ministry. Italo is majoring in Languages and minoring in Music, as he hopes to teach languages and music, and would like to continue his studies in Psychology at the University level. It is his wish also that he might be able to travel through Europe. Italo speaks English and Spanish and at the present is studying German and French.

From Barranquilla, Columbia, we are pleased to have Myriam Gateno. Before coming to the U. S., Myriam studied language at the Escuela Superior de Idiomas, and is now teaching Spanish in the elementary school here at Jacksonville. She is the only daughter in a family of four brothers and speaks Spanish, French, Italian and English. Myriam hopes to work in the American Consulate in Barranquilla on her graduation from College.

From the "highest capital in the world"--La Paz, Bolivia, comes Esperanza Vidal. Prior to her arrival here, she taught English at the High School level in her own land. She is taking the subjects she has chosen here at College because she wants to improve her English so that she might become a really good English teacher on her return to Bolivia. Esperanza teaches Spanish here at College and at the present is herself studying French.

We welcome to International House, Carlos Zeller from Mexico City. Prior to his arrival here, Carlos studied at the Presbyterian Pan American School after graduating from High School. He is taking a Pre-Medical course here at Jacksonville State College, so that he will be better equipped on his return home to realize his ambitions as far as his career is concerned. Carlos speaks Spanish, English and Italian.

From San Jose, Costa Rica, comes Fernan Peralta. Costa Rica is situated in the heart of the American Continent, and Fernan believes it is a region of real beauty. Fernan graduated from Lincoln High School and is now enrolled in the Basic Engineering course here at J. S. C. Fernan plans to study chemical engineering, and upon completion of his course, to return to Costa Rica. He enjoys very much an unusual hobby of chess playing.

The United States is represented by fourteen new students, who are all training to teach, either in the elementary level, or high school level.

From Gadsden, Alabama we have Alice Warren, a sophomore, majoring in Foreign languages. Alice contributes to the International House Program, and wants to enter the teaching profession on graduation from College. Another sophomore from Gadsden is Eunice Stephens. Eunice is majoring in Mathematics, and minoring in English and Music. On graduation, Eunice will probably teach mathematics or English, or work in industry using her mathematical training. Diana Rampsey is a Junior from Gadsden, and her major is History and her minor is Spanish. She would like to teach High School History on graduation. From Gadsden too, is Freshman Jolene Miller, who is majoring in Elementary Education and minoring in Spanish. From Alexandria, we have sophomore Jonita Sharp, whose major is English, and who is minoring in French and History. Martha Pledger, a junior majoring in languages (French and Spanish), would like to teach languages at the High School level. She comes from Anniston. From Pell City, we have Barbara Brown, a junior majoring in languages (English, French and Spanish). Her minor is History, and her aim is to teach in High School. Broughton Harwell, a sophomore from Atlanta, Georgia, plans to teach Mathematics on her graduation from College, and her minor is French. Mary-Maude Clark, from Jacksonville, is a Senior whose major is History, and whose minor is French. She would like to teach History on her graduation.

Returning students this year are Marie-Claire Charton, and Denise Aourousseau, from France, Hooshidah Badipor from Iran, and Carmen Rubio from Cuba, who although is now in Brazil, hopes to be with us by the summertime.

ABOUT MY COUNTRY

By Stig-Eyrik Bjorkqvist

"Do you wear shoes in Finland?" and "Do you have much trouble with the Russian Military over there?" are among the most frequently asked questions about my country. The answers are that Finland is a cold country, so one has to wear shoes. We also are a little bit civilized; a fact that makes the use of shoes in Finland more certain. Troubles with Russian Military are non-existent because we don't have any Russian Military in Finland.

Questions like those above have time and again shown me how necessary the International House is. To understand a person, one has to know something about him. Maybe this article can give some information and arouse a little interest.

Finland is a small country, not quite three times the size of Alabama; one of the largest in Europe in respect to the area, but still a small country. The population is about that of Alabama, four and one-half million.

The capital, Helsinki (the Finnish name) or Helsingfors (the Swedish name), is the largest city in Finland, and about the size of Birmingham, Alabama. In Finland, like in Belgium, there are two official languages, Finnish and Swedish. The Swedish minority that has been living in Finland since the time of the Vikings, forms about 9% of the population.

The country is situated entirely north of 60° North, which makes it the second most northerly country in the world after Iceland. Still the climate is temperate. During the three summer months the temperature average is around 60° F, but in wintertime the whole country is covered with snow and ice for three months in the South, and for five months in Lapland in the North. I have personally experienced temperatures of -40°, which is a rather bitter cold when the wind is blowing. But in summertime Finland is a smiling country. The typical Finnish landscape is hilly: hills covered with forest and separated by lakes. The forests of spruce and pine form the most valuable richness Finland has. There are some 80,000 larger lakes with some 30,000 islands in them, and along the long shores to the Baltic there are some other 30,000 islands, islets, and rocks. The impression of the whole country can be said in these three words: forests, water, and rocks. Finland must be the ideal place for persons that want to get away from everything. The forests are deep and full of wild life, the lakes are solitary and quiet. If one wants, one can find a lake or an island far away from everybody else.

The nature is stately but still mystic. In wintertime the snow makes everything a crystal clear infinity, over which the Aurora Borealis flashes. The stars glitter as nowhere else, and the air is fresh, clean, and sharp. In summertime the days are long, and the nights are only bewitched twilight, full of the mysterious voices and odors of the forest, and the whispering of lakes and streams.

Life in Finland is like in most civilized countries. The living standard is among the highest in the world. About half the population lives by farming, often a lonely life with a mile or more to the next door neighbor. In summertime the cities and towns are virtually "closed", because everybody that has a chance takes his vacation and goes out to his summer cottage on some lake shore. We have a six day work week, and a highly developed social security program. Almost all Finns are very interested in sports and reading. Cars are few, roads bad, and gasoline expensive. In wintertime skiing is not only a sport, but also a mean of communication.

The Finnish republic is nowadays in a delicate political situation, since we lost the last war against the mighty neighbor in the East, the Soviet Union. But we are trying to remain neutral and keep up good relations with everybody. Especially good are the relations with the Scandinavian countries.

I think Finland is a good country to be from ... and a good country to go back to.

ACTIVITIES

by Alice Warren

An old adage says that "there is no rest for the weary," and this year the International House proved it. However there was enough laughter and fun mixed with the hard work to make every effort worthwhile.

The month of October brought the first social event in the form of an Asian Party. The meal was prepared by Patricia Ong of Malaya, Yukiko Ano from Japan, and Hooshidar Badipour from Iran. These students received spices and foods from their homes, and the entire International House sat "cross-legged" on the floor and ate the exotic meal with chop sticks. The costumes were appropriate, and in some cases very original. For example, Stig-Eyrik Bjorkqvist of Finland, masqueraded as a man from India, complete with snake and flute.

In the same month, the International House received 500 guests on Sunday, October 23rd, and we celebrated together the 14th anniversary of the International House program. Refreshments were served by the Home Economics Department of the college.

Montgomery was the scene of the first program on November 4th. We were the guests of Sidney Lanier High School. Every student was warmly received into the home of a high-school student and the atmosphere at the school itself was friendly.

As November drew to a close, every student began to anticipate the Thanksgiving Holidays. Our own celebration began several days before the actual day arrived. The traditional meal was served, and an inspirational program was given by Mrs. Gorden Silvey of Gadsden, Alabama. Mrs. Silvey explained the true meaning of Thanksgiving, including the history of the Pilgrims.

The holidays carried many of the students to various places in the United States. Mervette Farid from Cairo, Egypt, went to New York to spend some time with her father. Mr. Farid, who was in the United States on business, visited our campus earlier in the year.

Yukiko Ano spent the holidays in Charleston, South Carolina. She was the guest of some friends whom she met before coming to this country.

The highlight of December was the celebration of Christmas. The International House was decorated; the center of attraction being the huge tree with piles of gifts at its base. The Christmas party was lots of fun, featuring some films of the students of the previous year.

Christmas vacation again brought a welcomed rest and enjoyable trips. Hooshidar Badipour (Iran), Esperanza Vidal (Bolivia), Italo Morales (Guatemala), and Marie-Claire Charton (France), were guests of the Rotary Clubs of Florida. They visited Fort Myers, Naples, and Winter Haven.

Merilyn Rumble (Australia), Suzanne Hanon (Belgium), Patricia Ong (Malaya), and Yukiko Ano (Japan), were also the guests of Florida Rotarians. Their trips carried them to Saint Augustine, Tampa, Sarasota, Ybor City, and the Interbay area.

Carlos Zeller from Mexico City, Mexico, went home during the vacation. He had as his guests: Jean-Paul Dailly (Belgium), Fernan Peralta (Costa Rica), Erskine Lane (Hokes Bluff, Alabama), and Bill Vaughn (Homer, Georgia).

After the push of final exams., the programs began again. We were the guests of the District Rotary Convention at Gadsden, Alabama, which was held on March 7th.

The trip to Huntsville was perhaps one of the most enjoyable programs of the entire year. The group was the guest of the Huntsville Rotary Club. While in Huntsville, we were given a tour of Redstone Arsenal. A look at the Saturne missile was one of the highlights. We were also allowed to see the testing platform where missiles are given the final check before being sent to Cape Canaveral for firing.

During April, the entire group went to Cullman, Alabama, as guests of a joint meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, and the Kiwanis Club. Stig-Eyrik did a commendable job as moderator.

One short, but enjoyable trip was made to Fort McClellan, Alabama. The program was for the Anniston Rotary Club's annual ladies' night.

The last program of the year proved to be a huge success, as the entire group went to Florence on April 14th. The program was given for the Florence Rotary Club. This, also, was a ladies' night program for the Rotarians. The program was made even livelier as the audience clapped in time with the music for the Mexican Hat Dance and the Finish Polka.

The graduation service this year will be a very happy occasion for the International House, and especially for one of its members, Denise Arousseau from Paris, France. After receiving her degree in July, Denise plans to continue her education in the United States. All of the members wish her the best of luck.

Naturally, it was hard to meet such a "tight" schedule, but it was worthwhile because of the wonderful people we met and the interesting sights we saw. Surely there can be no regrets for such a wonderful year!

SOME THOUGHTS ABOUT MY COUNTRY....

...EIGHT MONTHS LATER...

by Suzanne Hanon

Some time ago I was asked to write an article for the International Voice. I thought and thought: of course I wanted to tell you all about my country but I had only one fear: I did not want to sound like one of these booklets the tourism agencies send to you when you decide to take a trip abroad.....

"Belgium, the crossroads of Europe, one of the three Benelux countries; one of the most highly populated countries of Europe (289 inhabitants per sq.Km, with an area of 30,506 sq.Km)....

Belgium is a consitutional monarchy, which is hereditary; the constitutional powers are exercised by the King. All power is derived from the nation. The legislative power is in the hands of the King, the House of Representatives and the Senate. The judicial power is exercised by the courts and tribunals....

There are many opportunities for the tourists.... Stop at such hotel... See the wonderful tower so and so..."

No, really, I did not want to talk like a travel pamphlet or worse, like a History book! Therefore, I imagined I was back in my country and lots of souvenirs and remembrances came back to my mind.

As I come from Brussels you won't be astonished to hear the typical joke of "Saint Verhaeghen's" day. The story you are going to hear has nothing original, except that it happens every year, at the end of November, when the leaves are falling from the trees, when it rains outside and when it is dull and hot inside, especially in a class of Greek, where you have to translate Demosthenes..... Here is the tableau, a warm atmosphere, a sleepy classroom, a dull teacher (hmm). At the moment you are just looking desperately for this famous second aoristus...Miracle!! You suddenly hear a strange noise, clamors, whistling, racket all over the school. The pupils awake from their torpor; the teacher looks worried. Demosthenes has no more success. We all know what is going to happen, the teacher does too, of course, but nobody pretends to know: we all play our role. Suddenly the door is opened and a whole troupe of smiling faces appear, with funny caps and dark beards (the devils from Brussels and Louvain Universities!)...general perturbation in the classroom! The assailants do not look too terrible but they advance in the direction of the blackboard. The teacher takes an authoritarian voice, tells them to go out, but the smiling troupe always advances and sits down at the empty benches. We come back to Demosthenes, several questions about the declensions and irregular verbs and, little by little, every one of our invaders disappears, leaving all the girls delighted by their unusual Greek lesson.

This was the first memory, I do not know why it came first...perhaps because Jacksonville State College students are too quiet!

Another picture in my mind: another side of my life. Sunday: I think Sunday, even if it has a different meaning all over the world, means something very special to me. Sunday afternoon: "Papa, Maman et les enfants" go to the Forest de Soignes, just close to Brussels, and there wait, quiet and very serious. They have taken a big bag and, following the season, look for mushrooms (the "cepes," a delicious kind of mushrooms which are still more delicious, once fried in the pan), for Maylily, chestnuts, honeysuckle, wild strawberries or mould for the garden. A real expedition, quoi, during which, sometimes, when baby does not cry, we see some graceful dears browsing grass in a glade. When it gets cooler and darker, from time to time, a shy little rabbit or a bunch of pheasants run off a bush at a turning of the road. And we come back home, tired to have run but very pleased with our afternoon. At home yes, a nice smell of coffee, and also several "tartes" are waiting for us. Nothing comparable with the Belgian "tarte au sucre," "tarte au riz," even not the fattening American pies!

Sometimes also we go for a longer trip in the Ardennes, the hilly East of Belgium, where hundreds of rivers sing in green meadows crowded with cows. There Dad goes fishing trout and the children take a trip in the canoe, if possible, a little bit further in order not to disturb the "pater familias"! And in the evening, whether the trout have been caught or not, we have supper in one of these picturesque and rustic restaurants where the principal dish is omelette with smoked ham or bifteck, frites, salade....

My reader must think that the Belgians have only one main preoccupation: to eat. And, after all, I think it is partly true. Another feature of "un bon Belge": he likes to be comfortable and to have a nice, quiet, clean little house. The "pater familias's" authority is often overcome by the "mater familias" with a rag in the hand!

To come back to my dearest remembrances, I have to mention my old friend, Saint Nicolas. In Belgium we are very fortunate to have, in December, not only one big feast but two. On the 6th of December Saint-Nicolas, "patron des ecoliers et des enfants sages," comes through the chimney and brings the children toys, books, candies, and sweets. (I say the children, but he never forgot me, except last December; he did not come to Jacksonville.) It is then the opportunity to place some onions and carrots for his faithful donkey, which carries every year the big basket filled with toys!

But I forgot perhaps the principal...that's when we go to the seaside, in Knokke, Coxyde or Ostende. Though we have only about 40 miles of coast, we have nice beaches of yellow sand and with all sorts of plants (that's where I used to study my finals at the end of June). Even if the water is often cool and even if we have pretty dangerous jellyfish in July, "la mer" is something for every Belgian. Some prefer the harbours where they can find fresh fish and shrimps, the Ostende-Dover Muelles and a good glass of Kriek Lambiek, and some find charm in the cottages with pointed roofs, lost in the downs.

I could have mentioned other places, other stories happening elsewhere in Bruges, Ghent, Namur or Liege, or simply in the trams in Brussels...but I expect you to discover them yourself, when you come on your trip to Belgium, and, please, do not forget your cameras!

MALAYA IN BRIEF

by Patricia Kok Wah Ong

The Malay Peninsula, to a lot of people, is only known as the long narrow strip that stretches into the sea, dividing the Indian Ocean from the South China Sea. On the west coast there is the level land of dark-green forest. This is the mangrove belt, that grows on the alluvial soil brought down by the many rivers that drain into the sea. Behind this, looms a long range of heavily-timbered mountains, and behind this is yet another range.

Throughout its hundreds of miles of length and breadth, the Malay Peninsula is one vast forest, broken in various places by clearings to make way for fast developing towns and cities, plantations, housing estates and mining regions. Typical are the alluvial tin fields of Kinta, Selangor. Tin is one of the three main products of Malaya. The others being rubber and pineapple.

The railways wind through the forest and the mines, towns and plantations are bounded by what now remains of the forests. These forests are evergreen; seasons and time leave no mark upon the forests and will remain evergreen in the days of generations yet unborn. The mountains blaze with the brightness of an afterglow a few minutes after sunset everyday.

This Malay Peninsula, small as it seems, is divided into states: eleven in all. Each state is ruled by a Sultan. The most senior of these eleven Sultans is chosen to be the King of Malaya, his wife then becomes the Consort, or Queen. The Malayan flag has eleven horizontal stripes of alternating red and white, and in one corner, are the crescent moon of Malaya and a star that has eleven points also to represent the eleven states.

The climate of Malaya is hot and wet, with an annual rainfall of 82 inches and an average temperature of about 70-90° F. There are two monsoon seasons a year, in June and in December. During such time the east coast of Malaya gets the bulk of the rain, known as the Cameron Highlands. This being the case, the west coast of Malaya is more densely populated than the east coast, where the sparsely populated areas are not very favorable to agriculture for about six months of the year...December to February, May to July. Most of the natives there fish in the South China Sea. Even this is hindered by the monsoon seasons twice a year. Where trade is concerned, the island off the west coast of Malaya called Penang acts as an entrepot port. In the south, there is the island of Singapore, better known as the Gateway to the East, or the City of Singapore. Singapore is separated from the mainland of Malaya by the Straits of Johore, about a quarter of a mile wide. A causeway connects Singapore to Johore, the southernmost state of Malaya. There is a lot of confusion as to whether Singapore belongs to Malaya or not. Those who do not know this part of the world well, think that Singapore and Malaya are one and the same. Malaya is known as the Federation of Malaya, whereas Singapore is known as the Island of Singapore. Each has its own form of Government, its own flag, its own National Anthem, and its own Prime Minister.

On this long strip of land dwell some hundreds of thousands of Malaysians comprising Malays (native of Malaya), Chinese, Indians, Sikhs, Eurasians (Eurasians-Indians). A mixture of races? Yes, and a mixture of religions, too. Each is free to choose his or her own religion. Some of the main ones are Muslem, Christianity, Buddhism, Sikhism. As a Malayan Chinese, I am proud to say that we in Malaya get along pretty well...no racial conflict or the like...(TOUCH WOOD!). Children of all races attend the same school, same class, students attend the same College or University, parents work in the same offices, or schools. The neighbours on our left are Indians and the neighbours on our right are Malays, and though there is some language problem, we all learn to bear each other's faults and in fact to learn to give and take. There is no distinction among races or religions, no one is of a higher class than the other, for the Good Lord "who loveth us, He made and loveth all."

This variety of races and consequent variety of religions gives one much to talk about with regard to the various religious observances, and festive seasons, during which time there is much colour, gaiety and celebrating. Christmas, December 25th, is celebrated by the various denominations of Christians; there are two days' public holiday: Christmas Day and Boxing Day. Although the others who are non-Christians do not celebrate it on a grand scale as the Christians do, they visit their Christian friends, give presents and send cards, or even invite them to their homes for a party. Just as the Christians celebrate Christmas, so do the Muslems celebrate the birthday of their Prophet Mohamed. The night is marked by a procession of people conveying banners, coloured lights, tokens, symbols, etc. and chanting their Koran (Prayer Book).

The New Years of the various races are spectacular each in its own way. There are the Chinese New Year, Indian New Year, Malay New Year, to speak nothing of the English New Year which is celebrated here by the Europeans and people in the business world. The Chinese New Year falls on the first day of the first moon, which does not necessarily fall on the same day in the English calendar. We go by both the English as well as the Chinese Calendars. Sounds complicated? Not really! To the Chinese people, a peace-loving race, the new year is a time to make merry, to pay all debts, to be real friendly and to forget all past unpleasantness, and to strive to make the new year a really happy and enjoyable one for both the old and the young, particularly the old, as we Chinese have a great respect for the elders. This festive season is marked by very elaborate celebrations lasting for two or three weeks depending on how one's financial position is. The celebrations are in the form of plays, operas (open-air), family reunion supper, giving away of red packets containing money (no specific amount) to the younger generation by the married couples, including parents and grandparents and processions that extend for two or three miles. Few know the origin or the meaning of the annual three-mile long procession that winds its way through the busy streets of the towns on the 28th day after Chinese New Year. Attention is then focused on the succession of bands banging gongs, beating drums, blowing trumpets, and clashing cymbals to banish evil spirits. Fire-crackers pop with tremendous explosion everywhere, leaving a thick carpet of waste-paper everywhere. People do not mind that as it is red, and red is a favourite colour of the Chinese.

The temple's sacred treasures are carried through the streets in the procession amid the loud clatter of trumpets, cymbals, etc. Uniformly dressed bearers of banners, joss-sticks, coloured lanterns, etc. move along with the rest. Lion dancers sway and leap, in front dances the traditional monk, teasing the lion with his fan, as he re-enacts the famous story.

Floats roll by carrying figures clad in glittering robes. Offerings to the "Advisor" are carried on gold and silver stands, roast-pigs, roast-ducks, fruits, long-life biscuits, and sweetmeats all well protected in little containers that look too dainty and fragile to be carried about the place in such a manner. The dragon dance which nearly all children like to watch, proves most entertaining. It careens, it prances, and it keeps still for a few seconds only to give a high leap into the air dispersing all the nearby people. All this is accompanied by music, drums, and fire-crackers. When such a scene goes on there is always a terrific crowd straining on the railings along the streets to get a closer view. Everyone is in a holiday mood, dressed in their New Year best. Chinese New Year is indeed a time most looked forward to by everyone in Hong Kong, Malaya, and Singapore. With Chinese New Year there comes a whole string of traditions and also superstitions. On New Year's eve, the house is swept very carefully and all brooms hidden. Woe betide anyone who takes out the broom to sweep the house that New Year day. All the older members of the family will descend on the poor mite, saying that he/she has brought bad luck to the household, by trying to sweep away the family fortune. Merry-making goes on for two or three weeks if the family is rich enough and conservative to upkeep all the traditions of ancient China.

Not only is the Chinese New Year a gay time. The New Years of the other races are also full of fun and frolic. No matter what New Year, we as Malaysians help one another celebrate by cooperation, being kind not only during the New Year but at all times, and we believe in trying to be ALL FOR ONE AND ONE FOR ALL: Sometimes successful, sometimes not. Anyway the satisfaction comes from trying. In conclusion, I'd like to add that each race has its own national costume, but we also wear western style clothes; they say that "Variety is the spice of life," I do not know how far that is true. We Chinese have a lot of proverbs; a lot of them have died away, but those that remain can fill volumes. I remember one good English saying that goes like this:

"Out of suffering comes the serious mind,
Out of salvation, the grateful heart,
Out of endurance, fortitude,
Out of deliverance, faith!"

Hi, you all!

The picture on the front is not true at all, for it is raining and unpleasant for the tourist here in D.C.

It was not a very happy guy who left Godden yesterday. I wish you all were here with me to "dig" the town. ~~_____~~ ~~_____~~ Not before now have I realized how much the group of us International Students has meant to me. I have been together with you, and the world will never be the same again.

Awards night—
50 U of A dental seniors will be honored Friday

BY JO ELLEN O'HARA
News staff writer

Fifty graduating seniors of the University of Alabama School of Dentistry will be honored at the annual Dental Awards Night at 8 p.m. Friday at the Mortimer Jordan Armory.

The graduating dental class will be awarded DMD degrees at the University of Alabama graduation exercises on the campus Sunday, May 28.

Highlighting the program will be a speech by Dr. Harry Sicher, professor of anatomy, Loyola University, Chicago.

Another feature of the evening will be the presentation of awards to dental students for excellence in scholastic endeavors.

STUDENTS CHOSEN from the top 20 per cent of their class scholastically will be named to Omicron Kappa Upsilon national honorary dental fraternity. They are Lathe Lamon Bowen, Willie James Brasher, William McArthur Dannelly, Stitaya Sirisinha, Donald George Watson and Thomas Waller Weatherford III.

Two dental graduates who have participated in the school's honors program and are candidates for the degree of doctor of dental medicine "with honors" are Ronald Singleton Brown and Stitaya Sirisinha.

The Dr. Joseph P. Lazansky Award will be presented to Robert Quinn Borland.

Stitaya Sirisinha will receive the Alpha Omega scholarship award.

Two members of Omicron Delta Kappa national leadership honor society for men will be presented at the program. They are John W. Harrison and Millard L. Dunkin.

FIVE DENTAL graduates will receive the C. V. Mosby Book Award. They are Ronald S. Brown, Jerry Arthur Files, Michael E. Shumate, Stitaya Sirisinha and Thomas W. Weatherford III.

International Group Sets Summer Plans

JACKSONVILLE — Summer plans for the international students at Jacksonville State College are always of interest to those who follow their activities during the year. Dr. J. H. Jones, director of the International House Program, has released this information about them:

Yukiko Ano, Japan; Hoosidar Badipour, Iran; Patricia Ong, Malaya; Esperanza Vidal, Bolivia; and Carlos Zeller, Mexico, will work at an exclusive summer resort in New Jersey during vacation. International students have worked there for the past three summers and the proprietors came to Jacksonville two months ago to interview those who wished to work there this year. All will return to Jacksonville this fall.

Denise Auroousseau of France and Marilyn Rumble of Australia will be in school here for eight weeks. Afterwards Denise will go to Paris for a visit with her mother and will return in September to enter graduate school at the University of Alabama where she has been given a scholarship to work on her master's degree in English.

Visit Is Planned

Marilyn will visit relatives in Massachusetts before returning to Jacksonville to begin her senior year. She will again be the scholarship student for District 686, Rotary International.

Marie-Claire Charton of France will spend the summer with relatives and friends in Washington, Baltimore and New York before returning for the fall term.

Jean-Paul Dailly of Belgium will serve as counselor in a summer camp in Maine where French is taught. He will then go to Belgium for a visit with his parents and expects to return this fall. Mervette Ferid of Egypt; Myriam Gateno of Colombia; and Fernan Peralta of Costa Rica will return home immediately. Myriam and Gernan will return this fall.

Tour Is Scheduled

Suzanne Hanon of Belgium, scholarship girl for the Alabama Federation of Womens Clubs, will sail for her home from Quebec on June 23. En route she will be the guest of Rotarians at Oak Ridge, Tenn., Buena Vista, Williamsburg and Arlington, Va.; Philadelphia, Boston, Middlebury, Vermont, and New York City.

In New York City she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Knox Ide, former residents of Jacksonville, for three days, and in Montreal she will visit in the home of Pierre Perron, a former international student. She will enter the University of Brussels this fall for graduate study.

Italo Morales of Guatemala will work in Oregon this summer and will return to Jacksonville after a visit to his mother in Guatemala. Stig-Eyrik Bjorkqvist of Finland has already left for home in order to take entrance examinations for medical school.

International Family of The Jacksonville State College

Director James H. Jones of the International House at Jacksonville, Alabama, has written to President Bill:

"We believe that you of the Birmingham Rotary Club will be interested to know that we have as representatives this year in our ever growing International Family young people from every continent in the world,—8 continents, 15 countries, 6 religious faiths—and 8 languages are spoken within this group—one of the most interesting, attractive, and finest groups of young people with whom it has ever been my privilege and pleasure to be associated.

"Among this fine group of young people, pictured above, is your Rotary District 686 scholarship student from Australia. On the invitation of your District Governor and his committee, Governor C. M. Moore of Rotary District 275 in Australia gave each of the fifty clubs of his district an opportunity to recommend a candidate for the scholarship. The result was that Miss Marilyn Rumble was selected by Governor Moore and his committee. When you see her, we believe you will agree that you have every reason to be pleased with the election, for Miss Rumble is indeed a splendid young lady who is representing her native Australia in a most creditable manner."

5 Iranians Pay Visit To College Tour Plants Over Nation

By MARVIN TYE

JACKSONVILLE — Five Iranian industrialists visited Jacksonville Thursday as a side-trip on their tour of United States industrial centers.

The trip is being sponsored by the International Corporation Administration of the United States Department of State and by the Bureau of International Labor Affairs of the United States Department of Labor.

The purpose of the trip is to acquaint the visitors with American production methods, labor-management relationships, and the organization of various phases of U. S. government.

Now In 11th Week

The tour is now in its eleventh week. In the remaining five weeks, the group will visit New Orleans and several Eastern industrial centers before their return to Iran.

The Iranians arrived in this country March 14. They attended a four week orientation program in Washington, D. C., then spent a week in New York. From there they traveled to Puerto Rico.

When they returned to the U. S., they split into two groups. One came South and visited industrial centers in Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia and Alabama. This is the group that came to Jacksonville. The other is touring industrial centers in the North East.

The group was touring industrial plants in Gadsden when they decided they would like to see an Alabama college. Accompanied by Charles White and J. R. Newman of the Alabama State Employment Service, they came to Jacksonville for a tour of Jacksonville State College.

Wright, Jones Aid

Dr. Baskin Wright and Dr. J. H. Jones accompanied the group on a tour of the classrooms and the International House. They were also shown much of the construction work now in progress at the school.

Eugene Sullivan of the U. S. Department of Labor acts as team leader and accompanies the group during its stay in America. Malek M. Sahami of the International Corporation Administration, a former Iranian, acts as interpreter for the industrialists.

Sullivan reports that the group is having a very profitable tour and is being well received in every spot that they have visited. Members of the party are Saebi, Mojdehbakhsh, Karimkhani, Abbas-Mirzai, and Edrissi. All live in Tehran, Iran.

NUMBER TWENTY-ONE

BY THE GRAPEVINE

Then Miss Maude Luttrell came back from her Florida visit with interesting news about Dr. and Mrs. L. T. Wilson, who lived here for several years while they were on the college faculty. Miss Luttrell, her sister, Mrs. S. E. Jones, and her niece, Ann Jones, drove over to Jacksonville from Gainesville while she was there and they had a nice visit with the Wilsons.

Dr. Wilson is head of the physics and physical sciences department of Jacksonville University, and Mrs. Wilson (also Dr. Wilson) is the only full professor and the only Ph.D. in the math department. The university has 1200 students.

They have bought a beautiful home in Jacksonville and are delighted with their set-up.

Friends of the Wilsons will also be interested to know that their son, Dr. Tom Wilson, is now on the engineering faculty of Duke University.

We were happy to receive a news release from Williamsburg, Va., announcing that John W. Harbour, Jr., formerly of Piedmont, and a graduate of the college, has been appointed director of the Division of Presentation of Colonial Williamsburg. He has been director of exhibition buildings for the restoration project for several years.

In his post as director of exhibition buildings, he has been responsible for the selection, training and supervision of all interpretative personnel serving in these buildings. He has planned and administered guided tours and has appraised and evaluated the techniques of orienting and handling visitors.

He is a member of the Williamsburg School Board; a member of the official board of the Methodist Church there; chairman of the church music committee; and co-teacher of the Adult Fellowship Sunday School Class. He is vice-president of the Williamsburg Community Council and is active in the PTA and other community organizations.

We are always so proud to get such good reports from our college graduates.

John's wife is the former Helen Burns of Piedmont, and they have two sons, Evans, 18, and Robert, 13. Helen is also a JSC graduate and teaches in the James Blair High School at Williamsburg.

Mrs. Opal R. Lovett was talking to us recently about the urgent need for den mothers in the Cub Scouts. Pack 19 has been reactivated and all dens are running over with members. The greatest need is for women who will serve as den mothers—preferably women with sons who are turning Cub Scout age or approaching it, because they have a more personal interest.

Because of the lack of den mothers, boys are being turned away from the active dens. Mrs. Lovett's and other den mother's groups already have more than they should have.

If anyone who reads this is interested in joining a worthwhile organization that offers the opportunity for service and personal satisfaction, please get in touch with Mrs. Lovett.

International Group Disperses at JSC

Summer plans for the international students are always of interest to those who follow their activities at the college. Dr. J. H. Jones, director of the International House Program, has released this information about them:

Yukiko Ano, Japan; Hoosidar Badipour, Iran; Patricia Ong, Malaya; Esperanza Vidal, Bolivia; and Carlos Zeller, Mexico, will work at an exclusive summer resort in New Jersey during vacation. International students have worked there for the past three summers and the proprietors came to Jacksonville two months ago to interview those who wished to work this summer. All will return to Jacksonville this fall.

Denise Adrouseau of France and Marilyn Rumble of Australia will be in school here this summer for eight weeks. Afterwards Denise will go to Paris to visit her mother and will return in September to enter graduate school at the University of Alabama where she has a scholarship to work on her master's degree in English. Marilyn will visit relatives in Massachusetts before returning to Jacksonville to begin her senior year. She will again be the scholarship girl for District 686, Rotary International.

Marie-Claire Charton of France will spend the summer with relatives and friends in Washington, Baltimore and New York before returning for the fall term.

Jean-Paul Dailly of Belgium will serve as counselor in a summer camp in Maine where French is taught. He will then go to Belgium for a visit with his parents and expects to return this fall.

Mervette Farid, Egypt; Myriam Gateno of Colombia; and Fernan Peralta of Costa Rica will return home immediately. Myriam and Fernan will return in the fall.

Suzanne Hanon of Belgium will sail from Quebec for home on June 23. En route she will be the guest of Rotarians at Oak Didge, Tenn., Buena Vista, Williamsburg and Arlington, Va.; Philadelphia, Boston, Middlebury, Vt., and New York City. In New York City she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Knox Ide, former resident of this city, for three days, and in Montreal she will visit in the home of Pierre Perron, a former international student. She will enter the University of Brussels this fall for graduate study.

Italo Morales of Guatemala will work in Oregon this summer and will return to Jacksonville after a visit to his mother in Guatemala. Stig-Eyrik Bjorkqvist of Finland has already left for home in order to take entrance examinations to enter medical school.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Dan C. Sparks and their grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Coakley, left this week for Ashland, Ky., for a visit with Mr. Sparks' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Sparks.

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Van Keuren and their daughter, Miss Dawn Van Keuren of Worcester, Mass., are spending this week in Florida.

Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Calvert and Donnie Calvert are spending this week in North Carolina and other points of interest.

Mrs. Mary L. Lowrey and Mrs. S. B. Mathews are visiting the home economics department at the University of Mississippi this week.

BY THE GRAPEVINE

We thought the letter below from Dr. James H. Jones would be of interest to all the Jones's friends, so we are including it in our column this week:

Boulder, Colo.

Dear Mrs. Coffee:

Today is the first time I have had an opportunity to send you the information you asked for. It is enclosed herewith and I hope it is what you wish.

We left Jacksonville on Aug. 1 and took four days to drive a little more than fourteen hundred miles. As this is the first real summer's vacation we have had since the beginning of the International House Program in September of 1946, we have tried to enjoy it by not hurrying and by seeing as much as we could. We, therefore, spent three nights en route to Boulder. Since our arrival here I still had quite a bit of correspondence with reference to completing the organization of the International House Program for the approaching academic year.

We found William Branham and his wife, Martha, and our two splendid little granddaughters, Kathy and Anne, well and enjoying good health, we are happy to be able to say, and it is needless to say how much we are enjoying them, especially our granddaughters as they are the first girls we have had in our immediate family.

William, who is employed by the National Bureau of Standards and is doing research for the dissertation he is to write for his Ph.D. at Vanderbilt, has awaited our arrival to take off a few days from his work in order to be with us as much as possible. We have done a number of interesting things, such as, visiting the University of Colorado, attending a band concert, going up into the mountains for picnic, etc.

You might be interested to know that our son, James, who is employed by the U. S. Ordnance and is presently located at Pueblo, drove over to spend last week-end with us and came again this morning to spend this week-end with us.

We made the trip here via Decatur, Tuscumbia, Corinth (Miss.), Jackson, Tenn., Cairo, Ill., St. Louis, Kansas City, and Denver. We now believe we shall return by way of Socorro, N. M., to see my wife's youngest brother, Graham; Texas to see some land that belongs to the family of my wife; Natchez, Miss. which as you no doubt know is famous for its beautiful ante bellum homes; Jackson, Miss., to see our son, Alfred, and his family; Greenwood in the Mississippi Delta to see some of my relatives, and Oxford to see my wife's brother and his wife.

My wife and William Branham join me in sending greetings and kindest regards to our friends there, including of course Mr. Coffee and yourself and others of your family.

Sincerely yours,
James H. Jones

P. S. We went by to see President Truman's home and library erected in his honor at Independence, Mo. Judging by what we were able to see he was not at home.

Dear Patricia,

I apologize for this long delay in acknowledging receipt of the very attractive "Father's Day" card. You can be sure that I deeply appreciate your thinking of me on that special day and that I was touched by the very kind message. Thank you so much.

Since the beginning of summer school I have been completely overwhelmed with work which includes both two classes I teach every day six days a week and with all the formalities necessary to complete the organization of the International House Program for the academic year beginning on September 5. It was only today that I completed and sent the final message to one of the new International Students we are expecting this fall. Unless I receive requests for further information or something of the kind, this part of the job is complete for this coming year. I still have to see about extension of time for Yukiko, Esperanza, and Marilyn, with the several forms to be filled out, etc.

Do all of you get to see one another often? We never get the impression from the letters we have received that you do. In any case, although your work may be requiring a great deal of you, I am sure that it is nevertheless a valuable experience for each one of you. My wife and I hope that you are keeping well and that you are enjoying your experiences there. Please do give our kindest regards and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher and to the others of our International Family when you see them.

My wife joins me in sending our love and very best wishes to our very dear and favorite Malayan Chinese daughter.

James H. Jones

Happy Father's Day,

DADDY

To,

The most wonderful daddy I've ever known!

Daddy, this wish is just for you
And every word of it is true:

Have lots of fun on Father's Day-

Enjoy yourself in a perfect way!

with lots of love
from,

your Malayan
Chinese daughter

Displaced Family, Once County Residents, Now Thrive In N. Y.

By JIM CHISUM

Aroused Much Interest

Unless you know the background — and many people around Anniston do — you won't understand why Mrs. W. S. Pollock of 27 Diana Hills Road, was thrilled to get a clipping from Little Falls, N. Y., newspaper last week.

The clipping announced that James Wasylyk, grade 6, had received a cash award in a poster contest. The accompanying picture showed a strapping, smiling youngster accepting the prize.

James, you see, is an old and special friend of Mrs. Pollock. She first met him when he was 2, after she arranged for him and his family to come to America from a displaced persons camp in southern Germany.

Lived In Ukraine

The family then consisted of James; his father, 50-year old Mychiejlo; his mother, Tetiano; and his sister, Anna.

They lived in a small village in the Ukraine until Hitler made slave laborers of them during the war. Then, until 1950, they lived in a displaced persons' camp along with hundreds of thousands of other homeless Europeans.

In October of 1950, after Mr. and Mrs. Pollock had made the necessary arrangements through the Southern Baptist Displaced Persons Office, they came to Calhoun County to live on the Pollock farm near Weaver. They could speak no English at the time.

"We picked them up in New Orleans," Mrs. Pollock says, "and they looked frightened and lonely, like scared animals."

Their coming aroused very much interest in the community. Church members gave the strangers food, bedding, clothing. The Pollocks arranged for an interpreter, and receptions to make them feel welcome. Students from International House in Jacksonville joined in welcoming them to America.

The Wasylyks set up on the farm in Weaver, but "Papa" who had been trained as a shoe-maker, grew restless, and in the summer of 1952, they moved to Little Falls, N. Y.

"Papa" — now known as "Mike" — works in a shoe factory there now, Mrs. Pollock says, and the family owns a small house and a new car.

Anna, who was 14 when the family lived here, is married and has a son, Samuel — whom she named, she says, after Samuel Pollock. James — the Pollocks called him "Slocum," which was as near to his Ukrainian name as they could get — still keeps Mrs. Pollock informed of the progress of the family with Christmas cards, letters, pictures and clippings.

BENEFACTOR EXAMINES LETTERS—Mrs. W. S. Pollock, of 27 Diana Hills Road, looks over the clippings and letters she's received from the Wasylyk family of Little Falls, N. Y. The family came to America in 1950 and lived for 20 months on the Pollock farm in Weaver before moving to New York.

Dear Dr. Jones:

I have your very nice letter of July 2nd, and I appreciate your thoughtfulness in writing to acknowledge receipt of the photographs which we sent you for the students enrolled in your International House Program. We were, of course, delighted to learn of the students' pleasure in seeing Governor Patterson on his visit to your campus.

On behalf of the Governor, I want to thank you for your remarks concerning our reception in Hawaii. The people there are very hospitable and indeed like the people of Alabama, we found them to be very sympathetic to our cause.

Please let us know whenever we can be of assistance in any way.

Sincerely yours,

Your very kind letter and the beautiful flower arrangement were very much appreciated.

We feel very fortunate to have such wonderful friends as you. I was released from the Hospital yesterday. The good Lord was with us. While we will have

Some aches & pains for several weeks, according to the doctors, ~~so~~ we have no major injuries.
I'll be able to go back to work - at least part time this week &
Greta too is moving about. -
Thanks again for your concern & kindness.
